cause (if our theory be correct that London will buy our securities on a large scale) Erie will be one of the prime low-priced English favorite. We es-pecially recommend Lake Shore, which is a magnificent property. A bird could not fly straighter between Buffalo and Chicago than along its rails. We predict 150 for it by January 1 next. St. Paul ought to go to par within a year. Why not? It is sarning over 6 per cent and it is in perfect physical condition, with the traffic along its line not only fixed, but steadily grow-ing each year more indemendent of line not only fixed, but steadily grow-ing each year more independent of any one kind of crop. Its business is di-versified and its tributaries continue to grow richer every year. It is a buil market that is the plainest thing now in sight; yet Russell Sage is quoted as not expecting any bull market, and it is hard to find any enthusiasts among the 'upper ten' of fluance either here or in London."

A SENSATION IN LARD.

Something Like a Carver Develops and Prices Rush Upward.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5 .- A jump of 35c in the price of lard was the sensation to-day on Change. There were rumors that Armour

There were runnors that Armour was in a position to squeeze short sellers in the product and a very nervous feeling ruled. Fork and ribs participated in the advance. In the other pits realizing sales by the buils caused a decline and wheat, corn and outs are each %c lower than last night. The twist given the lard market was one that will be remembered for some time. Coming on top of the big advance all around vesterday, and against the influence of an easier corn market, the remarkable action resulted in decidedly strained conditions, lard insving been for months the most in-movable article on the list. Pork made an advance of 90c from the opening price. Riss, after selling back 5c, went up 12%c. While other products opened slightly easier, lard mas up 3%c for September and went up on denser bought some. October stuff and started the shorts after the September lard. Commission houses also had stop orders. These lifted the market still more.

A Blessing in Disguise, Europe is to have big crops this coming season. This in one way is what the finan-ciers of this country have been wishing for. The deficiency in Europe's harvest last sca-

The deficiency in Europe's harves been wishing tor. The deficiency in Europe's harves that sea-son was necessarily made up by our enor-mons surplus. During the 11 months ended May 81 our exports of breadstuffs showed an increase of $165,000,000 over the same period in 1891, but this was not as great a blessing as was imagined, as Europe's in-dustrial depression, due largely to ruined harvests, had immediato re-flection in our own markets. Eng-land has not, however, been vis-ited this year with the destructive rains of 1891 and an immense harvest is indicated. The forecast of sur own Agricultural Bureau for July shows that the grain harvest, though larger than the average, will show a failing off of about 500,000,000 bushels as com-pared with last year's yield. This, however, is cause for rejoicing rather than weeping, as a repetition of last year's enormous wheat and corn crop would tend to produce low prices and a congestion of product, the same as that which demoralized the eotion trade in 1891.
