VERY VALUABLE SPECTROSCOPE

Of the Highest Power to the Allegheny

Observatory. OTHER IMPROVEMENTS BEING ADDED

Observatory Hill is in the due course of time destined to become famous as the scene of some great triumphs of investigating men over the mysteries of the heavens. The trious old structure on the eminence of he grand old hill is seeing some curious inges of late, and the ordinary plebeian vorldting who was astounded in years agone ver the strange heaven-inspecting instrunents would feel nimself in a maze of myseries should be take a jaunt to the Observaory upon some Thursday night when the oors are open to all.

New instruments of intricate workmanhip, are being constructed, new plans have een formed and new ideas are flocking into massive brains of the astronomers. Wealthy folks whose philanthropy extends nto the strange grounds of science have enlowed the Allegheny Observatory with ufficient funds to place it upon a substan-

Valuable Gift From Mrs. William Thaw. Mrs. William Thaw, widow of the late milroad monarch, has bestowed a new specoscope to the Observatory which, upon its impletion, will be but a size smaller than he one attached to the celebrated telescope o the Lick Observatory. It is at present a the workshop of Prof. Brashear, scarce a nck from the Observatory.

The spectroscope, an instrument of the most ntricate workmanship is for the purpose of egulating the light of the sky during the The instrument, to an un-Sumberless brass rods, tiny, medium ad large brass wheels, or, technically, regbright, confused mass. The workman, turning a little wheel, adjusting a rod oling some other mysterious thing, regue tubing reflects the color of the sky or bright object in a dazzling array of the brilliant colors. The lenses were made Prof. Brashear in person and are most dicately perfect

The Recipient of Many Gifts. n addition to this magnificent gift the bservatory has received moneys and in-runnents so that before the summer is over acre will be little needed. A new rolling sine will be built, and the old one at which ous observers have tugged and breathed and and said unkind things about, for the ust many changes of the moon as they hifted it around, will be torn down. By his the work of studying the heavens will be reatly simplified and truer and more satis-ying observations may be taken. Already there has been purchased a new
