INPECTAL THE SCHAM TO THE DISPATOR ! PHILADELPHIA, June 28 - General aster Workman T. V. Powderly, of the nights of Labor, who was elected by the xecutive Committee of the People's party Pennsylvania delegate at large to the Naonel Convention of the party to be held at mahs on July 4, came to the city to-day id registered at the Windsor Hotel, where was joined by General Secretary Hayes ad General Lecturer A. W. Wright, of the nights, who are also delegates to the maha Convention

The three eminent Knights spent the day close consultation, and left early in the vening for Omaha. Before taking his dearture, Mr. Powderly said to a reporter THE DISPATCH:

"There is no Democrat or Republican, no satter how able, who can successfully conadict the assertion that their platforms re based on deceit. Take the silver plank an illustration. Neither party believes the remonetization of silver, yet both ould catch the votes of the advocates of

The Deed of a Villian in the Night. "A treacherous act was performed in the ight; the assassin stole, dirk in hand, into e United States Congress. He stabbed here he could do the most good, and when e plucked his cursed steel away the silver ollar, which had stood with the constituon itself up to 1873, lay prostrate at the set of the English and German bankers, he sent Ernest Seyd across the ocean to ribe the American Congress to demonetize lver in the interest of foreign money

"Sworn testimony has been adduced to rove that Ernest Seyd performed his duty ithfully and well. We all know that siler was demonstized; we know that the ization, and that they did not know of its emonetization until the evil was upon nem. It was an act of treachery—aye, of reason, and the whole plan has been laid are before Congress within the past two ears. Both parties know that it was rong; that it was stealthily and treacher usly done. They know that it was conary to the American idea of fair play to eal a blow in the dark, and yet neither arty has the manliness to demand that liver be placed where it was before the idden hanp had struck the blow.

The Tariff Question Settling Itself, That tariff question is settling itself ithout the aid of politicians, for when an american manufacturer feels that he can ompete with foreign rivals he asks that he tariff be taken off the article which he anufactures. That wages are good and ad in this protected land no one will deny; hat wages are had and good in free trade lugiand no one will deny; and yet the ampaign orators will urge the people to elieve that there is no other issue than the riff in this campaign. "Being in and out is practically the only ifference between the rival wings of the arty of plutocracy, and if the people have ses. Search both platforms carefully ell, and not one living issue will strike on as standing boldly out in favor of reorm in the true sense of the word. All Scoffed at as Cranks. "That conference adopted a political latform and placed it before the American cople, so that both of the so-called great arties might have the opportunity to adopt be platform of industry. Both parties re-acted it; they scoffed at it and the 'cranks' he made it. Knights of Labor are reponsible for the existence of the St. Louis latform, and the Knights of Labor should upport it at the polls, for it is of our own

"Whether the nominees at the Omaha convention are elected or not, the agitation or Government ownership of railroads, a ational currency independent of bankers, nd an equitable system of taxation of land alues will continue until the whole Amerian people understand these issues. This ampaign will be a glorious one for educaion on these essential points, and it cannot all to win, no matter who is elected. I beieve the platform of the St. Louis conference is right, and will vote for it next Noember. I furthermore believe that every ther man should do the same."

Mr. Powderly was sanguine that there rould be something in the nature of a po-itical revolution in the Western States as result of the Omaha convention. He ex-ressed himself as confident that the Peo-le's party could and would easily carry everal of those States, and he thought that he outlook was also favorable to the Third arty in several of the Southern States.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Drexel, Morgan & Co. Back Out of the Richmond Terminal Scheme.

REFUSED THE NECESSARY POWER.

It Looks Now as if the Great System Is Doomed to Disruption.

