CIRCUIT TROTTERS AT ROCHESTER

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 11 .- Nine thousand shouting, excited spectators to-day saw Hal Pointer snatch another victory from the game stallion, Direct. It was 4:30 P.

M. before the event which the crowd had come to see and for which they had patiently waited was announced. The announcement was received with applause and necks were craned and hats and handkerchiefs waved frantically in the air as the little stallion. Direct, took a turn down the stretch to limber his legs. The betting was $25 to $6 in favor of Pointer, but the little beauty had captured all hearts, if not all pocketbooks, and received more applause than his swift competitor. At 5 o'clock under a fair sky and only a slight breeze blowing, the two horses came down the stretch neck and neck, and as they passed under the string together, the cry "They're off" was heard from thousands of throats.

then silence ensued as the great race began.

Hal Pointer's Very Speedy Heat,

First heat-Hal Pointer had the pole, and the horses got away from the wire neck and neck at a lively clip. They kept these positions to the turn, then Geers pulled Hal Pointer shead a length. Starr made a spurt, and at the half brought Direct close onto the flank of the gelding. Direct could not beld to this pace, however, and Geers drew steadily away till he had gained a length at the last turn. Starr was fighting gamely, but could not lessen the distance, but a long and loud shout went up as it became evident that Direct was gaining in the homestretch. Starr, however, saw that he could not win, and pulled up a little, and came in a length and a half behind his rival.

Time by quarters—32½, 1:04½, 1:37½, 2:09.
Second heat—The start was made with Direct at Hal's girth. The horses went as if tied together for the first quarter, then Hal drew away sgain in the next hundred yards, but on the back stretch Direct drew up again. At the half Hal spurted to the second turn, and Direct was again left be-hind. At the head of the stretch Direct was going game and fast. Starr put the whip on, but could not lessen the distance Muta Wilkes an Easy Winner.

The $5,000 trotting race was tame, Muta Wilkes winning with ease. In the 2:19 trot Steve Whipple, a 5 to 1 shot, surprised everybody by winning the first heat and the Vincent making a spurt at the close and beating Nightingale, a prime favorite, by a nose, Nightingale second, Una Wilkes third. Time, 2:1834. Nightingale won the next two heats and the race.

When Nancy Hanks with her owner,

Budd Doble, as driver, was seen approach-ing from the paddock there was wild ap-plause, which subsided into breathless sus-and was off in her race against old Father Time. The track had been rolled and worked between heats all the morning, but

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—The great contes

Burge was hailed as a wonder, yet the contest was more to try him out than anything else. He disappointed the sports. The American went at him from the call of time, From the sixth to the ninth round Burge shaped up better and kept Lavigne guess ing. He would drop his head and take Lavigne's half arm joits in the face at close quarters without a return, but would swing his right on the head or kidneys as Lavign got away. The next five rounds were slow, Lavigne avoiding close quarters. The next three rounds were a little warmer. Burge's left ribs were somewhat marked and he had lost a tooth. Lavigne was apparently as good as ever.

Burge began to force the work in the twenty-first round, but his opponent was shifty and escaped punishment. In the twenty-seventh round Levigue ran around the ring with the Australian in pursuit. The twenty-ninth and thirty-first rounds

The twenty-ninth and thirty-first rounds were marked by some hot exchanges. Dacey said that the reason he agreed to a draw was because Judge Newton offered him $100 to do so. Dacey said he refused to do so at first, but as Newton said he would stop the fight any way, he decided the beat thing to do was to agree to a draw. He admits that he did not consult Siddons about it.

STILL Windle declines to appear on the race track, but to a few friends he has quietly confided the fact that he can move faster than ever. All his work is done on his own private track at Milbury, and it is well understood that during the late autumn he will do with 'Taylor's record as he did with Osmond's—shave it—when there is little or no time for the one whose record is broken to recover it.

It, is whispered that the timers who caught Bley-clist Taylor at 2:11 for his mile had some difficulty in assenting to it. Some outsiders who were pres-ent and helf watches on the trial caught the record breaker at 2:10 2-5, 2:10 1-5 and 2:10 flax. But the officials hovered around 2:11, and suristing the mean between the times, they had announced 2:11 to the world, and thus it stands. Taylor, by the way, does not lie as close to the hearts of the wheelmen as he might. He is reserved, has something of the temperament of Winde, and compets admiration rather than aims to have it voluntarily given to him.

