Major Montooth Resurrects the Victim of the Liberty Street Fire.

SPLITTY IN FLESH AGAIN. He Is to Be Produced at the Court

Trial of Saitta and Mazza.

HISTORY OF THIS FAMOUS CASE.

Not Dead but Only Very Sick in an Alley out Penn Avenue.

NAME OF THE REAL CORPSE NOT KNOWN

"Old Jack" or "Splitty," the Italian who Is supposed to have perished in the wreck of Saitta & Fugassi's Liberty street store last December, has, phonix-like, risen from the ashes and will appear in Criminal Court Monday, when P. A. Saitta and John Mazza are to be tried for causing the death of the old man.

Major E. A. Montooth, attorney for the defendants, is the authority for this startling piece of information. "It will no doubt be a surprise to the people in general," said the Major yesterday, smiling with evident delight at the coming revelation, "when 'Old Jack' walks into court wearing the same old rope girdle around his waist, and appearing the same 'Old Jack' from the top of his head to the soles of his feet. The Coroner's jury held many sittings on 'Old Jack,' it supposed. It I remember rightly, it sat on him something like a halt dozen times. Finally those men decided that the disfigured and charred remains were those of 'Splitty,' and with this decision planted him in the cold earth. All winter he was supposed to have lain there, and now like the flowers in the spring, he comes to us

Think They Sat on the Wrong Man. "The Coroner's jury did sit on the case of some unfortunate who was found in the wrick of the burned fruit store, but who it was will probably never be known. I know it was not 'Old Jack,' however, for I have seen him from time to time all winter and suring. He has always been in Pittsburg and a number of people were aware of it. Much of the time has been in the sick bed in an alley out Penn avenue. He was in the sick bed when the Coroner's jury was passing its decision on the charred remains of the man, who must now go unknown, 'Jack' would have been at these inquests had he been able to be there or known they were going on, and thus put an end to the sennational stories that have risen from the burning of that building. "It is true a witness at the Coroner's inuest identified the remains as 'Old Jack.' The testimony was very conflicting, however. The witness claimed to have known "Gld Jack" and also to have known 'Splitty." The informant claims to have seen the old fellow at work for Saitta & Fugassi, even to have been on speaking terms with him. It is on this testimony the most stress is ald. The witness testified to having visited & bed of the man out Penn avenue, but said it was not 'Old Jack,' but 'Split-Splitty and Old Jack Are the Same. "It was then decided it was 'Old Jack' who was burned. As 'Old Jack' and

'Splitty' are the same this seems to me like very conflicting testimony." The case sitracted a great deal of interest. About 11:30 on the night of December 19, the fruit store of Faitta & Fugassi, on Liberty street, was discovered on fire. It was thought the fire was caused by a natural gus explosion. Just after the flames broke cot some one who was unknown to the police notified them that a man had been seen coming out of the building and running down an alley. The police department was said to have gone to work on the

Nothing was heard of the matter until February 1. It was then that the men aring away the debris found the remains of a man in the cellar. It at once became a subject of general speculation. The Coronor held six hearings in the case, ending on the 15th of February. It was then decided the remains were those of "Old nek," an employe of the firm. Half a deson witnesses testified to having seen a man leave the building the night of the fire some of them testifying it was P. A. said it was John Mazza, an employe of

First Finding of the Coroner.

It has also brought out that the firm had atter the fire had compromised with the insurance company for $10,000. The finding of the Coroner's jury was as follows:

First—That said building had been filled with natural gas and then set on fire by said 'Old Jack" or "Splitty." "Old Jack" or "Splitty." Second-That P. A. Saitta, of the firm of Scitta & Fugassi, was then and there aiding and abetting at the time of commission of said uninwful net and crime, and in our option consuired with said "Old Jack" to Commit said act.
Third-That one John Mazza, an Italian

also in the employ of said Saitta & Fugassi, was then and there, on said December 19, 1801, assing and abetting in the commission

Warrants were at once issued for Saitte and Mazza. They were arrested and placed under $5,000 bail each. They were charged with manslaughter, arson and with setting fire to the building to defraud the insurance

From that time until now nothing has been heard of the cases, everybody sup-posing "Old Jack" had been properly identified and the men-would be tried and convicted. Major Montooth cannot see his men should not be acquitted of the charge of manslaughter. He also thinks if they are released on that charge there will not be much trouble in clearing them

Mayor Kennedy Wants to Know Exactly Why the Police Magistrate Ordinance Was Not Presented-It Is Said to Have Been on the Files

The explanation made at the time was that Controller Brown did not | Of the Affairs of the Defunct Allegheny want to take the risk of drawing up the ordinance himself and wanted to have City Attorney Elphinstone do it, but Mr. Elphinstone was out of town. Mr. Elphinstone was not out of town, however, and had stayed Thursday evening at his office. Members of Councils knew he was there. In fact, Clerk White, of Select Branch, is reported to have said earlier in the day that the ordinance was printed and on the Select Council files when Councils opened. However, it was not there.

