WHAT BRADSTREET'S AND R. G. DUN SAY

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. NEW YORK, July &-Special telegraphic returns to Bradatreet's indicate that the decreased volume of trade in the short business week following the holiday has been cut into still further by serious industrial disturbances in Pennsylvania and New York and by attempted "free silver" and "anti-option" legislation at Washington. There are nearly 80,009 iron and steel, lumber, stone quarry, paving and other employes on strike or locked out, aside from the usual idleness at this season of nearly 50,000 glassworkers. In all, about 359 iron and steel mills are idle, most of them west of the Alleghenies. No agreement on the iron or steel wages scale has been announced but the former appears the more likely to happen.

Riot and bloodshed at Homestead have served to check business in almost all lines at Pittsburg and neighboring points. Willism Weihe, ex-President of the Amalgamated Association, wires Bradstreet's that the Homestead employes ask for $24 for steel billets as the basis of the wages scale, be-cause, as he states, billets are quoted at that price with an upward tendency.

No Change at the Big Cities.

The larger commercial centers show no marked changes. At Boston boot and shoe manutacturers are pressed to fill orders, and sales of shoes in general are reported fairly active at all points. Hides are firmer a Eastern markets, and at the West there is

Eastern markets, and at the West there is more inquiry for leather. Lomber is in quite good demand West, notably at Du-luth and Minneapolis. Woolen yarn spinners at Philadelphia are running full time, but prices are low. Fall orders in stable lines are being re-ceived at Baltimore, but they are smaller than heretofore. Chicago reports staple products in fair seasonable demand, consid-ering that farmers are generally busy with crops. St. Louis reports stocks of summer goods low and those of fall goods coming in, with 'air sales in most lines.

ulet. The stoppage of so many iron mills has trengthened finished iron and steel, but pig on is as dull as ever, with "private terms" i5 for No. 1 X, now made public for best astern makes. Steel billets have been tronger and steel rails are more active. The Movement of Wheat Abroad.

Telegraphic and cable returns to Bradreet's as to stocks of wheat available in the 'nited States, Canada, afloat for Europe and Europe July 1, show an aggregate of 59,-0,000 bushels, a heavy decrease during me last-no less than 21,000,000 bushels, aree-fourths of which took place in affoat and European stocks-a remarkably rapid and European stocks-a remarkably rapid rate. The foregoing argregate is 16,000,000 bushels larger than one year ago; 30,000,000 bushels larger than one year ago; 30,000,000 bushels larger than July 1, 1889. Totai American stocks of available wheat, both consts, 33,659,000 bushels, are materially in excess of similar holdings July 1, 1891, 1890 and 1889; but smaller in some instances, na-terially so, than the aggregate July 1 of 1888, 1887, 1886 or 1885. Cable advices from Melboarne, July 7, announce 2,853,000 bushels of available wheat in Australia as compared with 5,508,000 bushels July 1, 1891. Bank clearings at cities throughout the cent over the totals for the like werk one year ago. The hardening of loan rates throughout the country during the week has been due in part to applications for funds at New York to ald in the crop movement, but also, to an appreciable extent, to reingence on part of investors and loaners of capital to enter into new or long engagements at the movement.

committee from the Amalgamated Associafor as now. tion concluded their seventh session last night without having accomplished hardly anything. They will meet again Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

It was the opinion of many vestering aft-ernoon that the seventh conference would settie the wage troubles between the Pitts-burg manufacturers and their employes or put an end to all conferences. This did not turn out to be the case, however. The conference commenced at 2 o'clock and it was somewhat after 6 before an adjournment was reached. The usual reticence on the part of the members in re-gard to telling what had been done was observed. All they were willing to give out was the fact that they had adjourned, and that the only thing definitely decided upon were some foot notes to the scale. Just what these extras were they refused to say. It is said some of the committee are retarding proceedings by ob-jecting to everything the Amalgamated men want. Better progress is said to have been made yesterday than any time yet.

