

AN EMPEROR'S STAFF

The Corps of Cabinet Heads Surrounding the Ex-President.

PICKING A PLATFORM TO PIECES.

Planks Inserted That Raise Issues Not at All Necessary.

GROVER'S GRINNESS LIKE BISMARCK'S

(FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

CHICAGO, June 23.—Surrounding Cleveland, these Cabinet heads are like an Emperor's staff. The mere masters of wards of cities and of State Legislatures, forged with the office of Governor and Senator, have no such moral upon the interior Democracy as Cleveland's men.

But the new Democracy is very different from any Democracy previously known in this country. It takes from Cleveland austerity rather than cheerfulness; slight rather than assiduity; is gaining at the religious centers to identify itself with them.

The anti-suffragists of the West are greatly delighted at the grinness of Bismarck in the ex-President and the princely character of his military staff. Harrison was not named at all, except as the President, in the platform of these men, and then because his officeholders went to the convention.

Suppose Cleveland's officeholders had kept out of the present convention. Would the multitude alone in the galleries have been able to control its decisions? The fact is, the experience of governmental authority qualifies every man ten times over the common, ordinary man, to conduct public matters to a result. Just as the sergeant and corporal carry out instructions, so does the fairly well-paid and well-trained man learn how to accomplish a concentrated task.

While the platform says something about monarchy coming over, both the candidates for President are mental monarchs among their kind, and both have had the experience to know how to handle a monarch.

Released from the environment of these conventions, we shall now see Harrison and Cleveland face the face of the characters, their administrations, their enemies, their friends will be the subject of inquest.

While the Democrats will be cultivating the masses in the face of the public platform, and I said to him that I welcomed him not only as our Chief Magistrate, but an upright, able man.

The Democratic platform bids fair to make the principal plank of Republican attack as lately in Ohio the platform selected by John Sherman to make the breach defeated a bright, clean man like Campbell.

It was said to me by an eminent Southern statesman, the late Justice Campbell, that although Andrew had appeared in the young of the South grew up Calhoun and not Jackson Democrats in principle. Above the Democrats of the platform, and above the Democrats of the platform, and above the Democrats of the platform.
