NO WORK FOR THE ADVISORY BOARD

There is more trouble at the Homestead mill. Steward John A. Rayborn, who has all along had the contract for feeding the non-union men, has had a disagreement with Superintendent Potter. As a result of the quarrel Rayborn and 71 of his cooks and waiters refused to work vesterday and left the mill.

Rayborn when questioned admitted that he had a disagreement with Superintendent Potter. He said: "A day or two ago Mr. Potter brought a man by the name of Powers into the works and announced that he was to have entire charge of the commissary department. I objected, but the objections were overruled and for the last three days Powers, who hails from Jersey City, and who is a hotel man by profession, has directed the task of feeding the men in the mills. Rayborn Orderedt o Leave.

On Tuesday morning there was a wordy war between Rayborn and Potter. The result of this argument was that Rayborn resigned. His men stood by him, and they notified the company that they in-tended to stop work then and there. About noon Rayborn happened to be in the kitchen attached to the dining hall No. 1. He was superintending the preparations for dinner, when Captain John A. Newton who commands the night watchof the works, and four of his men rushed into the kitchen and ordered Ray-born to leave the building. Another war of words ensued and then Rayborn was hustled out of the building and taken to the main office.

Rayborn says after being handled roughly he was allowed to leave the works. Some two hours later he made his way to the office of 'Squire Glunt, at Rankin sta tion, on the opposite side of the river, and made information against Captain Newton and his four assistants, charging them with assault and battery. These warrants were given to Constable Stewart, of Homestead, who went to the mills and arrested the men. They were given a hearing before Squire Glunt vesterday,

Dividing Their Cash,

In the meantime Rayborn and his men left the works and went to the Amalga-mated headquarters on Eighth avenue. Rayborn received $1,200 in cash from the Carnegie Company, and late in the after-noon put in an even hour paying off his men. This task was performed at the rooms of the Relief Committee. Bayborn and his comrades went to Pittsburg on an evening train. They told the Advisory Board that 300 men now employed in the works would leave on Saturday night. This episode created a deal of talk in Homestead, but there was little or no excitement.

No important business was transacted by bers of that body were too busy in discussing the events and incidents of the day to handle any labor problems. There is no doubt but that the Homestead strikers were confident of ultimate victory last night.

The news that the Pittsburg manufac tures had signed the Amalgamated scale, coupled with the fact that the cooks and waiters employed by the company had left, were the direct causes for their jubilant

The Company's Side,

The representatives of the company affirm that the "knights of the kitchen" had no grievance, and thus they went out without cause. The company's people positively declined to discuss the situation in detail. Captain Newton and three of his four as sistants, who were arrested on complaint of Chief Rayborn, went to the Pittsburg jail late last night in default of bail. Before he started for the city Captain Newton simply said that the arrests were ab-surd, and that Rayborn would find it difficult to make out a case if it came to trial. Hugh O'Donnell did not materialize in Homestead yesterday, and his absence caused a deal of unfavorable comment.

THE TIDE KEPT BUSY.

Many Men and Large Quantities of Provisions Taken Up the River.

The Tide made her usual two trips yesterday. About 45 men were taken up in the morning, and 30 in the afternoon. Three or four came back, but they could not be used and were discharged. Besides these about 50 men were taken on further up the river. Large quantities of provisions have been carried up on each trip. One thou-sand pounds of meat, 15 barrels of potatoes, 18 boxes of bread and 250 cots were among the things carried to Homestead yesterday. The trouble experienced for a few days by the crowds of idlers about the wharf has been removed by the police. No one is al-lowed to be about who cannot explain his business. Notwithstanding this vigilance quite a number of loafers take in the pro-ceedings about the wharf from the Smithfield street bridge, but these are not permitted to congregate in crowds.

The officers on the Tide say that the demonstrations of those living along the river have almost ceased, and they are no longer cheered while passing along the river. They take this as an indication that the strong feeling against the boat and them is gradually dying away, and they fear no

FLINT GLASS MEN MEET.

The Manufacturers and Their Workmen

Try to Arrange the Scale, Promptly at 11 o'clock yesterday morning committees representing the glass workers and the prescription bottle manufacturers met in the Iron Exchange building. The object of the session was to arrange the wage scale for the coming year. The manufacturers present were Alex. Hamilton, William Hamilton, John Tilby, Pittsburg; William Fox, Philadelphia; W. F. Smith, Alton, Ill.; Richard Breed, Marion, Ind.; George W. Yost, Bellaire, O., The committee of the glass workers consisted of President W. J. Smith, Secretary John F. Hinckley, Philadelphia; Thomas Smart, Alton, Ill.; John Sailer, Philadel-phia; John E. Packer, Chicago; Thomas

O'Malley, Tarentum.
At 12:30 o'clock the committee took a recess and repaired to the Monongahela House for dinner. Shortly after 1 o'clock the glass men reassembled and adjourned at 4. What business was transacted yesterday was not made public. Although the scale is practically settled, the conference will not end before this evening.

