The fire was discovered by the watchman, Patrick Cavanaugh. He had just com-pleted his hourly rounds of the mill when passing through the puddling department he discovered the building on fire. An alarm was turned in from box 116, but ow-ing to the inflammable materials of the building the fire spread rapidly, and when the fire department arrived the building was completely enveloped in flames and a second alarm was turned in. It was im-possible to save the building and the work of the firemen was directed to saving the adjoining portions of the mill. After a fierce fight, lasting over three hours, the fire was subdued. The building was com-pletely guitted and the machinery destroyed. The loss is fully covered by insurance. or not." Several manufacturers interviewed on the same subject said the outcome could not be predicted, except that it is not at all likely an agreement would take place. James McCutcheon, Chairman of the joint conference, is quoted as saying: "The result of the iron situation cannot be foretold. It is moderately certain, however, that unless the reduction asked by the manufacturers is agreed to there will be many more nonunion mills in Pittsburg. The conditions make this inevitable, although the manufacturers will exhaust every honorable means to secure a settlement."

Hoping for a Speedy Settlement.

The Amalgamated Association is by no means discouraged at the condition of affairs. They feel that the trouble in this city has now reached its height and there will be an adjustment of the difficulties sooper or later. After the conference of today arrangements will be made for a meeting of the Amalgamated Association and the Youngstown minutacturers. It is ex-pected they will confer in a few days. A leading manufacturer, who is largely interested in the present scale trouble, his works being closed down pending a settle-ment, made the following statement last might: "During the present trendle between night: "During the present trouble between the manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association some persons directly or in-directly interested have made various statements concerning the prices paid by Eastern manufacturers as compared to the prices paid in the West. Many of these statements have been incorrect, and to give you the true comparison I have made out a list which includes the prices paid for heating, rolling, roughthe prices paid for heating, rolling, rough-ing and catching on six classes of iron, which classes are the largest product of the trade. This list also shows the percentage of Pittsburg and Philadelphia, all being Amalgamated price for puddling in Phila-delphia is $3 85 per ton and 15 cents per ton added, making in all $4 per ton, against ton added, making in all $4 per ton, sgainst $5 50 per ton in Pittsburg."

ard of Underwriters Investigating The B

the Third Avenue Case. A peculiar case of incendiarism was dis covered in time at the music store of William C. Whitehill, at 148 Third avenue early yesterday morning. About 5:45 o'clock a blaze was seen on the inside. The flames were running along the floor as though a tuse was burning. The door was broken open and it was discovered that a train of oil had been laid from the kitchen, through the dining room and hall to the store room. A fuse had been lighted in the kitchen and the oll at the other end had also been fired. The fuse did not burn and the rear of the house was saved. The fire in the store room was quickly put out. Last April another attempt was made to fire this building. A stove was removed from the natural gas connection. A train of excelsior shavings was laid from the kitchen door to a table directly over the gas pipe. This attempt was also frustrated. The Board of Underwriters are now in-restigating the case. A Mad Maine Z-phyr.

TIDINGS OF PLEASURE.

The Duluth Manufacturing Company and the Detroit Steel and Spring Works Sign the Scale of the Amalgamated Association,

When Secretary Stephen Madden, of the Amalgamated Association, reached his office yesterday, he found two telegrams awaiting him. These were from firms who declared they were willing to pay the prices provided by the new Amalgamated scale, and desired that their names should be added to the long list of signers.

One of the firms was the Detroit Steel and Spring Works, of Detroit, Mich., while the other was the Duluth Manufacturing Company, of West Duluth, Minn. The former concern is one of the most prominent in the State of Michigan. Its plant was first put into operation in May, 1882. The works comprise seven Swindell and four double Weber heating furnaces, two train of rolls and eight hammers. The product is merchant steel and elliptic and spiral springs, with an annual capacity in this line of 8,000 met tons. In 1884 a crucible steel department was added to the plant and the firm now her one added to the plant and the firm now has one 30-pot crucible steel roller, the product of which is tool and spring steel. The annual capacity of this department is 2,500 net tons. The Robert Bessemer mill was the last improvement mode in the mode last improvement made in the works. It was added to the plant early in the year 1889. In July of the same year it was put into operation and proved a complete success. It has two two-gross iron converters of the most improved pattern. The pro-duct is ingots and castings. The company duct is ingots and castings. The company employs between 400 and 600 men. The Duluth Manufacturing Company is located in St. Louis county, Minn. Its plant was creeted in 1888-9 and put into operation in October, 1889. It has four heating furnaces, five gas producers, two train of rolls and one 6,000 and two 3,000-nound hammers. The reduct is her iron pound hammers. The product is bar iron, railroad fastenings and axles and other torgings. The capacity is 12,000 tons of rolled iron and 5,000 tons of forgings. In connection with the plant are large car building shops and foundry, formerly the property of the Minnesota Iron Car Company. The whole plant gives employment to about 400 men.

The fact of these two additional firms signing the scale was received with consid-erable pleasure by the Amalgamated Associstion.

State Charters.

The following charters were issued at Harrisburg yesterday: The Central Railroad of Pennsylvania, to run from Middle-town to Steelton, six miles, capital $100,-000. William H. Ulrich, Hummelstown, is President. The Bellevue Water Company, of Allegheny county, capital $1,000.
