Germany Finds a Way to Spite America in a Commercial Treaty.

A TRADE CONVENTION WITH RUSSIA

COPTRIGHT, 1892, BY N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS. BERLIN, Aug. 6. - Prince Bismarck's studied avoidance of any open reference to the Government's policy in the brief speech which he delivered upon his arrival to-day in this city has been a source of great rehet to the official mind, which had been filled with forebodings that the Prince would renew his attacks. Since the notable speech which the ex-Chancellor recently delivered at Jenn, he has been made to feel official resentment in various petty ways.

The different railway stations in Prussia, when the Prince was expected to pass, have been virtually closed to the public. At Halle where he had to alight to change trains, the railway officials refused to admit any one to the platform, and asked the Prince to at once leave the car and stay in the waiting room until the train was ready to proceed. Similar isolation had been attempted here, but the officials did not dare to face the public wrath over further acts of insolence toward the ex-Chancellor.

Shabby Treatment Making Him Friends. The ovations in his honor by his people have become warmer, owing to the public indignation over his bad treatment. It has transpired that the Government tried to influence the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar to order the municipal authorities of Jena and he chiefs of the university to refuse the Prince a public reception on the occasion of his visit to that place.

Prof. Hackel, however, personally saw the Grand Duke, obtained his assent to the proposed popular greeting of Prince Bis-marck, and arranged for the distinguished visitor's reception before the Grand Duke's Ministers, under promptings from the Berlin Chancellerie, sought to squeich the

Dr. Miquel's Financial Scheme. Herr Theilm, President of the Imperial This rupture in the ministry is due to a majority of the members of the Cabinet supporting Dr. Miquel's financial reforms.

Dr. Miquel proposes to relinquish the taxation by the State of real estate and mines, permitting communes to levy such taxes for their administrative expense. He budget resulting from the loss of taxes on real estate by an increase of the income tax and the levying of a tax on funded prop-erty. Herr Herrfurth contends that this scheme is objectionable, as relieving the taxation of great land owners. His retirement from the Cabinet is regretted, not so much that slone by his own friends and admirers, but until Sunday. by his political opponents, even the Frei-sinnige press according him homage as an honest, high-minded statesman.

The negotiations for a commercial entente with the Russian Government open with the balance of advantages on the side of Germany. The St. Petersburg Government has not only taken the initiative in the matter, but shows unusual anxiety to have the arrangement completed.

A Boon to Both Countries. State Secretary Rotherburg presided today at a conference of experts from the different State departments called to discuss the Russian proposals. These were em-bodied in the memorandum presented by Count Schouvslaff, the Russian Minister at Berlin, to Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, the Imperial Minister for Foreign Affairs. The proposals intimated that the Russian Government was ready to modify the cus-toms laws in favor of the German iron, steel and textile industries in return for the withdrawal of the German differential duties on grain. Count Shouvaloff asked for a definite statement as to what extent Germany would require a reduction of the Russian tariffs. The conference of the experts has not yet been finished. They are drafting a report which is likely to form the basis of the pro-

The announcement that a treaty of com-merce had been concluded between Ger-many and the United States of Colombia has been subject of congratulations by the commercial press, as a German success against the fiscal policy of the United States. Small Waifs of Bertin Gossip When the new treaty between Gc many and Spain comes up in the Reichstag, it will be adversely criticized in view of the Spanish-American arrangements already killing German trade in the Antilles. Cholera has suddenly become epidemic in Teheran. Fourteen deaths occurred Thursday, and yesterday 25 persons were reported to have died from the disease. The epidemic is raging in Northern Knorassan, and has also appeared at Ardekun and other places.

The quarantine doctor at Resht reports several deaths at that place and at Enseli, and states that last evening when a mail steamer arrived at Enseli all the Persian subjects on board were placed under strict quarantine. The spread of the disease is largely attributed to the lack of cleanli-

Dr. Frey, an Austrian expert in matters pertaining to cholers, writes to the news-papers that in the experience of himself and other doctors the notion prevailing among ignorant persons that cholera patients were often buried alive may be attributed to the fact that three hours after death the bodies of the victims of the scourge became distorted by muscular contractions, often lasting for hours. These contractions are taken by the persons mentioned as indicating that life still exists in the bodies, and as the remains of the cholera patients are interred as soon after death as possible, there records imagine that the patients are

WILHELM IN HARD LUCK.

