For the next two inninigs the New Yorks fattered Camp and led him to believe that be was a hummer, and then in the fifth they fell upon him with a force that made his teeth ache. Bassett was first at bat and he plammed the ball so far down the left pasture that Corkhill was out of breath when he got it. It was a clean home run hit, but Bassett heaved around the base lines like a water logged sand scow and stopped exhausted on third. The clever second baseman needs practice at running. Rusie was the next hitter and he also Rusie was the next hitter and he also pounded the sphere to left. By good run-ning he got three bases on it. With no one out Rusie was unable to score, being nipped at the plate on Crane's grounder and the side was put out for one run.

ancrifice and scored on Farrell's single.

Touched Young Camp Up Lively.

In the next inning, however, the New Yorks jumped upon Camp with great feroeity. Richardson's foul tip was caught by Mack. Lyons then proceeded to knock the ball out of sight. He hit it into the open space between the 50-cent and 25-cent stands. Corkhill rushed in and came out empty-handed just as Lyons' 200 pounds landed on the rubber. O'Rourke hit a stinger to left for a base but Bassett struck out. Rusie made a rattling double to left and O'Rourke scored. Fields hit to right for two bases and Rusie scored. Fields stole third with a bump. Crane marched to first on balls and rushed for second. Mack made a bad throw and Smith got tangled up with the ball. Fields scored and Crane took third. Gore was sent to first on balls and Crane tried to score when Gore drew a throw to second. Crane was out on a close decision. The New Yorks got after-Camp again in the ninth, when Fields hit for three bases and was sent home by Crane's single. The Pittsburgs made a little spurt in the sixth when Bassett, after making a fine pickup of Bierbauer's grounder, made an excusable bad throw to first. Beckley and Smith then came along with doubles down the right foul line and the result was two runs. In the eighth Shugart's triple and a sacrifice gave Pittsburg its last run. The considerable excitement among baseball cranks prevailed last night to the effect that the New York Baseball Club was making an effort to secure Adrian C. Anson as manager and captain. The negotiations, it is assorted, are nearing a successful termination. An-on is a heavy stockholder in the Chicago club and the proposition is that in case he roes to New York he shall exchange his hicago stock for a like amount in the New York club. There is little credence placed in the rumor as J. W. Spalding denies it.

FRED JOHNSON, the champion English feather-weight, who is matched to meet George Dixon in a finish fight, has gone into training at Coney Island and will not be beaten for lack of condition, if at all. THE next event that Manager Lumley, of the Concy Island Club, will book will probably be a meeting between Brookiyn Jimmle Carroll and tha-California middle-weight, Alex Greggains. The men have practically agreed to meet for a $3,200 purse, but Carroll wants to bet $1,000 on the out-side, and this stands in the way for the present. The Westerner is willing enough to battle for the purse, but he is not anxious to make any outside bets.
