REPORTS FROM THE LEADING CENTERS

OFFICE OF THE DISPATCH, PITTISBURG, FRIDAY, May 27. RAW IRON AND STEEL-Trade since our last report has exhibited only slight im-in the United States.

SOUTHIER PRO HON-Estimonds are doing all they can to assist the iron makers of the South. Since our last, roads from Birming-lam, Ala., have made a reduction of iron rates of 30 cents per ton to Pittsburg and Pittsburg points. The reduction went into effect on Tresshay, May 24, but lasts for only one week. Why it should have been made for one week only is a puzzle to iron men generally.

enerally, A leading dealer has this to say: "A fair of cases, at about the same figures as last work. On the whole it is probable that buywerk. On the whole it is probable that buy-ers have had some slight advantage as re-gards terms and deliveries, although no actual concession in prices can be noted. But certain sellers have extended their dates for deliveries, which is one of the conditions havers have been contending for. It may be said that rates the past week have been at prices and on terms easiest on record."

Coke Freights Lowered.

THE LATEST-Freight rates have been re-Mahoning and Stenango Valleys from $1 35 to $1 25 per ton, and the rates to the Wheeling and Cleveland districts from $1 70 to $1 65. The reduction will take effect June 1. When the week's sales are added up they present a fair volume of business. Prices are certainly down to rock bottom. Resement sold at $14 5 and $6 ray forge at $12 70. Steel shats and biliets, $22 4 62 2 50. Muck bar dull; no demand. Skelp from and steel in the femand; prices fairly maintained. Old material dull and neglected. New steel rails are unchanged; sales at works ew steel rails are unchanged; sales at works reported at $30 per ton.

cure freight. No suggestion with authority behind it has been under as to the cause of the recent reduction of 50c per ton to Pitts-burg points. It went into effect on Wednes-day, good for one week. It is guessed that competition of the Tennessee river from Chattanooga may have caused the tempo-rary reduction as an experiment.

STILL WAITING AT CINCINNATL

All Branches of the Iron Market Lingering Around Till Things Change. CINCINNATI, May 27.-[Special.]-Rogers, Brown & Co. say: Still the waiting mood prevails in all branches of the iron market. Business has been very light the past week. Some commission houses and merchants have kept their salesmen at home, not deeming it any advantage to press iron upon un-willing buyers. Orders come in for small lots for immediate shipment, and these are usually wanted quicker than the ordinary RAW Iron AND STEEL—Trade since our last report has exhibited only slight improvement in certain kinds of iron. The last of July is the usual time for stock taking and repairs, also for signing the Amalgamated scale. Eumors in regard to what action the iron men will take in regard to make the effect that a material reduction in wages in certain departments will be demanded; that under existing circumstances it will be impossible to pay last year's wages; that few firms have made any money; that many have barely made expenses, and others have failed to make the year's account show a balance on the right side of the ledger.

From some manufacturing centers there are reports of an increase of sales of standard deseasemer pig and of sert steel. Prices in the functioned as about to happen. We flustrate a divariant usual.

Dairy Products Declining and Poultry and Eggs Advancing.

The week past has been noted by a steady decline in prices of dairy products. Markets are glutted with country butter, and all under fancy is a drug. Choice country rolls are selling in a jobbing way at 15c per pound and even less, while common grades sell at whatever they will bring. Poultry and eggs are steadily moving upward. The un-seasonable weather has no doubt been a factor in stiffening prices in these lines. In fruit and vegetable lines there is no material change from last Saturday's prices. Home raised garden stuff is fully three weeks behind its average time, owing to the failure of the sun to shine on the gardens. Strawberries have improved greatly in quality during the week, but are still pretty steep

REASONS FOR HOPEFUL VIEWS

Activity in Fuilding Shows the Revers of Dull Times in Pittsburg.

FEATURES OF MONEY AND SPECULATION

While business so far this year has failed to meet sanguine expectations, and while the evidences of a speedy revival are by no means clear, transactions have been, and are, of a volume surpassing that of any other year in the history of the city, with the single exception of 1890 As a rule, duliness arises from the poverty of consumers. This is not now the case. Farmers all over the North and West have greatly prospered, and in so far as they are not spending what they have made the country is gaining strength through the general economy which is being practiced. The easy condition of the money market, the absence of calamity rumors, and the large measure of confidence in the future entertained by the people, are good reasons for entertaining hopeful views. Good weather alone is wanting to impart a for-ward impulse to all of the special activities. Homes for the People.

Activity in building furnishes a complete reply to the cry now and then heard of dull times in Pittsburg. In spite of the fact that operations in this line have had to contend with almost continuous rain, the record for the five mouths at hand shows a handsome increase over the corresponding time last year both in number and cost of buildings erected. The figures to date show that permits have been issued for upward of 800 houses, the large majority being dwellings, the estimated cost of which is not far from $1,500,000. Buildings are of a better class than usual, as shown by their greater cost—a fact that speaks well for the prosperity of the community. They are pretty evenly scattered, denoting a progressive movement in all quarters of the city. In Pittsburg proper the Nineteenth ward heads the procession. Mt. Washing-ton leads on the Southside, while in Allegheny the Pleasant Valley district carries the banner. In 1890, a year of great ac-tivity, fear was expressed that the city would be overbuilt, but this turned out to be a false alarm. Small and medium sized

SELLING POWER GONE.

