HOW TO TREAT JESUS

You Will Surely Not Ignore Rim Nor Drive Him Away From You.

TALMAGE'S LATEST LONDON SERMON

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. LONDON, July 3 .- Among the sermon Dr. Talmage has preached by invitation in the metropolis this week the one selected for publication is from the text, Matthew xxvii., 22: "What shall I do with Jesus?" Pilate was an unprincipled politician. He had sympathies, convictions of right and desires to be honest; but all these were submerged by a wish to be popular and to please the people. Two distinguished prisoners were in the grasp of government, and the proposition was made to free one of them. There stands Barabbas, the murderer; there stands Christ, the Savior of the world. At the demand o the people the renegade is set free, but Jesus is held. As the hard-visaged and cruel-eyed Barabbas goes among his sympathizers, receiving their coarse congratulation, Pilate turns to the other distinguished prisoner-mild, meek, inoffensive, self-sacrificing-and he is confounded as to what course he had better take, so he impanels themob as a jury to decide, saying to them, "What shall I do then with Jesus?"

Oh, it is no dried or withered question, but one that throbs with warm and quick pulse in the heart of every man and woman here. We must do something with Jesus. He is here. . What You May Do With Jesus

Well, my friends, there are three or four things you can do with him. You can, in the first place, let him stand without a word of recognition; but I do not think your sense of common courtesy will allow that. He comes walking on such a long journey, you will certainly give him a chair on which he may sit. He is so weary, you would not let him stand without some recognition. I know there have been men who have with outrageous indifference hated Christ, but I know very well that that is not what you will do with Jesus. Another thing that you can do with him -you can thrust him back from your heart, and tell him to stand aside. If an inoffensive person comes and persists in standing close up to you, and you have in various ways given him to understand that you do not want his presence or his society, then you ask the reason of his impertinence and hid him away. Well, that is what you can do with Jesus. He has stood close by us a great while-20, 30, 40, years. He has stood close by you three times a day, breaking bread for your bousehold, all night watching by your pillow. He has been in the nursery smong your children, He has been in the store among your goods, He has been in the factory amid the flying wheels, and now if you do not like His society you can bid Him away; ay, if He will not go you can take Him by the throat and tell Him you do not want this interference that you do do not want His interference, that you do not want His breath on your cheek, that you do not want His eye on your behavior. You can stamp your foot, as you would at a dog, and cry: "Begone!"

The Best Way to Treat the Savior.

Yet know you will not treat Jesus that you. When Pilate could not do that, you way. When Pilate could not do could not. There is another thing you can could not. There is another thing merely do with Him; you can look on Him merely as an optician to cure blind eyes, or an aurist to tune deaf ears, a friend, a good passenger on shipboard; but that will mount to nothing.

You can look upon Him as a God, and be abashed while He rouses the storm or blasts a fig-tree, or heaves a rock down the mountain-side. That will not do you any good; tain-side. That will not do you any good; no more save your soul than the admiration you have for John Milton or William Shakespeare.

I can think of only one more thing you can do with Jesus, and that is to take Him into your hearts. That is the best thing you can do with Him; that is the only sale thing you can do with Him; and may the Lord Omnipotent by His Spirit help me to persuade you to do that.

You may take Christ into your confidence. If you cannot trust Him, whom can you trust? I do not offer you a dry, theological technicality. I simply ask you to come and put both feet on the "Rock of Ages." Take hold of Christ's hands and draw Him to your soul with perfect abandonment, and hurl yourself into the deep sea of His mercy. He comes and says, "I will save mercy. He comes and says, "I will save you." If you do not think He is a hypocrite and a liar when He says that, believe Him, and say, "Lord Jesus, I believe; here is my heart. Wash it. Saye it. Do it now. Ay, heart. Wash it. Save it. Do it now. Ay, it is done; for I obey Thy promise and come I can do no more. That is all Thou hast asked. I come. Christ is mine. Pardon is mine. Heaven is mine."

The Rejuctance to Trust Jeans.

Why, my friends, you put more trust in everybody than you do in Christ, and in everything; more trust in the bridge cross-ing the stream, in the ladder up to the loft; more trust in the stove that confines the fire; more trust in the cook that prepares your food; more trust in the clerk that writes your books, in the druggist that makes the medicine, in the bargain with whom you trade; more trust in all these things than in Christ, although He stands this moment offering without limit, and without mistake, and without exception, universal pardon to all who want it.

