Unwise and Unjust Not to OPEN THE BIG FAIR ON SUNDAY.

Annual Conference of the Pittsburg Episcopal Diocese.

NOMINATIONS MADE FOR OFFICERS

Bishop Whitehead gave publicity to his Views on the Sunday question yesterday at the annual Conference of the Pittsburg Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church, being held in Trinity Church,

Bishop Whitehead, in his address, read statistics showing the following increase of the diocese in the last five years: Increase in elergy, 24; parishes, 27; missions, 45; communicants, 5,000; Sunday school teachers, 195; Sanday school pupils, 2,528; parish churches, 5; mission churches, 1, and the work in which he had participated in, East End, this evening, when three young as follows: Services, 2,328; sermons men, graduates of the Theological Seminary and churches built, 54. He then said: Much to my surprise, I find myself in a tery small minority among those who have expressed their views on the matter of the opening of the Columbian Exposition on Sunday, but lest this should reflect upon the Sunday, but lest this should reflect upon the interests of the church and of church people in this community, and in order that you who have the right to understand my position may have it clearly stated. I must claim your attention to this point for a few

Calls It a Little Short of Fanaticism. My position is perfectly clear and my proposed plan eminently practical. It seems to me little short of faunticism to close the gates of more than 100 neres of that beaugates of more than 100 acres of that beautiful territory which is to be devoted to the uses of the Exposition simply because of the Exposition simply because of the rallying cry that we will otherwise bring in the continental Sunday, for Chicago has the continental Sunday afready. So have St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco. You are virtually consigning the people to it by keeping them out of the Exposition grounds. Moreover, locking the gates simply means that the multitode shall be excluded and the select lew permitted to use the Exposition for their own defectation as much as they choose. I have seen some persons, and have heard of many others, who, during the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia, being connected with those who had goods on exhibition or with those who had goods on exhibition or with those who were officially conceined in the management, took advantage of the Sanday to inspect the exhibits at their leisure, and openly expressed their delight at being able to see everything without the pressure of the crowd. That same thing will happen again, no doubt, if the gates are closed at Chicago. Let us petition the management not to make Sunday a gala day, not to lower the price of admission and at the same time to close if possible whatever parts will require the attendance and labor of large numbers of persons. That is to say, make the attraction or Sunday. Less compiler than on other titul territory which is to be devoted to the possible whatever parts will require the attendance and labor of large numbers of persons. That is to say, make the attraction on Sunday less complete than on other days. That will still leave the Agricultural buildings, Art galleries and other elevating and helptul portions of the Exposition open to inspection and at the same time there will be no premium on Sunday attendance. There will be inudreds of thousands of people in Chicago over Sunday. They will need to be ted and the restaurants will be open. They will need to be kept in order and large numbers of police will be on duty. They will have to be amused and occupied in some way.

The Saloons Will Be Open The saloons will be in full blast, th theaters and concert mails will have the performances, as they do now in Chicago every Sunday. Where shall these peor spend their days? I believe it will be f ore in accordance with the spirit of Chri ed Christianity if we say to them: "Com this brautiful inclosure where, at least is influences will be beneficial; look arth cautiful things that God has made and the conderful things man has done; spend you line not in close saloons or concert hall out under the blue heaven or these fir but under the blue heaven or these fine buildings." This concentration would diminish the number of police needed. Restaurants within the grounds would be open instead of those scattered through the city. Concert hulls and theaters would be less numerously attended. Then having the people collected in a certain limited space you have them more in your power for the furtherance of that very gospel in whose behalf such loud champr ins a frisen that the mates of the Exposition should be cosed. Here is the chance to "reach the masses." Why not have stands provided by the united effort of Christian people who desire it for the distribution of tracts. New Testaments, Rules and prayer books? Why not at a vertal points have platforms for preaching and music during the atternoon and evening? Would it not be possible for each denominauld it not be possible for each denoming to do its best in this regard and make up he Sunday opening for the furtheranc he cause which they have at heart. On is per cetty evident. We cannot make it is per edity evident, we cannot make people got to church, and if the gates are sed we simply, in the name of religion, no all those multitudes: "Go back into attever vite precincts or injurious neighthoods you may choose patronize the same and theaters if you will, but you shall toome here."

In Honor of the Savior.

If we open the gates we do it in the name of Him who walked through the corn fields then the Sabbath. I believe we shall be honoring the Master more if after the morning hour of divine servthe morning hour of divine servthe morning hour of divine servtee on the Lord's Day (say I o'clock) we do all we can to elevate the Lord's brethren instead of consigning them to influences which are certainly doubtun, and probably demornlizing. I have little parience with the short-sightedness which favors turning the key in the lock and virtually colling the people to go to destruction. I am an advocate of using the Lord's Day-it so it can be arranged—for the furtherance of truth and righteonssess.

Dr Randail Davidson, Bishopof Rochester, in addressing the Upper House of the Convocation of Canterbury, said with reference to the opening of public libraries, museums and art galleries on Sunday: "One is likely to be misunderstood and misrepresented even by good men if one admits that there are two sides to such a question. I carneatly trust, however, that I have not said a word' which will lead anyone to think less sacredly of the divine gift of the day of rest and warshin and of the sole an duty of guarding it," I may well take these words for my own.

Neverbalex I majutain that our guard. Nevertheless, I maintain that our guardshould be an intelligent one, and astip should be an intengent one, and at in the choice of two evils we should be the lesser one. The question with all difficulties bears a very different aspect a Western city like Chicago from that lich it would present in New York or

Considering a Mission Fund Deficit,

Three full hours of the afternoon session were consumed in considering a deficit in the fund for the Board of Missions, and how the convention could raise $1,500 which the Treasurer, Mr. H. L. Foster, had advanced the Board during the year. It seemed like a grievous problem and was not yet solved when the convention adjourned at 5:45, Shortly after the opening of the session the report of the Secretary of the Missio Board was read. It showed that about 37 new churches had been established during the year, and all are in a flourishing condi-tion. There had been some difficulty experienced in the matter of quarterly assess-ments, and the Secretary recommended that the churches be required to forward their money at the first of July, October, January and April of each year. The report of the Treasurer, H. L. Foster, showed that the receipts from parishes and missions ap-plicable to the sum of $6,500 as appro-priated by the convention last year for mission work, was but $4,650 58, while the amount used was $6,426 35, leaving the hoard indelsted to Mr. Foster for $1,549 42. A personal collection was taken up and $250 was raised. Here it stopped and

Greatly Admired,

The 15,000 people who visited Kensington on Monday were loud in their praises of the beauty and location of the new city. Many took advantage of the opportunity and made purchases of lots. Sales are going on daily. An immediate investment means that the amount will soon double. Go and see Kensington. Tickets furnished free at office, No. 79 Fourth avenue, Pittsburg, Pa.

T isn't too much to pay $35 or $40 for certain very high qualities of Made-to-Measure Clothing-not a bit too much. But you don't want to pay that much for goods that we make up for $20 and $25-be they ever so handsome. The best of it is, our styles are the new styles. You know what a difference that makes. Money returned if you're not satisfied. MORAL: First see what we're doing, then-
