(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, July 5 .- W. J. Campbell, of Chicago, the recently elected Chairman of the Republican National Committee, had a two hours' talk with the President this afternoon, and after returning to his hotel, made the announcement that he should revectfully decline to serve as manager for the Republicans in the coming Presidental smpaign. This is the statement referred

When I was elected Chairman of the National Committee it was with the distinct understanding that my business engagements then pending might rdnder it imp sible for me to accept in that capacity. This contingency was fully understood by the committee and others directly interested. Since the adjournment of the committee ] have been unable to adjust my affairs so as to render it practicable for me to act as Chairman, and I therefore, as I reserved the right to do, announce that I will not so act. Under the authority vested in me by the National Committee, I will probably announce the Executive Committee ably announce the Executive Committee within the next few days, and that committee will meet at an early date. At that meeting I will formally tender my resignation and my successor will be then elected. My suc-cessor will be chosen by the Executive Com-mittee, as authorized by resolution adopted by the National Committee.

The Conference at the White House, The President and Mr. Campbell were not alone at the White House conference, for some of Mr. Harrison's closest political and personal friends were present to talk over the unpleasant situation and make suggestions as to the most diplomatic way to handle it. The gentlemen present at the conference besides the President and Mr. Campbell were Secretaries Rusk and Elkins, ex-Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, General Michener, of Indianapolis, and Washington, Harrison's manager at Minneapolis, and Land Commissioner "Tom" Carter, the undermined Secretary of the National Committee.

These gentlemen canvassed the political situation thoroughly, carefully considered the effects of Mr. Campbell's declination, and assisted in preparing the above state-ment which that gentleman gave to the

After leaving the White House and having dinner, these Republican wise men locked themselves in a room at the Ar-lington Hotel and proceeded further to discuss the situation. # KILLED IN COLD BLOOD.

A Quarrel Between Oll Men Results in Fatal Tragedy.

FINDLAY, O., July a .- [Special.]-This ity was this evening disgraced with another cold-blooded murder. The participants in the affray were two prominent young oil men. The affair occurred just north of this city at 5 o'clock. Hiram Scouton and James Lawson were interested in adjoining oil leases upon which operating wells were located. This morning Lawson missed one of his tools from the derrick, and went to Scouton and accused him of having taken it.

The accusation led to warm words, and Scouton finally got tired of Lawson's abuse and gave him a sound drubbing. Lawson came to this city and bought a 38-caliber revolver with the intention of getting even with Scouton.

This evening he learned that the latter was at his well and he started for that place. Scouton tried to avoid more quar-reling, but Lawson came for trouble and was bound to have it. When he found that Scouton would not fight with him or answer his accusations he deliberately took from his pocket the new revolver and shot Scouton through the heart. The victim fell without a word and death resulted in a very short time. The murderer took to a neighboring wood and is still at large. The Sheriff and a large posse are hunting for GUADALAJARA, Mexico, July 5 .- [Sp cial. ]-The people of the town of Elzulu, this State, have been terrorized for the past three months by a band of brigands under the leadership of Martial Casillas, one of the most desperate men in Mexico. They have committed many murders and robberies. A few days ago they made one of their raids into Elzulu and got away with a large amout of merchandise, killing Jose Loza, a prominent citizen. A large posse of indignant citizens was organized and went in pursuit of the bandits, who sought refuge in the mountains. they feel very sore about it.'

Late Saturday evening the rendezvous of Casillas and his men was found, and an atcashins and his men was found, and an at-tempt was made to capture them. Desper-ate resistance was made. Two of the bandits were killed and three wounded. Casillas was captured and taken to Elzulu, where, after being tortured, he was shot to death. He divulged the hiding place of a large amount of plunder.

REPAIRS WILL BE COMMENCED.

The Homestead Works to Be Put in Shape Within a Week. "Repairs will be commenced upon the Homestead works next Saturday or Monday," said Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel Company, yesterday. When this statement was made the secretary had just come out of Chairman Frick's room, where the officials of the company had been holding a meeting. "Our reasons for sending deputies to Homestead was to protect the property at the plant. "No immediate violence was feared. We simply apprehended trouble and thought we would take time by the forelock and get ahead of the workmen in case they decided to do some damage. We have many re-Invitation pairs to make at the works, and from the number of threats made by the workmen recently it looked as though, if we did not soon take some action, we would have the whole plant to rebuild. Even if the threats of the men were not genuine, we are now on the sale side. Of course, it is unfortu-nately more than probable that there will be some unavoidable friction when we are prepared to start the mill, but I think the trouble will only be short-lived, and that after a time matters will adjust themselves. "We had a similar experience before both at Braddock and Duquesne, where we de-feated organized labor. We are therefore not in any way fearful of the result in the present case. It is a mistaken idea that the Carnegie Steel Company has any quarrel with the men because they are members of the Amalgamated Association. We would just as soon have Amalgamated men working for us as any other.

