HEARING THE NEWS.

Mr. Cleveland Pretty Well Tired Out When the Result Was Known. FLOODED WITH CONGRATULATIONS.

STEVENSON GREETED By Tammany Delegates and Hundreds of Others After the Nomination.

JUST WHAT HARRISON HAD EXPECTED BUZZARD'S BAY, Mass., June 23.—At 4:30 o'clock this morning Mr. Cleveland, through Governor Russell, sent from Gray Gables the following statement to the press:

I am confident that our fellow-countrymen are ready to receive with approval the principles of free Democracy, and I cannot myself be the least in doubt that it is only necessary to persistently and honestly advocate these principles.

Mr. Cleveland was terribly tired when he left the hotel at 10 o'clock and reached his home at Buzzard's Bay at 4:30 o'clock.

Plenty of Cheer Telegraphed. The telegraph bulletins of the night were interspersed with many kindly greetings and expressions of regard from Mr. Cleveland's personal friends.

MR. STEVENSON DELIGHTED. And the People of Bloomington Preparing for a Grand Jubilee. BLOOMINGTON, ILL., June 23.—The news of the nomination of Hon. A. E. Stevenson was received here a few minutes after the action of the convention.

DES MOINES, Ia., June 23.—The news of the nominations of Cleveland and Stevenson was received here without any particular demonstration.

CLEVELAND'S CAREER. His Early Life and the History of His Successes in the Political World and in Office.

HARRISON EXPECTED IT. The President Had Retired, Fully Content of the Result.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—It was not until 7:30 o'clock this morning that President Harrison knew for certain that ex-President Grover Cleveland had again been chosen as his competitor in the race for the next Presidential term.

WILL HEARS THE NEWS. But Firmly Refuses to Say What He Thinks About It.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The news of the nomination of Grover Cleveland to be the Democratic candidate for the Presidency reached Washington at an hour so early in the morning that few persons, except the enthusiasts, who do not hesitate to turn the night into day when politics are at stake, knew anything of it until an extra edition of the Washington Herald appeared on the street.

Senator Hill was found before 10 o'clock this morning in his sitting room at the Arlington. He had been up until nearly 3 o'clock, but notwithstanding the lack of sleep he appeared to be fresh, calm and collected.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Jaded, weary and languid, with whiskey-and-applause look on their faces, the delegates gathered into the convention hall for the last session, a few appearing before 2 o'clock, but the great majority failing to put in an appearance until long after the hour set for the opening.

At 2:27, the Gray Club, of Indianapolis, with their velvet banner of which was inscribed the name of Indiana's Governor, rolled into the hall, led by a band playing "Auld Lang Syne," and received with a great yell from the delegates present and the audience.

At 2:50 P. M. Chairman Wilson called the convention to order, and prayer was offered by Rev. Thomas Greene, of Iowa.

The Democratic Sons of Indiana. That being true, the 25 electoral votes of New York are solid for that prince of Democrats, Governor Cleveland.

The Successful Candidate Named. When Colorado was reached it yielded its place to Illinois and Mr. Charles E. Johnson, of Chicago, was granted to the platform and spoke as follows:

Illinois has presented no Presidential candidate to this convention, and I am sure that it would have delighted to honor and to cheer any of its nominees.

But for the Vice Presidency, for the second time in the history of this country, we have a candidate fully equipped by nature and education that it feels that it would be a great honor to have him.

Like his great leader who bears your banner, he believes that public office is a public trust, and he believes that the people are the best trustees of this public trust.

When Connecticut was reached, Mr. Vance, the Chairman, seconded the nomination of Gray. Idaho seconded the nomination of Gray.

When Iowa was called, there were cries of "Boies, Boies." The cries brought Hon. J. H. Shields, of Iowa, to his feet.

When the call of Kentucky was made, Mr. Shields, of Iowa, to his feet.

needs no introduction to the Democracy of the United States, nor any eulogy in a National Democratic Convention.

When Kentucky was called there was a consultation between Mr. McKenzie and Chairman Bronson, Chairman of the State delegation. A member of the Illinois delegation sitting across the aisle urged Mr. Bronson to cast the votes of the delegation for Waterston, stating that the Illinois delegation would consent to such a vote as they were "safe."

When Missouri was reached two new candidates were sprung in the persons of W. Bourke Cockran, of New York, who got into the ring, and Judge Lambert Tree, of Illinois, who received one.

When New York was reached, and Governor Flower cast his 72 votes for Stevenson, there was tremendous cheering and an evident attempt to stampede the convention for Stevenson, the Illinois delegation standing up, shouting and waving their hats.

General Collins now relinquished the chair, and taking the rostrum, spoke as follows: Gentlemen of the Convention: I propose to address myself to the common sense, good judgment and experience of the delegates to this convention.

It is not the discomfit, it is not the inconvenience, but it is the danger of wrecking the party, that I am anxious to see you face to face to-day, and I feel confident that you will do so.

The Resolution Raises a Row. Resolved, That the Democratic National Committee be instructed to provide in the next National Convention the accommodations necessary for the delegates to the National Convention of 1892.

A Frightful Panic Ensues. Something had given way above, and it appeared as if a great deluge were about to descend upon the heads of the delegates.

Table with columns: STATE, ELECTORS, CLEVELAND, STEVENSON, HARRISON, BALLOTS.

Changes Made in the Votes. Iowa changed her 26 votes to Stevenson, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, Ohio and Oregon, each in turn, changed to Stevenson.

Cool Heads Keep Down the Wind. For a while here and there a cool head remained on its shoulders, and with brand muscles a cordon of brave men surrounded the panic-stricken crowd.

Stevenson Nominated by Acclamation. Loud applause greeted this motion, and the delegates all rose to their feet in the midst of the excitement.

When the Chairman, Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, having already received more than two-thirds of the vote of this convention, it is moved by Mr. Cole, of Ohio, and seconded by Mr. Hensel, of Pennsylvania, that the rules be suspended and he be declared by acclamation the nominee of
