AND IF you are wise you will improve this OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFETIME by being one of the buyers. The lots at ALIQUIPPA have been on the market just six weeks. In that time half the property has been sold. A record that speaks volumes for the new manufacturing town, whose advantages for permanent and profitable improvement are unexcelled or equaled. A $300 lot there is already enhanced in value over 75 per cent to those who purchased them a month ago, while the company have made no increase in their prices. A $300 lot (the average price) will double or even treble in value the next year. Why not investigate this golden opportunity? It is as safe as a Bank or Building and Loan Association, and will give you much handsomer returns on your money. 50 lots were sold at the sale on Wednesday. Representatives of the company will be found on the grounds every day, for which trains leave the P. & L. E. Station at 7, 8, 12:30 and 2:55, city time. Special arrangements have been made to show investors over the grounds on Decoration Day. Plans and information to be had also at the office of

The hundred and seventy-ninth reception and the annual business meeting of the Art short does it fall of apt description. I am Society, to be held Friday evening, Jure 3, 1892, at 8 o'clock, in the Pittsburg Club Theater, will close the current season's work.

A brief but choice programme will be carried out by Miss Bertha M. Kaderly, soprano; Miss Blanche Newcombe, violiniste, and (probably) Mr. Beveridge Webster pianist, home artists whose quality needs no heralding in this connection.

The society is to be congratulated on having obtained for this occasion the priv-ilege of first viewing the 12 large detailed plans now under consideration for the Car-negie Library buildings to be erected at the main entrance to Schenley Park. It is be-lieved that an examination of these plans, showing the ample accommodations for the library, the museum, the art gallery, the music hall and the quarters of the Academy of Science and Art (including our own society), will give to most persons their fifst fair idea of the superb proportions and far-reaching scope of this unrivaled institute of liberal culture.

Mr. Carnegie is the art society's only surviving life member. Our future field of usefulness is closely identified with that of his munificent gift to the public. There is peculiar appropriateness in having these plans before our eyes on the occasion of this vitally important annual meeting. All members, old and new, are urged to attend and give suggestion, direction and encouragement to the directors to be elected at this meeting, who will next year be entrusted with the delicate and difficult task of carrying into effect, as far and as fast as may be, the broad, public-spirited purposes for which the Art Society was chartered.

. . Notes Sounded on the Cable. Last night's London cablegrams contain these musical items: At the Royalty Theater on Thursday there was presented for the first time in London a French musical play without words, entitled "Le Petit Chaperon Ronge" (Little Red Riding Hood). It was very well received. Funds are being collected to purchase the house in Halle where Handel, the great composer, was born on February 23, 1685. The house is to be sold, and a brewer, who already uses the grounds as a beer garden, is desirous of purchasing it. The admirers of Handel do not wish the house to fall into his hands, and hence the movement to buy it. It is proposed to convert the building into a Handel museum, as has been done with the birthplaces of Goethe and Beetho-

s quoted thus by a St. Louis reporter: "To say that at the Pope's services one hears the grandest church music that the world has ever known sounds commonplace, so far short does it fall of apt description. I am something of a connoisseur, have been a pro-found student of music all my life, and have heard every great opera produced by the most famous organizations, but until a few months ago, when I heard the Pope's choir, I had no idea that the humat voice was capable of such perform-ances. I don't see why the big operatic or-ganizations don't learn a lesson from St. Peter's and have a chorus of boys exclu-sively. It would not suit the baldheads, but it would please the genuine lovers of music." Verily, a little knowledge is a dangerous thing when it can turn the head of a (self-styled) "profound student." who knew Mr. Clark and his lamented wife: Mr. Frederic Horace Clark, of this city, is the author of a series of "etchings" in what will be known as "The Artist's Unified or Poetic Edition of Classical Works of Modern Instrumental Music." Mr. Clark's editions, which will include the Beethoven, Schubert which will include the Beethoven, Schubert and Mozart sonatas and symphonies and the etudes of Chopin, exhibit these works in the ordinary staff notation, but each page is curiously enwreathed with a series of sweeping curved lines designed as a "symbolization of the small and large rhythms or parts of the music and their de-velopment in verses, stanzas and groups of stanzas." The idea is unique and so cur-ious that the attention of the studious will doubtless be drawn to it. Mr. Clark has also published a music setting to Goethe's

His appearance is that of a polished man of the world just entering pointed man of the world just entering upon old age. He walks erect, and if he talks with deliberation there is no hesita-tion in this speech, nor would one think to look at him that he was $1 years old. His head sits perfectly upon his rather slight form and his clear gray eyes are kindly. He was dressed in a sack suit of black cloth his working such I foury for the

He was dressed in a sack suit of black cloth, his working garb, I fancy, for the room in which he received me adjoined his study. He spoke of his overa of "Falstaff," but as I refrained from "interviewing" him I did not learn when it would be completed, but I imagine it is nearly done. Verdi's in-terest in music in the United States is more than perfunctory, and he is very proud of the popularity of the "Requiem Mass," "Aida," and "Otello," with us Incident-aily he said he should visit the Vienna Ex-hibition."

NO LAW FOR THE CASE

Judge Stowe handed down another opinion resterday bearing on the case of the Pennylvania Railroad against the Braddock Electric Railway, in which he says that a further consideration of the case has strengthened his views expressed before. He says a grade crossing at the place pro-posed by the defendant company is so dangerous that it should not be allowed if there was any power in the Court to pre-vent it, but the charter of the company was granted under the act of 1889, authorizing the use of the highway cross-ing the plaintiffs' railroad as a route for the defendant's railroad. The eighteenth section of the act giving any company incorporated under the act the right to cross any railroad at will is vicious legislation, but it is law and must, be obeved.

Judge Stowe thinks that perhaps the Mrs. J. F. Mock, of Parkersburg, W. Va., who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. C. M.