Colonel Norman M. Smith, of the Eighteenth Regiment, was at the Union depot last evening. He has faith that the Homestead trouble will be satisfactorily settled. He had heard that an appeal had been made to Governor Pattison, but he thought troops wouldn't be necessary. The founder of the conference, Rabbi Wise, explains that it is not a legislasive body and cannot exact binding laws, yet it can act in an advisory way and render de-cisions upon disputed questions, as the Rabbis of all post-talmudical times have dote. ### Intelligent Action Is Wanted.

Rabbi Wise has attempted to prepare the minds of the members for intelligent action upon it by publishing a series of very erudite and elaborate discourses under the title: "The Proselyte Question." In these discourses he quotes from the chief anthori-ties upon Mosaic law who have written within the past 2,000 years, and after mak-ing their prescriptions the subject of full argument, he reaches the conclusion that Gentiles ought to be admitted into the fold

His judgment in this matter is disputed with great acrimony by Hebrew and rab-binical scholars who have explored the depths of the Jovah, and he is regarded by them as no better than a false prophet who would undermine Israel and destroy orthodoxy. He maintains, however, up to this time, and despite all opposition, that the adoption of his views by the Rabbinical Conference would be the means of bringing

CHARGED TO CARNEGIE. The Locked-Out Housesmiths in New York Say the Iron King Acts in Concert With the Iron League-An Understanding Is

NEW YORK, July 5.-[Special.]-"Presi dent J. M. Cornell, of the Iron League, is acting in concert with Carnegie in fighting organized labor. This is the true significance of the contest between the League and the

tary McAndrews, of District Assembly No. 253, Knights of Labor, when questioned today in regard to the situation of the iron strike in New York. "Then you think there was an understanding between Cornell and Carnegie, or the latter's representatives, that the iron men should make war on the labor unions?" was asked. "Yes, of course," was the reply. "Does not Cornell buy his iron from Carnegie?" The reporter reminded Mr. McAndrews that Mr. Cornell had declared that the Iron League was not opposed to organized labor, and that its action in locking out the housesmiths was taken simply as a defense of one of the firms in the League-the Jackson Architectural Iron Works-which he said had been unjustly boycotted. Mr. Mc-Andrews smiled at this, and intimated that he thought a good deal of salt should be used with Mr. Cornell's statement. "What do you think of the plan of the Iron League to form a supply company to furnish with material the contractors whose supply of bricks, cement, etc., has been cut off by the strikes ordered by your assembly district?" was asked.

"I don't think the plan will succeed," was the answer. "In fact, it has been frustrated thus far."

When told that not more than 50 housesmiths are now locked out, Mr. McAndrews admitted that the number was even less than that. "Ther, if the lockout is virtually ended, as you admit, what cause have the labor unions to pursue the fight?" asked the reporter. The only answer was a knowing smile and an intimation that, although he was not pre-pared to state the cause, the iron men would learn it in time. Mr. McAndrews added that before the fight was finished the Cor-nells would learn something about organ-ized labor that they did not know before. RED CLOUD'S SCALP INJURED.

labor unions of this city." Such was the statement made by Secreto succeed Campbell and the further organ-ization of the committee. It has already been arranged that Mr. Campbell shall re-main a member of both the General and the Executive Committees The politicians in Washington refuse to believe that Mr. Campbell is sincere in the reasons he gives for declining to serve as Clarkson's successor. They are confident that he lays down the newly acquired bur-den for two reasons. First, because the criticism caused by the knowledge of his nnection with the Armour beef monopoly of Chicago would certainly be most injurious to the Republican party; and sec-ond, because ex-Senator Farwell has made one, because ex-Senator Farwell has made known to the public the fact that President Harrison once characterized Mr. Campbell as "a professional lobbyist, unfit to be ap-pointed to any Federal office."

Mr. Campbell is known to be a high-minded, dignified man, and he undoubtedly resented such a slur as this, even though i emanated from the lips of the President of the United States. He knew, however, when he permitted himself to be chosen Chairman, just what Harrison's opinion of him was, for it had been given to him by Mr. Farwell at the time the President expressed it.

