FEATURES TO PLEASE THE LITTLE ONES

Pittsburg's great breathing spot should be brought nearer to the people. A play-ground for the populace is demanded. At least five of the broad acres of Mrs. Schenleast five of the broad acres of Mrs. Schen-ley's great gift should and will be given as a home for sports—a place for the school you are dead, and may God in his infinite children, the ball ground for the newsies as well as the children of millionaires. It is intended to make it a place also for all amateur athletic associations that now exist or may hereafter be formed. The matter was laid before Chief Bigelow, Mayor Gonrley and a number of other prominent people by THE DISPATCH and it is has received their unqualified approval.

The great parks of the East and of Europe lave such places. Pittsburg has the ground and needs only a little energy to carry the project into effect and make a place where all can enjoy the pleasure of outdoor sports

The idea is to devote five acres to this project and more if necessary. One portion can be devoted to ball grounds and football fields. The number does not need to be limited to one. Another portion can be set aside for tennis courts, cricket grounds and all other kinds of popular sports and

Easy to Defray the Expenses,

There is no place the public can use as a playground, and if any amateurs wish to give an exhibition or to practice they must go out of the city or hire a lot. All people cannot afford to do this and there is really no necessity for it since in Schenley Park there are acres of room. Of course it will require considerable money to run these grounds, but it can be raised without affecting the city. There will be a necessity for a pavilion in which the people can have a place to keep a change of clothing, tennis racquets, balls, etc. This building can be put up readily for between $4,000 and $5,000, and the lockers rented to people who patronize the playgrounds. The rental from these will be enough to keep the grounds in good condition the year around, and will not be a burden on anybody. Another plan also much in vogue in the East and Europe is that of renting, the privilege of having "merry-go-rounds" or roller coasters on the ground. This would be a big source of revenue as would also be the privilege of keeping for hire donkey carts and little wagons to which a dog or s goat is hitched. In other parks such things are done and these fantastics prove a source of endless amusement to the children at a cost that nearly any child can afford."

No Trouble to Raise Subscriptions,

A playground, both for the children and grown people, is one of the great necessities of this city. The idea of having some big playground for the school children was once mentioned to me by Superintendent Luckey, but this broader plan is better. Schenley Park is certainly the place for it. The institution of such grounds would be probably the brightest feature of the park and undoubtedly have the best effect on the city in general, for it will give us a more hardy, active set of people in the rising generation. It will foster sports and physical development a thing which has too much been neglected. Other great parks have set aside a portion of their ground for this purpose and have found it of great benefit. Boston common has become famous as a foot bell ground and in New York, Philadelphia, Brooklyn and Baltimore there are public play grounds that are great features of those great cities.

A Suggestion From the Mayor. One thing I would suggest is that the ground be divided off from the park by an osage orange hedge. Such hedges are used elsewhere and have a very beautiful effect, As for the cost of maintaining the place, I believe the rental from lock boxes in a I believe the rental from lock boxes in a partillion would be sufficient. Once put in shape I believe it would not cost much to keep it up. If the rental was not sufficient to pay for keeping a man there the city could pay his wages or the work could be done by the park policemen. The building need not cost more than $5,000. It will be an easy thing for the citizens to raise that amount. I believe our business men will subscribe readily and the street railway companies ought to respond handsomely. It will be a great benefit to them as they got the same fine for a child as for a grown person, and a public playground in Schenley Park will make a rich and continuous harvest for the traction roads. I will do all I can to have the matter brought before the public.

Chief Bigelow was interviewed on the same subject just before he left for the Min-neapolis convention. He gave his approval and said: "There must be a public play-ground in Schenley Park, and I will see that the people get it. Everybody recog-nizes the necessity for such a place and we will try to have it fixed up as soon as pos-sible."

A Change at the County Jall.

The regular meeting of the Allegheny County Prison Board was held yesterday. In addition to the approval of the regular bills the only business transacted was the approval of the appointment by Warden McAieese of John Summerville, an expolicement, as keeper in the jail to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of James McB. Robb. The latter resigned fo accept a clerkship in the County Treasurer's office.

