A Famous Regiment

One of the regiments that made a special effort to secure a good rating at the recent inspection was the Tenth now in command of Colonel Hawkins.

The Tenth Regiment was organized in 1873. The first Colonel was John A. Black, at present of Greensburg, Pa. D. D. Lloyd, of Apollo, was Lieutenant Colonel and Cyrus Thomas was Major. Hudson A. Overholt was the Adjutant. The regiment continued under the same command for five years. The regiment, however, was Tenth Regiment, May 20, 1884. Lloyd remained as Lieutenant Colonel until the expiration of his commission. O. L. Wilson was Major. At the expiration of the commission of D. D. Lloyd, Major John M. Kent was elected Lieutenant Colonel. Captain James M. Laird, of Company I, succeeded him. This organization continued until the resignation of Lieutenant Colonel John M. Kent, July, 1887, when Adjutant J. B. R. Streator was elected Lieutenant Colonel. He still continues in office. In 1890, Captain W. W. Mowry, of Company H, was elected to fill the vacancy and still remains in commission. The first Adjutant of the Regiment under Colonel Hawkins was A. G. Happer, of Washington, Pa. After serving two years he resigned and was succeeded by John A. Me-Elvane, , of Washington, now Presi-Judge of the Twenty-seventh Judicial dictrict of Pennsylvania, who continued in service for two years. After his resignation J. B. R. It is a revelation to take a trip up through the St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair and Lake Huron, and in fact all through Peninsular Michigan. There is some of the finest river and lake scenery in the world. On the romantic Burt Lake, about half way between Cheboygan and Petosky and near Mackinaw, there is one of the best camps, as to location and surroundings, of any in that region. It is on what is known as the "Inland Route," which is a paradise for lovers of natural beauty, with its forest-fringed lakes, winding rivers and romantic scenery. It is also the heaven of anglers, for black bass, perch, pike, pickerel, muscalonge and white fish abound, and within a few miles speckled trout and the rare grayling, which is un-doubtedly the gamiest fish in American waters. This latter species is very rare, and found in no other locality in this country. The club owning these grounds, i40 acres in extent, is the Argonaut, of Pittsburg. They have built six double cottages, own a steam yacht 50 feet long, and have "all the comorts of home," and more, too. Their beach is said to be the finest bathing beach inland, with a delightful surf every after-noon. I saw a letter the other day from a steam when is now at Burt Lake, and at the time of writing the letter he sad there was the finest surf he ever asw-better than Atlantic City. The club is made up of prominent business we of Pittsburg, their families and friends. W. M. Laird, of Wood streer, R. H. McCreery and J. E. Bobbins, of the Lake Shore road, are enthusiastic members, and can give any information desired about this most delight-ful way of anending a summer's outing.

The Baker ballot law renders the organ-izing of a new party in this State not an easy business. In order to have the names of their candidates printed to the State ticket it is necessary to have a petition signed by one-halt of 1 per cent of the voters in this district for which the candidate is nominated, and on the country ticket 3 new cent of the vote of