INY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. LONDON, Aug. 6.-Emperor Wilhelm acknowledges that he has had a glorious time in the Solent, though luck has been against him in yachting for the Queen's oup. The Meteor seemed a certain winner, a light breeze bringing her home in grand style, but the breeze increased in force, and the little yacht Corsair feeling the full effects, came in 20 minutes later and saved her time. On Thursday the Meteor proved what a good boat she was, beating the Iverna, the crack English yacht, by 14 seconds, but even here the Emperor's luck was against him, as Queen Mab won on a time allowance. Yesterday again, although the Meteor finished first in her race, the prize was taken by Lespernance on a time allowance. The strong breeze which the Thistle so badly wanted never

But aside from this yacht racing the German Emperor has had nothing to complain of. The weather has been excellent, barring absence of breeze, and the company has been to his liking. Events have run very smoothly at Osborne, grandmother and grandson being apparently on the best of terms, and an unostentations show of friendship having been maintained even with the Prince of Wales. The festivities were numerous, though at Osborne they were of the sedate order. On board the Emperor's yacht, the English royal yacht and at the clubhouses, however, the fun was livelier; but as the Emperor made no speeches and did not even attempt to put the sailors through the outlass drill all went off happily. He has enjoyed himself so much that he will not sail ho meward until Sundar.

The Chairman of the Homestead Investigating Committee MAKES HIS IMPRESSIONS PUBLIC.

Le Thinks the Carnegie Company Treated Its Imployes Kindly,

BUT SHOULDN'T HAVE HAD PINKERTONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Mr. Oates, Chairman of the Sub-Committee of the House which investigated the labor troubles at Homestead and the connection of the Pinkerton detectives therewith, submitted a report to the committee which was not agreed to. No member questioned its report until the entire investigation was completed, which could not be done before the second session of Congress. Therefore a postponement of the report was made un-

The report prepared by Mr. Oates having been rejected by the committee, he to-day gave it to the public as his individual opinion of the matters investigated. The report begins with a statement of the movements of the sub-committee, followed by a description of the works at Homestead, the number of employes, the rates of wages, the negotiations between the company and the Amalgamated Association preceding the outbreak, the contentions of both sides, and finally, an account of the disastrous ending of the attempt to land the Pinkertons. Outrageous Treatment of Pinkertons The report says that the Pinkertons who

The report says that the Pinkertons who surrendered were brutally and outrageously treated, principally by women and boys, and Mr. Oates is loath to believe that any of these women are native Americans. He says that the indignities to which they were subjected was a disgrace to civilization.

Mr. Oates asks whether the Carnegie firm was justified, in equity and good conscience, in proposing the reduction in wares.

"I answer," he says, "that Mr. Frick declined to state the cost of a ton of Bessemer steel billets and the labor cost. The men were paid satisfactory wages, but the work much abbreviates the natural period of life, and should be well paid for."
He thinks that the company should have some of the benefits of the profits resulting from the use of improved machinery. He condemns the McKinley law for its failure o benefit American workmen, and says the promises made to the operatives have been promises made to the operatives have been disappointive. Had Mr. Frick stated the bottom facts to the committee, they might have agreed that the proposition to reduce wages was justifiable; but they took issue with him in his conclusion that the tariff did not cause a decline in prices. Kindness of the Company Mr. Oates finds further that the conduct of the company toward its employes was kind in many respects. It loaned them money at low interest to build their homes and never foreclosed mortgages, but in the negotiations the officers did not exercise national industriance industriance. patience, indulgence and solicitude; and Mr. Frick, according to the report, who is a business man of great intelligence, seems to have been too stern, brusque and somewhat autocratic.

Mr. Oates is persuaded that if Mr. Frick had appealed to the reason of the employes, and shown them the state of the company's affairs, the reduction might have been made and no trouble have followed.

Mr. Oates finds that the Pennsylvania law contains nothing to prevent Mr. Frick from employing Pinkerton men as watch men at Homestead, but says that under the circumstances he should not have done so. He made overtures to the Pinkertons He made overtures to the Pinkertons before the negotiations with the men were interrupted, and did not appeal to the county or State authori-ties in the first instance for protection. He asserts that Sheriff McCleary is a very in-efficient officer, but says that had Mr. Frick aided him and joined in his appeal to the Governor instead of employing Pinkertons, the State would have furnished a sufficient force to have protected the property.
