Some Cold Facts for Free Traders to Face in the Coming Campaign.

BENEFITS OF M'KINLEYISM

Shown in a Manner That Democratic Orators Can't Refute.

FIGURES NOT EQUAL TO LYING.

The Value of Exports for a Year Exceeds a Billion Dollars

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HISTORY

IFROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, July 16 .- The commerce of the United States with other nations under the McKinley tariff law is not likely to be an object of attack by Democratic free trade orators during the coming campaigu. Figures can be made to lie, but the figures prepared by the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department have always been accepted by the disputants of both parties as unquestionably accurate.

The data for comparative statements of the foreign trade of the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, have just been finished as to totals by the Treasury Department. I am able to give these totals at least a week in advance of their official publication. I can emphasize, however, the statement that these figures are not estimated, but are absolutely verified, and are given us by the full authority of the chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Treasury Department. Unlike most figures, these are eloquent. They afford a vindication of the McKinley tariff which will undoubtedly cause some strong protection speeches in Congress next week, which the auti-protectionist railers against what they call high taxes and the imbecility of the American citizen to buy the products of other nations will be unable to answer. Figures to Knock Out Free Traders.

Here are the figures in which the free traders will certainly find their Waterloo in the Presidental campaign: For the first time in the history of the United States the value of its exports is $1,030,335,626. This shows an enormous increase over the ports by the magnificent sum, representing the balance of trade in our favor, of $202,-

The total sum of our foreign trade, including imports and exports, reaches the amazing figure, $1,857,726,910; of the importations, the value of those free of duty for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1892, was $458,001,145, while the value of the dutiable articles was $369,390,139.

These figures speak for themselves, but figures of even more eloquence in favor of high protection are the following: The percentage of value of imports free of duty compared with those dutiable for the last fiscal year was 55.88. It is only necessary to compare this with the same percentage for previous years to show the beneficial effect of the McKinley tariff.

The Imports Free From Duty. The percentage of imports free from duty was in 1891 only 39.15; in 1890, 34.19, and in 1889, 34.81. This, of course, shows that under what free traders called the enormous taxes of the McKinley tariff act the American citizen, whether laborer or capitalist, is now actually availing himself of a larger foreign market than ever before, while at the same time the balance of trade is so enormously in his favor as to reach the im-

But overwhelming as these figures will be to the free traders, even more unanswer-nble will prove the astounding statement that the actual ad valorem percentage of duties collected on the total imports into the United States during the fiscal year just the same percentage for 1891, which was 28.60, for 1890, which was 28.92, and for 1889, which was 29.69, and any intelligent student of figures can see that the ratio of taxation upon the average imported prodnet has, instead of being increased, been enormously reduced, slike to the poor and the rich citizen of the United States, under the McKinley tariff. Free Trade Arguments Useless.

The arguments of the free trade orator who opposed the McKinley bill in the last Congress, and whose misrepresentations largely caused the Democratic majority in the present House, will fall to the gr before this simple statement of fact, which cannot be questioned or assailed as to accuracy, and which absolutely proves that which the practical operation of the McKinley tariff act has resulted in an unprecedented value of exports for this country; an enormous balance of trade in favor of the United States; a consequent appreciation of the visible wealth of the country; the abso lute proof that the imports free of duty exceed those dutiable by a greater percentage than has appeared since the last Democratic administration; and, finally, a convincing refutation of the claim that the general effect of the McKinley tariff would be t raise the duties on imports to an uncon-scionable degree, by the cold fact that the average percentage of the ad volorem duties on the total imports for each fiscal year has decreased from 29.69 in 1889, to 20.65 in 1892.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 16 .- [Special.]-A meeting of the Canadian Niagara Power Company, incorporated, was held at the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, Ont., this morning, at which the following were present: Edward D. Blue Uniforms and Brass Buttons Effectnally Ward Off Pneumonia.