Anthony Suk charges Robert Martin with felonious assault and battery. The men live in the Eleventh ward, Allegheny, and were engaged in repairing the bridge over the Allegheny river at Forty-third street. Suk alleges that during a quarrel Martin struck him, knocking him off the bridge, and he fell to the water below, a distance of 30 feet. Martin was held in $1.000 bail for a hearing.

No Lawyers' Picnic This Year. The regular meeting of the Bar Association was held yesterday afternoon. There was but one point of business before the body, and it was a motion that the usual lawyers' picnic be postponed until next year. This was agreed to. Judge Slagle in Criminal Court yesterday morning pronounced the death sentence on Dennis Cloonan, the wife murderer. The doomed man was brought into the court-room by a deputy sheriff. By his side was his attorney, Thomas M. Marshall. The first proceeding was the refusal by the Court for a new trial on the ground that the Court was satisfied that the jury returned a proper verdict. District Attorney Burleigh then moved for judgment in the case of the Commonwealth versus Dennis Cloonan.

Cloonan.

When asked by Judge Slagle if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced against him, Cloonan replied:

"I have nothing to say, only I was drunk."

Judge Slagle then said: "The jury in this case have found you guilty of the highest crime known to the law of Pennsylvania. With that verdict the Court is fully satisfied. I have nothing to say in passing sentence, because the sentence in itself carries with it all the solemnity that could be given by any words I might use. The sentence of the law is that you, Dennis Cloonan, be taken hence to the Allegheny County Jail, from whence you came, and from thence, at a time fixed by the Governor of the Commonwealth, to the place fixed for the execu-

June Weddings.

If we can believe our society columns, this month will see a great many weddings. Nearly everyone is interested in them, and feels it incumbent on them, as the fashion now goes, to give the bride some token of their good wishes. To a few people-those with well-filled purses, and who can afford to indulge in precious stones, or gold or silver sets, the matter of choosing a bridal present is one of little worrhment. But to the majority, it is a very perplexing question. To such we would make some suggestion. To such we would mention Out Glass. This is admired and appreciated by every person, and is now made in such a variety of beautiful designs, and at such prices that almost anyone can be suited. Punch Bowis, Fruit Bowls, Pitchers, Water Bottles, Oil Bottles, Decanters, Oilve Trays, Tumblers, are only some of the beautiful articles in this line, that are always in good taste. Then, no matter how much gas or electric light they have, everybody will appreciate a nice Banquet or Vase Lamp. We would also mention Dinner Sets, Ice Sets, Toilet Sets, Fruit Platos, Atter-Dinner Coffees, etc. These are articles which are always appropriate, and in which you can make no mistake. Extraordinary Statement.

The statement made by the Philadelphia Company, in defense to a suit brought against them, said: In all probability the natural gas supply would be exhausted in three years. This should not retard the people from buying natural gas appliances, if this statement was made on actual knowledge it would pay you to investigate the workings of the Jewett Gas Range and become posted as to its merits and to its economy in the use of this most valued fuel. If the supply would only last three years you would be shead, for the Jewett Range would save the price of itself in that time. And you would have all the pleasure of using gas during that period. Homestead Amalgamated Men Hold A Mass Meeting To-Day

TO DISCUSS NEXT YEAR'S SCALE.

WILL TALK IT OVER.

The Euilders' Exchange Wins a Victory in the Courts.

LABOR NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

The Homestead wage trouble will be the all absorbing question before the convenand Steel Workers.

The report published in yester-day morning's DISPATCH telling of the coming conflict in Homestead was not altogether credited, as like results have come from them before, which did not pan. Later in the day, however, when it was learned that Homestead was flooded with posters bearing the official signature of President Weihe, of the Amalgamated Association, telling the members of the eight lodgers there that there would be a mass neeting to-morrow to discuss the matter, the trouble was then looked upon as a certainty. It is not the policy of the Amalgamtated to give any notoriety to its doings unless the occasion required.