THE Tide made her usual trips yesterday. On the morning trip a large cargo of provisions was taken up to Homestead. A good load was also taken up in the afternoon. COLONEL SUBLETI, who has charge of the improvements in the Tennessee river, says that the eight-hour law passed by the last Congress will greatly interfere with his work, as most of his men prefer to work 10 and some even 12 hours a day. Under this provision it will be unjawful for employers to work their men longer than eight hours on government contracts. This will be especially distanteful to rivermen, and will in many cases seriously interfere with the progress of improvements. It is necessary at times to work long hours when the water is low, as then most can be accomplished. Sometimes work has to be stopped entirely, especially when the water is high.

markably well, and except for a swellen lip, nobody would have imagined that he had undergone such a hard battle two days ago. In speaking of the fight, he said:

"It was one of the most trying contests I ever fought. They say amateur boxers can't fight, but I know different. They are just as capable of taking care of themselves as professional fighters. Pierce is a first-class man, no mistake. He is a good, stiff puncher, and as plucky a fellow as I ever met. His slowing surprised me. I cannot understand why the fight was declared a draw. I was perfectly willing to continue, and believed I was winning when it was stopped.

"When the fight was declared a draw I was winning when it was stopped.

"When the fight was declared a draw I made a vigorous protest, but I got no satisfaction, being told that Judge Newton ordered it stopped, and offered to even up matters by giving me $100. I never gave my consent to making a draw, and was simply astounded when it was stopped.

"I will leave for New Orleans next week, and challenge the winner of the Dixon-Skelly fight."

Dacey said that the reason he agreed to a draw was because Judge Newton offered him Messrs. J. H., J. S. and C. F. Goodwin, P. T. and C. H. Hall and F. S. Skerr, of East Liverpool, O., who have been making a tour of the Eastern summer resorts, stopped over at the Schlosser yesterday while en

Our Sluggers Keep Up Their Gait and Down the Lively Reds. Those Red Anarchists from Cincinnati make lots of fun on the ball field and the cranks who missed the performance yesterday afternoon certainly missed something that would have tickled them exceedingly. Be it known that the Reds are scrappers and scrappers of the bona fide Red order. They not only kick up a shindy at all times for their rights, but now and again they fill the air with warwhoop howls and dire threats for part of the rights of other people. There are no flies on the Reds in this respect and they let the crowd of 1,100 know this yesterday. They were outplayed by our sluggers, but most assuredly the local heroes cannot outkick them even if they had a Started Out in Pleasant Style. The contest started off pleasant and en-joyable enough, but before it was ended there was lots of trouble between the wildeved visitors and Umpire McQuaide. As a result Latham was fined $25 and put out of the game and nearly ordered off the grounds. The game abounded in close decisions, and because the umpire gave them in favor of the home players a few times the kicking degenerated into something blackguardism. On one occasion, when the umpire declared Comiskey out at first in the fourth inning the decision may have been wrong, but the decision over which Latham kicked so much and acted so ungentlemanly was just as fair a decision as Bierbauer threw Latham out at first in the sixth inning beyond any possible doubt whatever. The truth is, everybody won-dered why Latham was making any objection, but he set himself to work and abused the umpire fearfully. He gave McQuaide to understand that he, McQuaide, was a disgrace. And Arlie talked so as the crowd could hear him, placing the umpire in a very humiliating position. Latham Had to Retire, McQuaide could not possibly do other than retire Latham from the game and it probably a pity that a higher penalty can not be imposed on players who act so di gracefully. Latham is certainly the mo entertaining fellow that ever stepped of the diamond, but when he descends in abuse he must be called to account the san as anybody else. The great difficulty which the Reds had to encounter was Mr. Terry's pitching. He was in rare form and struck eight men out; indeed, his opponents should have been shut out without a run had not Miller made a bad throw, which allowed a run to score. But the general work of the home players was very good, and they played a winning Dwyer pitched tolerably well. His delivery was hit bard, but he managed to keep the hits very well scattered, and shout half of the hits made were made to no purpose. His support was not of the best, by any means. The visitors were again sent to bat first, and after they were blanked the home representatives made a run. Miller and Dono van went out in order, and then Smith planted a single into right field. Kelly knocked the ball in the direction of the pitcher, and Dwyer reached for it, but switched it into right field. Then Holliday fumbled it, and Smith in the meantime got Mack's Nice Little Bunt Hit. In the second inning Mack reached first n a bunt hit and got to second on a wild brow by Dwyer. Bierbauer's sacrifice sent throw by Dwyer. Bierbauer's sacrifice sent Mack to third and Terry's hit scored him. Miller followed on with a single, but Donovan knocked a fly to Vaughn, retiring the Welch got his base on balls. Latham, after causing lots of fun, struck out, and Holliday's fly was caught by Kelly. Vaughn knocked a grounder to Miller and the latter threw wild to second and McPhee scored. In the second half of the seventh inning Farrell led off with a single to center and got to second on Terry's sacrifice. Miller's single to left scored Farrell, and Donovan rapped a lively grounder to Comiskey. The latter easily put out Donovan, and in trying to double up Miller at second threw wild. Miller proceeded to third, and Holliday threw very wild to that bag, allowing Mil-ler to continue his journey home in safety. The score:

To-Day's League Schedule. Cleveland at Chicago; Cincinnati at Pitts The State League.

