

THE TO THE GREATEST MAN Will Be Supported at Chicago by the Forty-Six Delegates From Ohio. NEARLY AN EVEN BREAK In the State Convention Between Clevelandites and Antis. NEITHER SIDE TRUSTS A TEST. The Silver Question Left in the Hands of the Chicago Convention. A CHANGE IN THE DELEGATE SLATE

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.)

COLUMBUS, O., June 15.—The Ohio delegation at Chicago will contain about 20 pronounced Cleveland men, and the balance of the 46 will be for the strongest man, and if that be Cleveland he will get the entire delegation. There are few, if any, pronounced Hill men in the delegation. If Cleveland cannot be nominated they will be for a Western man.

The opponents of Cleveland in the convention today claim to have scored a victory, but there is nothing substantial to indicate that such is the case. In the few instances where the interests of the ex-President suffered it was because of a lack of attention on the part of his friends. Allen W. Thurman was defeated for delegate at large as a pronounced Cleveland man, but he had no personal following among the delegates, and his defeat can be attributed to the fact that he has been demonstrative and daring in his professions. Ex-Governor Campbell did all he could to pull Thurman through, and was ably assisted by Congressman Outwater, but they had a load which they were unable to carry.

No Cleveland-Hill Test Vote Taken.

There was no vote reached in the convention which served as an indication of the relative strength of the Cleveland and anti-Cleveland sentiment. It was at one time proposed to nominate Brice and Campbell by acclamation, but the Clevelandites secured notice that they undertook to do this he would openly oppose the same in the convention, and draw the line on the candidacy of Cleveland. A move of this kind was made, but ruled out of order by the chair, who understood the situation. If such a rule had been reached in the convention it would have been a fair test. Hurd was, however, defeated by Robert Blee, of Cayahoga, who made a personal canvass on the floor of the convention, and a majority of the votes he received were on personal grounds, the question of Presidential preference not entering into the contest.

Next to Cleveland the Ohio delegation will be for a candidate from this State, and both Senator Brice and Governor Campbell stand high in the estimation of the delegates chosen. Brice left for Chicago tonight to look after his personal matters, and Chairman of the National Committee, and Governor Campbell and the other delegates will go Saturday or Monday.

Routine of the Convention.

On calling the convention to order Chairman James A. Norton, of the Central Committee, referred to the minutes of the convention, which was the selection of delegates to Chicago, and which he said should be done with the greatest fairness. His mention of the names of Cleveland and Logan, who had enthusiastically declared as he reached the names of Hill, Whitney, Goran and others. When the speaker reached the name of Governor Campbell, in the list of Ohio candidates, the delegates assumed a wild scene of demonstration. The applause continued for several minutes, giving strong evidence that the ex-Governor had a big following in the convention.

How James F. Neal, Temporary Chairman of the convention, came from a sick room to preside, and was received with much favor. The address of Mr. Neal was a review of the party and State issues, with reference to the distinguished line of names proposed for the Presidential nomination. He was frequently applauded on his utterances. At the conclusion of his address the speaker reviewed the list of Presidential possibilities.

The names of Cleveland and Hill were received with equal favor by the convention. The name of Senator Brice was mentioned by both speakers with eulogy at the morning session, and received with much enthusiasm, along with the name of Campbell.

There being no contest of consequence except in one county (Logan) the voting authority was divided between the candidates. The report of the Committee on Rules and Order of Business placed the nomination of delegates at large last in the order. An effort was made to amend and place these nominations first, but the convention adopted the report of the committee, in the interest of holding the delegates together until all the business was transacted.

Platform of the Buckeye Democrats.

The Committee on Resolutions reported the platform, as follows: The Democracy of Ohio, in convention assembled, declares: First—That, confiding in the careful judgment of the Democratic National Convention, about to assemble in Chicago, we hereby pledge our earnest and cordial support to its nomination of President McKinley. Hoping to see glorious and lasting victory as the result of its intelligent action, we are opposed to all class legislation, and believe in a tariff levied for the sole purpose of producing a revenue sufficient to defray the legitimate expenses of the government, economically administered, and we protest against the policy of so-called protection illustrated by the McKinley bill, as exemplified by the Republican party, and in the interests of agriculture and labor we demand a reform in the tariff, and the reduction of unnecessary and burdensome taxation.