"I think the unusually healthy condition of the guard is directly attributable to the absence of sutlers in this camp," said Major Campbell, of the Division Staff. "The boys are living on good plain tood and cannot get fruits, etc., which, after being car-ried around for a length of time, are not fit for anyone to cat. In all my experience I have never seen a more healthy lot of men. Another fact which seems peculiar is that a uniform and brass buttons seem to be a safeguard against a cold. Why, if the men bad gone through what they did when they arrived here at home in their yards, more than half of them would now be down with pneumonia, but here even colds are seare. No, we wear the buttons and Dame Nature does the rest."

CLEVELAND'S RELIGION

A Charge Against Him Refuted by Himself-His Letter Published by the Pape That Made the Accession-What It Was and the Reply Thereto.

Boston, July 16.-A few days ago Vi'liam Back, of Chelsea, wrote ex-President Cleveland, calling his attention to this statement, quoted from the report in the British American Citizen, of a discourse in

Music Hall:

When Cleveland became President he had a wire run from the White House to the Cardinal's palace and placed a Roman Catholic at the head of every division of the 15,000 employes in the departments, and permitted nuns, without authority and against the princed instructions hung up in every public building in Washington, to go twice monthly through them and command every clerk to contribute to the support of the Roman Catholic Church, and if he or she retised, have the yellow envelope sent them. We can see how unworthy such a man is of support.

Mr. Cleveland's reply, printed in the British American Citizen this week, reads as

me. However, as this is the second application I have received on the same subject, I think it best to end the matter, so far as it is possible to do so, by branding the statement, in all 4ts details and in its spirit and intention, as unqualifiedly and absolutely false.

I know Cardinal Gibbons, and know him to be a good citizen and first-rate American, and that his kindness of heart and toleration are in striking contrast with the flerce intelerance and vicious malignity which disgrace some who claim to be Protestants.
I know a number of members of the Catholic Church who were employed in the public

ROBBED THE WORSHIPERS.

but Pathetic Story From St. l'aul's Cathedral, Through the vigilance of the sexton at St. Paul's Cathedral the police yesterday apprehended a Jemale thief, who has been stealing numerous pocketbooks from worexports for the same period of last year of shipers in the sanctuary during the past $145,845,816. The imports exceeded the exture of two or three months. Within the past week no less than nine purses were stolen, and always from women while at prayer. The sexton, on Friday, detected a young married woman, who was appar-ently at her devotions, appropriating the pocketbook of another lady beside her. The sexton was not absolutely certain, but as the case in point was similar in every way to those previously reported, he followed the woman home and then reported to the Inspector McKelvy and Detective Shore went to the house yesterday. The young woman at first denied, but finally admitted the charge. Amid tears she told her story. She said she was a stranger in the city, her husband was out of work, they were out of money, and, owing to her delicate condition she became despondent. One day while at prayers she could not resist an opportunity to steal the purse of a woman at her side who had carelessly laid it on the pew. After that, owing to the carelessness of the wor-shipers, she had many opportunities of the same kind, and embraced them all. She could not tell how much money she had secured, but it was not a large sum. Several of the stolen pocketbooks were found in the house. Arrival of the Vice Presidental Candidate in New York.

PLEASANTLY GREETED ALONG THE LINE

PPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. New York, July 16 .- Adlai Ewing Stevenson, candidate of the Democracy for the Vice Presidency, arrived at the Grand Central station this evening on the 8:50 o'clock train from the West, and went directly to the Hoffman House. He was accompanied by his law partner, James S. Ewing, of Bloomington, Ill., and Adam T. Ewing, W. G. Ewing, Jacob W. Richards, A. A. Goodrich, A. W. Wright and Charles Shackelford, of Chicago. They have rooms in the new house on Twenty-fifth street.

Mr. Stevenson's tall figure was clad in black, with a long frock coat, the collar of which was negligently turned up on the right side. A white straw hat which had lost much of its whiteness from the accumulated dust of travel covered the bald dome of thought which is so prominent a feature of the campaign lithographs of the candidate. He greeted THE DISPATCH reporter with great cordiality, and said that though his journey from Chicago had been some-what fatiguing, there had been some pleasant incidents to lighten it.

