

TALK OF THE TICKET.

What Some Well-Known Pittsburgers Think of the Nomination.

NEARLY ALL SEEM SATISFIED.

Republicans Consider it a Weak Ticket and Expect to Win.

DEMOCRATS CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

The people who went to bed at a late hour on Wednesday night were satisfied that the Democratic Convention at Chicago would not nominate a candidate for President. But there were other people who had faith that the convention would not adjourn without making a nomination, and it was they who sat in front of the newspaper offices until broad daylight. Their patience was rewarded by the announcement that Cleveland had been nominated. A patient crowd it was, for during all the long hours of the night when the Democracy in the Chicago Wigwam were listening to the nominating speeches, they sat or stood watching the bulletin boards. When the States were being called to make known their preference for President, the sleepy crowds awakened and frequent cheers stirred the air. The final announcement of the nomination of Cleveland had hardly the effect of stirring up much enthusiasm—there were a few cheers, and then the tired and sleepy patriots went home.

Why Gray Lost His Chance. (Old politicians, however, agreed that the adjournment of the convention settled Governor Gray's chances. They agreed, though, that had the convention taken up the question of a nominee for the Vice Presidency after the nomination of Cleveland, Gray would have been the lucky man. What some voters who were not so sure to say upon the Democratic ticket is given below:

William Witherow (Rep.)—I consider the Democratic nomination most satisfactory for the Republican cause. The nomination has the aggressive autonomy of the strongest factious party in the Democracy, and this alone is enough to practically assure Republican victory. Mr. Cleveland is a man of high character, and as for benefiting or assisting the members of that powerful organization he proved a most lamentable failure, and they will let things go by the board. A campaign is an expensive luxury when the budgets fail to provide any benefit therefrom, and the Tammanyites are not the men to give anything for nothing. On the other hand, the Republicans, while they lament the failure to put Blaine at the head of the ticket, are too shrewd politically to permit their personal grievances to interfere with the success of the party, and will work diligently and faithfully to elect their candidate.

W. Montgomery (Rep.)—The factional fight in the Democratic party will, in my estimation, at least, counteract and defeat the nomination of Cleveland to such an extent that Harrison will be elected with ease. I think Harrison will carry the State of New York with scarce an effort. I am pleased, from a Republican standpoint with the Democratic nomination.

Cleveland a Strong Man. James B. Scott (Rep.)—Cleveland is without doubt the strongest man the party could nominate, but I have little hesitancy in predicting a great success for Harrison and the Republican party in the coming election. H. C. Wilson (Rep.)—Cleveland is strong, but Harrison is stronger with the voters of the country, and I predict a victory for him from Maine to California. J. D. Scully (Dem.)—The nomination is the strongest that could be made, and believe Cleveland will be elected by a large majority.

B. J. Jones, of Jones & Laughlin, and ex-Chiefman of the Republican National Committee, said that he was glad that Cleveland had been nominated, and that the Democrats had adopted a free trade plank in their platform. "For the first time," he said, "the Democratic party had come out openly for free trade. The people know just exactly what it stands for, and will support it to the hilt. The Democratic party has declared in favor of throwing the tariff issue open to the foreign manufacturers of the United States. The question has been brought squarely before the people, and a workman who has his future welfare at heart will vote to place himself in the position now occupied by the poorly paid employees of foreign manufacturers. The insertion of the free trade plank in the Democratic platform is a good thing for the Republican party."

Harrison Will Easily Win. State Treasurer Morrison said that if Cleveland were elected, he would have no more than a few months to live, and he would surely have little chance next November.

John Dennis (Dem.) remarked that Cleveland would be licked out of his boots, though he was a good Democrat, vote a little. Thomas J. Keenan (Dem.) believed that Cleveland would be elected by a large majority, and that he would carry the States of New York and Pennsylvania.

Ex-Congressman F. M. Carr (Dem.)—Well, there is not much to be said for Democrats. Cleveland is not much more of a man than Harrison, only a little more so from the free trade line. New York will support him and he can't be elected. The Johnsons, of course, I am glad to have another opportunity to vote for the great tariff reformer. He is to my mind the greatest man in the country, and he will surely be elected this fall.

There is no doubt but that Cleveland is the strongest man in the Democratic party, and they showed their wisdom by nominating him. He will give Harrison a hard fight, but I believe reciprocity will elect Harrison.

George Miller, Secretary Republican County Committee—The Democrats have given us an easy man to carry, but they have no more trouble in defeating Grover this year than they had in carrying him last year. I predict Harrison's majority in the State of New York will be 100,000. Guid Brown—I have no more desire to see Cleveland elected than I have to see Harrison elected. Four years ago, when I was a patronage at his command, with all the advantages that goes with the name of being the first Democrat elected, Cleveland was defeated. What has he done in years to strengthen his position? How can he hope to win with the conditions transposed? Harrison, with the Republicans at his back, and the Democrats of New York against him, Mr. Cleveland will pass into oblivion next November.

One Way to Look at It. H. C. Christy (Rep.)—It is a peculiar fact that the Republicans of the South, who can't elect anybody, nominated Harrison, while the Democrats of the South, who represent solid States, nominated Cleveland. You can guess the result.

J. J. Miller (Dem.)—Cleveland is the best man the party could have selected and is sure to win against such a ticket as Harrison and Blaine. Cleveland is the logical candidate. He raised the Democratic party to the enthusiastic place it holds today by giving it an issue. The people know that in him they will find a thoroughly honest, capable and patriotic man. They know that under his administration no business interest will suffer. The policy of the Democracy is right because it is honest. Cleveland will carry New York. The Indiana man will carry his own State, and we will get nine votes from Michigan. There is a strong opportunity for carrying some of the Western and Northwestern States. John H. Large (Dem.)—Never liked Cleveland very much, but he is sure to win this fall.

William Hunter (Dem.)—In spite of Hill's social vote, Cleveland will carry New York and will be the next President. If Cleveland can't win this time, there never will be a time when he can.

William Reardon (Dem.)—Cleveland can't be beaten. He is right on all the questions—money and tariff. This is a year for the Democrats to win. In speaking of the ticket H. W. Hartman

It is believed it is an alien combination from first to last, and quoted from a late English letter: "The American branch of the works will not be built this season. They will wait the result of your elections, as will several other proposed American factories. If the Democrats elect their President we will keep all these good things at home." "On the whole," concluded the Ellwood magazine, "it is going to be a struggle between the interest of American manufacturers and workmen."

FOR NERVOUS EXHAUSTION Use Ho-Stord's Acid Phosphate. Dr. H. C. McCoy, Algona, Ia., says: "I have used it in cases of dyspepsia, nervous exhaustion and weakness, with pleasant results. Also think it of great service in depressed condition of the system resulting from biliary derangement."

Were the scrofula sores on my poor little boy, sickening and disgusting. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. His hair was so matted that combing was sometimes impossible. His eyes had that sometimes he could not sit down, and when he tried to walk his legs would crack open and the blood start. Physicians did not effect a cure. I decided to give him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores commenced to heal up, the scales came off, and all over his body new and healthy flesh and skin formed. When he had taken ten bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla he was entirely free from sores." HARRY K. REAY, Box 356, Columbia, Pennsylvania.