Situation at Beaver Falls The affairs between the Carnegie Company and their employes remain unchanged at Beaver Falls. There has been no move on the part of the firm to start the idle mills. A large number of the men have procured work elsewhere. Yesterday a committee was around soliciting subscriptions for the relief of the men. Some are completely out of funds. completely out of funds.

JOHN REAMS ASSAULTED.

He Is Caught and Abused by a Locked Out Mill Worker-Both Sides of the Story Told-The Police Kept Busy. Considerable indignation is felt by the locked-out men of the Union Mills concerning the alleged exaggerated accounts of the assault of John Reams at an early hour yesterday morning. The first report of the affair was told by Reams. He said: "I was going to work about 4 o'clock this morning, and in order to save time I made a short cut across the Allegheny Valley Railroad track. In the darkest spot 1 suddenly heard two men rapidly approaching from the rear. Before I had time to get in a defensive attitude one man sprang upon my back and pinioned my arms to my side. I called for assistance and each time I opened my mouth I was struck with great violence about the head and face. I fear I should have been killed had not the relies arrived as timely as the had not the police arrived as timely as they did and placed the men under arrest while they were assaulting me."

Robert W. Warren, a leader of the lockedout men, said the affair was simply a personal encounter between Reams and Zimmer on account of some trouble the two men had some time ago,

"The most reliable version I have obtained," continued Mr. Warren, "is that Conners had no hand in the affair at all. Reams is employed as a roller, and was going to work about 3 o'clock this morning. When some 200 yards from the gate leading into the upper mill he met Zimmer. The two had words and Reams was attacked. He immediately called for assistance, and the police captured Zimmer as he was run-ning away. Conners was nearby Zimmer when he was captured, and the police seeing the two men together placed both under arrest. The locked-out men about the streets leading to the mills were ordered to "keep moving" by the police yesterday and no crowds are allowed to congregate upon the streets or corners. Police are guarding the mills and patrol the streets and railroad tracks in pairs.

An incident occurred last Sunday in Millvale which illustrates the feeling of every-one connected with the locked-out men against those who have succeeded them. Four children of Charles Schafferline, a non-union roller working in the upper mill, went over into Millvale upon a visit. While going they were coaxed into a boat by a crowd of children, and after their shoes and stockings were taken from them their teet and legs, as well as hands and faces, were blacked with stove polish and then were run home by the crowd.

NEW BAILWAY ON THE SOUTHSIDE

The Suburban Rapid Transit Company's Cars to Be Running Soon.

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Suburban Rapid Transit Street Railway Company was held yesterday at the office of the company at No. 118 Diamond street, The meeting was well attended and considerable business was transacted.

It was decided to increase the indebtedness of the company from $50,000 to $100,-000. This was made necessary from the extension of the line from the city limits to Jane and Eighteenth streets, Southside. As the lines are now projected there will be 21/4 miles of double track, and in all about 314 miles of ground will be covered, making in all five miles of single track. The power of the plant will be increased to 400 electrical horse power. Six new cars and motors were ordered. The total number of cars to be used on the line will be 12. It is ex-pected to have the line completed and cars running within 30 days. All the tracks bave been laid. The posts are now being put up, and all the materials are on the ground. The electrical generators will be here within ten days and will be put

The power house will be located at Knoxville, and just outside the city limits. The old turnpike has been uniformly graded and is now a splendid roadbed. The road will run from White Hall to Eighteenth street, down Eighteenth to Jane street and back up to the Twenty-fourth ward.

Much trouble and expense were caused by the refusal of the Thomas Evans Glass Company to allow the grade at Mary and Josephine streets to be cut down so as to make it a uniform grade. As it now stands it is alleged the company and public are alike discomfited, and much complaint is being made. This new transit line taps the most popular districts on the Southside and is auxiously awaited for by the public.

BEATEN WITH A BALL BAT.

A Boss Probably Fatally Hurt by a Mar Whom He Discharged.