That in the high tariff recently imposed by certain European nations on American grain and American meat we recognize an effort on the part of the McKinley administration to strike a destructive blow at American agriculture by the McKinley law, and we demand of American agriculture we demand of Congress an immediate modification of our tariff law, such as will secure the admission of these agricultural products into the markets of these countries free from duty.

The Non-Committal Stipulation.

The Democratic party has always favored the use of both gold and silver as money, and restored to the people the silver dollar of our fathers which a Republican Congress demonetized in 1890. We demand that the Sherman act of 1890 be repealed, and that a law be passed, and we believe that both gold and silver should circulate as money with parity maintained, and with equal rights and equal value, we submit to the wisdom of the Democratic party, to assemble in National Convention, to declare the method by which that end may be reached.

The Hypocrisy of the Republican Party in the demand in the recent National Convention for the right of every citizen of the United States to cast one free and unregulated ballot, and to have it counted, we made most manifest by its almost uniform opposition to the adoption of the method of voting recently adopted in Ohio and most of the Northern States, and on the other hand, its advocacy, as an administrative measure, of the famous force bill, designed to suppress by violence the elective franchise in nearly one-half of the country.

We call the attention of the country to the deplorable fact, lately ascertained from Republican office sources of undoubted authority, that the success of that party at the last Presidential election was due to the expenditure of $1,000,000 in corrupting the ballot in the pivotal States, and not to the alleged beneficial results of a protective tariff, as claimed by the Republican leaders.

A Roast for the Legislature.

The seventieth General Assembly of Ohio, with its Republican majority of two-thirds in both branches, will go down in history as the most inefficient, incompetent and profligate of any Legislature ever chosen in Ohio. Its action in repealing and altering important and wholesome legislation, enacted by the present Congress, and by the Democratic Legislature which preceded it; in failing and refusing to pass important measures demanded by the people; in creating local indebtedness, aggregating more than $10,000,000, in creating additional public offices, and by increasing the salaries of certain state officers; in providing positions for favorites; in increasing the salaries of the members of the House of Representatives; in the selection of Representatives in the National Congress, and for other acts of malfeasance which should bring upon it the severest condemnation of the people of the State, and the interest of humanity and the welfare of our public institutions demand that the hand of the partisan shall be removed from the benevolent and charitable institutions of the State, and to the improvement of the present condition of the Democratic party hereby pledges its most earnest efforts. We favor liberal and just pensions to deserving and disabled soldiers and sailors who fought for the maintenance of the Government, and like pensions to their widows and orphans.

That the Federal Government, under the Democratic administration, was as wisely, economically and patriotically administered as to commend the party to the confidence and support of the American people, and by its course in the interests of good government, to return to power.

The Ticket and Delegates Named.

The temporary organization of the convention was made permanent, and the report of the Committee on Resolutions called for, but the committee was still out and the report was passed. The convention proceeded to the nomination of a State ticket. Colonel W. C. Frank, of Franklin County, was nominated for Secretary of State. Ex-Speaker N. K. Hysell, of Perry, was the other candidate before the convention. John P. Driggs, of Monroe County, was nominated for Supreme Judge, long term, by acclamation. Thomas Beer, of Crawford County, was nominated for Supreme Judge, short term. W. H. Wolfe, of Fairfield County, was nominated for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. James P. Seward, of Richland County, and H. S. Sternberger, of Miami County, were chosen by acclamation electors at large. The selection of delegates at large was reached, and was the interesting feature of the convention. The speakers were cheered, as well as the names whom they presented, as follows: A. W. Thurman, Franklin County; L. T. Neal, Ross; Calvin S. Brice, Allen; Robert Blee, Cayahoga; John A. McMahon, Montgomery; James E. Campbell, Butler. The first ballot resulted: Brice, 707; Campbell, 663; Neal, 432; Blee, 337; Thurman, 217; McMahon, 301; McMahon, 335; Blee, 335; Neal, 335; Campbell, 335; Brice, Campbell and Neal were declared nominated, and a second ballot was ordered for the fourth delegate. Before proceeding with the second ballot Thurman and McMahon withdrew their names, leaving Brice and Blee in the race. The ballot stood, Brice 333, and Hurd 343. Blee was declared the fourth delegate at large.

