It was to be expected that the musical culture of Pittsburg would be shown by the enjoyment derived from the singing and playing of Mr. and Mrs. Georg Henschel at the recention of the Art Society. The pretty theater of the Pittsburg Club never held a more enthusiastic audience, and it must have been gratifying to the talented artists to see that their efforts were appeciated by discriminating listeners, who understood the meaning of the music beyond the mere gratification of listening to harmonious sounds, It was not because Mrs. Henschel is an American girl, either, that she made such a strong impression upon the people of this city. While the women of Pittsburg were pleased to see that this young lady from Ohio had attained such proficiency, and were naturally proud of her as a countrywoman, the artistic value of the work itself was enough to call forth their unqualified admiration. The treat was all the more enjoyed because it was to a certain degree unexpected. It was known that Mr. and Mrs. Georg Henschel would be present at the onehundred and seventy-eighth reception of the society, but it was hardly expected that the programme rendered would embrace such a wide range of composers, and illustrate so many schools of music in the course of the one evening. The social portion of the entertainment was, in its way, as delightful as the musical. The guests of the society had the opportunity of meeting and conversing with this charming couple, who have traveled much and mixed in so many social circles in different parts of the world as to be exceptionally pleasant companions. Mr. and Mrs. Henschel will be here again before long, and it is certain that they will realize on their next visit, if they have not already, how many warm friends they have made in this vicinity. The Art Society is to be thanked for affording the people of Pittsburg an opportunity

Twenty-three grandchildren were also pres-ent and a host of friends and relatives. Con-gratulatory addresses were delivered both in German and English, and the bride and groom were also made the recipients of many choice gifts, including a purse of gold. Tae birthplace of the couple is Germany. The marriage was solemnized in Cincinnati, O., and later Mr. and Mrs. Hattman made Pittsburg; their home for a number of years. The occasion yesterday was full of enjoy-ment to all concerned. Miss Lena Schellhaas was tendered a de lightful surprise party at her residence, Madison avenue, last Tuesday evening. The affair was planned by the Misses Schellhaas and Glunke, and was a complete surprise to the fair young hostess. Dancing was in-dulged in, and a little tot of 7, a sister of Miss Schellhaas, added considerable mirth to the occasion by reciting several selec-tions.

Grand Army Day this year will be cele brated by a picuic, which will be held at Rock Point. The Grand Army Day Committee met in Select Council chamber yesterday afternoon and so decided. The picule will can be secured for that time. This affair will not be a public one, as was be held in the latter part of August if a date that of last year, but will be strictly ; Grand Army event, and no person will be permitted on the grounds without the sanc-tion of the Grand Army Day-Committee. This will be regulated by card orders with out which the railroad will not sell any tickets. A card order will be required tickets. A card order will be required for each ticket. These card orders will be distributed to the posts by the officers of the General Grand Army Day Committee and the comrades will be responsible for each person who attends. In this way it is possible to keep the picnic perfectly free from any objectionable feature. The round trip rate will be 50 cents. The above is a concise statement of what the committee at its meeting yesterday afternoon decided upon. This result was not reached without a considerable waste of time and a tremendous lot of kicking. The afternoon decided upon. This result was not reached without a considerable waste of time and a tremendous lot of kicking. The meeting was probably the liveliest a Grand Army Day Committee ever had, but most of the trouble was not from any bad feeling so much as a lack of understanding between the contrades. The committee is largely new in its composition and does not work so smoothy as it will later on. A lack of understanding as to the mode of pro-cedure was the main cause of the many dis-agreements. Commander J. D. McFarland, of Post 3, the Chairman of the General Com-mittee, presided for the first time. Wrangling commenced almost at the open-ing of the meeting. The first big kick was on the mode of calling the roll on the ques-tion of a parade or picnic. Some posts had instructed their delegates and others had not. The point was whether one of the three delegates was en-titled to vote for his post when the other two were absent. Chairman McFarland ruled affirmatively. His decision was appealed from and sustained by the committee. A call of the meeting, but it was principally on minor technicalities. The committee directed that the chairman make up his list of sub-committees and re-port them at the next meeting. He is to in-clude a committee on rules of procedure to prevent a repetition of yesterday's disorder. As usual the chairmen of the sub-committees with the chairman and secretary of the Gen-eral Committee are to constitute the Execu-

A special committee on transportation was appointed by the chair-man to make the arrangements with the railroad, secure a date, etc. This was the same committee that had seen the represen-tatives of the different railroads with refer-ance to the groves on their lines and what terms they could offer the committee. An Idlewild amendment to the Rock Point mo-tion was snowed under. Some feeling was aroused by references to the character of the Rock Point celebration of inst year which were taken as slurs on last year's Executive Committee. Comrades Sample and Bengough defended the Execu-tive Committee in carnest tones. The com-mittee adjourned to meet in the same place in two weeks at 3 p. M. eral Committee are to constitute the Execu friends of the Eighth Presbyterian Church, West End, held a house-warming in the new parsonage, which has just been completed

ing in Pittsburg. No less than 20 new churches are to be erected in this city during the coming summer. They are of all tecture, and will cost various sums. Entertainments for building funds have been common during the winter, and there will be many a lawn fete during the warm months, the proceeds of which will go into brick, stone and mortar. Church building is an expensive operation, and very few congregations are prepared to put up the sort of edifice they want without help. Therefore, it is evidently the Christian duty of the generously disposed to buy tickets for the different entertainments which will help to erect new houses of worship. Besides churches there are several charitable institutions to be erected, such as orphan schools, hospitals, homes for the needy and sick, etc. Money will be wanted for all of them, and no one with a loose dollar need besitate in bringing it forth for some of the excellent causes that will be brought to their attention.

One of the most enjoyable social occasions of the past week was the fair for the benefit of the Children's Hospital, held at the residence of Judge Acheson, Amberson avenue. The Judge is President of the Board of Managers, and it was with pleasure that he turned over the house to the uses of the baznar, with Miss Ethel Acheson to play the hostess. Miss Acheson was assisted pleasant duties by Mrs. Miss Sherwood, Miss Hill-Miss Bessie Wishart, Miss her Sharpe, Miss Bessie Faber, and Miss Snodgrass, and all had plenty to do in arranging the pretty fancy articles for sale and in dispensing the refreshments. It is satisfactory to record that nearly everything was sold before the close of the fair, which lasted two hours, and that the hospital was a good many dol lars richer when the guests prepared to Independently of the good accomplished for the charity, the occasion was in itself a very pleasant one, as is everything that takes place in Judge Acheson's hospit-

Marion Harland endorses and uses Cleveland's Baking Powder.

, February 5, 1892.

After long and careful trial of others, I prefet Cleveland's Baking Powder for several reasons. . .

Cleveland's is a pure cream of tartar and soda mixture, not containing alum or ammonia or any other substance deleterious to the human stomach.

Cakes, muffins, biscuits, &c., in which Cleveland's Baking Powder is used, keep better. . :

A like quantity of Cleveland's Baking Powder goes further and does better work than any other of which I have knowledge. It is therefore cheaper.