A fight occurred in Tarentum yesterday that may result in a murder. Theodore Mollett, a boss in the outting department of the plate glass works there, was struck on the head with a baseball bat by James Banks, a colored man. Mollett's skull was crushed and it is said he cannot live. The fight occurred over Banks' discharge. Banks came to the city and was arrested at 34 Poplar alley last night. Two officers came from Tarentum and assisted the local authorities in locating the man.

He bases his hopes on the change of sentiment toward the tariff. Even the Democratic wheel horses, he says, are alarmed at the free trade views of ex-President Cleveland, and many will vote the Republican ticket.

Maude Raymond, who owns a house on Second avenue, was arrested yesterday on warrant sworn out before Alderman Toole by Bertha Kennedy, charging her with lar-ceny by bailee. She gave bailsfor a hearing Saturday.

ANNUAL SHOWER OF PALE STARS

Sightseers View the Phenomenon With Great Interest.

PECULIAR RAINFALL IN DUFF CITY

A heavy meteoric shower occurred last night between the hours of 9 P. M. and 3 A. M., during which over 1,000 shooting stars were observed.

The phenomenon was quite generally watched in and about Pittsburg, and parties of star gazers, in the literal sense of the words, were numerous in the suburbs and other parts high enough for clear, puobstructed views. The meteors, as a rule, were quite small in size and flushed across a portion of the sky with but mediocre velocity. They were of a pale yellowish color, as observed through astronomical instruments, and soon spent themselves. The brilliance of the moon affected the eastern sky during the earlier hours of the night, and it was difficult to compute the numbers, as but three parts of the sky could be noticed. The greatest number seemed to be in the west to the naked eye, but the probabilities are that the other parts were equally as productive, but were invisible on account of the moon.

The Time for Shooting.

"The latter part of July and the first fortnight in August are, as a rule, the most prolific times for the meteoric stars, as the Constellation Perseid is in the direct path of the earth's orbit." Prof. Keeler said last night: "Perseid is the most prolific of the heavenly constellations regarding meteoric showers, as they are the most widely and equally distributed, and are not limited to a particular date, although more or less abundant at this particular time of the year." He went on. "The showers from Perseid are the most ordinary to astonomer and less interest is directed toward them. as they have upon no occasion been distinguished by discoveries of any note. Where the Stones Come From.

"The celebrated meteoric shower of No vember 12, 1833, when the stars fell in snowstorm numbers, came from the con-stellation Lionides, and the meteor picked up in Mexico in 1885 came from a shower from the Andromeda group.

'Prof. Young, of the Lick Observatory, in his article upon meteoric showers says none of these stars have ever reached the earth, with the exception of that which fell in Mexico in 1885. He gives the general belief of their size as too small to burn throughout the entire passage between their position and the earth. He compares them, in this regard, to a pebble and a boulder, the aeroite which frequently reaches the earth as the latter and the shooting star as the pebble. He supplements this, however, by saying the possibility is that the shooting star is a small cloud of dust in which gas is intermingled and likens it to a puff of smoke.

Twenty-Five Miles a Second "The shooting star from the Perseid group generally moves at a rate of 25 miles a sec-ond of earthly measurement, while the meteors from the Leonides constellation are meteors from the Leonides constitution are much swifter. This is due to the different positions the bodies are in when in closest contact with the earth. The Leonides meteors coming directly toward the earth meteors coming directly toward the earth and those from Perseids more slanting." Prof. Keeler, of the Allegheny observa-tory, was too intent upon his observations of Mars to pay more than passing attention to the phenomenon. In speaking of it to a DISPATCH man he said it would have no effect upon the earth and the planet Mars was in no way responsible for it. "Much talk is indulged in about this time" he continued, "to the effect that these shooting the carth, but there is nothing in it. The stars move irresponsible of any of the planets near us. They have no effect upon the elements and as far as we now know upon anything else. They are merely peculiarities of the constellations from which they come. They differ materially from comets and other aerolites as they make no sound and their passage is so rapid the component parts of them. One very bright meteor from the Lionides group was closely watched some few years ago and the observer reported it to be composed of magnesia and iron, but discoveries are rare," and the professor returned to Mars.

A Peculiar Phenomenon. A peculiar phenomenon of the elements occurred yesterday afternoon near Duff City, a village some 18 miles out the Pittaburg turnpike. A heavy rain fell for a considerable time, and the ground was muddy and water ran into pools to a depth of several inches. So it was for a radius of six miles. Without this radius the ground was dry, parched and the roads were dusty.
The dividing line between the wet and the dry was very distinct, and the farmers in the locality are at a loss to understand the

They are working on one case now that is expected to develop in a few days. It is said the establishment in question is doing a land office business.

GEORGE SHETLER'S BODY FOUND.