PIRES, FAILURES AND RAILWAY NEWS

NEW YORK, June 28. - Drexel, Morgan & Co. to-day sent a letter to W. E. Strong, the Chairman of the Richmond Terminal Stockholders' Committee. The firm says it has made careful scrutiny of the affairs of the Richmond Terminal system, and believe an equitable reorganization possible, and one that would make the property financially sound. Then the letter runs thus. The complication and difficulties which must be met in this connection make it necessary, we need scarcely add, that we should, as your representatives, and as far as possible, be protected against any single interest which might, for personal or other reason, desire to thwart the successful carrying out of such reorganization. With this in mind, we deemed it essential before any action on our part that a majority of each class of stock and bonds of the Richmond & Western Terminal Railway and Warehouse Company be deposited with us for the purpose of reorganization, and that all litigation should be put under our control, and under the control of persons of our selection, substituted for the receiver now in possession of the properties.

Therefore, upon learning of the appointment of reosivers of the Richmond and Dunville property by the United States Court, we applied to W. P. Clyde to know whether, in case we undertook the reorganization, the stock under his control would be transferred to us and the present receivers resign in favor of Mr. Spencer, stating that such a course was essential. He declines to give us any such assurance, and our conversation with him leads us to doubt his loyaity to any reorganization plan whatever, although he, as one of your committee, signed the request to us to undertake the same.

As, in our opinion, it is essential to the success of any plan that during the reorganization the properties involved be under our control. as already mentioued, and as the position taken by Mr. Clyde makes this impossible, we are obliged rejuctantly to decline the invitation to undertake the reorganization.

The Post says: must be met in this connection make it necessary, we need scarcely add, that we

The Post says:

The Post says:

The grounds assigned by Messrs, Drexel, Morgan & Co. in their refusal to undertake the Richmond Terminal reorganization fully confirm the suspicion which has been growing of late, that controlling interests in the several railroads which make up the system are in reality averse to any outside reorganization. The very interesting correspondence on the subject shows either that the terms suggested by the bankers were considered too harsh by the underlying bondholders, or else that the bondholders had resolved, under any circumstances, to cut loose their own companies from the general system and take their chances alone, ru either case, the present situation points unmistakably to the disruption of the Richmond Terminal system.

The Committee of Fifteen met this afterneon, but adjourned until July 7 without action. The letter of Drexel, Morgan & Co. was discussed, but the committee made no expression as to its views. Members of the committee still think Drexel, Morgan & Co. will undertake the work of reorganization. An order was signed by Judge Bond at Battimore to-day authorizing the receivers to issue receivers' certificates to an amount not exceeding $1,000,000. The money will be used to pay the operating expenses of the Richmond and Danville prior to the appointment of receivers and the car rentals and interest obligations of the leased lines

THE TRUST STILL VICTOR.

A Defective Indictment Prevents Punish ment of a Whisky Magnate,

NEW YORK, June 28 .- Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court of the outhern district of New York, to-day Southern district of New York, to-day handed down a decision in the case of Herbert Terrell, who was arrested in this district on an indictment found in Massachusetts against him as a member of the Whisky Trust. The warrant was based upon an affidavit, which was itself based solely on the fourth count in an indictment found by the grand jury in the District found by the grand jury in the District Court of the United States for the District pision, says!

of Massachusetts. The court, in its decision, sayst

It is not disputed by the District Attorney that it is not only the right, but the duty of the District Attorney, before ordering removal, to look into the indictment, so far as to be satisfied that an offense against the United States is charged, and that it is such an offense as may be lawfully tried by the forum to which it is claimed the accused should be removed. It would be a grave abuse of the rights of the citizen if, when charged with alleged offenses, committed perhaps in some place he had never visited, he were removable to a district thousands of miles from his home to answer to an indistment fatally defective. The points of law arising upon this indictment were all carefully considered by Judge Ricks in his opinion filed June 11, 1892, Northern District of Onio, on application for a removal. In that opinion I entirely concur, and the District Attorney, apparently admitting its application, has discussed only the question arising from the seventh count, urging that the learned judge did not fully apprehend the averment of that count, and, therefore, erred in holding that no contract was averred by the dealers obligating themselves to purchase exclusively from defendants ixed.

