Government believe much of the plotting for the Irish cause is done here in the United States. In consequence the British authorities are keeping close watch over the proceedings of the various Irish organizations in America. For this purpose 20 special members of the Irish constabulary force are now in this country sending to the English officials accurate reports of all the meetings held, the various undertakings of the Irish in America and exactly what aid they are giving to the Land League and other secret societies in Ireland. They are also keeping watch on all emissaries of the Irish party in this country. One of these constables is at work in Pittsburg now, and has been on duty here at least since last January. His presence here was first discovered when he went to a Pittsburg notary public to make an affidavit as to his warrant for pay.

He was a tall man at least six feet in height, with broad shoulders and just a little stooped. He was raw-boned rather than long, and had a halting kind of a slow walk. His head was unusually large and covered with a heavy knot of iron gray hair that grew long. He wore an old-fashioned stiff hat with a broad brim and high full crown just a trifle battered in the rear. His features were large and his bushy gray eyebrows almost hid a pair of dull gray eyes. His nose is large and dotted all over with blackheads. Besides he wore a heavy gray beard that spread out in all directions and gave him the appearance of a man at least 60 years. He wore very plain dark clothes, James Laughtin the Noted Informer,

After he had sworn to his voucher produced a blue envelope and asked the notary to address it for him. The address he gave was "Paymaster General, Dublin Castle, Ireland." When this was done he When this was done he started out. "Why is that old man writing to Dublin istle?" was asked of the notary. "He has just made affidavit," was the re-Castle?"

ply, "to having worked diligently for the past three months on matters assigned to him. He signed the voucher James Laughlin,' and said he was a member of the con-stabulary force of the Queen in Ireland."

A hasty trip was at once made to the post-flice where James Laughlin, the Irish constable, was mailing his letter. He was followed to various places downtown and then disappeared into Schmidt's liquor store on Fifth avenue. All trace of was lost there. It is not known whether he was disguised and made a hasty change in there, but in some way he vanished into t'ain air.

Yesterday these facts were laid before Col. Felix McKnight of the Board of Erin. He said he had information that 20 of these secret agents were at work in the large secret agents were at work in the large cities of America, but this was the first time he knew of the presence of one here. When the name Jones Laughlin was men-tioned to him and a general description given of his build Mr. McKnight said he knew the man's record and had heard of him but did net beau here in America him, but did not know he was in America before. Said Colonel McKnight:

Wanted to Lynch Him in Ireland. "James Laughlin is a name well known to the workers for Irish liberty. He was an inormer there, and several ars ago he pave ip some important secrets of the Land eague to the Government. The feeling as so hot against him that the English au-horities had to hurry him away to save him from being lynched. He may have been working for the Government then, and now there is certainly no doubt about it. I will to all I can to find the man."

Mr. McKnight was then given a fuller decription of Laughlin, and at once declared ac had seen him. He said: "I believe that man is one who is playing the peddler. I have seen him several times. He goes by another name, but he is an Irishman, and the description fits him exactly. I do not know that he belongs to our order, but he may to some of the others. I believe I will be able to locate this spy within a week.

The Board of Erin of Allegheny county held its regular meeting yesterday in K. of L. hall and elected the following new officers: Thomas Farnon, of McKeesport, County Delegate; Patrick Connen, Pitts-burg, County Secretary; Edward Wallace, McKeesport, Assistant Secretary; John Rowan, Frankstown, Treasurer. There were over 200 members present.

AT THE OPEN DOOR.

A Plan to Carry the Gospel to the Massesservices to Be Held in Tents Throughout the City-Reaching the Hopeless and Thoughtiess.

The Open Door Mission of this city is making extensive preparations to further its work. About the middle of June a large ent will be erected some place in the city ret to be named. Open air meetings will be ield during the summer evenings. The ent will be 40x60 feet, and will have a canacity for the seating of 300 people. It is he purpose of the mission to move the tent rom place to place in the city at intervals it ten days. The cost of running the tent will amount to about $75 per week. It will be under he management of Rev. I. M. Houser, of Brushton, who will employ evangelists and nusic whenever they can be secured. The plan of the meeting is non-sectarian and lesigned to employ the working elements of the Church's congregation. The present Open Door Mission service ield on Fourth avenue, between Market and Ferry, has been successful in reaching the despondent, the discouraged and the noneyless, who were men of prominence, and who he intemporte babits babits have group and who by intemperate habits have gone lown and down until they have lost all tope. The tent work is designed to reach the veli-to-do middle class, who thoughtlessly seglect religious matters and who are not ached by the ordinary methods employed n the churches. Ministers of all congregatons who may be convenient will mested to join in the work. There has een no money pledged for the work of the stensive religious campaign, but work of o much merit will modestly command the tention of aggressive Pittsburg Chris-ians. Last night the first open air meeting as held in front of the little mission on ourth avenue.
