The Local Summer Concert Season

A HINT FOR SOME BRIGHT MANAGER Arrangements of Musical Fervices in Pittsburg Churches.

Has Been Inaugurated.

The regular musical season being past, 'summer night" music is now in order. Not by Mendelssohn, however. Pittsburg gets no such programmes during the dog MME. M. YALE'S COMPLEXION REMEDIES days as those Mr. Seidl has given at Brighton Beach, or the lighter but high class orchestral music so well played at similar concerts in most of the large cities. The instrumental forces for such programmes are not at our command, even if all other favorable conditions were present. So we must make the best of what we can

That includes this summer two series of suitably informal concerts, followed by dancing. One series is given by the Great Western Band, augmented to 40 men, at the Cycloroma Auditorium, Allegheny. It was begun successfully last Friday evening and will continue every Monday and Friday until further notice. Considerable sums have been expended, it is said, in fitting up the hall and the adjoining "park" under the same roof. same roof. The other series is Mr. William Guenther's six "summer night festivals" at Silver Lake Grove, East End. These will begin next Thursday evening, and be repeated hiweekly on the the same night of the week. The music will be by a small orchestra, "Maritana" overture and selections by Offenbach, DeKoven, Wiegand and others. Miss Celestia McDonald, the contraito lately from Boston, will sing the cavatina from Rossini's "Tancredi."

In both of these enterprises there crops out again the curious idea that music on summer nights must invariably be followed by dancing. It is an idea wholly peculiar to Pittsburg managers. Other large cities, where such concerts are exceedingly popuwhere such concerts are exceedingly popular, prefer on those occasions especially to take their "hops" in cool, liquid form. But even if our judges will not license Gambrinus as music's summer night assistant, it is not necessary to call in the aid of panting, perspiring Terpsichore. What's the matter with Hebe and her innocuous nectar?

Seriously, though, summer night promenade concerts have never been given a fair trial in this community. The dancing tail has always wagged the musical dog. Because you cannot have dancing at such places without attempting or pretending to draw lines of social exclusions, which prevents the affairs from standing on the proper basis as simple, public concerts. The result is not satisfactory from any standpoint; neither social nor musical success can be had to any marked degree in such can be had to any marked degree in such hybrid entertainments.

Someday a bright manager will see that a comparatively slight expenditure on one of the Exposition buildings and the surround-ing grounds and river front would provide just the place for a summer season of low-priced orchestra or band concerts with appropriate accessories in the way of "soft" refreshments and promenades under cover and al fresco. Then everyone will wonder why Pittsburg so long lagged behind the times in the matter of providing such delightful source of enjoyment and recreation for all respectable people, whether "socially

Hot Weather Church Music, Church music is another branch that always with us. Nowadays Calvary P. E. Nowadays Calvary P. E. evening. Mr. Carl Retter, the organist and choir master, led the forces, comprising a solo-quartette and chorus of 24 voices, with a number of 24 voices, with a number of stringed instruments and French horns to round out the organ accompaniment. The spacious church was filled, though admission was only by invitation in order to assure room for the many members of the congregation that had been literally crowded out on the first performance of the Mass, a few Sundays before.

And now it is announced that Calvary will open its hospitable doors again to the lovers of sacred music next Sunday after-noon (the 19th inst.), when a special festi-val service will be given by Mr. Henry L. Ringwalt and his well-known independent choir, assisted by Miss Irene L. Sample, Miss Sarah C. Vogel, Mr. Edward Edstrom, Mr. Edward H. Dermit and the Gernert Orchestra. This service will be composed of a number of hymns, suthems and canticles specially selected and adapted by Mr. Ringwalt to cover the whole church calendar as commemorating the life of Christ. It will be of unique interest to churchmen as well as to music lovers generally.

Changes Proposed by the Pope, In this connection it is pertinent to call attention to the significant efforts now making by the Pope to secure a betterment of the musical services of that great com-munion. The London Figure says: "The recent circular of the Pope, was it is poser, and which obviously more particularly referred to here. At any rate, a code of rules will shortly be drawn up by the Vatican, and the opinions of eminent musicians of all countries have been sought upon the questions: (1.) What special and definite instructions should be promulated to determine the kind of music gated at the first concert, and it will be improved before Friday. In this garden a cool and comfortable seat can be found. The attendance is kept very select and great care is being exercised to exclude underlying the control of the self-way. music its proper character, and also to prevent any changes taking place in the nature and order of the religious services through the music? (3.) Whether it would be advisable to propose a code of rules for sacred music as a universal guide to the whole Church? English musi-cians, it is understood, have not been consulted in the matter, partly because none of our most eminens musicians are members of the Roman Catholic faith. This, music. The "Missa Pape Marcelli" was composed in 1565 by Palestrina as the authorized pattern for the church music of that period (certain vicious schools of composition having been condemned by the Council of Trent), and it was dedicated, though after the Pontiff's death, to Pope Marcellus IL."

