The Republican County Committee Reorganizes for the Campaign.

INDORSING THE TICKET.

Return of the Randall Club Members From the Convention.

THEY ARE TIRED BUT JUBILANT.

Feasibility That Harrison May Secure Missouri's Vote.

NEW YORKERS SOBB AT CHICAGOANS

The Allegheny County Republican Committee elected a permanent organization yesterday afternoon in Common Council chamber, City Hall.

It was only when Chairman Gripp called the committee to order and asked for nominations for temporary secretaries.

On the call for election of a Permanent Chairman H. P. Ford nominated John Gripp.

"We must do better than that. Try it again, Doc."

"All in favor of the election of John Gripp as Permanent Chairman say aye," called Mr. Magee.

Gripp had thought, anyway.

A chorus of ayes was the response, and Mr. Magee cried, "Elected."

"You didn't call for the ayes," shouted a dozen voices, but it was too late then.

In accepting the office again, Alderman Gripp said: "I extend my thanks for this honor to each and every one of you."

Senator William Flinn nominated H. P. Foster Vice Chairman and the election was unanimous.

On motion of William Flinn the rules of last year were adopted.

Senator John N. Neeb then presented the following endorsement of the national ticket, which was adopted:

The Allegheny County Republican Executive Committee of 1892 greets the Republicans of the county, State and nation, and extends to them their hearty and unqualified support.

On motion of William Flinn the rules of last year were adopted.

UNDER ONE SHELTER.

Doctors and Dentists to Have a Capacious Office Building.

AN INNOVATION FOR PITTSBURGH.

No Need to Search for Them if the Plan is Fully Carried Out.

AN EIGHT-STORY STRUCTURE DESIGNED

Realizing that this is an age of progression, and that their professions and their tastes are of a kindred nature, the doctors and dentists of this city have resolved to have their offices and transact their business under the same roof.

In a word the projectors of this novel scheme intend to erect a massive building in a convenient section of the city in which are to be located the offices and consulting rooms of more than 300 of the learned medical men and the skilled teeth extractors of Pittsburgh.

The trip was pronounced a glorious one and was replete with incidents that will furnish ammunition for the story-tellers for a long time to come.

It had been the intention of the members who had remained at home to tender the travelers a reception upon their return, and hold a species of ratification meeting, but they were too tired from their trip and the idea was abandoned.

On the road home the club felt it behooved to have a building erected in this city, and was passing by it. They did not do it quietly, either, as every one saw in which the train made a stop, brass band music, Democratic enthusiasm, Pittsburgh patriotism and tariff reform doctrines were thrown to the winds.

THE CITY OF THE DEAD.

The Managers of Lawrenceville Cemetery Hold Their Annual Meeting.

THE CITY OF THE DEAD.

Only 16 of the 40 incorporators of the Allegheny Cemetery attended their annual meeting in the chapel at this gateway yesterday afternoon.

Superintendent Perring's report showed that during the past year the net sale of lots amounted to $20,087 76, that there had been 1,887 interments, making the total number of interments now in the grounds 3,460,039; that about $128,000 had been expended in monuments, etc., for the grounds; that the total receipts amounted to $94,834, and expenditures $35,956 73.

A new vault is being built and will soon be finished.

Plans are now being prepared for green houses to be built near the Butler street entrance, as those built 20 years ago are inadequate for present needs.

The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Charles J. Clark; Managers, Charles J. Clark, Charles E. H. Spier, E. R. Brunot, J. R. Jackson and G. A. Berry; Secretary and Treasurer, J. A. Moore.

The front of our building does not present a very inviting appearance, although we hope to have everything finished in about two weeks, but if intending purchasers of a fine piano or organ will listen through to the rear of our building they will see the largest stock and finest lot of pianos in the State.

To all who purchase within the next two weeks we will give a special discount of 10 per cent from our net prices.

The Future of Natural Gas. Natural gas is a subject that always interests those using this most valuable fuel.

The statement published in the newspapers in the last few days that the gas supply in this field had been discovered within a few miles from the city, and that the supply would be sufficient for our wants for several years to come, means good news for every household.

It is not every consumer who would be satisfied with the gas supply, but the pleasure of having it for domestic purposes at least for years to come, and the only way to use and save it, is to have a gas range, which will do your baking, broiling, frying, stewing and roasting, and also give you a plentiful supply of hot water, and save you 75 per cent of fuel. Call and see it in operation at the furnace, stove and range stores of J. C. Bartlett, 203 and 205 Wood street, Pittsburgh.

THE PROJECTED OFFICE BUILDING FOR PHYSICIANS AND DENTISTS.

James T. Steen, and an option has been secured on a plot of ground at the intersection of Sixth Avenue and Cherry Alley.

In a day or two those interested will meet at the real estate office of Black & Baird to organize a stock company and open subscription books.

Doctors and Dentists in Control. Nearly all the stock, amounting to more than a quarter of a million dollars, has already been reserved by physicians and dentists, who are delighted with the idea of having a building especially adapted to their needs, and are anxious to obtain a financial interest in the same.

In order to satisfy all the proposed investors, no one of the medical profession can obtain more than $10,000 or less than $1,000 of the stock of the company.