Now, is not that cheap enough—all things for nothing? This is the whole of the Gospel as I understand it, and if you believe that Christ died to save you, you are saved. When? Now. No more doubt about it than that you sit there. No more doubt about it than that you have a right hand. No more doubt about it than that there is a God. If you had committed 500,000 transgressions, Christ would forgive you just as freely as if you had never committed but one; though you had gone through the whole catalogue of crimes—arson, and blas-phemy, and murder—Christ would pardon you just as freely, you coming to him, as though you had committed only the slight-est sin of the tongue. Why, when Christ comes to pardon a soul, He stops for noth-ing. Height is nothing. Depth is noth-ing Enormity is nothing. Protractedness is nothing. O'er sins like mountains for their size, The seas of sovereign grace expand, The seas of sovereign grace arise.

The Spirit in Which to Approach Him Lord Jesus, I give up all other props, give up all other expectations. Ruined and undone, I lay hold Thee. I plead Thy promises. I fly to Thy arms. "Lord save me; I

When the Christian Commission went when the Christian Commission went into the army during the war there were a great multitude of hungry men and only a lew loaves of bread, and the delegate of the commission was cutting the bread and giving it out to wounded and dying men. Some one came up and said, "Cut those slices thinner, or there will not be enough to go around." And then the delegate cut the slices very thin, and handed the bread around until they all had some, but not

But, blessed be God, there is no need of economy in this Gospel. Bread for all; bread enough and to spare. Why perish with hunger

Again, I savise you, as one of the best things you can do with Christ, to take Him into your love. Now, there are two things which make us love anyone-inherent attractiveness, and then what He does in the way of kindness toward us. Now Christ the way of kindness toward us. Now Christ is in both of these positions. Inherent attractiveness: fairer than the children of men, the luster of the morning in His eye, the glow of the setting sun in His cheek, myrrh glow of the setting sun in His cheek, myrrh and frankincense in the breath on His lips. In a heaven of holy beings, the best. In a heaven of mighty ones, the strongest. In a heaven of great hearts, the tenderest and the most sympathetic. Why, sculpture has never yet been able to chisel His form, nor psinting to present the flush to His cheek, nor music to strike His charms. REGARDED AS A FRIEND OR A GOD

All over glorious is my Lord, He must be loved and yet adored; His worth, if all the nations knew, Sure, the whole earth would love him too.

What the Redeemer Has Done for Us. Has He not done enough to win our at ctions? Peter the Great, laying aside royal authority, went down among the ship-carpenters to help them; but Russia got the chief advantage of that condescension. John Howard turned his back upon the re-finements and went around prisons to spy finements and went around prisons to spy out their sorrows and to relieve their wrongs; but English criminals got the chief advantage of that ministry. But when Christ comes, it is for you and me. The sacrifice for you and me. The tears for you and me. The crucifixion for you and me.

If I were hopelessly in debt, and some one came and paid my debts and gave me a receipt in full, and called off the pack of hounding creditors; if I were on a foundering ship, and you came in a life-boat and took me off, could I ever forget your kindness? Would I ever allow an opportunity ness? Would I ever allow an opportunity to pass without rendering you a service or attesting my gratitude and love? Oh, how ought we to feel toward Christ, who plunged into the depth of our sin and plucked us out. Ought it not to set the very best emotions of our heart into the warmest, sy, a red-hot glow? The story is so old that people almost get asleep while they are hearing it. And yet there He hangs—Jesus, the man, Jesus the God. Was there anything before or since, any-thing to be compared to this spectacle of generosity and woe? Did heart-strings ever snap with a worse torture? Were tears ever charged with a heavier grief? Did blood ever gush, in each globule the price

The Great Tragedy on Cavalry.

Oh, see the dethronement of Heaven's King! the conqueror fallen from the white horse! the massacre of a God! Weep, ye who have tears, over the loneliness of His exile and the horrors of His darkness. Christ sacrificed on the funeral pyre of a world's transgressions, the good for the bad, the great for the mean; the infinite for finite, the God for the man. Oh, if there be in all this audience one person untouched by this story of the Savior's love, show me where he is, that I may mark the monster of ingratitude and of crime. If you could see Christ as He is you would rise from your seat and fling yourself down at His feet, crying, "My Lord, my light, my love, my joy, my peace, my strength, my expectation, my heaven. my all! Jesus!