Just what became of it is still a question on the Northside, and when Mayor Kennedy was seen last night he said it struck him as being very queer that the matter had not come up, and said the explanation did not satisfy him. Said he: "The Finance Committee acted on the measure and it should have been presented to Councils for action. I have been confined to the house all day, and so have not had a chance to find out how it happened, but I intend to find out. I

Another explanation offered vesterday was that the measure was not properly be-fore Councils as it had originated in committee. MURDERER REED AT LARGE.

Fred Cotthem, one of the shareholders amounted to $170 per the fugitives, who was arrested in this city nt 3:30 yesterday morning, as exclusively stated in THE DISPATCH, was taken back to Washington last evening. While here he was under charge of Detectives Fitzgerald and Robinson, who had him photo-graped. He admitted to them that he had sawed the bars of Reed's cell with his own pocket knife, but declared that he knew nothing about Reed's whereabouts after leaving the jail, as each man had started off on his own account. Cotthem started for the railroad and took a treight train to this city, having just alighted when captured.

Great Work Done Through the Agency of the Baptist Chapel Car on the Pacific Coast-Trainmen Asked the Minister to Preach for Them.

A church on wheels is a novelty in these parts. Last evening the chapet car "Evangel," of the Baptist Association, was at the Union depot bound for Philadelphia. Rev. E. G. Wheeler and his wife were in charge, and they were going to the convention of the church in the Quaker City to report on the work of the year. The car was presented to the Publication Society for use on the Pacific coast by John D. Rockefeller, Charles L. Colby, Colgate Hoyt, James B. Colgate and men of that financial caliber who can afford it. It will seat 100 people and is provided with an organ, a buffe sleeping and sitting apartments for the minister and his wife.

While the car was at the station a number of trainmen examined it in detail. Mrs. Wheeler, who was preparing supper, stopped long enough to play a few tunes on the organ. Then the men became enthusi astic and asked the preacher to hold services. He begged to be excused, as he was hungry, but promised to preach to the boys some other time. Mr. Wheeler is very much pleased with the results. He has been working on the Pacific coast for nine months. In that time he held 500 meetings, had 450 conversions and organized 10 churches. In each case he saw that a pastor was provided be-fore he left the town. "I have no trouble to draw crowds," he continued. 'The car is packed at every meeting. When I sidetrack in a town I hang out a card announcing services, and the railroad men are always on hand. In making a long journey I announce a meeting on the train, and the passengers are glad to attend, to vary the monotony, if for nothing else. Coming over the Rockies on my way East, I had a ta'k with a train man, who said he hadn't been in a church for 18 years. He was very much impressed, and brought in the cooks and waiters from the dining car, the porters and brakemen. Passengers joined the crowd, and in a short time our car was filled. We had a very earnest and most enthusiastic time while the train was going at full speed. Mrs. Wheeler plays the organ, and you have no idea how it helps in the service. I will recommend the building of another car to be used east of the Rocky Mountains."

Mrs. Wheeler is a sweet-faced lady, and often she is the origin and leads the singing.
Often she is the only woman present at the meetings. She likes the work and the roving life. She also knows how to cook, for she was preparing a savory supper while the reporter talked to her. The railroad men and visitors who inspected the car sniffed the odor of roast beef, and at once fell in love with the institution. They were not surprised that the church or wheels was a success.

INSPECTING GARBAGE FURNACES.

Mr. Morse Says Cremation Is the Only Saf Plan for Inland Cities,

Mayor G. J. Karl and the Board of Health, of Columbus, consisting of Drs. J. E. Overly, and S. U. McBride, D. Kelly, J. H. Pfeifer and W. A. McDonald, are registered at the Anderson. Columbus has decided to burn its garbage, and the gentlemen were appointed a committee to look into the merits of garbage furnaces. Yesterday they examined the furnaces in this city and Allegheny. They were accom-panied by W. W. Patrick, the President of the furnace company. It was found that the dumping scheme is unsatisfactory, as Columbus is surrounded with a level country, and there is no suitable place of de-

W. F. Morse, of the Engle Sanitary and Cremation Company, who is piloting the Columbus Garbage Committee, a few days ago read a paper on the garbage question before the State Board of Health at Eric. It was published in THE DISPATCH. The committee, with Mr. Morse, left for Norfolk last evening to inspect a furnace there. Mr. Morse says Cincinnati tried the dump-ing plan and it failed. The garbage kept rising to the surface of the water, and there it rotted, filling the atmosphere with miasma. Mr. Morse claims if Pittsburg tries the plan that in a short time the authorities will be glad to return to cremation. New York and Boston are two cities where dumping the garbage works all night. It is taken out to sea from both cities, and in a short time it is devoured by the myriads of fish. Mr. Morse says that cremation is the only sate plan for inland cities. Rendering and reducing garbage has been tried, but the ref-use is hard to dispose of. He adds that the furnaces here are overloaded, and that another one costing $10,000 would solve the garbage problem in Pittsburg.

the Famous Forger. WILLOCK SEARCHING HIS RECORD.

