OUR CRACK CRUISER,

Yclept the Pirate, Now Formally Christened the Columbia, by

THE VICE PRESIDENT'S DAUGHTER.

The Most Formidable Fighter of Merchant

Ships is Launched. AN INNOVATION IN NAVAL WARPARE

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.-Under a sun the intensity of whose rays seemed to make ber sides vibrate, Cruiser No. 12, or, as the vessel has been popularly known, the "Pirate," was launched here this afternoon from Cramp's shipyard, and christened the "Columbia" by Miss Edith Morton, the daughter of Vice President Morton. In consideration of the time of year, and with a view to just such weather as the country is suffering under now, the Messrs. Cramp decided some time ago not to issue any invitations to the launch to-day, and in consequence there was a marked difference in the size of the crowd in comparison with that of previous launchings at the Cramps' yards. "Launching Day" at Cramps' is always observed as a holiday, and with the exception of the gang of men at work preparing the cruiser for her passage down the ways, the army of loborers that early throng the yard were absent this morning.

The business of getting the cruiser ready for her dip into the river was not an enviable one. The sun shone with a tropical intensity, and the ships, standing in their stocks, and the iron lying around the yard, seemed to act as a magnet to draw its full rays down upon the panting, perspiring men who were standing under it.

The Distinguished Persons Present, Although the launch was not to take place until 4 o'clock, by 1 o'clock men and women had begun to gather around the gates of the yard. At 3 o'clock, when the gates were thrown open, the crowd had increased to about 4,000 people, and this number was doubled by the time set for the Secretary of the Navy Tracy, Vice President Morton, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Soley, Commander John Soley, Con-gressman John R. Fellows, Commander Allibon, United States Senator Chilton and Assistant Secretary of State Gunnell reached this city at 1 o'clock from Washington. Mrs. Morton and her two daughters Miss Edith and Helen Morton, arrived at 1:30 o'clock from New York. The two parties were met at the station by Henry Cramp, and taken in carriages to the shipyard. The distinguished party reached the yard about 3:30. The Miss Mortons were presented with a bouquet upon their arrival, and then the entire company was escorted to the christening stand beneath the bown of the awaiting cruiser.

The great length of the cruiser was especially noticeable as she hung out over the river, and in comparison to her the carovels of Columbus would hardly have served for

The Ceremony of the Launching.

While the christening party had been taking their stand upon the platform, the busy workmen below the keel were preparing her for her journey down the ways. The sheetings were struck down and tim-hers sawed through.

At 3:50 the crashing sound of breaking planks was heard, and Miss Edith Morton was handed the bottle of champagne and was handed the bottle of champague and told to prepare herself to break it as soon as the cruiser started. The noise of the cracking wood ceased, and immediately the cruiser started on her downward sweep toward the river. As the vessel began to gather headway, Miss Morton crushed the bottle against the keel and said, "I christen these Columbia"

The cheers of the crowd and the tooting of whistles greeted the "Columbia" as she passed from the ways and sat upon the surface of the water as true as the spirits in a level. After the launch a luncheon was served to Secretary Tracy and Vice Presi-dent Morton's party, at the conclusion of which they were driven to the railroad station and returned to Washington.

A Description of the Destroyer. The cruiser launched to-day is essentially a commerce destroyer and not a fighting ressel, within the accepted meaning of the term. Her designers drew their plans with two main objects in view—speed and coal-carrying capacity. To obtain these the carrying capacity. To obtain these the cruiser was given a tonnage of 7,500 tons, far greater than would be necessary in a fighting vessel of the same dimensions. Her lines are finer than those of the great transatiantic passenger greyhounds, which, for stability, are required to have much greater beam.

The dimensions of the cruiser are 400 feet in length on the load water line, 58 feet beam and 24 feet draught. The contract calls for a speed of 22 knots an hour on the trial trip, failing which the builders are liable to a money penalty or the absolute rejection of the vessel by the Government.

Some idea of the speed that will be required of the cruiser may be obtained by comparing it with the championship record of 21.06 knots for an bour, held by the steamship Teutonic. For every quarter knot of speed obtained over the contract limitations the Cramp Company will receive a bonus of 50,000.

A novelty in marine architecture will be

A novelty in marine architecture will be the three screws of the vessel. The three screws are an idea of Chief Engineer Melville. The Chief Engineer believes that by the use of the three screws the tremendous strain to which the shafts of a twin-screw steamship are subjected will be divided, and so lessened, and the liability of a breakdown greatly requeed.