Oh, can you not love Him? Do you want more of His tears? Why, He has shed them all for you. He has no more. Do you want more of His blood? His arteries were emptied dry, and the iron hand of agony could press out nothing more. Would you put Him to worse excruciation? Then drive another nail into His hand, and plunge another spear into His side, and twist another thorn into His crown, and twist another thorn into His crown, and lash Him with another flame of infernal torture. "No," says some one; "stop! stop! he shall not be smitten again. Enough the tears. Enough the blood. Enough the torture. Enough the agony." "Enough," cries earth. "Enough," cries heaven. Ay, "Enough," cries hell. At last enough. Oh look at Him the butchered Lord.

Oh, look at Him, thy butchered Lord, unshrouded and ghastly as they flung Him from the tree, His wounds gaping for a bandage. Are there no hands to close these eyes?

Monro, for the Lord Is Dead.

Then let the sun go out and there be mid-night. Howl, ye winds, and howl, ye seas, for your Lord is dead. Oh, what more could He have done for you and for me than He has done? Could He pay a bigger price?

Could He drink a more bitter cup? Could He plunge into a worse catastrophe? And can you not love Him? Groan again, O blessed Jesus, that they may feel Thy sacrifice! Groan again. Put the four finyears and the thumb of Thy wounded hand. ers and the thumb of Thy wounded hand gers and the thumb of Thy wounded hand upon them, that the gash in the palm may strike their soul, and Thy warm lite may bleed into them. Groan again, O Jesus, and see if they will not feel.

Oh, what will you do with such a Christ as that? You have got to do something with as that? You have got to do something with Him this morning. What will you do with Jesus? Will you slay Him again by your sin? Will you spit upon Him again? Will you crucify Him again? What will you do with Him who has loved you more than a brother's love, more than a father's love, ea, more than a mother's love, through all hese years? Oh, is it not enough to make the hard heart of the rock break? Jesus! Jesus! What shall we do with Thee?

I have to say that the question will after awhile change, and it will not be what shall we do with Christ, but what will Christ do with us? Ring all the bells of eternity at the burning of a world. In that day what do you think Christ will do with Why, Christ will say, "There is that man whom I called.

The Last Opportunity Thrown Away. "There is that woman whose soul I importuned. But they would not have any of my ways. I gave them innumerable opportumities of salvation. They rejected them all.
Denart; I never knew you." Blessed be God, that day has not come. Halt, ye destinies of eternity, and give us one more chance. One more chance, and this is it. Some travelers in the wilderness of Australia a few years ago found the skeleton of a man and some of his garments, and a rusty kettle on which the man had written rusty kettle on which the man had written or scratched with his finger nail these words, "O, God, I am dying of thirst. My brain is on fire. My tongue is hot. God help me in the wilderness." Oh, how suggestive of the condition of those who die in the wilderness of sin through thirst. We take hold of them to-day. We try to bring the cool water of the rock to their lips. We say, "Ho, everyone that thirsteth!" God, thy Father, awaits thee. Ministering spirits who watch the ways of the soul bend now this moment over this imm ortal auditory to see what we will do with Jesus. AIR FOR MOTIVE POWER.

A New Device Which Is Destined to Reve

lutionize the Railway World. NEW | YORK, July 3 .- A company that proposes to propel vehicles by atmospheric application was organized at Trenton yesterday with $1,000,000 capital. The stockholders are mostly New York capitalists. For nearly five years Joshua Kames of Hazleton, Pa., has been working on a plan to propel street and other surface cars through the medium of compressed air, and his plans were perfected several months ago. The invention has been patented, and, if successful, it will do away with steam and electricity as a motive power for surface railroads. It is proposed to put compressed air chambers under cars, with a evlinder on the front platform, and thus motive power. It is claimed that a speed of 70 or 80 miles an hour may easily attained. Within a month a surface car propelled by the new device will be run over a street railroad either in this city or Brooklyn. BUFFALO'S BROKEN BANK

there Is Crookedness in the Fallure and the Liabilities Are Half a Million. BUFFALO, July 3 .- It is now said the deicit in the National Savings Bank is pretty certain to reach, if not surpass, $500,000, and that there is no probability of the bank's resuming business.

The most remarkable case in connection with the swindle is that of a woman who is said to have a passbook calling for $20,000, while the bank's books credit her with only a few hundred dollars. The official statement of the liabilities of the bank will come out in court next Tuesday, when the matter of a receiver will be disposed of.