Real Reason for the Resignation,

The ex-Sepator's little exposure had not much of anything to do with Mr. Campbell's action, however, and neither did the publication of the fact that he is Armour's attorney. The real cause of Mr. Campbell's declination to serve his party is that his employer, Mr. P. D. Armour, put his foot down, and said that it must not be. He did not want his meat business mixed up with Republican polities. It was therefore a question of bread and butter with Mr. Campbell, and like the wise man he is, he soon saw clearly which side his bread was buttered on.

In this connection there has been a rumor current in Washington for several days to the effect that Mr. Armour was about to announce his conversion to Clevelandism. A prominent Democrat who talked with the Chicago millionaire a few days ago, however, says that Mr. Armour's real position s that he does not care who is elected, as either Cleveland or Harrison would b ceptable to the business interests of the country.

How Campbell Was Selected.

Mr. Campbell's selection at the recent meeting of the national committee was known to be but temporary, and was brought about for the purpose of putting an end to and covering up a Republican family quarrel caused by the dethronement of Chairman Clarkson. A majority of the national committee resented the President's repudiation of Clarkson and wave data repudiation of Clarkson and were determined to force his re-election. In order to avoid the fight that would nave followed, the President's friends adopted the expedient of presenting the name of a man acceptable to the friends of Clarkson. The name of Mr. Campbell was the best one that could have been chosen, as he, having been a member of the National Committee for several years, and all that time an earnest supporter and admirer of James G. Blaine, was of course popular with Clarkson, Fasset, Fessenden and the other Blaine men on the committee. The President's idea was that by calming the tempest for a moment he would be able to look about him for a Permanent Chairman. He prohably has one selected now, but if so he is keeping his name quietly to himself for the present. The Western Democrats, particularly those from Illinois, have quite generally pronounced the choice of Mr. Campbell for pronounced the choice of Mr. Campbell for the Republican leader as an unwise one, and many of them have predicted that the President and his friends could not afford to have Mr. Campbell as the Republican fig-urehead during the campaign. On this point Senator Palmer, of Illinois, said to-day:

over to Judaism a multitude of Christians For nearly a quarter of a century he has held this opinion, and he has repeatedly laid it before bodies of rabbia. Chances for a New Church

His followers say let the Abrahamic rite be abrogated, and the abrogation officially adopted and promulgated, and the songation officially adopted and promulgated, and thousands of Gentiles will join the synagogue, as es-pecially American reform Judaism will not insist upon the observance of any religious rite that could not be easily dispensed with if too exacting. Marriages between He-brews and Christians would be contracted in larger numbers than now, and before long a new church would be forming, neither He-brew nor Christian, but a little of both.

Col We Such a church would attract thousands of young dissenting Hebrews and nominal Christians. The formation of such a new church would be the one thing for which church would be the one thing for which thousands have been looking these many years. The abrogation of the rite was the most radical reform carried out by St. Paul. It opened a door to the re-formed Judaism, for which Christianity stood at the outset, and admitted thousands Oa Oa Oa who would have been barred out, and it Oal Oal Oal subsequently led to the universal spread of Christianity equivalent to Judaism. But it did also that which the Hebrew sages were afraid of. They said: "The proselytes are as injurious to Israel as leprosy."

TRADING IN ARABIA.

A Nation Where the Yankee Is Outdone in the Matter of Bargain Making.

The Arabs are the shrewdest traders in he world, says a writer in Harper's Young People, They know to a farthing the value of the article they want to sell, and they will haggle half a day for a penny. The American who comes to Arabia, Northern Africa, Russia or any trading point in the Old World to deal with these Arabs may consider himself "smart," but the chances are that the Arab trader will get the best of

These Arabs bring their goat-skins, which is the principal commodity they sell to Europeans, over the mountains from the interior, traveling great distances to the trad-ing stations to meet the foreign buyers. Brokers are employed at these places to bring about a conference between the American buyer and the Arab seller. This broker gets the two parties together in a room, and after much solemn drinking of coffee they

Are ready for business Arabs are very suspicious in trading, and no one but the buyer and seller is permitted to know what the terms are. They clasp right hands, and a scarf is thrown over the hands, that none may see. Not a word is uttered. The offer is made in sign language. The buyer grasps the seller's finger at a joint. The first joint indicates an offer of so much, the second joint so much more, and the knuckle-joint so much, their hands being always hidden by the scarf. The Arab invariably rejects with scorn the first offer. The parties walk about the room, and turn their backs upon each other. Then the buyer, if he is inexperienced enough to buy by weight, is lucky if he doesn't find a pound or so of Arab sand sewed up cunningly in the shank of each root.skin.
