MUST REBUILD THE BLOCK. Discovery of a Peculiar Coclell to the Will of David Gregg.

An ecclell to the will of the late David Gregg was filed with Register Count yesterday for probate. It is written on a leaf of a ledger kept by Mr. Gregg, and is followed closely by numerous other entries. The page was cut out and filed as a coclell. It is as follows:

It is hereby instructed my executors to charge David Gregg Metheny with loss of the burnt building that was burned on December 12, 1887, and by the ecclell he charges the cost of rebuilding to Mr. Metheny, his grandson, who inherited the same. The cost of rebuilding was $32,000, which Mr. Metheny will have to pay before he gets the property.

ONE THOUSAND A DAY.

Samuel F. Ream Asks for Damages for Three Days' Incarceration IN A DUNGRON IN THE WORKHOUSE.

A Penalty for Misbehavior That Ran Into a Second Term.

THE CONSTITUTION AND A KEEPER

Three thousand dollars in cold United States currency is the amount that Samuel F. Ream, a river man, thinks he is entitled to to compensate him for the alleged ill-treatment he was subjected to at the hands of H. R. Haley, a former keeper, while an inmate of the Allegheny workhouse. To recover this sum he has brought suit in the Court of Common Pleas, No. 1.

According to Ream's story, some time during the fall of last year he was sent to the Allegheny workhouse, and while an inmate of that asylum he became rather unruly. To punish him for his misbehavior it was ordered by the officers in charge that he be confined in the "white house," which is the name for a dungeon in the workhouse. This so-called "white house" was not the most pleasant place in the world, and, literally speaking, was a prison within a prison.

When confined there on account of his prisoner generally behaved himself afterward so long as he was an inmate of the institution. Ream's offense was something out of the ordinary and when it was ordered he be sent to the "white house" his term was for no inconsiderable period.

Had to Serve His Full Term. A strange feature in the case, however, was that his time in the workhouse expired three days before his sentence. In the "white house" had been fulfilled, but, according to the laws of the Commonwealth, a prisoner could not be held in the reformatory, jail or similar place of confinement beyond the time of his original sentence so the warden was obliged to allow Ream to go a free man without being able to compel him to serve the remaining three days in the "white house."

On January 20 last Ream was arrested for disorderly conduct on the street, but when brought before an alderman the next morning he could not give any good reason why he had committed an offense against the city's laws nor could he pay the fine from the small amount of money in his pocket. Accordingly he was sent to the workhouse, where, it is alleged, that H. R. Haley, one of the keepers was overjoyed to see him.

Making Good His Lost Time. Ream claims that this particular keeper "had it in for him," and no sooner had he reached the inside of the dismal walls than he was harshly escorted to the "white house," in which he was thrown to make good the three days he had lost, or, gained, on his last visit to the institution.

Ream was not greatly pleased with the distinction shown him by Haley; in fact, he was a very mad man, and when he again obtained his freedom he repaired to Attorney Fort's office, where he cited the full circumstances of the case. The attorney held that the treatment he received was unconstitutional, whereupon Ream told the attorney to enter suit against Haley for $3,000 damages, being $1,000 for each day he spent in the "white house" during his last term.

MURDERED BY MASKED MEN. The Three Assassins Demanded a Supper Which Was Refused by Their Victim.

NOFOLK, Va., June 8.—[Special.]—A very cowardly murder was committed at Rice Cove, Scott county, last night, about 11 o'clock. Three unknown masked men went to the house of Berry Starnes and asked for supper, which was refused by Starnes, who shut the door in the unknown men's faces. That the men threatened that they would break the door down if he did not open it and give them supper. Starnes asked them not to break his door down.

With that reply to their threat, the masked men broke down the door and got in just in time to see Starnes going out of the back door. They pursued him a short distance up the road, but they did not catch him all three shot and their victims fell, only to live a few hours. A posse was organized and are in pursuit of the murderers.

Dedication of a Baptist Church. The Central Baptist Church congregation will dedicate their house of worship on Lawson street, this evening, June 9, at 8 o'clock. This congregation of colored people have worked hard. In less than a year they have purchased a site for $1,000 and have erected a building worth $3,000. The building is partly paid for and an earnest effort is being made to wipe out the debt. Contributions are solicited by the Rev. J. H. Pryor, of No. 8 Lawson street.

GOING AT IT RIGHTLY. People Wiser Than They Were a Score of Years Ago.

How Mistakes of the Past Are Now Avoided.—Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth, Gave to the World a Remedy That Makes the Blood Pure and the Nerves Strong.—Why the Best Physicians Advise Its Use.

There is a great deal of talk about purifying the blood. There was a time not many years ago when people thought that the simple purifying of the blood was all that was necessary, but the world has advanced. Physicians tell us that first of all the nervous system, which is nearer life than anything else, must be preserved in order to retain health and lengthen life. This is common sense as well as science.

The remedy that physicians now prescribe to strengthen the nerves, as well as purify the blood, is Pain's celery compound, the prescription that made the fame of Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college.

Patients who are weak and weary, sleepless and despondent or dyspeptic, have been advised so often to use Pain's celery compound to ward off disease and dependency that it has come to be known everywhere, by the public as well as the medical profession and the druggists, as a specific in success.

At this season, when the warm weather is causing a debilitated effect, resulting in headaches, indigestion and languor, Pain's celery compound should be used. It makes people well. It gives health, happiness and long life.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

A QUIET TIP.

NOW, SEE HERE!

THERE is only just one thing I have to say to you, he remarked. I don't believe in keeping a good thing to myself; that's not my style. I was looking for a suit, and after spending half a day in the different stores I stopped at Jackson's.

IS that all? Well, no, there's no use making a long story of it. I just hit it right. It isn't easy to astonish me, but they did. They sold me one of their own make Worsteds Suits for $15. I never saw the like before for that money or $5 more. A suit to order could fit no better nor could it be made in finer style; besides, they gave me this. I've scarcely looked at it. Why, it's a guarantee that they will keep this suit in repair free of charge for me for one year!

POINTER! I should say it is a good one, indeed, worth knowing. Yes, they do that with every suit costing $10 or more. "What a snapp!"

FOR a bachelor that has no one to mend his clothes for him, just the thing. How on earth they can do it I don't know; that's their business, not mine.

YOU know a good thing when you see it. I don't quote Scripture very often, but I will this time. "Go sure and let them give you the guarantee stamped at the desk."