The Triple Screw Experiment,

The use of three screws is in the nature of an experiment. At trials in France the center screw was found to have only a minimum propelling power. At the French trials, however, the three screws occupied the same vertical plane. To overcome this difficulty and to get the maximum amount of power from each screw, Mr. Metville has placed the side screws 15 feet forward and above the centre one, so that the water flowing from them does not interfere with the water flowing into the periphery of the center screw.

from them does not interiere with the water flowing into the periphery of the center screw.

To obtain the speed of 22 knots an hour the cruiser's ten boilers are expected to develop 20,500 horse-power. The bunkers of the vessel will be greater in capacity than any steamship or naval vessel in the world. When full they will hold 2,000 tons of coal, and at a rate of 10 knots an hour the cruiser will be able to steam 24,240 knots, or nearly around the world, without recoaling. The English cruiser Blake, which is recognized as the finest maval vessel afloat, can carry only coal enough to steam 15,000 knots without replenishing.

The vital portions of the cruiser will be protected by an armored deck, 4 inches thick on the slope and 2½ inches on the flat. The bunkers not used for coal will be filled with a patent substance of such solidity as to form a wall five feet thick, having all the advantages of an inner and supplemental armor.

The Guns the Cruiser Will Carry. The armament of the vessel will consist of The armament of the vessel will consist of one eight-inch gun as a bow chaser, four six-inch breech-loading rifles, eight four-inch breech-loading rifles, light four-inch breech-loading rifles, light four-inch breech-loading rifles, light forms guns six pounders, six rapid firing one-pounders, two machine guns, one field gun and six torpedo tubes. No big guns will be carried, as the object of the cruiser will be to concentrate as rapid a fire as possible upon an enemy.

The cruiser is to be ready for service by October 1, 1853. The bid of the Cramps for her construction was $2.725,000 and the armaments and equipments will bring the cost up to about $3.200,000. It was stipulated in the contract that the entire vessel, in all its parts, should be of domestic manufacture.

Allegheny's Citizens Suggest How to Beautify the City-Boulevard System Advised-Mayor Kennedy's Pian Has Started the People Thinking-Congratulatory Letters Received.

Beautifying the city is the subject uppermost in the public mind at present in Allegheny and some of the heaviest property owners there are suggesting desirable features to Mayor Kennedy.

The idea of rebuilding the streets by increasing the bonded indebtedness, as pro-posed by Mayor Kennedy, has started this train of thought. As a result the answers to the propositions which were sent out a few days ago by Allegheny's chiet official are accompanied by suggestions of more or less value. Nearly half a hundred property owners of Allegheny have sent in comuni-cations indersing the plan as outlined in the circular.

Messrs. Boggs & Buhl, the heaviest taxpayers in the city, yesterday sent a reply to the Mayor's question. After indorsing the plan, and giving an illustration of the method of tax increase, they suggest the purchase of a large plat of ground in the suburbs for a park site, and advise the construction of a boulevard to further the beauty of the city. The necessity of a park beauty of the city. The necessity of a park in Allegheny, the gentlemen go on to say, is unquestioned. The great benefit the city parks shave already proven to the people of Allegheny is a source of pride and pleasure. By the proper expenditure of money another park, that would be farther away from the busy traffic of the city, could be laid out, and this, with a good boulevard system, would add to Allegheny's reputation for would add to Allegheny's reputation for beauty.

The suggestion meets with the hearty ap-proval of the Mayor, although he is inclined to hear from more citizens upon the street improvement question before suggesting

w. J. Beckfeld most aptly said: "If we do not wish to all so far behind our sister city, Pittsburg, that she will attempt to take us in as a suburb, we had better take some immediate action regarding our streets." Others harp upon the possibility of a big steal by unscrupulous contracts.

The Mayor's desk was fairly littered with these letters yesterday afternoon and the official plodded through them with a smile, despite the heat, for every one of them was congratulatory.

PATTERN MAKERS SWERVE.

They Meet, Organize and Promise Alle giance to the People's Party.

Sixty odd pattern makers organized last night as the first People's party club in Allegheny county, and were officially accepted by representatives from the Excutive Committee.

The meeting was held in Pattern Makers' Hall, Moorehead building, and addresses were made by Committeemen Burrows, of the People's party, and various members of the Pattern Makers' Association. Resolutions were adopted by which all connections with other political parties were severed and allegiance was promised, financially, by voice and by vote, the People's party.

This is thought to argue well for a large attendance at the county convention to be held in Curry's University Hall, Saturday, July 30.

Girls Take Boys Places.

At McKeesport the large new tin plate nil of the United States Iron and Tin Plate Company was put in operation yesterday, employing 500 men. In putting the new mill in operation the company has put girls to work in polishing the bright tin. It has always been done by boyk. The company will at once add two large pud-ling turnaces to those in use.