Pleasantly Greeted Everywhere, "Pleasant greetings were given me," he said, "by the Democrats of Rochester, Syracuse and Utica, and several prominent members of the party in Albany came aboard the train when it stopped there. There was no formal speech-making. I simply thanked those who came for their kindly expression of interest. I shall probably remain at this hotel until next ably remain at this hotel until next Wednesday evening, at least."

Asked regarding his movements after the ceremony of notification next Wednesday evening, and the reception at the Manbattan Club afterward, Mr. Stevenson said he has not as yet made up his mind what he will do. It is possible, he said, that he may ac-cept Mr. Cleveland's invitation to visit him at Gray Gables

"Concerning my participation in the campaign," said he, "that will be a matter which will, in all probability, be decided by the National Committee."

Sanguine About His Own State, "What do you think of the public character of the ceremony of notification as it has been arranged?" he was asked, and to which question he replied:
"I am perfectly satisfied with any arrangements my fellow Democrats have made for the occasion.' Mr. Stevenson said that the Democrats of Illinois are very enthusiastic, and feel that victory is in the air, and that they may carry the State this fall.

"The State this fall.

He is making every effort to make his stop in Gotham as brief as is consistent with the duty before him, and, if only his private wishes were to be consulted, would keep away from the heat of town altogether. He will also prolong his stay at Buzzard's Bay as late in the season as possible, and will, so far as seems expedient and proper, delay entering into the active campaign until well after the summer solstice has

Every day now brings Mr. Cleveland visitors from all sections of the country. This morning a delegation of about 30 represent-atives of the Cape Cod Democracy came up on the early train and were driven over to Gray Gables, headed by Henry C. Hather, of Yarmouth, the Cape aspirant for Con-gressional honors in Representative Charles Randall's district. Mr. Cleveland greet-S. Randall's district. And put them at ease at once. Their reception by him was intormal and was over in a few moments. Joshua W. Copeland, of Indianapolis was the guest of Mr. Cleveland to-day. Mr Copeland is a prominent Democrat in that city and a retired business man. He came as a bearer of good tidings to the nominees and of good cheer from the Hoosier State Democracy. Mr. Cleveland and his guest talked over the local situation in that State in detail, with special reference to the attitude of Governor Gray and of his position in reference to the national ticket. Mr. Copeland says that President Harrison has lost ground in his own State, largely through his narrowness in religious belief.

In relation to Stevenson and the Vice Presidency, Mr. Copeland thinks it a tremendous task for the Democracy to attempt to carry the State of Illinois, but with Mr. Stevenson on the ticket, there is a good chance of winning there. He says Cleve-land will carry Indiana.

ELKINS SOON TO RETIRE

To Accept a Unanimous Nomination Governor of West Virginia. WHEELING, W. VA., July 16 .- [Special.] -It now looks as if there might be another vacancy in President Harrison's Cabinet about the 1st of August. The West Virginia Republican State Convention will meet August 3, and Secretary of War Elkins will be tendered the nomination for Governor by acclamation. This has been the programme for months, and the sentiment of the party in the State unanimously supports it. Mr. Elkins has not said he will not accept, neither has he declared Party leaders say the nomination will be made by acclamation and that the Secretary will accept. The fact that he has remained silent until within three weeks of the convention confirms the general belief that he will not forbid the use of his name. He is regarded as the strongest candidate the Re-publicans could name, and all the candi-dates will withdraw if it is understood on the day of the convention that he will accept. This they declare openly.

