

reference of the underground wire ordinance. Mr. Lambie was moved to refer to his committee, and Mr. Robertson wanted it referred to his. The debate was hot and both gentlemen worked themselves into anger. Mr. Lambie won the fight, and the ordinance was sent to the Safety Committee.

DOWNED THE VETO

Select Council Passes the Exchange Railway Ordinance Over the Mayor's Head—Messrs. Perry and Donahue Enjoy a Lively Little T. T.

A lively little tiff between Messrs. Perry and Donahue was one of the features of the street railway vetoes in Select Council. Mr. Perry early in the afternoon moved to postpone action on the Mayor's message until 4 o'clock, and in response a pointed inquiry from Mr. Donahue as to whether or not three members who desired to vote on it who could not be present until that time.

Mr. Donahue became indignant at the explanation, and declared that he would know that if the matter was voted on now you would be licked, and you know it.

Mr. Perry resented the remark by raising a point of order, and after some further discussion between the two men the motion was adopted.

Consideration of the veto of the Exchange Street Railway ordinance was first taken up 4 o'clock, and in response a pointed inquiry from Mr. Donahue as to whether or not three members who desired to vote on it who could not be present until that time.

Mr. Donahue became indignant at the explanation, and declared that he would know that if the matter was voted on now you would be licked, and you know it.

Mr. Perry resented the remark by raising a point of order, and after some further discussion between the two men the motion was adopted.

Consideration of the veto of the Exchange Street Railway ordinance was first taken up 4 o'clock, and in response a pointed inquiry from Mr. Donahue as to whether or not three members who desired to vote on it who could not be present until that time.

Mr. Donahue became indignant at the explanation, and declared that he would know that if the matter was voted on now you would be licked, and you know it.

PITTSBURGH'S GROWTH

Is the Text for a Congratulatory Report by Chief Bigelow.

With the annual report of the Department of Public Works presented to Council by Chief Bigelow yesterday there was an interesting introduction by the Chief himself relating to the work under his care.

He makes some significant remarks concerning the proposed free bridge to the Southside, briefly comes back again on the extraordinary condition of water in this city, and devotes considerable space to his hobby, the parks, or, as he calls Schenley Park, "Pittsburgh's Playground."

The Chief says: "In this review of the year's work, I would call attention, briefly, to the immense growth of the city, both in population and increased number of residents, alike in the city proper and suburbs, and the consequent necessary increase in highway and sewer construction, water supply and lighting facilities."

Economical and eminently satisfactory. "The work of this department in these lines has been eminently satisfactory as well as economical, and done in as short a time as possible and at the least cost to the city."

The Chief says: "In this review of the year's work, I would call attention, briefly, to the immense growth of the city, both in population and increased number of residents, alike in the city proper and suburbs, and the consequent necessary increase in highway and sewer construction, water supply and lighting facilities."

The Chief says: "In this review of the year's work, I would call attention, briefly, to the immense growth of the city, both in population and increased number of residents, alike in the city proper and suburbs, and the consequent necessary increase in highway and sewer construction, water supply and lighting facilities."

The Chief says: "In this review of the year's work, I would call attention, briefly, to the immense growth of the city, both in population and increased number of residents, alike in the city proper and suburbs, and the consequent necessary increase in highway and sewer construction, water supply and lighting facilities."

The Chief says: "In this review of the year's work, I would call attention, briefly, to the immense growth of the city, both in population and increased number of residents, alike in the city proper and suburbs, and the consequent necessary increase in highway and sewer construction, water supply and lighting facilities."

LYNCHINGS MUST STOP

Colored People to Make a Bold Stand Against the Slaughtering of Their Brethren in the South—A Mass Meeting Held Last Night and Resolutions Adopted.

In accordance with the suggestion made in an appeal recently issued by prominent colored men, yesterday was the day set apart by the colored people as a day of fasting and prayer because of the outrages inflicted upon their race in the Southern States.

Services were held in the colored church and a mass meeting was held in the Wylie avenue A. M. E. Church last night under the auspices of Washington Camp No. 575, P. O. S. of A., S. J. Wilkinson presiding.

The committee retired to the anti-room to conduct the prayer service, which opened with the singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which was followed with a prayer by Rev. E. J. Brown.

After the services were over, the anti-room was thrown open to the public, and a mass meeting was held, which was presided over by S. J. Wilkinson.

The committee retired to the anti-room to conduct the prayer service, which opened with the singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which was followed with a prayer by Rev. E. J. Brown.

After the services were over, the anti-room was thrown open to the public, and a mass meeting was held, which was presided over by S. J. Wilkinson.

The committee retired to the anti-room to conduct the prayer service, which opened with the singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," which was followed with a prayer by Rev. E. J. Brown.

After the services were over, the anti-room was thrown open to the public, and a mass meeting was held, which was presided over by S. J. Wilkinson.

SECEDERS TALK BACK.

They Assert That They Are Maintaining the Organization of THE EAST END R. P. CONGREGATION.

Refuse to Admit the Jurisdiction of Any Ecclesiastical Body.

An answer was filed yesterday by the defendants in the suit of the East End Reformed Presbyterian congregation against the Rev. O. B. Milligan and others.

The defendants in the suit are the members of the Reformed Presbyterian Church of North America, and the suit is a contest for the church property.

The defendants deny that the corporation is a church, and that it is not subject to the jurisdiction of any ecclesiastical body.

