He made a plea for a more substan-tial support of the official organ for this State; also referred the members to the in-surance feature that was being added. The asked her if she had not left home without her parents' consent. Maggie confessed report of the Grand Secretary, Charles E. Steel, showed a membership at present of 5,805 in 168 lodges, with a cash balance in the Grand Treasurer's hands of $129 77. The Superintendent of Juvenile Temples, Miss S. Ella Stearn, reported 60 temples with a net membership of 2,548, with a fund amounting to $198 89, and expenses of $161 58; leaving a balance of $37 31. She urged that more effort he made for their inmarriage, but Maggie would not lay open her heart on that subject. Thought the Marriage Not Legal,

that she had, and still further startled her uncle by remarking that she was married to Durr. He asked for the particulars of her

"Mr. Davis thought that the marriage was not legal, but that Durr had arranged a mock proceeding. I sent him home to investigate still further. Monday he came back and told me that Mag, vie had said she was married to Durr at Curz berland, Md., on July 6. Her uncle told her that she would have to leave the house. She begged to stay until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. She said Darr was coming then to take her away. To this Mr. Davis consented. He imprediately came down and told me. I had warrants sworn out for Darr and Cap-tain Stewart detailed two special men to watch for him. One man was sent to Mr. Davis' home and the other man yrent to Durr's hotel. After giving me this infor-mation Mr. Davis returned to his hom?

Durr Treats His Wife Badly.

"Shortly after 12 o'clock Monday .Mr. Davis came into the office carrying a bundle of torn papers. He explained that Durr had made a call during his absence. He told Maggie that he was never married to her and that now he was tired of her. Durr then took the marriage certificate and a number of letters he had written her and tore them up. He then left the house, telling her he never wanted to see her again. This looked as though Durr had again. again. This looked as though Durr had slipped through our fingers, but we re-solved to be on hand at the appointed time anyway. Sure enough at 2 o'clock Durr appeared at Davis' ready to claim his unlawful wife. He was arrested and brought to the police station. He was not at all communicative. In answer to the Sergeant's question whether he was married Durr replied that he never was. Maggie was held in custody by her

"I took the little pieces of paper Mr. Davis brought me and finally succeeded in putting them together. The most important is the marriage license and it is as unique a legal blank as I ever saw. The thing is a "orgery and a very bungling one at that. It s alleged to have been drawn by 'Squire Hagerty, of Cumberland. There are a creat number of questions to be answered treat number of questions to be answered in filing out a marriage license blank. In doing so Durr made some, very funny breaks. According to the blank he is Maggie Kramer and she is John K. Durr.

Threatened to Kill His Mother-in-Law, Deputy Sheriff May, who has been given considerable notoriety on account of the part he played in the capture of the man who attempted to assassinate H. C. Frick, was sued before Alderman Gripp yesterday for disorderly conduct. The complaint was lodged against him by his mother-in-law, who stated that he had drawn a revolver and threatened to shoot her. every lin In nearly The most ludicrous one is where blunder. Maggie says she was never married, and on a little further the question is asked whether the woman was ever divorced. Darr answers this by saving that on December 25, 1889, she received a divorce at Gainesville, Cook county, Tex. At that time Maggie had seen only 12 winters. Durr makes the marriage license do for that purpose and a certificate too.

Forgets to Tell Who Married Him.

"In writing up the license he forgets to

"In writing up the license he forgets to state what county Cumberland is in, and after a long string of stuff about being united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Durr forgets to say who tied the knot. "This morning I had a talk with Maggie. She is one of those persons that will not tell anything unless she wants to. In ap-pearance she looks to be about two years older than she is, and is rather pretty. I tried to get her to tell me her story, but tried to get her to tell me her story, but she would not. She said she had lived with Durr for three weeks, but where she would not tell me. About her marriage she would tell me nothing more than that she thought she was really wedded to Durr. "Durr is a well-known character. He is about 23 years of age. He has been mar-ried before and divorced. His divorce proceedings were quite interesting Mrs. Jarrett, the wite of the Jarrett who skipped from the Southside four years ago with $75,000 of the people's money, was made co-respondent in his case."

450 WORTH OF CONSCIENCE MONEY

E. Maginn, the Well-Known Cracker and Confectionery Manufacturer, Receives This Amount From Belfast, Ireland.

Among the letters which Mr. E. Maginn, Among the letters which Mr. E. Sharinn, the well-known Liberty street merchant, found in his mail recently was one post-marked Belfast, Ireland. Upon opening it he beheld an English £10 note. Not expect-ing a remittance from that oity he was natur-ally somewhat surprised. A closer examina-tion revealed the fact that the only writing or inscription in the way of an explanation from the sender was on a single slip of paper. The words were these: "Consc This clears the mystery to a certain extent only, for Mr. Maginn is at a loss to know by whom the money was sent or when it was appropriated by the sender. Mr. Maginn desires the Belfast papers, whose editors peruse The Dispatch, to men-tion the incident and acknowledge with thanks the letter received. He considers this action on the part of person concerned entitles him to forgiveness. This he freely grants.
