

GROVER'S CHANCES.

Can He Be Elected If Nominated, the Prevailing Question.

ATTITUDE OF THE ALLIANCE.

What May Be Expected From the South at the Convention.

MUGWUMPS PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART

(FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

CHICAGO, June 14.—While the first question is, will Cleveland be nominated, an answer to which will be only an opinion, the personal and political situation requires to be cleared up at this moment. The two parties are both ambitious. The Republicans have been unable to extricate themselves from the pressure of the Presidential office, and it has nine months of favors yet to come. The popular favorite has again been set aside, and many thousands of them are waiting upon the Democracy.

It may be said that, as Blaine in 1884 caused Cleveland's creation by the mutiny which followed his defeat of Arthur, so Blaine's defeat this year is apparently the hope of Cleveland. The ex-President is not so repulsive to Republicans that they are not willing to make the same inquest upon him as will be made upon Harrison before the public mind settles down and determines upon its choice. The questions, therefore, are: "Can Cleveland be elected?" and "Will he be nominated?" It includes the question of "What will he do with his patronage?" Will a large share of it go this time to Mugwumps and will the Democracy get even less than before?

Mugwumps in the Democratic Rank. The Mugwumps have to a large extent entered the Democratic party, but remain numerous to its State and local ticket. Ambitious men among them will hardly be content to support Cleveland, again without official resignation. When first elected there was a Mugwump division in New York, professed by the late Governor Schurz and his associates in the State. Schurz had no paper nor any fortune to buy one, acquiring it through the aid of his attorney. His content and talent were best served in office, but a protest was filed by his associates, and he was obliged to resign, asking for office or taking it. Friends of Schurz went to Mr. Cleveland and protested against this violation of the trust which he and others have been of possession nearly eight years, and he has drifted about from foreign travel, becoming agent, and is now at sea more than ever.

There is Mr. Curtis, also, who had the public faith in a strong man, and who, like Lowell or Phelps, and he is still writing. Charles Lamb essays perfunctorily his glorious day, but he is not a man of letters, and the Secretary of State, nor even Civil Service Commissioner. The Mugwumps have mainly been in Cleveland's cabinet, and credit, and the Democracy must expect in case of his nomination that favors will be bestowed on them, thus lessening the great number of remunerative honors-offices.

In the Same Fix as the Republicans Were. The Democracy is now compelled to move forward and to announce the position of the Republican party at the close of the Civil War, when the tariff issue had not been raised, and the acceptance, both in fact and in spirit, of the constitutional amendments constituted Republicanism. To a large extent the great Republican divisions, Lincoln and Grant, have become Democratic parties, and the latter division of opinion at least in the North as to their merits and policy.

The Republican party has divided up on the subject of compelling the blacks in the South to be counted and have their civil rights. At the convention at Minneapolis no equal welcome was let for the colored delegates as had been let in former conventions. The black speakers in general represented the offices more than the education and progress of their race. They were in a large part arrayed upon the side of the official power, and their white leaders, like Cleveland at the convention at Minneapolis, but, except in the Northern States, the colored vote will not figure in the result. The black vote is large enough in several States in the North, like Indiana and perhaps Ohio, to determine an election there.

Cleveland's Nomination Means Hari Kari. The nomination of Cleveland means Hari Kari to a swarm of local great men in the late slave States. He is the incarnation of the Yankee with a Connecticut corruption upon him and not like Harrison, larded with strokes from the first families of Virginia. Hence the Democrats in general have moved up twenty years and the long contention of the solid South has disaffected the Democratic party. The attitude there is, unable to get rid of prejudices, has pinned for some other kind of hero than those about shaking hands and kissing the babies.

As the North has gotten over the ascription of war, the South has gotten over homage and worship. During the Minnesota recon and the bulldozer. How to bring the Democratic party to the front of the South. How to get a Democratic President who is not a Yankee in the countenance before the Congress and the office seeker from those parts. It strangely happens that Harrison, while hardly sufficient to Northern callers, should have claims as particularly genial and soft to the Confederate element. Mon like General Roberts of Alabama, liked Harrison when he was in the Senate and with their daughters go to his state dinners. But the South can do Harrison no good, and yet a large proportion of the Southern politicians at Washington fare better under Harrison than they do under Cleveland. His officeholders are in the main a modified type of the old carpet-bagger and scoundrel. Warmth, who has killed his man in an ally and thereby won consideration in New Orleans, represents Cleveland in the convention and is the collector of the Fort while Kellogg is for Blaine.

Where the Alliance Comes In. The Alliance in the South is a subject of annoyance and threatens the dissolution of that solid section. During the Minneapolis Convention Polk died, who was its chief organizer, but there is a certain ossified and cool determination about the pro-Union and pro-Grant men in the South, which is notably seen in South Carolina. The Alliance which commenced the war and which has passed into the hands of the Alliance, turning down Wade Hampton and General Haswell, and threatening the one-legged Butler himself.

No more is Calhoun even a silent force in the South. Nothing exists upon which he sought to legislate. The war element continues in place, the likes of Generals Lee, Gordon and Walthall and others almost obscure in the lapse of time, but several of these have had to give in their admission to the Alliance. The losing of one or two or three Southern States would break the hearts of that Democracy, which has been triumphant by the presence of the negro.

Then does one hear in Washington City in the next election will be thrown into the House of Representatives. But those who say thus must then pause and wonder whether the same Cleveland would not fall in their hands, for as the States must say they will support Cleveland, and the ancient Constitution wrecks its revenge upon the various empire States, South and North and West. The North has had to pass through its throes of agony and mortification at seeing old secessionists in formal missions, consulates and in the great dignitaries at Washington.

