SOUTHSIDE CORNER STONE LAYING

The dedicatory services of the Wilkinsburg M. E. church were well attended yesterday, notwithstanding the inclement whether. The large edifice was comfortably filled, morning, afternoon and evening. The morning exercises commenced at 10:30 with the doxology, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Then the choir rendered Rossini's famous anthem, "The God of Israel," and the congregation joined in singing the hymn, "Betore Jecovah's Awful Throne."

Bishop J. P. Newman, D. D., L.L. D., delivered the dedicatory sermon. The subject was: "Without Holiness No Man Shall See the Lord." He laid down the principle that there must be character in a man before he can become a Christian. He thought some men were more or less vicious because they were born so. It was their misfortune more than their fault. Such men could be saved, but only through the interposition of Christ. He illustrated his address with scraps of historical information, sacred and secular, and, independently of the lessons he drew from his subject, the sermon was a most interesting one, from a merely entertaining point of view. He related a number of anecdotes, among others one of Edwin Booth. He said that Mr. Booth had often represented villains on the stage, although in reality he was a most tender-hearted man. He was fond of buying dogs and making pets of them. On one occasion a favorite dog died and Mr. Booth went to a minister with a request that he would bury the animal with Christian rites.

The Bishop's Opinion of Some Dogs. Said the Bishop: "The minister was shocked, as some ministers naturally would be, although I have known many dogs that I would rather bury in that way than some men I have known." He thought Job was a man of strong character, and a good model for men at all times. If he (the Bishop) were allowed to have only two books, he would choose the Gospel according to St. John and the Book of Job. He closed with an exhortation to trust in Christ as the great molder of character, and urged them to form their lives after that of the Great Mas-

At the close of the Bishop's sermon a dedicatory anthem by Coe was sung by the choir. The congregation was dismissed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. James Mechem, paster of the church. Mr. C. C. Mellor presided at the organ at the morning and evening services, as well as at the plat-form meeting in the afternoon

The platform meeting commenced at 3 P. M., with Rev. J. W. Miles, D. D., presiding. The proceedings opened with the anthem "Praise the Lord," followed by the hymn, "All People That on Earth Do Dwell." Then there was prayer and an-other anthem, "I Was Glad," and the visit-ing ministers delivered ten-minute addresses of congratulation. The first speaker was Rev. Latshaw McGuire, who said the new building was one of the handsomest churches he had ever seen, and he was proud that it was being dedicated to the service of the Lord.

Praise for the Church Children.

John G. Holmes said that what struck him more than anything else was the fact that so many children had contributed toward the building of the church. He said his own church was burned down, and he felt all the more interested in this at Wilkipsburg on that account. He would take it note of what the children of Wilkinsburg had done for their church, and he would try and interest his own children in the same sort of work. He said that where people put their mone; they had the more interest, and this principle was as strong in church matters as any others.

Rev. S. H. Moore, pastor of the Wilkinsburg Presbyterian Church, was called upon to represent the ministers of Wilkinsburg. He said he was sorry that he had been chosen to speak for his brethren, because he could not help regarding the Methodists somewhat in the light of invaders. His church was only a stone's throw from the edifice in which he then stood. But he earnce in which he then stood. But he could assure them of one thing—that they had got into a respectable neighborhood, and admired their choice in making this selection of site. He closed his remarks pleasantly by tendering his hearty congratulations and expressing the hope that the new church would be blessed in the service of the Lord

Rev. J. Franklin Core, the former pastor of the church, was to have been present, but was unable to come from his home in Taren-tum. The exercises closed with the singing of the "Magnificat" and the benediction.

In the evening Rev. W. F. Oldham, D.
D., pastor of the Butler Street M. E.
Church, preached. Then the church was formally dedicated, and with a hymn and the benediction the important day was brought to a close. brought to a close.

A Very Handsome Structure.

The church cost $35,000 exclusive of the The church cost $35,000 exclusive of the ground upon which it stands. Of this sum the offertory yesterday realized $11,200 in the morning and afternoon, with a large sum in the evening that brought the sum up toward $15,000. The congregation owed $22,000 out of this 35,000, but after yesterday's heavy contributions it will be seen that the church is nearly raid for second that the church is nearly paid for, compara-tively speaking. The $11,000 was not all cash, some of it being only guaranteed, but it is all to be paid within 12 months.

