NEW YORK, May 28 - [Special.]-Charles Gayler, the veteran playwright, who has been ill- with Bright's disease for several weeks, died at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Knowles, in Brooklyn to-day. Mr. Gayler, who was one of the most prolific playwriters of his generation, was born in Oliver street, this city, April 10, 1820. He went to Ohio in 1836. He began by teaching school at Dayton, and then took up the study of the law. He practiced on the grand circuit with Abraham Lincoln. When Henry Clay was up for President, Mr. Gay-ler took the stump for him. Two of his sons, William C. and Frank, are theatzical

In 1849 Mr. Gayler made his debut Bamiet in the National Theater, Cincinnati, and shortly afterward his first play, "The Gold Hunters," was produced in the same theater. It was a take-off on the gold fever of the day; and it made a big hit. Mr. Gayler returned to New York in 1850, and for the next 20 years he continued to turn out plays at an astonishing rate. He is said to have written 300 plays, fully 100 of which were successfully produced. He wrote "Frits in Ireland."