The National Committee met this afternoon and elected a temporary organization by the election of C. D. Critch, of Allen county, Chairman, Isaac R. Hill, Vice Chairman, and W. W. Sutton, of Ohio, Secretary. The committee adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman, after the National Convention has completed its labors. An executive committee and a chairman to manage their campaign will be selected at the first meeting.

A LONG FEUD FORGOTTEN.

The Two Democratic Factions in Louisiana Have Their Troubles Patched Up.

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—[Special.]—The Foster and McEnery Democratic Conventions, in session in Baton Rouge, at a late hour last night adopted resolutions in favor of harmony, and appointed a conference committee to arrange terms. The conference committee met this afternoon, and came to terms at once. According to the agreement the Foster State Central Committee is to be recognized as the regular one, and the McEnery members, elected in the several parishes and wards, are to be recognized as members of the committee. The 25 Foster members at large are to remain, and ten McEnery members at large are to be appointed. This will give the State administration an anti-lottery faction, a majority of the committee and enable it to control it.

It was also decided to divide the delegation to the Chicago Convention between the two factions, and also to divide the State tickets. A quarter was tossed up to decide to who should make the first selection of electors. In November at the Presidential election there is to be an entire reorganization of committees in each parish. The ends of the feud which has prevailed in the Democratic party in Louisiana for a year, which has already been patched up twice only to break again.

DICK QUAY FOR THE TICKET.

He Says It Is All Right and Is Sure to Be Elected.

HARRISBURG, June 15.—[Special.]—Ex-State Treasurer Boyer and Representative "Dick" Quay slipped quietly into the city this afternoon from Philadelphia. Immediately after their arrival they repaired to the rooms on Chestnut street, below Twentieth, formerly occupied by the ex-State Treasurer. They were soon joined by State Treasurer Morrison. The party dined at the Harrisburg Club at 6 o'clock, and then Mr. Quay took the Columbian express for his home in Beaver. Young Quay said the sole object of his visit was to tell Mr. Boyer about the Minneapolis Convention.

"How does the ticket suit you?" asked the reporter. "It is a good ticket, and we will elect it," was young Quay's response. He smiled and would say no more. Mr. Boyer said that he came to the city to get a good dinner. He will undoubtedly not return to Philadelphia until after the time fixed for the hearing in Butan's suit.

People's Party Nominates at Erie.

ERIE, June 15.—[Special.]—The Congressional conference of the People's party met at Union City and formally nominated L. A. Tucker, of Meadville, for Congress. The Erie conference selected the following delegates to the State Convention at Franklin, June 21: A. H. Louch, Erie; B. F. Spaulding, Albion; G. W. Ewer, Corry; and A. T. Marsh, of Erie. L. L. Luce was chosen delegate to the National People's party convention at Omaha, July 2. L. W. Olds, of Erie, signified his intention to attend also.

No Fusion in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, June 15.—It has been definitely announced by Marshal Campbell, chairman of the Minnesota Democratic State Central Committee, that there would be no fusion between the Democrats and Alliance men, either on electors or State officers. He says the Democrats have made a poll of the State, recently, and are so confident of getting a plurality, this fall, that they did not care to make any alliances.

Lewelling a gubernatorial Candidate.

WICHITA, KAN., June 15.—On the second ballot this evening O. D. Lewelling was nominated by the People's Party Convention for Governor. Lewelling came to Kansas in 1886 from Iowa, where he had served two terms as a Republican in the Iowa Legislature. He is now produce commission merchant of this place.

SALVATION RECRUITS. General Booth Sends Reinforcements to the Army in America. HIS FAVORITE SON IS COMING With His Wife to Push the Fight Against the Evil Hosts. A SOCIETY BELLE AIDING THE WORK

Commander Herbert Booth.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Ballington Booth, commander of the Salvation Army forces in America, yesterday received information from England that his father, General Booth, had decided to send another son, Commander Herbert H. Booth, to this country. The army is about to redouble its energies in this country, and as General Booth says, "pile on more fuel in America."

Commissioner Rees, of Canada, visited the National Board of the Salvation Army yesterday and said he was going back to England. It is not unlikely that the second son of General Booth to come to America will take charge of Canada and the lake States. Commander Herbert H. Booth is expected in this city in a week or ten days, and the Salvation Army forces are making extensive preparations to receive the distinguished newcomer. He is the favorite son of the General, and he wedded a young English woman of high standing in English society. Mrs. Booth is said to be very beautiful and wealthy. She is an accomplished musician. Ballington Booth said yesterday that Mr. Booth was one of the most accomplished women in all England. She is an excellent linguist and a skillful musician. She has composed both the words and the music of many beautiful songs.