The story of the conception and elaboration of the scheme to erect the building is an interesting one. For years the leading physicians of the city have been dissatisfied with their accommodations. A few of the wealthy ones built offices especially adapted to their needs, but the rank and file of the profession could not afford the luxury of building, and were forced to putter along as best they could in rented rooms.

This was the condition of affairs when the erection of big office buildings was inaugurated a few years ago. At first the disgruntled medicine men thought that the modern office building would supply their long-felt want, but they quickly discovered their mistake, and they quickly discovered their mistake, and they quickly discovered their mistake.

Handsome structures which satisfied their brethren of the law, and delighted the manufacturer and broker, failed utterly in satisfying the exacting medical. They complained that the elevators traveled at too rapid a pace to suit their patients; that there was little or no privacy to be had, and that the noise of the machinery was a fact that most of the buildings and all of the elevators were closed or inaccessible at night.

The Movement Gets a Fair Start. About this time a number of prominent physicians indulged in several informal discussions on the subject. After weeks spent in fruitless wrestling with the "modern office" problem it was finally decided to consult with the architects and contractors, and with this end in view Dr. Le Moyne, July Sutton, Ayers Wood and Drake held several conferences with Black & Baird and Mr. Steen, the architect. As a sequence to these conferences Messrs. Black & Baird began to look around for a suitable site for a great building which was to be built and occupied by the doctors and the dentists, and to be known to a wondering and admiring public as the medical and dental building of Pittsburgh.

A plot of ground at the corner of Sixth Avenue and Cherry Alley was finally chosen and an option secured. Then Architect Steen was ordered to prepare the plans for a building which would satisfy his exacting patrons. After a deal of labor and thought Mr. Steen submitted a plan which satisfied all concerned.

The plans call for an eight-story structure of Quincy granite and Pompeian brick. The first, or ground, floor is to contain two spacious store rooms, one of which will be furnished and stocked as a first-class drug shop, while the other will contain all sorts of surgical and medical instruments and equipment. Dividing these two rooms and running the entire length of the building is a spacious corridor.

A series of stairways and three large elevators will furnish access to the seven upper floors. These elevators are to be especially designed for the comfort of invalids. They will be furnished with luxurious lounges and easy chairs. The machinery will be so adjusted that hoisting mottos will be slowly and carefully lowered to their destination.

Two splendid Fine Office Rooms. There are to be 200 offices in the building. They are to be arranged en suite, and supplied with distilled water, and heated by the hot water system. There will be plenty of light and air. When everything is completed any lawyer citizen who owns an ache or a pain of any kind, or desires to have a leg or arm amputated, can step into the elevator and be hoisted to the office of any doctor who may select.

Once there he need not stir from his seat to secure a prescription, a cork leg or the thousand and one other tools of the medical man's trade. All that is necessary to obtain the desired article, if he happens to have a price, is to touch the electric button, and the clerks in the drug and surgical shops below will do the rest.

As a matter of course, the building will remain open and the elevators will run day and night. There will be no Sunday closings, and no formal celebration of legal holidays by the employers.

This proposed edifice of medical and dental science will have no rival, as there is nothing like it in this or any other country. It will have a frontage on Sixth Avenue of 53 feet and a total depth of 150 feet. The total cost, including ground, building and furnishings, will be in the neighborhood of $300,000.

REFUSED A MANDAMUS

Judge McClung Sustains Delinquent Tax Collector Grier.

ALLEGHENY'S CHARTER STANDS.

Auditor McKirdy's Test Suit Is Dismissed by the Court.

NEWS FROM THE COUNTY TRIBUNALS

Judge McClung yesterday handed down an opinion in the mandamus proceedings brought by Auditor McKirdy of Allegheny, against City Treasurer Macferon to compel him to accept taxes under the act of 1860.

The suit was aimed to abolish the office of Delinquent Tax Collector Grier under the claim that a general act of Assembly does not repeal a special act passed prior thereto.

Judge McClung, however, decided in favor of the defendant and refused the application for a mandamus. Judge Porter announced that he dissented from Judge McClung's ruling and would place his dissent in writing.

In his opinion Judge McClung said that the plaintiff, McKirdy, tendered the taxes to the City Treasurer May 18, 1892, less the 5 per cent discount, which, under the act of February 27, 1860, was allowed to persons paying taxes before July 1.

The defendant refused to accept them. The refusal was based on the charter act of 1889, making Allegheny a second-class city, and as such making the act of March 22, 1877, apply. It provides that taxes could be paid in March before the application of the rule. The question was did the act of March 22, 1877, repeal the special act of February 27, 1860.

The plaintiff contended that the act of 1877, being a general act, was not intended to repeal or supersede the special act of 1860. Continuing, Judge McClung said that as first blush the case of McKirdy vs. Macferon seems to favor the plaintiff direct support to this position, but an examination shows that the intention of the Legislature is recognized as that which determines the application of the rule. The rule that a general affirmative statute does not abrogate an earlier special one by mere implication, is one long and well settled, but it does not apply where the intention to repeal is manifested by explicit language or there is something which shows that the attention of the Legislature had been turned to the special act and that the general one was intended to embrace the special case within the previous one.

Bel vs.