His Description and Methods to Be Sent to Banks Everywhere.

ANOTHER NEW PLAN FOR PROTECTION

James H. Willock, President of the Sec ond National Bank, has written to the Chief of Police of Cincinnati inquiring about the bank forger known as Hunt, Lewis, Armstrong and other aliases. Mr. Willock said last night he had not had any experience with the man, but he was fast becoming famous as a bank forger.

"I was after information," continued Mr. Willock, "as a member of the Executive Committee of the American Bank Associa-I had heard the Chief of Police, of Cincinnati, had got out a circular describing this man. Then I learned of some clever operations on the Lansing and Detroit banks. I concluded it was all done by the same man and so I wrote for one of the circulars. When I get it I will send the circular and some other information to the Secretary of the organization in New York. He will issue another circular which will be sent to officers of banks all over the country so they will be able to recognize this man and his work the next time he tries to turn a trick.

Made $3,000 Inside of an Hour. This man Hunt, or whatever his name may be, is a clever one, but so far as I am able to learn he has not operated in Pittsburg. He operated through Ohio for a time and scooped in hundreds of dollars, The last I heard of him was in Detroit where he gathered in $3,300 for the Third National and the City Saving Banks of that city. He did it inside of an hour on drafts originally worth but $33. He appeared there as a man of medium height, with a long, gray beard, and a generally benevo-lent and gentlemanly bearing. At the Third National Bank he asked to have a draft for $1,800 made out by the Lansing State Savings Bank on the Third National of Petroit cashed. The cashier's name was at the bottom of the draft and also on the back, so he would not need to be identified. It was payable to Henry F. Lewis. The aged stranger claimed that for Lewis. The aged stranger claimed that for his name and got the money. On leaving there he went to the City Savings Bank and presented a dratt for $1,500. On the way there he changed his name to Thomas Armstrong. This draft was also properly indorsed and was also cashed. The Lansing banks were queried and said the drafts had been issued for $15 and $18. They were both perforated, but they had been raised so perfectly that only when examined with a glass was the defect discovered. glass was the defect discovered.

Carries a Chronic Cough. "Armstrong C. Lewis appears to be the same as Hunt, who is also known as the coughing bank forger. He has all sorts of disguises, but is afflicted with a chronic cough that quickly attracts attention. He has been identified a number of times by this peculiarity, but always manages to ge He is the slickest forger in America between Cincinnati and Chattanooga. He is very clever in changing disguises. I understand from private telegrams that Hunt was seen on Thursday in Canada. He still had the gray locks, but the beard had disappeared. "I am hunting up this information. I am just following out the work of the organization. We always do this when we hear of a successful forger. It is just a way we have of protecting ourselves. I believe that as another safeguard we should have a system of police calls such as are now in pawnbroker shops. A clever man could escape while we called an officer. Every water, bank should be connected with police heada bank it will show on an indicator just where a detective is wanted. Of course it may not be needed once a year, but when it is needed, it is needed awful bad. There are six of the banks here that have a burglar alarm connected with one of the detective agencies. The other night I tested the one in our bank and in 314 minutes three detectives were at the bank and one minute later two more arrived, so I am convinced it is a good thing."

MEETING OF THE W. F. M. S.

Reports of Committees Submitted and In teresting Discussions Follow. The General Executive Board of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Protestant Church, now in session at the Grace M. P. Church, of Sharpsburg, listened to the reports of committees yesterday. Mrs. Anderson submitted the report of the Committee on Finance, after which a motion was carried instructing branches of the society to send all moneys to Mrs. Anderson, Branch Treasurer. The branches which were not represented sent in their reports to the Recording Secretary. The memorial services were conducted by Mrs. D. S. Cramer, of Michigan, and Miss F. A. Brown, of the Muskingum branch, opened the discussion on "Missionary Literature" and to what extent it should be used in the work of the society. Mrs. T. H. Calhouer addressed the meeting on missionary work in Japan. A five-minute talk by pastors on the outlook for foreign missions in the M. P. Church proved an interesting and instructive one.