The Remains Brought to the Surface by Exploding Dynamite.

It was necessary to resort to dynamite in order to recover the body of George Shetler, the Pole who was drowned in the Monongahela river near the foot of South Thirty-fourth street Monday night. Shetler was drowned early in the evening, and a party of his friends searched during the greater part of the night for his remains greater part of the night for his remains without success. The next day the search was resumed and was kept up during the day, but no trace of the body could be found, and it was decided to make use of dynamite. Horns Over the Matter. After a battle with the United States Government extending over six weeks, Yee Lee, a Pittsburg Chinaman, has been al lowed to return to this city. While the contest was waged Yee Lee, at his own expense, was held at Gretna, in Canada, across the line from North Dakota.

Just a year ago Yee Lee, a Chinese merchant, left Pittsburg to visit his relatives in China. He did not go to San Francisco as most Chinamen do. He went by Vancouver to Gretna and sailed from a British port. During his absence the Chinese exclusion law was enacted. He left China to return to Pittsburg about 10 weeks ago. He was returning by the same route over which he went. When he arrived at Pembins, N. D., just six weeks ago he was compelled by the Collector of the Port there to go back over the Canadian line to Gretna.

The Chinaman had with him passports signed by Mayor Gourley, of this city. He also carried letters from Rev. E. R. Donehoo. He displayed these papers to the Government official at Pembina, but to no effect. He was positively refused admission to the United States.

Yee Lee at once notified Rev. E. R. Donehoo of his predicament and Mr. Donehoo immediately entered into negotiations with the Treasury officials for the to Gretna and sailed from a British port.

Last night, however, Mr. Donehoo received official notice from the Treasury Department informing him that Yee Lee would be admitted to the United States, and that the Collector of the Port at Pembina had been so notified. After receiving the letter Mr. Donehoo at once notified Yee Lee by telegraph that he was at liberty to Lee by telegraph that he was at liberty to come home. He is expected to arrive in

PALSE PRETENSE CHARGED.

McDonald Oil Operator Gets After as

Old-Time Friend. W. W. Morell was committed to jail yeserday by Alderman Gripp to await a hearing to-night on a charge of false pretense preferred by Charles R. Bushrick. Bushrick is an oil operator and lives at Mc-Donald. The defendant also lived at Mc-Donald and was employed as a deputy sheriff and later as a coal and iron policeman. Bushrick had some dealings with the man and took an interest in him. One day recently Morell told Bushrick he had just been left $15,000 by a relative, who died in the East, and he would get the money as soon as the estate could be settled.

A few days later he told Bushrick that his have to go to her, and as he was short of money he asked for a loan of $100. The money was given him and he came to the city, and for several days nothing was heard from him. Then a letter came saying his sister was very sick and it was necessary to send her to a sanitarium. Money was for warded to defray the expenses. At different intervals letters came, and in various amounts about $500 was forwarded. Bushrick finally became suspicious and came to town and placed the matter in the hands of Detective P. J. Murphy. Upon investigating the matter it was found that Morell had no sick sister, but was living in regal style at the St. James Hotel. Further nvestigation revealed the fact that he had no money coming from any relatives. An information was made before Alderman Gripp, and he was arrested, and in default of $1,000 bail was committed for a hearing.

STABBED TO DEATH.

Desperate Encounter Between Two Angry Colored Men

ENDS IN A BLOODY TRAGEDY.

Gabe Mosby Cut in the Abdomen During the Struggle.

HE DIES AND HIS MURDERER ESCAPES

Gabriel Mosby was stabbed in the abdonen by Ed McAllen in Ed Brooks' restaurant, No. 271 Wylie avenue, yesterday afternoon and died from the effects of the wound at the Mercy Hospital at 9:36 last evening. All parties connected with the affair are colored. Ed Brooks, the proprietor of the restaurant, was an eye-witness to the fight and tells the following story : "Eddie McAllen, or 'Eddie, the kid,' as we generally call him, was a shiftless sort of a fellow. He would never work as long as he had a dollar about him. He has worked off and on for me during the past year. The last time I employed him was week before last, when he worked Saturday and Sunday. He was never employed regularly by me, as he was not a man to be depended upon. Mosby, the man who was stabbed, has been working for me for some time. He came here from Clinton, Sampson county, N. C. This morning about 8 o'clock, he complained of cramps and said he would have to stop work. I asked him if he could not get some one to come in his place. He said he thought he could get a friend named Lindsay to work for him. He got Lindsay and then went over to the drugstore to get something for his cramps. He came back and went upstairs and laid down, but not for any length of time for he came downstairs and said he was going to the doctor. He Was Crying Mad.