Manager Frick Is Non-Committal. H. C. Frick, who now stands at the head of the Carnegie interests, was seen yester-day afternoon relative to the reported trouble. He refused to either deny or affirm the story, saying it was not the custom of the company to discuss such

Away last winter it was intimated that this summer would see a bitter conflot between capital and labor at Homestead. With the first of July the scale, which has been in force at Homestead for the past three years, will expire. In 1889, when their scale was signed, there was a short but bitter fight. It was then decided to run the mill non-union, but the effort failed, and it now looks as if the tactics of three years ago were being unearthed.

Long Expecting a Reduction, From time to time since the first of the year it has been given out at Homestead that the new electrical process of making steel would greatly decrease the number of employes, the cut being most telt in the circles of skilled workmen. This system is now in working and an extension of the circles of skilled workmen. This system is now in working order. This system is now in working order.

Shortly over a month ago a report was circulated that Carnegie, Phipps & Co. was then at work on a scale, owing to the new process, which would cause a reduction of 50 per cent. The company indignantly denied it, and the Amalgamated people laughed, calling such a move absurd and out of the question. Yesterday's report proved that the rumor floated on and out of the question. Testeriny's report proved that the rumor floated on a 40 per cent basis at least. An iron worker yesterday said that he did not see how trouble could be averted at did not see how trouble could be averted at Homestead. Manager Porter had given the men the scale, told them no debate on the question was desired and demanded that the agreement be signed by June 24. The gentlemen thought that the company was ready to stand by what it had demanded, and conferences could be held from now until next winter without making any difference in winter without making any difference in the big firm's position. To him it seemed but a scheme to force a strike so that the company could make an attempt to make its mills non-union. A strike at Home-stead means that the steel business of the world will be affected.

PUMPING COAL THROUGH PIPES.

The H. C. Frick Coke Company Makes

Fair Test. The H. C. Frick Coke Company has by liquid form, but whether it can be done at a profit is yet to be determined. The test was made a few days ago. The coal was pulverized and mixed with an equal amount of water. It was then piped through a two-inch tube a distance of 1,300 and to an ele-inch tube a distance of 1,300 and to an elevation of 40 feet.

Mr. Frick, in his opinion of the test, says:

"To mix coal with water, as must be done to transport it through pipes, I do not think will make as good coke as the same coal would make in the ordinary manner of coking. This remains to be tested. We pulverized the coal in this test. I think if the coal had been crushed to the size of powder it could have been pumped easier and would make better coke. The scheme will yet be made a success."

BRANCHING OUT IN THE NEW.

The Cumberland Steel Company to Engage in the Manufacture of Tin Plate. The old Crown & Cumberland Steel Company, which failed some time ago, has been reorganized with a capitalization of $300,000. Its steel department will start

The new company will be known as the Cumberland Steel and Tin Plate Comthe Cumberland Steel and Tin Plate Company. Aside from its large steel department the company will engage in the tin plate business. Yesterday it placed an order with the Leechburg Foundry and Machine Company, of Pittsburg, for a complete four-mill rolling plant, for rolling block plants and also a complete tin plate plant. This company will also furnish some machinery for the steel plant.

J. E. Jones, superintendent of Dilworth & Porter's Pittsburg mills, has resigned that position and will take charge of the Cumberland Company's plant.

THE EXCHANGE WINS.

Judge McClung Refuses to Grant an In-junction Against the Body—The Case May Be Carried Up—Atterney Porter's

The Builders' Exahange has won in its fight with the independent contractor. The Court refused to grant the injunction against the Exchange. The decision caused labor organizations were all looking for a victory, as they thought the testimony was strong enough to warrant the granting of an injunction. The defeated side is so strong in this belief that it may carry the case to a higher tribunal.
Judge McClung, in handing down his de-

Cision, said:

Undoubtedly these defendants have a legal right to organize together for mutual aid, benefit and protection, and to establish regulations for the furtherance of their mutual interests in an orderly manner; they also may, each and all, sell or refuse to sell supplies and materials and refuse to employ or deal with the each and all of the plaintiffs, just as each and all of the plaintiffs may buy or refuse to buy or work or refuse to work for each and all of the defendants; and the defendants may as individuals use all lawful and peaceful means to induce others to refuse to sell supplies or materials to the efuse to sell supplies or materials to the plaintiffs or any of them, or to deal with hem or any of them. Without reciting at length the statements them or any of them.