The only trade which it is pretended was curtailed or affected in any way, was the ants and to sell at the prices defendants fixed.

The only trade which it is pretended was curtailed or affected in any way, was the trade of Kelly and Durkee, in distilling products between September 23, 1891, and May 7, 1892. During that period they bought such product only from certain named dealers in a limited number of States, and sold only at prices fixed by the defendants: but they did so only because they chose to, because an offer of a rebate to purchasers who would thus conduct their business was an inducement operating upon their self-interest. No obligation of any kind constrained them so to do during the entire period, certainly no contract in existence.

It is not the actual restraint of trade (if such be restraint of trade) that is made illegal by the statute, but the making of a contract in restraint of trade—of a contract which is intended to restrain trade.

It is difficult to understand upon what principle it can be contended that trade is restrained by a contract when the trade in distillery products which Kelly and Durkee carried on between September 16, 1891, and May 7, 1892, was restrained (if restrained it were). That there was no contract in existence is conclustively admitted on the face of the indictment itself, which charges the statutory offense to wit: The making of a contract, etc., as committed on May 2, 1892. The petitioner should be discharged.

THE PENNSY'S SHREWD SCHEME

That Prevents the Drexels From Making a Mint Out of Reading Reorganization. PHILADELPHIA, June SR.—[Special.]—There is a good story back of the refusal of William P. Clyde to join the reorganization of iam P. Clyde to join the reorganization of the Richmond Terminal system. It is a part of the warfare between the Pennsylvania and Reading roads and a whack at the Drexels for helping the Reading combine. Clyde's firm has the exclusive privilege of a line of freight boets between Philadelphia and New York on the Delaware and Raritan Canal. This privilege is given by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Clydes are aiways ready to do anything to keep it. The Pennsylvania fears that if the Richmond Terminal is reorganized the Reading and Baltimore and Ohio will establish a system from New York to the South that will shut the Pennsylvania out.

to the South that will shutthe Pennsylvania out.

Again, Drexel & Co. were called in to take charge of the Richmond Teminal reorganization. Clyde on account of his connection with the Pennsylvania, and to oblige that corporation, stepped into court and was appointed a receiver for the Richmond and Danville road, and then refused to step out, so that Drexel could reorganize the Richmond and Danville is a part. Thus the Pennsylvania has blocked the Reading scheme to go south, and has kept Drexels from making at least one and a half millions of dollars, which they would have made on the reorganization.

the defendants claim they cannot be tried under the Sherman act, because it has been passed since the organization of the Whisky Trust.

"Of course, we cannot allege violations of the law that occurred before the law was passed; but the trial will be for subsequent violations, and I do not see why the mere fact of prior organization on the part of the Whisky Trust should justify it in committing the acts as charged in the indictment. The Court, as read, will have to interpret the meaning and scope of the law." Dorente, of the Anti-Cruelty Society. They carried short staves of polished steel, and on each shirt front was pinned a rose bud.

The main feature of the day's programme was the "Massenstatuebungen," which is a complex blending of intricate marching movements and exercises with the steel staves. The men who participated in the exercises were all clever, and as a natural sequence the large crowd of spectators was delighted. Picked men from Lawrence-ville, Allentown, Birmingham, Wheeling, Johnstown, McKeesport and this city took part in the performance.

Last night the jolly Turners gathered in their Southside hall and sang their native songs for prizes. The singing societies of the Johnstown, Allentown, Central, Allegheny, Southside, Lawrenceville and Birmingham Turnvereims took part.

To-day's programme is an interesting one. It is expected that 500 Turners will arrive this morning from Washington, D. C., where the National Turnfest has just adjourned, and dignity will be added to the occasion by the presence of so many representative turners from all parts of the country.

In the morning there will be a grand street parade. Dr. Arnholdt will be the Chief Marshal, Mr. Aner, Chief of Staff, and Police Magistrate Succop, Chief Adjutant,