To-day the business session will close* e election of officers for the ensuing year and the selection of the next place of meeting. On Sunday morning the annual sermon will be delivered by Rev. G. C. Sheppard, and in the evening addresses will be made by returned missionaries.

The Captives Form a Strong Attachment for Their Captors.

WAR BETWEEN THEATRICAL MANAGERS

Two big black bears have created considerable trouble in the two cities 'during the past week, and, as a result, the ferocious pair is now under the surveillance of the law in the person of two deputy constables. The fact that the bears are partially tamed and part of the exhibit of a local museum does not materially detract from the interest of a recital of their experience here. The bears are owned by Melville & Co., from somewhere in the East, and had been engaged for appearance at Harry Davis' Museum, in this city, for the present week, Mr. Davis spending $196 the previous week in advertising them to the public as the greatest performing bears alive, to be seen only at his place of amusement, as his contract warranted him in doing. But it seems Melville & Co., when they came here two weeks ago, received an offer of a two weeks' engagement at the World's Museum, in Allegheny, and accepted it forthwith.

Rubbing It in on Their Rival. After the first week in Allegheny had closed, the World people were not slow to take advantage of the opportunity, and at once advertised widely that the big black bears billed to appear in a Pittsburg house could only be seen at their place. Mr. Davis was naturally chagrined at being defeated, but was in a quandary as to the best way to get even without giving the other house the benefit of a big free ad. Accordingly he waited until yesterday to present a claim for the $196 he had expended, and which had been lost by Melville & Co.'s change of plans. The claim was refused. Davis then went before Magistrate McKenna and entered suit, the Magistrate issuing a writ of attachment, which was placed in the hands of Constable Sweeney and two deputies yesterday after-

When the officers proceeded to Allegheny to serve the writthey were blandly met by Melville & Co., who discussed the situation for a few moments before entering the building. In the meantime, one of the bear tamers disappeared within the building, and a few moments later Melville & Co., feign-ing acceptance of the situation, said to the "The bears are our only property. Go and take them." Capturing Two Half-Tamed Grizzlies.

The officers, on entering the apartment of the bears, soon learned what the tamer had been doing. The bears were loose, unmuz-zled, savage, and the task of serving a writ of attachment on them looked formidable. But Harry Davis had anticipated just such a contingency as this, and had had two experienced animal tamers sworn in as deputies to serve the wrik. The deputies were provided with ropes, hooks and the other paraphernalia necessary, and as soon as within reach cleverly lassoed the bears, and before the thoroughly astonished Mel-ville & Co. realized it had the property ready for transportation. The bears howled and struggled at their strange experience, but their most vigorous efforts failed to se-cure their release and the owners called for a parley, which resulted in the temporary release of the frightened animals. Constable Sweeney withdrew, leaving the deputies on guard until 10 o'clock this morning, by which time the amount of Mr. Davis' claim will be settled or the writ will go into

FIGHTING RAILWAY ORDINANCES.

Downtown Conneilmen Who Object to Too Rapid Transit. It is claimed that Select Councilman P. J. Donahue, of the First ward, has decided to turn reformer and to fight the railway ordinances providing for street cars on Market street. James McHugh, Common Councilman from that ward, and John J. King, from the Fourth ward, are also announced as reformers in connection with this matter. They all voted against the ordinances in Councils last Monday, but it is claimed their opposition is not so much against the occupation of Market street as it is to having a street railway to carry people to and from the Exposition buildings.

When people must walk to the Exposition from Market street, as the large majority have been heretofore compelled to do, it means considerable business to various and numerous small dealers in the First and Fourth wards, and it is asserted that this trade trade of their constituents is what the Councilmen from those wards are desirous of protecting, the belief being that if Exion crowds are taken to and from the position crowds are taken to and from the buildings in rapid transit cars the local trade will be lost. There were no new derelopments in the street railway matter

A Belgian Glassblower Arrested for Neglecting His Family. Alphonse Culpaced, a Belgian glassblower, employed at Jeannette and making $30 per week, was arrested yesterday by Special Officer Kelly, of the Southside, charged with neglecting his family by the Anti-Cruelty Society. He came to this country 18 months ago, and his wife, her mother and two children followed about a year later. The family located Culpaced and he secured a home for them at 2126 Wright's alley, Southside, but has given them no attention since and only such small money at long intervals as could be squeezed from him. As a result the family were nearly starved and almost naked before the authorities learned of it. When Agent McDonald visited the house Thursday he found the corpse of Mrs. Cul-paced's mother, who had died last Saturday, and the body was in a frightful state of decomposition; the two children were in bed in an adjoining room because they had no clothing; there was nothing to eat in the ionse, no money for bread, and the woman had no way of providing for her mother's interment. Culnaced was informed of the condition of affairs at home repeatedly, but