Without reciting at length the statements contained in the various affidavits offered by the complainants in support of their application for a preliminary injunction, it is sufficient to say, that a careful examination of all of them inils to disclose any act committed by the defendants in which the plaintiffs in themselves have a common interest entitling them to an injunction for their protection.

plaintiffs in themselves have a common interest entitling them to an injunction for their protection.

The affidavits show the commission of certain acts complained of by certain of the defendants, affecting certain of the plaintiffs, not all of them. There were several. And they show affirmatively that there is no joint or common interest between the plaintiffs which could be protected by an injunction, nor are there any separate interests of plaintiff in a common property or right of property which could be protected by an injunction. If, however, this is not sufficient reason for refusing the application the same careful examination of the affidavits falls to show any present distinct and particular acts committing or threatening by the defendants, or any of them, causing irrevarable loss to any of the plaintiffs in this bill, and entitling them to an injunction. All of the acts complained of that are distinct and particular occurred, or were committed, long since, and if any injury resulted therefrom the proper remedy is an action at list to recover damages.

In the affidavits certain present acts are complained of as being committed by certain of the defendants, with reference to the building now in course of erection known as the Solomon & Ruben building, and the contain of the defendants, with reference to the building now in course of erection known as the Solomon & Ruben building, and the contract for the erection of the same, but neither Solomon or Ruben, nor either of their contractors, Kretz or Cook, are parties to this bill, and no injunction to restrain the same can be granted to these plaintiffs. The affidavits relating to these paintiffs. The affidavits relating to these acts cannot in any way effect this case, and the same may be said of all the affidavits, of which there are a large number relating to acts complained of committed by any of the defendants against any person not parties as plaintiffs to this bill.

L. K. Porter, one of the attorneys for the

L. K. Porter, one of the attorneys for the plantiffs, had this to say of the case yesterday afternoon: "I thought the testimony in this case was stronger than that on which the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester Traction Company secured an injunction against H. H. Dempsey. The affidavits from Ruben & Solomon was conclusive testimony that the Exchange was resorting to conspiracy in the circulars it was issuing, regarding the work on their building. The Court in the decision did not summarize the evidence and it would building. The Court in the decision did not summarize the evidence and it would be difficult to know upon what theory the injunction was refused, except to guess that even if all the testimony of the complainant wes true, they had no remedy. To-morrow it will be decided as to what future steps will be taken in the case."

ANOTHER TRACTION MOVE

The Citizens' Will Try to Enter Milivale Over the Forty-Third Street Bridge, The Citizens' Traction Company has i scheme, which will compete with the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester's Millvale, Etna and Sharsburg road. The idea ville over the Forty-third street bridge into Millvale. From there it will go to Etna and out to the toll gate. This would not take Etna's patronage over the Sharpsburg road. The company offers to pave the entire right of way if granted by

It is probable that ordinances will be pre-sented to both the Millvale and Etna Councils to-morrow night. The feeling still seems to be on the side of the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester, as it offers the 5-cent rate and direct transportation.

Mayor Gourley Sets His Mark at

$10,000 to Appropriately

CELEBRATE INDEPENDENCE DAY.

Southsiders Promise to Heartily Assist the Festivities.

EVERYBODY IN THE COUNTY TO JOIN IN

July fund come in more rapidly during this nonth than they have in the past two weeks Mayor Gourley will be unable to raise the $10,000 he has set as the figure for the celebration Only $250 came in yesterday, making the total up to date $2,754 60. This is about the same amount collected at the cor responding date last year, when only $5,000 was raised for the fund, but the Mayor is sanguine that the people will come forward and help him to make the last celebration during his term of office a grander succes than any of the others. The Mayor has his heart in this work, and, while he does not say so, seems to feel that the people ought to show their appreciation of his efforts in their behalf while in office by making a good contribution to this his last entertainment for all the people.