"Next I saw him in the back yard and he said he felt better. I was standing in the kitchen and Mosby came in to me crying mad, asking me it I ever had occasion to prevent Lindsay sticking a knife into him, I told him I never had; that he must be drunk to act as he did, and he had taken too much whisky for his cramps. He said he had not and did not propose to have any one lie about him, declaring if Eddie McAllen came in the kitchen he would batter his head in with the poker. I told him to be outer and go unstairs and if he should head in with the poker. I told him to be quiet and go upstairs, and if he should want to quarrel with McAllen to go out in the street, as I did not propose to have any scrapping about my place. Then he said that I could give him his money and he would go if I thought he was drunk.

'Just at this point, it was about 2 o'clock, in walked Eddie McAllen to get a drink of water. Mosby no sooner saw him than he picked up a poker and backed up against the door. I saw there was going to be a scrap, so I velled for them to get out on the street and fight it out if they wanted. Meanwhile Mosby struck McAllen on the head with the poker and then threw it at him.
There is a breadbox which stands between the restaurant and kitchen, and the bread the restaurant and kitchen, and the bread knife is always on the top of the box. Me-Allen spied the knife, picked it up and plunged it into Mosby's abdomen.

He succeeded in getting down a block when he fell to the ground in front of Dr. Turfley's office. Here a young colored man named Lo Jones came to his assistance and removed him to the office of the colored physician, Dr. Whitson, which was nearby.

made a rush for the back door and went out through the back yard, howling and yelling like a madman. He was so excited he did not know what he was saying nor could anynot know what he was saying nor could any-one understand him. I did think of trying to detain him, but he still had the knife in his hand and I did not care to take any

"Dr. Whitson, the colored physician who first attended the wounded man, said: 'I was taking dinner when young Jones rushed up to me and said that a man had rusned up to me and said that a man had been stabbed. I went immediately to my office and found Mosby sitting on a chair with his intestines protruding. I fixed him in a large physician's chair and dressed his wound as well as I could.'

Followed by a Minister.

"The Rev. Clinton had seen Mosby coming down the street and followed him to my office. Mosby did not make any statement regarding the affair, but put in all his time telling the minister who he was, where he came from and praying. About 4 o'clock I sent him to the Mercy Hospital in their ambulance. The cut on the surface did not measure more than three unches on the left measure more than three inches on the left measure more than three inches on the left side of the abdomen, but it was very deep, probably five inches. The knife with which the stabbing was done was very pointed. I am not surprised that the man died, for there was no hope for him when I first saw him."

him."

The story that McAllen was formerly employed in the same position that Mosby held, and that McAllen was in the habit of going to the restaurant and quarreling with him about the place, one of these fights resulting in the murder which occurred yesterday, is said by people who know the facts to have no foundation. McAllen, the alleged murders, is about 22 years of age 5 test 5 derer, is about 22 years of age, 5 teet 5 inches in height, of dark color and weighs 135 pounds. He had on a dark suit and a cap. He had not been arrested at 1 o'clock morning. The police authorities are after him. Mosby's body was removed from Merey Hospital to the morgue last night.

A STRANDED COSTA RICA COLONY.

Two Who Were Lucky Enough to Get Away Tell a Story of Privation. WORCESTER, MASS., Aug. 10.-William A. Norrow, of Pennsylvania, returned yes terday from Costa Rica with Gertrude Atwood, 11 years old, of Worcester, they being of a patry of colonists who were taken there some three months ago by the "Central American Land, Colonization and Mining Company, of Hornellsville, N. Y., and Hornella, Costa Rica." The colonists, they say the site of the proposed city of Hornella. When "the city" was reached the process of clearing was retarded by the rain, and after a few weeks' exposure the colonists began to come down with mountain fever and maluria.

The food consisted mostly of cereals, and the only water fit to drink was rain collectto "the city" put up primitive thatched cabins. The sickness increased. Gertrude's father died of the fever two weeks ago and was buried the same night. Norrow, whose health is badly shattered, brought the little girl to her former home. She has been bad-ly stung by insects, and is under a physician's care. Other colonists, they say, are prevented from returning by lack of funds, and their condition, it is stated, is pitiable.

Coroner McDowell held an inquest yesterday on the body of John Dougherty. The latter was shot on Sunday last by Lucien Blair, a colored man, at Venetia After the shooting the victim was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital in this city, where he subsequently died of his wounds. The Coroner's jury brought in a verdict holding Blair responsible.
