MID SUMMER A young woman has written to me for formation regarding manners at a boarding house, and wishes to know if the subject has ever been treated in any book. As Maria-she says her name is Maria-seemed to be in earnest, I became equally in earnest to lend aid and have sought the four points of the compass in Pittsburg to find such a volume, but have found it not. Here is a leaf from the experience of one who has grown gray at a fireside not his own but 'bought with a price."

"At first flash," he says, "boarding house manners would seem to be similar to those of any other domestic establishment where peaceful relations are maintained. But this is not the case; for certain contingencies arise in a boarding house that could not elsewhere. The ties in a boarding house are not those of blood, kinship, clanship, sentiment nor affection, but simply of con-venience, and this tie is always very easily strained. I would recommend people:
"First-Not to live in boarding houses. They will begin with a good deal of affec-

To choose a suitable helpmate is well; to select a good traveling companion is better. A paragraph from Miss Mantalini in the Pull Mall Budget reminds us that Pittsburg's not over-clean streets will soon be relegated again to the care of the Department of Publie Works, by the disappearance of the much-loved, though continually reviled, train. Miss Mantalini gives thanks to Worth-our own Worth, for is he not nearly so? since the American "sovereign" appreciates the man dressmakers as much as do the rulers of Europe-for this action and incidentally mentions his other inine world temporary relief, at least, from the hideous crinoline.

With June is buried the bridal pair and July brings, as well as the Fourth, a craving for picuies. At this late day it would be difficult to tell whether picuics are a result or cause of the weather. Sometimes we have them as the result of our appreciation of the weather, and again we are inclined ta believe that the weather-wet weather-is the result of our making up our minds to have a picnic.

from the World's Fair Bureau of Music, of which he is the ruling spirit:

CHICAGO, ILL., June 30, 1892.

Recognizing the responsibility of his position, the Musical Director groups all intended illustrations around two central ideas:

First—To make a complete showing to the world of musical progress in this country in all grades and departments from the lowest to the highest.

Second—To bring before the people of the United States a full illustration of music in its highest forms as exemplified by the most enlightened nations of the world.

In order to carry out this conception of the unexampled opportunity now presented, three co-operative conditions are indispensable:

I. The hearty support of American musicians, amateurs and societies for participation on great festival occasions of popular music, and for the interpretation of the most advanced compositions, American and foreign.

II. The presence at the Exposition of many

III. A provision on the part of the Exposition authorities of the means necessary for carrying out these plans in the erection of the hulls indispensable for successful performances, and in the engagement of solo artists, orchestras and bands.

Consideration of these three lines of inquiry has taken much time, but progress is sufficiently advanced to permit the Bureau of Music the following preliminary amouncement: The halls have been officially agreed upon and their construction ordered. A music hall, with accommodations for 190 players, 300 singers, and an audience of 2,000.

A featival hall for performances upon the largest practical scale, with 300 players, 2,000 singers, and an audience of 7,000.

The music hall will contain a concert organ, and in the festival hall will be placed an organ for chorus support.

The Commissioner to Europe, who was sent to tender the invitation of the Exposition to the most distinguished composers, has returned with an encouraging report, which assures a series of international concerts, unprecedented in point of scope and character.

certs, unprecedented in point of scope and character.

The invitation of the bureau to choral societies to co-operate because of their love of art and the pride they have in the opportunity the Exposition will afford to show to the world the artistic level of the United States in music has brought many assurances of support. Inasmuch as it would be manifestly impossible for the same chorus to take part in all choral performances, the work will be divided among choral societies of the entire country.

The Musical Director assumes that thousands of singers and music lovers will visit the Exposition in any case, and that they will prefer to appear as contributors, thus conferring an importance upon their societies and their homes not possible under any other circumstances. These forces being directed and guided as they must in combined effort, necessary preparation for their appearance at the Exposition will afford intelligent direction to efforts that, in some parts of the country, are now being wasted for want of a commanding object of work.

8. Six series of international concerts, choral and orchestral, each consisting of from four to six, in Festival Hall and in dusic Hall.