The defendants deny that the corporation is a church, and that it is not subject to the jurisdiction of any ecclesiastical body.

The defendants deny that the corporation is a church, and that it is not subject to the jurisdiction of any ecclesiastical body.

The defendants deny that the corporation is a church, and that it is not subject to the jurisdiction of any ecclesiastical body.

The defendants deny that the corporation is a church, and that it is not subject to the jurisdiction of any ecclesiastical body.

TO THE UNKNOWN DEAD.

The Monument to Mark the Graves of the Unidentified Victims of the Johnstown Flood Unveiled—How the Third Anniversary Was Observed.

Yesterday was the third anniversary of the Johnstown flood, and in the afternoon 20,000 people gathered in Grandview Cemetery to witness the unveiling of the monument to the unknown dead.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

The monument is a granite structure, which marks the graves of the unknown and stands as a memorial to the greatest outpouring of wealth for charity's sake, represents the three graces.

HUSBAND AND MONEY MISSING.

Mrs. William Otto Called at Police Headquarters Last Night and Asked Aid in Search for Her Husband. She Thinks he Has Deserted Her. He Was a Boiler Maker and Operated a Little Restaurant at 20 Water Street. Some Few Days Ago His Brother, Jacob Otto, who Lives on Walnut Street, Altoona, Came to Visit Him. Last Saturday the husband resumed a talk with her money out of a bank and giving it to him for that purpose.

On Monday he started out, but she has not returned. Yesterday Mrs. Otto left the house to get some provisions and was gone two hours. When she came back Jacob Otto, her brother-in-law, was also gone, and so were all of his clothes and a valise. Three children, those of Otto by a former marriage, were also gone, as were a lot of their clothes. Mrs. Otto concluded from all these circumstances that the whole household had been wrecked and a scheme to desert her was carried out.

One child was left behind last week with a view to joining an opera company in the East. Mrs. Otto has been left in a predicament, as her rent falls due to-day, and she has but 20 cents left of her money. Beside this, the restaurant is not paying for itself at present, and she fears she will have to sell it, as she has to supply her immediate wants.

At the West Penn Hospital a peculiar story is told by Albert Barr, aged 38, who was taken there in an unconscious condition Monday night. Officers Bailey and Mitchell found Barr walking alone on Penn avenue, near Twenty-eighth street, in a dazed condition. Upon taking hold of him he fainted away and did not recover until six hours afterward.

The doctors at the hospital confirm the boy's story, in that he had been drinking and had just passed a group of men when he was dealt a crushing blow upon the head. He fell to the ground and was unconscious for several days. He made his way to Penn avenue, where he again fell and knew no more until found by officers Bailey and Mitchell.

The doctors at the hospital confirm the boy's story, in that he had been drinking and had just passed a group of men when he was dealt a crushing blow upon the head. He fell to the ground and was unconscious for several days. He made his way to Penn avenue, where he again fell and knew no more until found by officers Bailey and Mitchell.

The doctors at the hospital confirm the boy's story, in that he had been drinking and had just passed a group of men when he was dealt a crushing blow upon the head. He fell to the ground and was unconscious for several days. He made his way to Penn avenue, where he again fell and knew no more until found by officers Bailey and Mitchell.

The doctors at the hospital confirm the boy's story, in that he had been drinking and had just passed a group of men when he was dealt a crushing blow upon the head. He fell to the ground and was unconscious for several days. He made his way to Penn avenue, where he again fell and knew no more until found by officers Bailey and Mitchell.

The doctors at the hospital confirm the boy's story, in that he had been drinking and had just passed a group of men when he was dealt a crushing blow upon the head. He fell to the ground and was unconscious for several days. He made his way to Penn avenue, where he again fell and knew no more until found by officers Bailey and Mitchell.

Forty boys employed at the Baker Coal Works of Woods Run, are out on a strike. They were receiving 50 cents a day, yesterday they asked for a five cent increase and were refused.

Diphtheria on the Increase. Fifteen cases of diphtheria and six of scarlatina were reported to the Bureau of Health yesterday from different parts of the city.

The Leading Pittsburgh, Pa. Dry Goods House. Wednesday, June 1, 1922.

JOS. HORNE & CO.'S

PENN AVENUE STORES.

SUMMER UNDERWEAR

For everybody—our own direct importations of all the most famous makers.

Our stocks include every grade, from the lowest priced up to the finest.

We buy in such vast quantities that we can offer very considerable advantages in prices.

All Styles, All Qualities, All Sizes, Summer Weight Cotton Underwear, Balbriggan Underwear, Light Merino Underwear, Silk-and-Wool Underwear, Pure Silk Underwear.

This morning two special bargains are offered.

IN LADIES' UNDERWEAR: Summer Weight Ribbed Cotton Vests, low neck, without sleeves, at 20c each; would ordinarily sell for 25c.

IN MEN'S UNDERWEAR: Fine French and English Balbriggan Shirts and Drawers (Shirts have two lengths of sleeves) at 50c per garment. Would be a good garment to sell for 75c—price 50c.

WEISSER'S GREAT REMNANT SALE

Begin this morning at 8 o'clock. 130,000 YARDS OF DRESS GOODS To be sold at ONE-THIRD PRICE.

WEISSER'S GREATEST BARGAIN STORES.

435 MARKET ST. 437

Cor. Fifth Ave. and Market St. 435 MARKET ST. 437