HOME RULE'S THE ISSUE.

r. P. O'Connor Thinks Gladstone Will Send the Bill Three Times to the House of Lords Before Appealing to the Country-One Man One Vote,

LONDON, July 17 .- T. P. O'Connor in his paper, the Sunday Sun, to-day says: The elections are practically over. The opposition have a majority, not so large as some expected, but still a substantial majority, which in the days of Palmerston would be regarded as gigantic. The question now is whether Mr. Gladstone can carry his measure and hold out long enough. Our own impression is that he can and ought. He is steadily and immutably bound to hold two things: First, not to allow himself to be oroed on the country until he has reformed two things: First, not to allow himself to be forced on the country until he has reformed the whole system of registration. Second, not to allow his hand to be forced in the House of Lords.

The differences of opinion of the different sections of the Liberal and Irish parties in regard to details of the home rule scheme can be imagined, but there is none on the question of one man one vote, which Mr. Gladstone should carry. Even some Unionists would find it difficult to oppose the proposal, although most of the Unionists are really rank Conservatives and have lost what lattle trace of Liberalism they ever had. There is more real sympathy for the progress of democratic demands felt by many Tories than by some Unionists.

Yet the differences of temperaments and interests would make it possible that we would not find a solid Unionist party arrayed against us on Liberal proposals outside of home rule. The idea, indeed, prevails in some quarters that Mr. Gladstone will go be ore the country after one defeat of the home rule scheme by the House of Lords. Our own impression is that he will send his home rule bill at least three times to the House of Lords.

The supreme interest of the Liberal party during the remaining years of the struggle is to mature public opinion and to arouse the passions of the people against the House of Lords. There is no cry to which the masses would respond so promptly or so fiercely as "Down with the House of Lords." The Unionists are already ousy about Mr. Gianstone's difficulty in getting the Nationalists to bang up the question of home rule until he has dealt with the one man one vote issue. This bill should be confined to the fewest clauses and words possible. No such difficulty will arise. The two bills can run and the structure in th fewest clauses and words possible. No such difficulty will arise. The two bills can run side by side, each taking alternate rights; and in the same way the home rule bill could accompany every other Government measures.

could accompany every other Government measure.

The Tories may force us to another appeal to the country before the question of home rule is settled. If we then have the one man vote we can sweep the counties. The Tory threats that the House of Lords will not pass the one man one vote measure is of no more importance than the bugbear of civil war. In Uister both are what is called in an American campaign, "lying." As to in an American campaign, "Ifing." As to hanging up the question of home rule, Mr. Gladstone thinks, speaks, acts, lives; therefore he will not allow it to be postponed for a single second.

The ball entered the girl's right side, and she will die. Guzman says he did not think the rifle would carry so far, and the girl exonerates him. GREENSBURG—A horse belonging to Joseph Diebold, a Jeannette grocer, ran off Friday evening and dashed into McKee Bros. gla furnaces, where workmen were putting in a fuel gas producer. The animal dropped ten feet to the bottom of the furnace, leaving the splintered cart at the narrow entrance, fortunately without injuring either the men or horse.

Many of the men seem afraid that if they go out on strike it will be a useless fight, as the mills here have little or no influence over the balance of the Carnegie interests. vealed here by proceedings taken by local firms to secure their just dues. To make a long story short, last April W. H. Pendleton, up to that time a fairly prosperous produce dealer, decided to open a wholesale grocery house at Lawrence.

Armed with a commercial agency rating based on his former business and what is now alleged to be a false statement of his now alleged to be a false statement of his finances, Pendleton made a tour of the country, purchasing his stock. He bought of dealers in New York, Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and elsewhere a stock which it is now learned aggreated more than $143,000 in value. His supposed standing enabled him to obtain 60 days' credit on everything he bought. In all he made purchases from 277 wholesalers and importers. Returning to Lawrence, he soon began to receive his goods, which he stored in the warehouse of his father-in-law, Theodore Poehler. Soon the bills came due, and in a short time, payment failing, an assignee rial of J. Smith Stowe, Jr., the young forger, ended this evening in a verdict of the Rights of Th ir Race, Mr. GEETNA, July 16 -[Special.]-The first week of the Pennsylvania Chantauqua closed to-day. Next week's programme, as arranged, presents some good speakers and entertainments. From what can be learned, the Third Brigade will stay here for some days yet, or until it is thought advisable to send them on to Pittsburg or disband the camp.