4. Three series of oratorical festivals by mited American choral societies in Festival Hall.

5. Concerts in Festival Hall, under the auspices of German singing societies.
6. Concerts in Festival Hall, under the auspices of Swedish singing societies.
7. Six series of popular miscellaneous festival concerts by American singers.
8. Twelve children's concerts by Sunday school, public school and specially organized children's choruses.
9. Chamber music concerts and organ re-9. Chamber music concerts and organ re-

9. Chamber music concerts and organ recitals.
10. Popular concerts of orchestral music will be given daily in Festiva: Hall during the six months of the Exposition.
To successfully carry on such a series of performances as is outlined above a large corps of musicians will be needed, some of whom will be engaged for the entire period of the Exposition, others for single and series performances.

It can be truthfully said that plans of equal scope, having only the elevation of music in view, have never before been presented to the public of the United States. Their appeal should be universal, for in their fulfillment all may participate. The humblest music lover is asked to believe that there is something for him at the Exposition, and he is assured that the Bureau of Music will do all in its power to help him secure it.

The complete success which the musical sition, and he is assured that the Bureau of Music will do all in its power to help him secure it.

The complete success which the musical directer seeks can be secured only by the loyal co-operation of individual artists, large and small choral and instrumental societies, and organized amateurs in general. Such co-operation he earnestly asks, and in subsequent papers, to be issued by the bureau, details of organization and appearance at Exposition will be given. The natural gradations of art will be observed in organizing all departments of Exposition music. In the humbler and less specialized ones—those appealing to universal tastes and talents—masses will be the rule, thus permitting the largest possible co-operation of singers and players. In the higher grades, appealing to tastes less universal, the number of performers will naturally be more select, until in the highest of all, the purely representative forms of the art will stand forth at the hands of their ablest exponents.

Regarding the standard of performance to be observed in all departments of Exposition music, the musical director holds that while co-operation is asked of all grades of attainment, every musical illustration there produced must be justifiable upon artistic principles; that is to say, it must be what it housely purports to be. The ounce or the pound of progress will be regarded as art, and every step from the lowest to the highest will be acceptable, provided it faces in the right direction, thus fulfilling its true use and popular ministry.

Regard Theo. Thomas, Musical Director. est will be acceptable, provided it faces in the right direction, thus fulfilling its true use and ponblar ministry.

BUREAU THEO. THOMAS, Musical Director, of Music Groker H. Wilson, Secretary.

In addition to the above, Secretary Wilson appends this special note in the name of the bureau: "The Musical Director desires to include in the programmes of Exposition concerts representative choral, orchestral and chamber works by native American composers. All scores received by the Bureau of Music before October 15, 1893, will be submitted to a committee whose names are shortly to be announced. The favorable recommendation of this committee will be final and insure performance. Both printed and manuscript music may be sent."

It was also announced during the week that the General Executive Committee has approved an appropriation of $175,000 for the purpose of providing orchestra music during the Exposition, and the further expenditure of $12,009 for the entertainment of the distinguished composers who are coming over to conduct their own compositions in those international concerts.

It is needless to comment upon the suto conduct their own compositions in those international concerts.

It is needless to comment upon the superb scheme above outlined further than to express the general feeling of entire sympathy with the objects, hearty approval of the measures and complete confidence in the men at the heim.

The great impetus to the cause of music in America sure to follow upon such efforts will not be one of the least important results of the Columbian Exposition.

National Association of Teachers. So much for the biggest thing in the near future. The present interest that chiefly engages the attention of musical folk ugh these United States is the fifteenth annual meeting of the Music Teachers' National Association—otherwise the National Society for the promotion of Musical Art— to be held at Cleveland on Tuesday, Wednesto be held at Cleveland on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

Pittsburg is most interested in the representation of the two leading composers we lay claim to. Mr. Ad. M. Foerster's Trio, Op. 29, for pianoforte and strings, forms part of the first programme of American compositions. Wednesday morning. Mr. Ethelbert Nevim's Dutch Lullaby, "Wynken, Blynken and Nod," sung by the Cleveland Vocal Society and Miss Kate Gerlach, closes the concert of the same evening and several of Mr. Nevin's songs appear at other points during the meeting. Ar. H. G. Archer is Pittsburg's only performing representative; he will open the 2 o'clock session on Friday with an organ Fantasic in E flat, by Saint-Seens. and will start Mayor Gourley's celebration by firing a national salute from the guns at $230 sharp. The members of the battery have been remarkably active in the past year in responding to calls of all kinds from organizations and charities, and some of the men feel they should be given a holiday to themselves now and then as many of them elaim the holidays are the only ones they have off from their regular business and do not care to put them all in in soldiering. Two more members of the battery qualified as sharpshooters last week, Bugier Wood ward and Private Schmids, each making a score of $4.