The attempt of Sir Augustus Harris to mitate at the Covent Garden Theater the imitate at the Covent Garden Theater the effects obtained at the Bayreuth Opera House was scarcely successful. On Thursday "Siegfried" was produced. Immediately after the prelude, the lights were turned out and the house was thrown into almost perfect darkness. This occasioned some grumbling on the part of the audience, who of course found it impossible to read their libretti. The lights in the orehestra interfered with the view of the stage. For some time after the performance began a ray of fered with the view of the stage. For some time after the performance began a ray of light streamed into the gallery and upon the top of the great chandelier, marring the effect. The bandsmen were grouped around the conductor, who stood throughout the evening in the center of the orchestra. He also gave cues to the artists.

HIGH SCHOOL CHANGES.

Two Propositions as to Examinations to Come Before the Central Board-Talk From the Schools-Exhibitions of Drawing Done by Pupils.

A few months ago the Central Board of Education, on motion of Dr. Kearns, who contended that the present plan of having pupils undergo a written examination was injurious to the health of pupils, appointed a committee of eight to report on the advisability of changing the present plan and a better method, if there is one. After getting the rules employed in other cities, the committee had several futile meetings. A circular has been issued to the elergy by the Austrian aristocracy urging them to injurious to the pupil, but of value to secure uniformity of work in the schools. The minority report states that from statistics gathered from 17 of the larger cities of the country show that only in four of these cities are pupils admitted to High School without examination with class record and judgment of principal and teacher, but in both cases the teacher making the record and indgment of principal and teacher, but in both cases the teacher making the record and indigment of principal and teacher, but in both cases the teacher making the record and the principal approving it are agents of the board which elected them. The minority plan which will be presented to the Central Board next Tuesday evening is as follows:

First—That the present plan of reporting the percentages of the applicants for admission to the High School, and of the schools from which they come, shall be abandoned, and that the principal of the High School faculty shall conduct said examinations of the successful applicants. The manuscripts of the unsuccessful applicants may be seen by either the principal or the assistant principal of the school to which they belong, during the school to which they belong, during the school to which they belong during the first week in September, in the principal or the faculty, the classes from two or more adjacent districts may be seen by either the principal of the High School or of some one of the faculty named by him.

Second—That the High School to the faculty is made as a sub-district buildings to which they way be assigned. A formal certificate is provided to be indorsed by the members of the Central Board of Education as to the residence of candidates.

The Treachers Institute sometime ago de-clared in favor of no examination in either ward or form ward to High School. More Exhibits of Drawing.

Mrs. Van Waggonen, supervisor of draw-ing, received a compliment a few days ago. when to her surprise a training at Chicago requested her to send a drawing exhibit there from the Pittsburg art schools. Our city must be making a reputation in this line, as this will make the fourth educational gathering that school art will find a place, at the National Teachers' Association, at Saratoga, N. Y., Glen Falls, N. Y., (as a summer training school for teachers) at the State Teachers' Association, Beaver Falls and Chicago. On account of the great demand for Pittsburg work, the exhibit at Glenn Falls and Chicago cannot be such an extended one as at the larger educational gatherings, owing to their later requests.

TIS NOT BY LUCK.

The Rule That Governs Things In the City of Pittsburg SUCCESSFUL MEN ARE AGREED.

Recent Failures. THE PART THAT WOMEN HAVE PLAYED

Low-Spiritedness the Prime Cause of Many

Successful men all agree that things do not go by luck, but by law. The wealth of Pittsburg's "prominent citizens" has not been gained by chance, but has resulted from causes, and ministers and physicians have worn out the maxim that the first wealth is health. Sickness is low-spiritedness, and that never succeeds. When Dr. Grosvenor's famous Bell-cap-sic plasters were first put upon sale in the drug stores, it was done upon the solicitation of some of the most eminent physicians in this and other large cities, who had long used and prescribed them for one simple reason— that they acted by absorption directly upon the circulatory system, removing the causes the circulatory system, removing the circulatory system, removing the peculiar medicinal qualities of this standard plaster had long been recognized by the medical profession as affording not only speedy but permanent relief from rheumatism, neuralzia and kindred troubles, and as especially valuable for the quick and lasting relief of the backaches and sideaches with which so many women areas to think they must be afflicted. and sideaches with which so many women seem to think they must be afflicted.

Women are not by necessity sufferers, especially now that these best of plasters are within their reach. A Beli-cap-sic plaster costs only a quarter of a dollar; and there is no good excuse for any family being without one or more of them in the house. As a well-known physician of this city has aptly put it, no home is complete without one.

Bell-cap-sic plasters relieve pain. They are a common senso remedy. They cure rheumatism. They have made life worth living for scores of women in Pittsburg. They are worth a thousand doses of harmful medicines taken into one's innocens atomach in the hopes of curing a backache. Try one, and when you buy a Bell-cap-sic plaster be sure it is genuine; it is so if there is a picture of a bell on the back-cloth.