Thursday a report was going the rounds that at yesterday's conference one of the principal things done would be to pull down the wages of the roller and heater so that the puddler could still be paid $5.50. One of the manufacturers was asked about this last evening. He denied that such a thing had been brought up during the afternoon. He also intimated that there was no likelihood of matters turning in that direction. The best of feeling prevails between the manufacturers and the Amalgamated men, and the latter take from this that the pros-pect for winning is very bright. They think that if the manufacturers were not willing to work under an Amalgamated scale, so many conferences would not have been held. There is an opinion among some of the iron and steel workers that the scale by the

Pittsburg men will not be settled until the Homestead matter is far enough advanced to see how it is going to end. FLINT MEN GOING TO CORNING.

In yesterday's report an error was made in crediting No. 2, Freeman, of Malarkey & Co., with 25 barrels an hour. It was true their No. 2 was through the sand and shot, but is very small. Their No. 1 was also shot, and it was this well that had its production increased to 25 barrels an hour. However, it has dropped down to 20 barrels an hour and it is quite likely it will lose its position in the list. The west and outhwest sides of the Melse pools are proving very deceptive. The Forest Oil Company's No. 5 McEwen was 20 feet in the sand yesterday, but was not showing any oil. They still have some six or eight feet to go before touching bot-tom, but the chances for finding anything are not flattering. Their No. 1 on the same farm will get the sand to-night. It is located near the cemetery back of Willow Grove, and should make a well of some size. Their No. 5 on the E. THE BLACKBURNE-LASKER MATCH. COMMENTS.

COMMENTS. The Morning Post says: Lasker secured a remarkable victory by 6 games to 0, 4 games having been drawn. The young Ger-man competitor has thus, not only by his extraordinary score in this match, but also by the excellence of his play, undoubtedly placed himself on a level with the foremost players of modern times. Steinitz and Zuk-ertort, although they gained overwhelming victories against Blackburne, accompliabed no more than Lasker, who out of 18 games, including two in the recent tournament with the English champion, has won 8 and drawn 4. The marvelous record can only be attributed to play of the highest or-der. In only two of these games, namely, the second and ninth of the match, has Blackburne had a chance of success: but even on the occasion when he has been at a dis-drawnate to pull the game out of the fire and make a draw. The most remarkable char-accuracy. He never misses an opportunity, and seidom, indeed, gives his opponent a chance. The Standard observes: Lasker has gained hard-carned and well-deserved victory. He ranks now among the chess magnates and stands second to none. Steinitz bea and stands second to none. Steinitz beat Blackburne seven games to none; but Black-burne had, at least, three times won games, but failed to secure victories; while with Lasker he had ouly one chance of winning a same, through Lasker's dversight, and a slight chance in the final game. Comparing the two matches, Lasker's play is decidedly of a higher order. He plays the opening, middle and end game with equal skill and far-seeing judgment.

far-seeing judgment. The Held, London, says: Lasker won the match on Tuesday, when 586.35. Yesterday's Market Features.

a The Meid, London, says: "Lasker won the match on Tuesday, when the tenth game was played. Final score: Lasker 6, Blackburne 0, and 4 draws. These are eloquent figures. At the conclusion of the recent quintangular match, in which Las-ker won the first prize, we said that Lasker combined Zukertort's ingenuity with Stein-itz's soundness. We have nothing to detract from that statement, strong as it seemed at the time when it was made. Blackburne is not a match player; that is generally ad-mitted; but to gains such a decisive victory as Lasker has achieved deserves the highest possible praise. Even Steinitz, after his vic-tory over Blackburne, considered it the greatest of his successes, although there was a greater element of luck in that match than in the present. Blackburne could have won at least three of the games in the former match, while against Lasker it can hardly be said that he had any such chances. Two of the games lie might have won, but he only drew them. In the others he had no chance. There are various reasons to ac-count for thes defest, the main heing that he was unduly influenced by tear of a possible defeat and the consequent loss of prestige, while Lasker had everything to gain from a victory. Hence Blackburne limited his rep-ertory of the openings and this may have been a mistaken policy, since Lasker plays the close openings better than Black-burne, while the French defenee offers little scope for the display of ingenuity. He also dreaded to venture upon any other opening, Lasker being an fait with the latest investigations and innovations, much more so than Black-burne. He is a master of the middle game and conducts the ending with extraordinary skill. In two endings, when Blackburne had the best of it, he could only draw, while Lasker having once the minutest shade of an advantage, in-creases it with masterly precision.