The interior of the church was tastefully

The interior of the church was tastefully decorated with palms and cut flowers, large vases being placed on the reading desk, on the organ railing and in other prominent situations. A pretty feature of the furnishment of the interior is the drapery that divides the church proper from the Sunday school room. It consists of portieres of light colored velvet edged with fringe, and artistically festooned from the three arches. There are most beautiful stained glass win-There are most beautiful stained glass windows, and many of them. The interior is of hard wood in oak finish, and the carpeting of handsome brussels harmonizes with the tint of the wood. The church is shaded by tall maples and poplars that are among the ancient giants of the forest that existed when Wilkinsburg was a very inconsiderable place. The borough can now boast of several large and beautiful churches which will be added to by snother-that of the Reformed Presbyterians-that is to be commenced within a few weeks.

LESSONS OF THE FLAG.

Stars of the Flag-Their Symbolism." During his discourse he said:

"Let us take some lessons from the choice of stars. Our forelathers taught the best and truest things. Animals were not considered appropriate for flags, because they suggested low life. The sun and moon would not answer, for they were indicative of Mohammedism. They wanted no suggestion of oppression and superstition. They even neglected the cross, as it suggested sectarian idolatry. But they chose the stars because they were high and the constellation of Lyra suggested harmony and peace.

the constellation of Lyra suggested harmony and peace.

"The second lesson is from a choice of a five-pointed star. Independency was in the air when our flag was adopted, and so the six-pointed star of English heraidry was rejected and the other chosen at the suggestion of Betsey Ross. America cast off every similarity to the country which they were leaving. She was not an imitator, but a new and original nation. The history of our coun-Try shows that America has copied none. The right to think and to act to one's thoughts is the teaching of Betsey Ross in rejecting the six-cornered star.

"Progress' and growth are God's laws. From 13 to 44 stars; from a little flation to a great country have we grown. The end is not yet. Other territories must come. All will float our emblem. Why? Because we have here the principles which are to control the world. Liberty and Christianity shall be universal. Our treatment of women shall be universal. Our language universal. Shall be universal. Our language universal we are the race of progressive, and an active, onward God-fearing and God-finding people, ever looking into the future, never satisfied to say there's no beyond."

THE CORNER STONE LAID.

pressive Ceremony Was Enacted at the Grace Lutheran Church on the Southside Yesterday in the Rain-A Description of the New Edifice.

With a simple but impressive service the corner stone of the Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church at Twenty-second and Sidney streets, Southside, was yesterday swung into place. The inclemency of the weather cut down the attendance greatly.

The original intention was to have the entire service take place at the new structure, but the rain compelled a change in the programme and the services were held in a hall at South Twenty-first and Carson streets. At the service Rev. Dr. Passavant preached an eloquent sermon, confining his remarks to the history of the Evangelical Luthern Church and its works. After these Luthern Church and its works. After these services the congregation, headed by their pastor.* Rev. Dr. Kuntzman and Rev. Dr. Passavant, proceeded to the new church, where the mer stone was put in position. There * e placed in the stone a tin box, containing the records of the church, a list of the flicers, copies of the daily as well as regious papers, and some coins. The stone sas laid by Dr. Passavant, after which the congregation was dismissed.

The new building was designed by S. T.
McClarren, and will be of stone and brick.
The structure will be plain and no attempt at display of any kind will be made on the exterior. There will be a tower at the northwest corner of the building that will reach 74 feet from the ground. The auditorium will be built on the style of a theatre with three aisles. The interior of the church will be finely furnished and when completed the church will cost $20,000, nearly all of which has already been

At yesterday morning's service Rev. H. W. Roth, D. D., of Chicago, Ill., preached a special sermon. He was pas-ter of the old Grace Church, that stood on South Seventh street from 1861 to 1870.

Rain Prevented the Service The laying of the corner stone of the German Catholic Church, Reserve township, that was set for yesterday afternoon, was postponed until next Sunday on account of the inclement weather.

Will Engage in a Real Fight. CITY OF MEXICO, July 3. -Two prominent generals of the Mexican army have been involved in a dispute so far that nothing but a duel will settle it. The quarrel grew out of a mock battle fought some weeks ago in the vicinity of the capital by a large body of Mexican troops.

One of the generals, Sostenes Rocha, a distinguished officer on the retired list, published a series of articles in El Combate, a lished a series of articles in El Combate, a paper devoted to military affairs, criticising the maneuvers severely from a strategic and scientific standpoint. These attacks were not relished by General Gasper Sanchez Ocha, commanding the body of troops which acted on the offensive in the engagement. He made a bitter retort, insisting that the detractor was inspired by jealousy and other base motives. This was considered in the light of a personal insult, and a challenge was sent and accepted.