There are precious few music teachers or performers in the land above the reach of the many benefits that flow from such a gathering. To hear much good music and excellent artists, to acquire new ideas and come into contact with fellow-workers, to get out of the rut and come home full of renewed inspiration and energy—these be objects for which many Pittsburgers ought to take the brief run up to the city by the lake this week.

but for the originality, not to say eccen tricity, of his ideas and utterances. His tricity, of his ideas and utterances. His talents came honestly, by the way, from his distinguished father, the late Bisnop Hopkins, once pastor of Trinity Episcopal Church, Pittaburg. It will be remembered by many that the versatile Bishop himself drew the architectural plans for the old church edifice, painted its mural decorations, composed music and wrote hymns for its services, besides preaching its sermons and marrying and burying the members of its congregation.

Mr. Jerome Hopkins has lately been giving in New York and elsewhere a number of entertainments which he calls "Philosophical, Iconoclastic and Technical Piano-Lecture-Concerts." Some critics and editors made scornful, even impolite, comments upon Mr. Hopkins' musical and other attributes. One of them is replied to in this characteristic open letter:

Though the writer was unable to be present, it is not improper to state that from all accounts the performance seems to have been of exceptional excellence. It is certainly creditable for a four-year-old institution to muster a well-balanced chorus of 2 volces, all bonafide pupils, and to present acceptably a work of the class of Rheinberger's cantata, Crotchets and Quavers. Insun's wierd drama "Peer Gynt," with Eduard Grieg's incidental music, has been revived at the Royal Theater, Christiana, where it is attracting numerous audiences.

MR. MORRIS STEPHENS and his Choral Club at Monongahela City gave their second con-cert of the season last Monday evening. The chorus sang a glee by Gwent and Mendels-shon's "As the Hart Pants." The rest of the programme was filled out by a number of Mr. Stephens' local pupils, with the addition of Miss Sars C. Vogel, of Pittsburg. The club will take up Mendelsshon's Psaim XLV to Sentember.

form of a scholarship bearing his name at the Royal Academy of Music, where he was for some time a student, bids fair to prove a great success. The concert will be given at St. James' Hall on July 13 under the patronage of the Prince of Wales and other members of the royal family.

The programme will be made up exclusively from the works of the late composer, and will consist of the following among other interesting items: A selection from "Esmeralda," in which Mrs. Melba, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Lasalle and the full orchestra of the Covent Garden will take part, conducted by Mr. Mancinelli; a group of songs rendered by Mrs. Emma Eames, Mrs. Caive and Mrs. Deschamps-Jehin, Mr. Edward Lloyd, Mr. Plancon and Mr. Edouard de Reszke, accompanied by Dr. C. Hubert Farry, Mr. Tosti and others; the entire second act of "Nadeshda" will be given, the solo parts by Mr. Nordica, Mr. Ben Davies, Mr. Rugene Outin and Mr. Norman Salmond. Mr. Jean de Reszke would appear at the concerts were it not for the rule that he never breaks of never singing at concerts. Instead of giving his services he has given his salary for one night at Covent Garden—£160—to the memorial fund.

The Royal English Opera House, the sole proprietor of which is Mr. D'Oyley Carte, is to be turned into a music hall limited liability company, under the title of the Palace Theater. The share capital of "the new concern, £200,000, will be offered to the public. The Grosvenor Club will repeat to-night the performance of Gluck's "Orfeo," under the leadership of Mr. Arditt. This opera was given recently for the benefit of the Gordon Boys' Home under the patronage of the Duke of Connaught. On this occasion an American singer, Joran, took the part of Amore, and filled the audience with surprise and admiration with her voice and acting.

Johannes Wolff, the violinist, and Holl-man, the 'cellist, are going on a tour in America.

The Parisian papers announce the ap-proaching marriage of Mr. Jean de Reszke with the widow of a French nobleman. The event, it is said, will take place shortly after the end of the Covent Garden season.

Why You Should Use Cleveland's Baking Powder

It is beyond question perfectly wholesome, being composed only of pure cream of tartar and soda, with enough flour added to keep the strength, no ammonia, no alum, no adulteration whatever.

It is the strongest. A rounded teaspoonful of Cleveland's Baking Powder does more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of others. A large saving on a year's baking.

Cake and other articles of food keep moist and fresh and do not dry up as when made with baking powders containing ammonia or alum.
