PLUNGES INTO THE ALLEGHENY.

Dusiness Reverses Induce Melancholy and Prompt Suicide.

THE MAN'S BODY NOT YET RECOVERED

Teofil Waldowski undressed himself under the Sharpsburg bridge and deliberately suicided by plunging into the Allegheny river at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The affair was witnessed by Thomas Sanks, the 9-yearold son of Bridge Keeper Sanks.

Waldowski was a sign and house painter and did business at No. 312 Brereton avenue just above the West Penn Hospital. At an early hour yesterday morning he left home stating that he was going into town to attend to some particular business Instead of taking the direction he intended he was seen to board the Butler street car outbound and did not alight until the end of the line was reached. There he met a friend to whom he said that he was going to Sharpsburg to do some work. At the car was a well-to-do farmer, having two chilbarns he boarded an electric car bound for Sharpsburg.

Shortly before reaching the bridge he left the car and nothing more was seen of him until young Sanks saw him disrobing on the bank of the river. The boy watched the tuan intently, thinking that he was simply going in for a bath. As he took off each piece of wearing apparel he folded and carefully laid it on a large stone. He took all the letters from his pockets, placed them in his hat and then put them under his suit.

When this was done he waded slowly out into the water and when the depth of his head was reached he suddenly disappeared The boy was still a spectator and when he saw that the man did not resppcar he immediately gave the alarm. Officer George Rigleman, who was passing at the time, was notified and took the entire outfit to the Seventeenth ward police station. Among the papers found in the hat were severa judgment notes which had been given gainst Waldowski by Aldermen Kerr and Varner of Penn avenue. There was also receipted bill for $250 paid to Armstrong & McKelvy for material he had purchase from them. The judgment notes will reach several hundred dollars and it is thought that this prompted the man to commit the Waldow-ki Was Financially Embarras It was learned from the constable who had served the judgment notice on Wal-dowski that he was overcome with surprise and expressed great fear that he would lose the little property which he had accumu-

Mrs. Adams, of No. 2901 Penn avenue, with whom Waldowski has taken his meals for several months past, says that for a wreck Waldowski has not been himself. She tays that he would sit around the house for her, beating and abusing her and driving yours at a time without speaking a word.

He had spoken to her of his business reverses and always appeared to be ill at case. Yesterday morning he went to the restaurant and ate a light breakfast after which he left the place. The lady was not surprised when she was informed that the man had suicided. The friends of the man went to the scene of the drowning at once and secured the servces of several men who are searching for the body. Up to a late hour last night it had not been recovered.