MATTHEW MARSHALL'S THEORIES

On the Subject of the Right of Any American to Run in Debt.

FALLACY OF THE GROWING DEMAND

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, July 3 .- "The Right to Run in Debt" is the subject of Matthew Marshall's article for to-morrow's Sun, which is as follows:

When the Democratic Convention at Chicago followed the example of their Republi can opponents at Minneapolis and adopted a resolution virtually declaring against the unrestricted coinage of silver, I congratulated myself that this silver question was out of politics, and that for the next few years we should hear of it only from the orists and essay writers. It appears, however, that a large number of our western and southwestern fellow citizens are not content with this disposition of the subject, and, under the name of the People's party, have de-termined to put in the field a Presidental candidate upon a free silver platform. They don't expect to elect him, but they claim that they can carry enough States to prevent a choice of a President by the Electoral College, and thus throw the election into the House of Representatives, where they will be able to secure the success of a man favor-

It was probably because of this movement that the Democrats in the Senate insisted on that the Democrats in the Senate insisted on Friday on passing the silver coinage bill. So far as lay in their power they have notified the friends of free silver that the Demo-cratic party is not committed to the declara-tion of the Chicago Convention. and they have thus revived a controversy which ap-peared to have been settled.

Not Much of a Disappointment. After the many years of discussion which we have had of the advantages and disadvantages of an abundant silver currency it was not expected that the People's party should be able to advance any new ideas upon the subject, and it is no disappointshould be able to advance any new ideas upon the subject, and it is no disappointment, therefore, that they merely reiterate what has been said in favor of cheap money over and over again already. Still, in reading their St. Louis platform, I have been struck with a rather increased prominence in it of an idea which lay at the foundation of the old Greenbeck party, and which has been the staple of much currency expansion talk ever since. It is that the volume of the currency should be sufficient to meet what is called the requirements of business, and should increase with the increase of population, so as always to furnish a certain amount per capita.

The party is supported in this demand by the Prohibitionists, who agree with them in declaring that our currency is at present insufficient in volume, and needs to be increased. The difference is that the People's party want the increase to come from an unlimited coimage of silver dollars, whereas the Prohibitionists, like the old Greenbackers, are in favor of having it printed upon paper by the Government. Both parties tacitly assume, and some of their spokesmen openly declare, that their object is to relieve the financial distress of those sections of the country where ready money is scarce, and where in consequence of the scarcity.

the financial distress of those sections of the country where ready money is scarce, and where, in consequence of the scarcity, would-be borrowers are unable to obtain it. What they mean by "the requirements of business" is the requirements of men who have debts which they cannot pay and especially of those who would like to run in debt but cannot, because nobody will accept them as debtors.

Absurd if not Wicked Talk. This same idea I find frequently express in the speecnes of the silver advocates in Congress and elsewhere. The condition of men who desire to borrow money, but who cannot find creditors who will lend it to them, is pictured in the darkest colors. That loans should go begging in Wall street at 2 per cent per annum, while the Western farmers and Southwestern planters cannot that the Government shall step in, and by lending money at 2 per cent per annum clap mortgages upon all the farms in the country which remain unencumbered. General Benjamin F. Butler, it was, I think, who said that "A national debt is a national blessing," and now private dobt is to be exalted to the same bad eminence.

I need hardly say that to my old-fashioned way of thinking this sort of talk seems not only absurd but wicked. I was brought up to look upon running in debt as an evil to be avoided as much as possible. To be sure, in my time goods were bought and sold, as they are now, on credit, and the buyer gave for them his notes, which the sellers in turn indorsed and got discounted. Both thus ran regularly in debt, the one for the goods and the other for money with which to buy more goods, but both were accounted bad merchants if they did not at all times keep their property in such a shape that they could have the search of the goods. their property in such a shape that they could turn it into enough money to pay their debts at very short notice.

Loans Wanted for au Indefinite Time. The man who was always "shinning" around to get means to carry on his busi-ness fell into discredit, and he who needed neither to give notes nor get his bills re ceivable discounted was looked upon as be ing in a very enviable position. Unless l am misinformed, the would-be borrowers at am misinformed, the would-be borrowers at the West and Southwest want not loans for a short period, or such as they are prepared to pay off at any time by the sale of personal property, but loans to run for an indefinite time or during their own good pleasure. Others have borrowed to make improvements on farms or town lots, or to build factories, or to go into other enterprises in which they have locked up their own means and all the additional means they could procure elsewhere. These men, naturally being all in the same impecunious condition, cannot assist one another. Eastcondition, cannot assist one another. East ern capitalists will not, and they vainly im agine that the Government night, could and should do it.

agine that the Government might, could and should do it.

