Little Doubt That the Anti-Options Bill Will Be Talked to Death.

IT'S IN A FAIR WAY TO DIE NOW.

A Few Things Checking Moves on the Congressional (hessboard.

ADJOURNMENT STILL NOT FAR AWAY

WASHINGTON, July 21.-The anti-options bill was debated for three hours in the Senate to-day, after which time it went over till to-morrow without action. The speeches were in opposition to that measure. They were made by Mr. Daniel, in continuation and conclusion of the argument which he had begun yesterday, and by Mr. White, who had not concluded when the time came for laying aside the Much of Mr. Daniel's speech was directed against the statute imposing a tax of 10 per cent on the circulation of State banks. Mr. White's speech was a passionate and energetic arraignment of the bill as a usurpation of States rights, as detrimental to the Interests of the producers of the country, as an unwarrantable interference with the legitimate business of chambers of commerce and boards of trade, where buyers and sellers were on an equality, having equal access to the information gathered all over the world, and where there was "a fair and square deal," and as as encouragement to "bucket shops."

Before Mr. White finished his speech the

A House joint resolution as to the affix-ing of the great seal of the United States to certain documents showing the adminis-tration and administrators of the United States Government at the beginning of the four hundredth anniversary of the discov-ery of America were laid before the Senate and passed; also, a Senate joint resolution directing the Secretary of the Senate to affix the seal of the Senate to the same doc

Mr. Carey, from the Committee on Terri-tories, reported back the House bill for the admission of New Mexico as a State, and said that he would not call it up until next session. Mr. Platt, a member of that committee, said the report was not unanimous, and that he would present a minority re-

Mr. Peffer offered a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire and report whether, in the present state of the law as it concerns the relations between em ployer and employe, the employer enjoys the privilege of determining and enforcing the rate of wages; whether, if so, the resulting condition is conducive to the good of society or tends to promote the general welfare; whether Congress has jurisdiction over the subject matter, providing remedial legislation, and if so, what legislation is necessary to afford proper relief.

The resolution was, at Mr. Peffer's request, laid on the table.

Mr. Warren addressed the Senate in favor of the bill introduced by him on the 8th of June providing for the irrigation and reclamation of arid lands, for the protection of forests and the utilization of pasturage.

Mr. White began his speech on the anti-option bill with the statement that in view of the extreme importance of the subject he felt called upon to discuss it with deliberation and thoroughness. Mr. Washburn winced visibly, for he, as well as the other friends of the bill, recognized the covert threat that the bill was to be talked to death if possible. That was the general understanding when the Senate adjourned. Mr. White pleaded exhaustion and secured an adjournment without finishing his speeci. He is a powerful man physically, and will doubtless be ready to resume the thread of his argument to-morrow at 2 o'clock, and carry the bill well along to-ward the hour of adjournment. Other speakers are ready to follow him. He is a powerful man physically, Homestead Talk Stifl on Tan.

Following an ancient tradition the Senate rarely refuses to suspend the regular order long enough to allow a Senator to make a set speech on any subject near to his heart. Therefore it may hear Mr. Call, who has already given notice of his intention to speak on the word-provoking subject of the relations of the employer to his employe, prompted by the Homestead trouble. He is good for one day. Then Mr. Aldrich wants to sound the keynote of the Republi-can campaign in a tariff speech, which will undoubtedly provoke a reply from Mr. Carlisle. All of these may carry the option bill along well into next week. Meantime, the conferees on the sundry civil bill will be hard at work, and once they report an agreement nothing is likely to hold Congress in session another day. That is why the friends of the anti-option bill lelt depressed when the Senate ad-

Organized Labor Gales Its Point With the World's Fair Commission-An Official Statement From the Knights of Labor

WASHINGTON, July 21. -[Special.]-John W. Hayes, General Secretary-Treasurer, and Messrs. A. W. Wright and John Devlin, of the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor, have been in the city since yesterday in the interests of organized labor in connection with the Columbian Exhibition. In an interview with an Associated Press reporter to-day, after detailing their grievances against the management of the fair in connection with organized labor, they made the following statement:

Our board was appealed to, and for several months we have been in correspondence with the management on the subject. It is with the management on the subject. It is but fair to say that we have ever found President Palmer, of the National Commission, Director General Davis, Secretary Dickinson and General St. Clair, of the National Commission, disposed to be just and fair and to recognize the proper claims of labor. In some way, which it is not our province to explain, they have been powerless, or at any rate unable to make the concessions and carry out the reforms which it is our belief they were personally desirous of making.

cessions and carry out the reforms which it is our belief they were personally desirous of making.

About a mouth ago two members of our board went by invination to Chicago to endeavor to make a settlement of all difficulties. An agreement was drawn up in the form of a letter written by President Baker, of the Chicago directory, and addressed to Mr. Hayes as General Secretary of the Knights of Labor. This letter conceded all that we had asked as perfectly satisfactory, only that until President Baker's action was formally ratified by the Executive Committee of the directory it could have no binding effect. General St. Clair, through whom the negotiations were being conducted, agreed to procure the passage of the necessary resolution by the Executive Committee, and we now understand that this was done, though for some reason, an oversight probably, we did not receive a copy of the resolution, nor were we notified of its passage. We then sent a circular letter to our assemblies, briefly stating the facts and requesting them to urge their representatives in Congress to postpone action upon any proposal to give financial aid to the Exposition until we were afforded an opportunity to be heard upon financial aid to the Exposition until we were afforded an opportunity to be heard upon the subject.

Last night, in the course of an interview with General St. Clair and other members of the National Commission, we were informed that the Executive Committee of the Chicago directory had passed the resolution which was necessary to give binding force to Fresident Baker's letter. This morning we again met the National Commission, and after a full interchange of opinions, arrived at a definite understanding and agreement, which, we believe, will insure full justice to the workingmen employed in connection with the Fair.

This agreement is embraced in the letter of President Baker, already referred to, the resolution of the Executive Committee approving it, and a further letter signed by Director General Davis, in which he guarantees the earrying out of the agreement. It provides that the eight-hour system shall be carried out; that none but citizens and those who have bona fide declared their intentions to become such shall be employed; that all disputes are to be settled by arbitration: that representatives of organized labor bodies interested are to be allowed free necess to the grounds to see that the agreement is carried out, and that the labor laws of Illinois and the regulations of Chicago shall be respected by all contractors. The settlement is entirely satisfactory, and disposes of our opposition to the proposed grant.

CHESSBOARD MOVES

That Are Being Sapidly Made—A Few Things That Block the Congressional Game-Sympathy to Be Sent to Russi

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The pieces the legislative chessboard are rapidly being moved, and were it not for the complicated position in which the anti-option and sundry civil bills are placed, the Congressional game would soon be at an end. The House made a number of moves toward that result to-day, which tended to show the disposi-tion of members to clear the board for the final fight over the two great measures. The most important of these was the passage of the bill to enforce reciprocal com-mercial relations between the United States and Canada. A number of measures per-taining to military and naval matters were passed, but postal affairs were not so suc-ceasful—the only measure of general im-portance called up for the issuing of postal fractional notes not reaching a favorable

Mr. Butler, of Iowa, thought that the resolution was a piece of buncombe, and by raising the point of no quorum, consumed the remainder of the hour accorded to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and the resolution resumed its place on the calander.

On motion of Mr. Henderson, of North Carolina, a bill was passed authorizing the Postmaster General, when necessary, to provide star route mail service between the annual advertisement for bids.

Mr. Logan, of Louisiana, entered a mo-tion to reconsider the vote by which the House laid on the table the bill granting an American register to the steamship China.