Songs and Verses She Wrote.

One of them, written by Mrs. Herbert Booth to the air of the Miserere in "Il Trovatore," is sung by all denominations of church-going people in England. Here are a few simple verses:

Wealth of this world delighting, Are you my heart inviting? Richer am I than all you gathered gold. Farewell farewell! farewell! I've a treasure untold!

Fashion and culture charming, Are you my soul disarming? Richer adornment do I not procure? Farewell farewell! farewell! My robes are pure!

Pleasures of earth enticing, You have no joy sufficing; Gladness have I your toys can never bring. Farewell farewell! farewell! I'm the child of a king.

Mrs. Booth wrote the verses soon after leaving the social world of London, where, it is said, she was a reigning belle. Some of her other songs, for which she has composed both words and music, are "A Perfect Trust," "Walking on the Waves" and "Holy Spirit, Save Me, I Pray."

The General's Favorite Son.

Commander Herbert H. Booth is said to have been the favorite son of the General. It was he who gave the greater part of the assistance received in the General's scheme for social reform in London. He has spent all his life with his father. General Booth says in his communication telling of the transfer of Commander Herbert Booth to America: "For some time now the Commandant has been desirous of taking a foreign command. After long and prayerful consideration he communicated to me his feelings on the subject. At first I could not complete his absence from England, where he is so much needed, but the development in the organization of the home field, as well as the experience of his affairs which the commandant's success has given him, and the opportunity of acquiring, seemed to render the step practicable, and I have therefore agreed to it. The services rendered to the army in the country by his father, and the fact that he is well known and appreciated to require an extended notice from me. For years gone by—I might say from his childhood—he has been a willing slave to his service. What he could do in his behalf he has done, and what he has done he has done with his might. Early in season and out he has fought and prayed and played and sung to promote its interests, multiply its converts, inspire its soldiers and gain its ends. And he has done this, I believe, disinterestedly, desiring supremely the salvation of men and the glory of God.

"The change will necessitate further changes in England. Commissioner Howard will take charge of Great Britain, with the officers who have ably served the commandant to assist him; Field Commissioner Eva Booth will take Commissioner Howard's place, having the command of London and the Training Homes, with Major Richards as her second in command; Major Higgins will have special charge of the Training Homes.

Herbert Booth has had charge of the English forces of the army for some years. He took next to General Booth the most prominent part in the social reform scheme in London, and it is said that he will give his knowledge and experience in that work to New York.

MANY PASSENGERS INJURED.

A Bad Collision on the North Pennsylvania Railroad at Orland.

DOYLESTOWN, June 15.—The Doylestown express train collided with a shifting engine on the North Pennsylvania Railroad this morning at Orland. William Fenton, the engineer of the express, was killed. The fireman, Richard Hudson, was scalded, but not seriously. Oscar Barnett, of Doylestown, the baggage-master, was cut and badly scalded. He is not expected to live. Thomas McGill, express Uttered by Rev. Dr. Paxton at the Army of the Potomac Reunion—A Monument for Sherman—The Officers Chosen for the ensuing Year.

SCRANTON, June 15.—There are more men of titles than privates registered at the hotels to attend the Society of the Army of the Potomac reunion which began here today. General Butterfield presided at the business session, and Treasurer Truesdale's report of the year, showing a very small expenditure, was submitted. After the selection of Boston as the next place of meeting and amending the constitution so members of the army who acted in conjunction with the Army of the Potomac might be admitted as members, the election of officers occurred.