Others,a;;ain, are not in debt now, but seeing the many opportunities which a new country presents for the profitable employment of capital, are crazy to borrow for the purpose of the easy terms which prevail here at the East, and they feel it to be agreat hardship that nobody will accommodate them. These, too, foolishly fancy that if the Government would add by coining silver or by printing paper some nundreds of millions of dollars to the currency of the country, it would become so plenty that eastern capitalists would be unable to lend their capital at home and would therefore be more willing to lend it at the West and the Southwest.

Sympathy Wanted for a Peculiar Class.

Sympathy Wanted for a Peculiar Class. Oddly enough, it is for this still unindebted class that currency legislation is most ear-nestly demanded. Those who have already nortgaged their property could at best only moregaged their property could at best only save you from foreclesure. They could not borrow on it more than they now owe. It is the men out of debt and who want to run in debt for whom sympathy is invoked.

This demand for a greater facility of running in debt, as if it were the natural right of which no citizen should be deprived against his will, reminds me of "the right to labor" claimed by the unemployed workingmen of France during the stagnation of besiness which followed the revolution of 1848. The Frenchmen had at least an excuse for demanding that the Government should find them work in the pressing need of wood for themselves and their families, but the would-be debtors of this country are not in this position. They desire to borrow money that they may make money by its use instead of working for wages. It is a laudable desire, no doubt, but not one the gratification of which justifies the attempt to furnish it at the risk of financially ruining the nation. save you from foreclosure. They could not to formish it at the risk of financially ruining the nation.

When I was a boy I went every summer to visit an uncie who had a farm up on the highlands of Connecticut. Everybody who knows the region knows how hilly and sandy and stony it is. We boys used to say that the Creator, when He made the earth, filled his apron with rocks to scatter over it, intending to distribute them evenly. Just as He got to Connecticut, however, His apron string broke, and the whole of the rocks were dumped in a mass upon the unfortunate State. This is what has made it so hard to cultivate and has led to the abandonment for more fertile regions of so much of it by its owners.

Not Enough to Help the Valleys.

Not Enough to Help the Valleys. My uncle worked away bravely, but his land lay so high that continual rain was necessary to give him decent crops. His neighbors in the valleys adjoining not only eeded less rain than he did, but were in jured by what was just right for him. The force of gravitation carried the water that fell on the hilltops down into the valleys, and if it fell often enough to keep the hilltops moists she valleys were drowned.

Our Western and Southwestern friends are in a similar predicament, only worse. The showers of silver and paper money that they ask from the Government would not even temporarily reach them, but would go directly to flood the great financial centers of the East, leaving the present destitute sections as destitute as before. It is this deluge that the silver men invite, and I am sorry to see Democratic Congressmen co-

A Water Front Tough in New York Charged With Matricide.

NEW YORK, July 3 .- [Special]-Catharine A. Kenney, of 62 Grove street, died in St. Vincent's Hospital Thursday night of a fractured skull. When she was admitted to the hospital, June 20, it was understood that her injuries had been caused by a fall downstairs. After her death, however, the occupants of the house on Grove street, said Mrs. Kenney's son James had thrown her downstairs. The Charles street police, who say Kenney is a member of one of the water front gangs, arrested him last night. He was arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court this morning, and subsequently committed to the Tombs without bail, pending the inquest Tuesday.

There is abundant testimony that Kenney pitched his mother downstairs. Kenney came to William Perschoke, who works on the ground floor of the house, and said: "Help me to carry my mother to her room. She has fallen down stairs." He accom panied Kenney to the cellar, where a woman lay apparently unconscious on the floor. She revived on being moved, and said: "Jimmy, you have hurt me." "Mother, you'll get me into trouble," returned Kenney. "You've killed me this time," said ney. "You've killed me this time," said Mrs. Kenney. Later they took her to the hospital, where she died.

The papers in the cases set forth the circumstances of the explosion of naphtha stored in the hold of the Tioga, which, it is charged, had been shipped by the Brights as "oil" contrary to law; and the steamboat company is charged with not having used proper care in ascertaining the true nature