THAT'S THE REASON BEARS CAN'T KEEP DOWN STOCKS,

Big Demand for Bonds Which Must Soon Extend to Shares-The Market Still Professional-No News to Influence Prices, and No Big Changes.

NEW YORK, May 27 .- The stock market fully maintained its strictly professional character to-day, and while there was a continuance of the late partly successful drives in a small way, the exhaustion of the selling power was indicated by the dwindling busismall way, the exhaustion of the selling power was indicated by the dwindling business and the limited success in depressing prices in the few drives made at the list. Advocates of higher prices see much encouragement in the railroad bond market, of moneyed institutions which, in the extraordinary cheapness of funds, are seeking this means of investment, which already shows signs of depletion, and after its extension to a less desirable class of bonds, must find its only outlet in shares.

The stubboraness with which the late attacks have been resisted, and the poor success in getting prices down, with the absence of real selling by London, which the bears had depended upon to some extent, discouraged the further selling of short stocks, and the manipulation had evidently for its object the recovery of stocks already put out. There was during the day a marked lack of offerings at ruling prices, and consequently the market sank into intense dullness at times; and, as usual at such times, a few stocks monopolized the trading, and the general list remained devoid of leature.

There was, also, an absence of news of a character to influence prices, and fluctuations outside of a few stocks were confined to the smallest fractions. Western Union and Sugar led an upward movement, which extended to large fractions. The result of to the smallest fractions. Western Union and Sugar led an upward movement, which extended to large fractions. The result of the persistent circulation of bull points was seen in the sharp, upward movement in Colorado Coal, which rose 3 per cent to 33, but gains in the railroad list were confined to fractional amounts.

The afternoon's trading developed no feature worthy of note and no movement of importance. There was some strength displayed in the late trading on efforts to cover, but the market finally closed only steady to firm, generally at close to first prices.

COUNTRY PRODUCE-Jobbing Prices-The cold, wet weather proves adverse to trade in this line. Home-grown garden stuff is below the average quality at this season of the year for the lack of bright sunshine. The strawberry supply improves in quality, but fails to decline in price. Choice berries sold readily to-day at 20c per box. Spring chickens are very scarce, the scarcity being explained by the unseasonable weather. Markets are still overstocked with weather. Markets are still overstocked with country butter and prices are nominal. A fair quality has sold as low as loc per pound within the past few days. The quality of Ohio cheese received of late is reported rather low, a fact also attributed to the weather. The first green gooseberries of the season were on sale by a Liberty street commission house. They were consigned from Mobile. Eggs are firm at quotations. Choice tropical fruits are in good demand.

PARDRIDGE SQUEEZED.

He Is Supposed to Be Heavily Short on Corn-The Price of May Rises 7 Cents-Wheat Trade Only Local-Outs Easier-Provisions Fall.

CHICAGO-May corn rose 7c to-day and closed at 4c advance. The cash market was well attended by the few May shorts, who terposition of Providence in their favor. It is surmised that the principal short in the market is the same big trader who for so long has been playing successfully the control of the co long has been playing successfully the short side of everything which it is possible to sell for future delivery. Pardridge apparently, however, can stand as severe an application of thumb screws without wincing as any-of thumb screws without wincing as anyone, and although the guess as to his position in the May corn deal may be wrong, no one expects to discover a confirmation or denial of it from his demeanor.

The amount of business for May was very light and the price was very erratic. It was sold early at 63c, and later 64c, 65c, 67c, and even as high as 70c was paid for a limited quantity. The closing price was 67c. July, from 40% 645% at the opening, declined to 45% c and sold as high as 45% c later. It closed with sellers at 45% c, or % c under last night's figures. The market was slightly easier on account of the better weather and heavier receipts.

night's figures. The market was slightly easier on account of the better weather and heavier receipts.

Wheat trading to-day was almost wholly local. The opening was about 1/6 1/2 lower; then it railied 1/6 1/2; flucinated within narrow limits, and the closing was about 1/2 ligher than yesterday. The weaker opening was due to clear weather and lower cables, but there was a fair demand, a few outside buying orders being received, and local operators took on a little wheat at the lower prices, which caused the temporary advance. There was a slight easing off from the early advance, but larger clearances from the scaboard, reports of drouth in France and a firm market at Paris, together with reports of another storm forming east of the Rockies, which is likely to cause rain in the Mississippi Valley, had a tendency to create a rather firm feeling for the time being.

Outs attracted little attention and ruled a trifle easier, the weakness being due to heavy receipts.

Provisions opened firm on higher prices for live hogs at the yards, and then fell off on the "longs" unloading, the situation being the reverse of what it was yesterday, with the supposition that the market was pretty well evened up, although there may be a few shorts out yet. The impression was pretty generally expressed that if corn hed up in the face of fine weather, his Converters are again more active in taking heavy brown cottons. The market continues under a good fone, with an upward tendency in some directions. Higher prices are being talked of for next senson's prints. Thorndyke tickings were advanced to-day 14ca yard. Print cloths continue firm at 3/2c, at which price manufacturers refuse to sell.