Another Convention Is to Come. We are to remember that after those two conventions are over another convention is to be held, and how many of the irresolute, the unsettled and the disappointed will take advantage of a possible situation to cut into both the old parties, striking them at once in the North and in the South.

50,000 Republican Majority and to-day has the State and its Executive stronghold.

In the railroad question in Pennsylvania he probably stands on the side which is the most numerous without regard to party. He cannot be said to be a man of ability, for the financial officer of Philadelphia his career was scientific and triumphant. He understands accounts, an Alexander Hamilton boasted, from common bookkeeping up to banking.

Candidates From the West. Then there is Hoies, of Iowa, who Mr. Allison told me was the best man for the Democrats to nominate as far as Iowa went. The point made against him by the Bourbon Democrats is that he was not long ago in the Republican party. So was almost everybody in the North. The sacrifice of a candidate here because he was not a Democrat in the time of Lincoln and Grant will not be propitious upon the Democratic horse.

There is Gray, of Indiana, who also was a Republican until about 1873, his proposition is to beat Harrison in Indiana by wiping out the favorite son monopoly. There is Whitney in New York. There is Flower mentioned here in Chicago as a peace-making candidate and so on, and so on. There is Russell in Massachusetts, who has taken the name of a Republican, but has not abandoned his personal intellect and activity re-elected himself.

The German proposition from Maryland has been put to this time in a full form delegation to Chicago, which is favorable regarding Cleveland, and is now in New York City, and in part of the West.

Cleveland's Lieutenants at Work. There is Campbell in Ohio, who carried the State and is still young and with remarkable resources as a debater on the stump. He, too, comes of Republican family, but the Bourbons must drink the hemlock in any event. There is General Palmer, of Illinois, who is a Democrat-Republican for many years, and he has a strong following out here and a good hold among the agriculturists.

If those candidates would take warning by the Republican Convention at Minneapolis and elect the man in favor of some one Joseph, they could defeat Cleveland's two-thirds. But if each of them keeps on the leg to go over to Cleveland when he does not do so and none will concede to any other candidate, the result will be a new power, for Cleveland's great lieutenants here are among those who had his favor and some of his officers when he was Governor. Vlas and Dickinson and Endicott, the Mannings and Fairchild want the old ticket and the old constabulary. Governor Smith has a delegation about which there will be a contest, and he and that contest are two State organizations in New York, each threatening combustion and the danger to the other.

Draped in Mourning. The Senate and House Adjourn in Respect to Congressman Stackhouse. WASHINGTON, June 14.—The session in the Senate to-day was only long enough to receive a message from the House, announcing the death of one of its members, Mr. Stackhouse, of South Carolina, and to adopt resolutions (offered by Mr. Butler) of sorrow, and providing for a committee of five Senators to escort the body to its place of burial. The Senators so appointed were Butler, Kyle, White, Gallinger and Allen.

In the House the death of the late E. T. Stackhouse, of South Carolina, was heartily mourned, and its solemnity was the first intimation to many of the members that the death of their colleagues had passed away from this life. Mr. Tillman, of South Carolina, rising then to announce the death of his colleague to the House the death of his colleague General E. T. Stackhouse. His death was very sudden and unexpected. Only yesterday he answered the roll call in a cheerful spirit. Then complaining of the heat and of the atmosphere, he left the House at a proper time the South Carolina delegation would ask the House to set aside a day for its sympathy to the bereaved family. The House offered resolutions (which were unanimously adopted) expressive of the sorrow of the House and providing for a Committee of Members and Senators to take order in regard to the funeral. The speaker appointed the following committee on the part of the House: Messrs. Tillman, Lanham, Cate, Lewis, Smith, Jolley and Wang. The House then, as a mark of respect adjourned.

MIRIO WAR AT OMAHA.

Two Ohio Companies Are Among the Military Forces at the Camp. OMAHA, June 14.—The camp of the National Competitive Association has been named Camp Brook, in honor of the general commanding the Department of the Platte. The feature of the camp in the morning was the practice work of the signalmen of the Cincinnati Light Artillery, Privates Dunham and Fisher. Soon after guard mount, the Lima (O.) Guards came upon the camp for inspection. Under the rules of the camp each company must be inspected the morning of the day on which it drills.

The sham battle to-morrow is to be a realistic affair. The forces at the camp and the second battery from Fort Omaha will be divided in two sections, one of which will be based on the east side of the grounds and the other on the west side. One company on each side will be deployed as skirmishers and will open the battle. They will be reinforced by the main body of the troops, the heat of the battle occurring in the center of the field. The forces will be in reserve, one company on each side, and will turn the enemy's flank. During the action the artillery and Gatling guns will burn several hundred pounds of powder, and the sentry companies will fire several hundred blank cartridges.

Eyesight Saved

After Scarlet Fever, Diphtheria, Pneumonia and other prostrating diseases, Hood's Sarsaparilla is unequalled to thoroughly purify the blood and give needed strength. Read this: "My boy had Scarlet Fever when 4 years old, leaving him very weak and with blood poisoned with cancer. His eyes became inflamed, his sufferings were intense, and for weeks he could not open his eyes. I took him to the Eye and Ear Infirmary on Charles street, but their remedies failed to do the faintest shadow of good. I began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla which soon cured him. I know it saved his sight, if not his very life." ARNOLD F. BLACKMAN, 288 Washington St., Boston, Mass.