Hatching a Little Scheme. The campaign of 1893 may be full of sur-prises and while in Chicago, James A. Hart, John T. Brush and Frank Bancroft had as informal little talk on a projected innovation next year. For years the League have commenced their championship season too early and some of the April game: are played in pneumonia breeding weather. Alplayed in pneumonia breeding weather. Although baseball hungry, many cranks are impelied by fear of the consequence to stay away from the parks and thus it is that the contests where good weather would mean velvet are played before only the shivering, 32° fans. The contests now run for seven months. It is proposed to cut them down to six months next season and confine championship contests between May I and comber I and play out a 130-game schedule. There will be a rood deal of quiet missionary work for that idea. Last April was a rightful one for the national game, and there were more postponements than had ever before taken place.—Times-Star.

Uniontown, 2-Johnstown, 1. Uniontown, Pa., Aug. 11.-The home team jumped-onto their hoodoos, the Johnstown Athletics, to-day, in Mountain View Park, and defeated them by a score of 2 to 1. The visitors were outplayed at every point, and especially in the battery work. Altman did the pitching for the home team, and was so effective that the visitors could do nothing with his delivery. After the first inning the visitors succeeded in getting only one man as far as first base, and he died there on a double by Beall. The score was kept down by brillian; fielding on both sides and Altman's fine pitching.

In another portion of the big grove about a dozen well-known Braddock ladies, prominent in local society, who have been using the range of the Braddock rifle team for some months and have become very efficient with the heavy weapons, will hold a shoot for ladies' entries only. This will no donbt be one of the most interesting features of the day. There are several school teachers among the Braddock markswomen, and while a women's rifle team has not yet been organized, one is altogether liable to mature shortly, as the members of the Braddock rifle team have gallantly offered them the use of their range whenever they want it. NAHANT, MASS., Aug. 11.-[Special.]-Play was continued to-day in the Nahant Tennis and exciting matches and in at least one great surprise. The unexpected was the deleat of Ciarence Hobart, of New York, the noted expert by Malcolm Chase, of Providence, the boy champion of the Inter-Scholstic Association. Hobart was at the head of the eight contestants in the tornament, but his defeat puts him up on even terms with E. T. Hall, Malcolm Chase and F. H. Hovey, who all met with one defeat each. Hobart's defeat of to-day can only be accounted for upon the supposition that he was over-confident and that he over-esti mated his recently acquired skill at the net game against so accurate a base line player as his antagonist. But the brilliant young as his antagonist. But the brilliant young Providence expert was certainly playing the game of his life, and if he can continue to play as he did to-day he will be a hard man for anybody to beat.

The second set went to Hobart, who began to wake up. After Hobart had won the first game of the third and deciding set the player from Providence began what proved to be a phenomenal spurt at this critical juncture. Five straight games did he win after long and exciting rallies, Hobart getting a little nervous towrad the close and smashing many balls out of court. After losing one game Chase won the next and the set and match. Following are the scores of the day and the relative positions of the contestants:

A LETTER PROM IVES.

He Says That Schaefer Is to Blame for Their Match Falling Through. NEW YORK, Aug. 11.-[Special.]-Billiard Champion Frank S. Ives has sent to the Sun a letter which is the first authentic state-ment from him, in which he disclaims responsibility for the deadlock over the game with Schaefer for the world's championship emblem. He says:

"The match has fallen through, as you have heard, and Schaefer has claimed the emblem and stake money, but I do not think he has the right to it. I heard that Cattin left for America on July 21, and he will prabably say that I was the cause of the deadlock. If he does, make him a good swell bet and I will leave it to the Paris swell bet and I will leave it to the Paris Heraid to determine whether I was to blame or not. I offered to play Schaefer any where outside the Nouveau Corgue, over Vigneau's place, or the Folies Berzere. I am willing to play at any other theater in Paris, but Schaefer refused, and that is now the dead-lock occurred. It looks funny to me and to others that Schaefer should have refused. I certainly thought I was lair in my propositions."

Brighton Beach Card. certainly thought I was fair in my propositions."

Albert Garnier, who is well known to Americans, writing by the same mail, says:
"I have seen Ives. He is a nice fellow and a fine billiardist. It is a pity that the championsnip game could not have been played in Parla, as it would have been a great success. But Ives doesn't want to play in any place but the Folies Bergere, which is no place for such a game. Schaefer named the Grand Hotel, but Ives would not accept."

Catlin is now here, baving come back to take Schaefer's wife and family to Paris, where Schaefer has decided to spend the winter, as there is more money to be made there at billiards than in this country at present.