THE INDIANS' DAY. How It Was Observed at the Pennsylvania Chautauque-Representatives of Many Tribes Present-Indian Orators Uphold

This was Indian Day at the Chantauqua, and the Indians of the Carlisle Training School attracted many curious visitors. Captain Pratt, principal of the school, had the Indians in charge. They were accom-panied by their famous Indian band, led by Reuben Wolf, a full-fledged Sioux. During tne day this band rendered some very good m usic, giving a special concert in the after-noon. Many tribes were represented, principally the Sioux, Apaches, Cheyenne, Kiowa, Seneca, Comanche and Chipewa.
In the morning Mrs. Amelia & Quinton, President of the National Women's Indian Association, gave a very interesting talk on her seven months' experience among nearly all the Indian tribes of the United States. Rev. Mosley H. Williams, Secretary of the American Sunday School Union, also spoke in the morning on "The Development of the Sunday School," and portrayed its his-tory from Biblical ages down to the present time. In the afternoon Hon, Herbert Welsh, Secretary of the National Indian Rights Association, spoke to the Chantauqua on the success and object of the society he represented. He was followed by two Inans-Richard Davis, a Cheyenne, 23 years of age, whose Indian name is Wyacy, and Reuben Wolf, a Sioux. Their subject was "Our Immediate Citizenship in the United States." Their speeches were original, well delivand received vigorous applause. A special act of Congress was favored, giving all Indians unlimited citizenship and equal rights with other American citizens. Captain Pratt, of the Carlisle Indian School, followed. He severely scored the remarks of the Secretary of the Indian Rights Association, say-ing it would be far better for the Indians bad the Indian Department of the dian, because he deserved it in every way.

To-morrow (Sunday) will be rigidly ob served at Chautauqua. No trains will be run, and the gates will be closed all day. There will be several devotional exercises. KEADY-Suddenly, on Saturday, July 16, 892, Thomas Keady, in his 87th year.

HOW TO CLIMB A STAIR. Chaufauqua Women Solemn'y Discuss This Momentous Question, CHAUTAUQUA, July 16 .- [Special.]-The things which trouble women most at Chautauqua seems to be how to get up and down. stairs easiest, that is if the questions asked of Mrs. Bishop in her question box to-day can be taken as a criterion. Fully a dozen people wanted to know something about that question. One of the best suggestions which came from the audience was that "an elevator is good for going up-stairs, and as for coming down, a great many people fall lown annually. Other questions asked were: "How to stand at perfect repose," "Whether people should walk up hill on tip toe or on the whole foot." Mrs. Bishop could see no reason for levity in any of the questions, but answered all in a very methodical nanner.

Lovers of dramatic readings were given a genuine treat this afternoon, Mr. Locke Richardson giving Dickens' "Christmas Carols." Mr. Richardson proved even bet-ter in this than in "King Lear," which so pleased his audience the other evening. Prof. Seaman, President Star and Dr. Harper finished their counsels to-day on Ancient Greece, Anthropology and Job. All these lectures have been well attended and proved very instructive and interesting. The newspaper and magazine writers met this week and formed the Chantanqua Writers' Club. The second meeting was held this evening, at which 19 names were enrolled. The object is to hold receptions and literary meetings during the season. JUSTICE WITH LEADEN HEELS

A Rumor About Cannon,

HARRISBURG, July 16. - [Special.]-A report that additional ammunition had been requested for the troops at Homestead and forwarded from the State arsenal to-day probably arose from a shipment of two cannons and suitable ammunition for the same to Mt. Gretna for the use of Captain Stafford's battery. An exchange of the battery's field pieces was made yesterday on account of the odd size of the old guns which made it inconvenient to obtain ammunition. It is not known yet when Adjutant General Greenland and the Govern staff will proceed to Homestead to