For President there were presented General Edwin S. Osborne, of Wilkesbarre, Pa.; General Horace Porter, General David McMurtre, Gregor, Auditor General of Pennsylvania; and General Calvin Pratt, of Brooklyn. The vote was: Porter, 76; Pratt, 19; Gregor, 17, and Osborne 15. Other officers elected were: Vice President, Brevet Major General E. J. Moineux, of the Ninth Army Corps; Secretary, General Horatio C. King, of Brooklyn; Corresponding Secretary, General G. H. Sharpe, of Kingston, N. Y.; Treasurer, Colonel Truesdale, of New York; and Rev. George W. Babcock, Lieutenant Colonel C. Fairbank, Signal Corps, elected Presidents as follows:

First, Major J. H. Stine, of Washington; Second, Colonel F. L. Hitchcock, of Scranton; Third, Colonel William L. Candler, Fifth, Colonel W. J. Smedding, Sixth, F. D. Butterfield, Ninth, Major James Wren; Eleventh, General J. L. Lockman; Twelfth, Brevet Major Edwin P. Gray, Thirteenth, Brevet Major General R. L. Moineux; Cavalry, Lieutenant Colonel C. Fairbank; Signal Corps, Lieutenant Colonel C. Fairbank.

On motion of General McMahon the presidents of the different corps were selected to secure funds to erect a monument in honor of General William T. Sherman. Major General E. J. Moineux, of the Ninth Army Corps, delivered a masterly address eulogistic of the Army of the Potomac. In the course of his remarks he said:

Some beneficiaries of our deeds seem to be that of soldiers and of the killed, the unions of armies and corps mean only one thing—a new raid on the Treasury for the support of the army. The Government had never paid one surviving soldier a pension; that every regiment was a beggar; that every soldier did not scrounge any paper of want from his superior or poor widow, and taxed the people for his support. We were not taxed health and blood and risked our lives to save this country. But all the same we were in the brave days of old, and we were disabled by disease contracted in the army, deserves his pension and shall have it if we will. We do not come together for pensions, but because we have lived and want to live again in the brave days of old. We are the sons of our fathers, we are the sons of our fathers, we are the sons of our fathers. We do not come together for pensions, but because we have lived and want to live again in the brave days of old. We are the sons of our fathers, we are the sons of our fathers, we are the sons of our fathers.

ONLY A WILD-EYED BUNION.

No Accident Occurred to the City of Pittsburgh—Reports Had Heavy Loss of Life on the Boat, From Various Causes—Gay Excursions.

Royal Arcanum Council 961, of Etina, gave an excursion down the Ohio river to East Liverpool yesterday on the steamer City of Pittsburgh. The boat left the Sharpburg bridge at 2 A. M. About 10 o'clock a heavy fog descended upon the river, and it was that the hurricane deck had given away, and killed a number and injured others. The excitement was intense for awhile. Fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers, and all say their friends on board of the boat were frantic.

Telegrams and telephone messages were sent to all points along the river, inquiring for the steamer. Reassuring replies were returned from different points, saying that the boat was safe. Later in the day, however, more rumors were circulated stating that the boilers of the boat had burst, killing many, and that the crowd had overturned by getting on one side. Again the excitement was intense and was increased by a telegram to a citizen stating that a friend of his had been injured and was lying in a critical condition at Rochester, and requesting him to come immediately and take charge of him.

Although the injured man had not been on the excursion the gossip soon had it so, and the relatives about town, about their friends, were ready to believe the word. Again the wires were appealed to, and answers came back that the boat was all right and everybody safe. The boat passed under the Fairview bridge at 1:30 and was on the Allegheny river to Herr's Island, where the boat ran aground and had to land the passengers on the island.

Not until the excursionists arrived at home and were clasped in the fond embrace of their friends would the anxious ones believe that their dear ones were really alive and safe. Great was the joy in the homes in Sharpburg and Etina when the excursion party arrived safe.

It is not known who started the false reports, but it is thought it was someone, name unknown, in East Liverpool, who telephoned the unfeeling message that created so much excitement about the boat. The excursionists numbered about 600, and unconscious of the anxiety of their friends had a splendid trip and enjoyed themselves hugely.

THE FIRST HARRISON CLUB.

Petersburg, Va., Now Claiming the Honor, With Telegraphic Proof.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—There has been some controversy as to where the first Harrison Club was organized after the nomination was made by the Minneapolis Convention. Colonel Brady, of Virginia, says the honor belongs to his home, the City of Petersburg, Va., and in support of his assertion furnishes this telegram, which was received the same day the President was renominated.

PETERSBURG, VA., June 10, Colonel James D. Brady, Minneapolis: The Harrison White Republican Campaign Club, of Petersburg, 99 strong, organized on the day you upon the success of the efforts culminating in the renomination of that distinguished American general, Benjamin Harrison.