Southsiders Proffer Hearty Assistance The arrangements for the celebration are being made as rapidly as possible, although comparatively little can be done until the amount of money available is known. This shows the necessity for promptness in contributions. The people on the Southside have wisely decided not to hold an indehave wisely decided not to hold an independent celebration this year, and the result will be beneficial to the Schenley Park affair. The men who made a success of last year's entertainment on that side of the river say it requires too much hard work to raise the funds, and when done the Schenley Park meeting overshadows it so greatly that it is trifling by comparison. There is an apparent desire, too, among Southside people to wipe out the prejudice that existed at one time against the East End. A step in this direction is shown by the argument they use in reference to the relebration. They say the Mayor's efforts are as much intended for them and Schenley Park, and the Fourth of July is as much theirs as it is for any other section of the city, and they mean to enjoy it to their utmost.

Business Men Will Contribute Generously.

Business Men Will Contribute Generously.

A number of the lending business men over there have already signified their intention of contributing for and assisting in making the Schenley Park meeting the success that everybody wants it to be.

The Mayor wants all Allegheny county to gather in Schenley Park next Fourth. He has decided to send invitations to the Mayor and Councils of Allegheny, and through them to all the people of that city, and through the Board of School Control he will invite all the school children. Through the Mayor of McKeesport he will invite the Councils and the people of the little city on the Monongahela, and through the burgesses of all the boroughs within the county limits he will invite all the inhabitants to come to Schenley Park, see how the glorious Fourth. Schenley Park, see how the glorious Fourth should be patriotically observed, and take part in the proceedings.

Prof. Kirschner, of the East End Gymnastic Club, has been authorized to join with a representative of each of the other leading athletic clubs of the city in arranging the sport contests of the day. This committee will have the whole matter in hand, under the Mayor's supervision, and are now arranging a schedule of the events.

Handsome Prizes for the Winners. The contests will be more interesting than any yet held, and it is probable that the winners of the first prizes will be given medals. Winners of two prizes will receive such articles as the business men will contribute as in former years.

Four bands will make music, the same, probably, as were engaged last year, the Great Western, Second Brigade, Select Knights and Grand Army Bands. The Mayor is receiving numerous letters from fireworks manufacturers and peofrom fireworks manufacturers and peo-ple who want to furnish amusements of various kinds for the day, but is taking no steps in that direction until the money comes in. Colonel Culyer, the park archi-tect, has planned the grand stands for the celebration. They will be placed about as they were last year, but will be more con-venuenient and comforable, and there will be other conveniences arranged to make the great throng of visitors on that day happy great throng of visitors on that day happy and thankful that they belong to this land of the free.

A VERY BUSY TOUNG TOWN.

The Latest From Ellwood City. ELLWOOD CITY, PA., June 8, 1892.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa.,June 8, 1892.

There is a very wholesome spirit of friendly rivalry between the manufacturers of the Westside and the Eastside of town, as to which will get their factories up and under way first; thus far the Eastside seems to have the advantage.

Carloads of material on the new switches, scores of teams driving about, and a little army of masons, carpenters, machinists and laborers at work at the three or four factories in different parts of this locality—it is a lively scene. The Sterritt & Eccles foundry have their foundations laid and heavy framing timbers up. Both Mr. Patterson and Mr. Hays are on the ground hurrying forward the foundations and excavations of the Peerless Lead Glass Works. Mr. Fulmer is also on hand urging his large force in the construction of his brick plant; one of his brick machines is already on the side track waiting unloading—It has a capacity of 25,000 brick a day.

On the Westside the Northwood Glass Works are rushing the completion of grading for their switch track. On Monday next their contractors will begin foundations.

Wallis & Carley have a score of carpenters and masons at work on the 35 houses they are building.

Let anybody who claims to doubt that this is husy Ellwood come and look on—but don't get in the way of the army of laborers.
