Now I propose to night to take up a lew principles. We shall discuss then in the fear of the Lord, with malice toward none, and love toward all.

Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap. Sow whisky and reap an upright, intelligent, soler, industrious citizen. That is a lie, isn't it? Sow onlons and reap lettuce. One is just as true as the other. All the breweries and distilleries and saloons and demijohns in this country are sending through this world "tramp, tramp, the boys are marching," 150,000 a year into a drunkard's grave and into a drunkard's hades.

"If I sow oats and reap oats I know what to do with my cats. But if I sow whisky I reap drunkards. Now, what are you going to do with your drunkards? There are but two things you can use a drunkard for; one is for the United States Congress laughter] and the other is in the Legislature of Ohio. [Long and loud laughter.] You can use them to advanta e in the last place. This old whisky-soaked and whisky-curred nation! I see Congress has just had up Mr. Watson, of my State, for clearging them that they staggered through the aisles of the United States Congress, so long as they cannot run without a saloon attached.

ANOTHER MAN FOR FOX.

Champion Mages Offers to Swim Fox, This City, for a Stake. The following important letter has been received at this office from Robert P. Magee, the champion swimmer of America:

porting Editor of The Dispasch: "I have been informed that F. L. Fox, of Pittsburg, has posted a forfeit of $100 with your paper to swim any man in America from one to five miles for $50). I herewith your paper to swim any man in America from one to five miles for $50:. I herewith accept his challenge for the five mile race, or I will back James L. McCusker, of Massachusetts, for the one mile race. I would state also that I have had a forfeit posted of $100 with the Baltimore Heroid and the New York World for the last two months, and if Mr. Fox will kindly draw up articles for the race or races I will sign articles if satisfactory and transfer my foreits to your paper. O course, if I swim in Plusbury I expect car fare and 50 per cest of all gate or steamboat receipts.

"I will swim from two to six tweeks after signing articles. Yours respectively.

"Long Distance Champion of America." The above statement from Mr. Magee is very frank, manly and business-like; but the forfeit left here in behalf of Mr. Fox was taken down some time ago. Fox's backer was seen last evening and he said: "I am quite prepared to match Fox against either McCusker or Magee to swim a series of three races, viz., a quarter, a half and a mile, the winner of any two to take the stakes. I will allow Magee or McCusker one-third of the receipts and pay the expenses. The races to take place in the Pittsbury Natatorium and the stakes to be $500 a side. If Mr. Magee will put up a for eit and sign articles the match can be made at once."

Hobert's Defeat. NEW YORK, Aug. 14 .- [Special.]-The defeat of Clarence Hobart by young Malcolm Chace, of Providence, in the tennis tournsment at Nahant, was a surprise to tengis enthusiasta. Hobart was at the head of the eight contestants in the tournament, but his defeat pits him upon even terms with E. L. Hall, Malcolm Chace and F. H. Hovey, who all meet with one defeat each. Hobait's defeat can only be accounted for on the supposition that he was overconfident, and that he overestimated his recently acquired skill at the net game against so accurate a base line placer as his aniagonist. However, Chace played the game of his life.

Any delay now is costity, as it is the best time to do the work. The trouble is that the season is so far advanced, that no matter how it is arranged, little work can be done before spring. SUNDAY GOSSIP OF THE CAPITAL

PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.-No matter how the critics of the administration may twist and turn, the diplomatic utterances in regard to the relations and rights of the United States and Great Britain touching the occupation of the harbor at Pago-Pago, in the Samoan Islands, as a coaling station for naval vessels, they find themselves unable to establish the fact that the latter country has not a right as well defined as that of the former, no matter how secretly or how eleverly it was obtained. They who cavil at the inaction of the State Department in the matter should know by this time that the State Department has no grounds for action, and not even for inquiry for information from the "Governent," so-called, of the Samoan Islands. All of the matter bearing on the affair has been turned over and over by the cleverest officials of the State Department and of the administration at large, and they are forced of no more beinous offense than that of stealing a march on the United States while the latter slept. The whole matter, as the State Department looks at it, may be summed up in a few words. It was agreed at a convention between the three countries most interested in preserving the neutrality of the Samoan up that each should have a coaling sta-

England Slow in Making a Choice, The United States chose the harbor of Pago-Pago, and by treaty was granted the exclusive right, to the use of such part of that harbor as was necessary for the pur-poses of a conling station. Germany selected e harbor of Salualata. At the Berlin conference in regard to the rights of the three powers, when the Com-missioners of the United States and Germany announced the choice of location for their coaling stations, Great Britain's Com-missioners said their Government had not yet made a selection.

It is now claimed that because the representatives of that country failed to indicate at that time any intention of their Government to plant its coaling station on another part of the harbor of Pago-Pago not needed or wanted by the United States, the deter-mination now announced is without color of right according to the agreement between that it was the intention of Great Britain at the time of the Berlin conference to occupy limits of the site selected by the United States became conclusively defined, and the ge of doing so was at a later date conerred on Great Britain by a treaty with the note Sam Cought N Under their treaty the United States could have claimed the whole of the harbor Pago-Pago to the exclusion of all other oreign powers, but with the usual toresight mational sflairs, in which this counis still very young, this Government ailed to do the smart thing at the right time and Great Britain stepped in and played a clever trick, as she rarely fails to o in international affairs.

It is yet doubted at the State Department hether Great Britain really means to take the step that has been announced semiofficially, but it is admitted that if she is in carnest there is nothing for the United ates to do but to make a broader claim han ever before and have it out with the Samoan Government for granting to an-other nation rights that had been already granted to this. The Samoan Government is not overstrong in army and navy, and, like Chile, can be abused with a reasonable legree of safety, The gravity of the whole matter seems to much magnified. it is claimed that it would be inimical to the interests of the United States for Great Britain to establish her couling station on the harbor of Page-Page. No one appears to reflect that t would be hardly less inimical to those interests if the coaling station were placed on the shores of an adjacent harbor, at any place in the Samoan group. till Bonking on Judge Gresham "Judge Gresham does not say he will not come out for the People's party during the campaign," said a devotee of that party to-day when his attention was called to the alleged statements of the Judge that he would not take the stump. I feel assured that the Judge will make at least one speech, or, if not that, will write a letter that will be as good as a million speeches, for it will not only be printed in every newspaper in the country, but it will be printed in pamphlet form and sown broad-

He never invented anything of importance. I can relate a carlons instance of Carnegie's business methods. Some years a commander "Bob" Evans, of the navy, baving disagreed with the Secretary of the Navy, took a leave of absence and entered the service of the Baltimore and Onlo Bailroad Company as a mechanical engineer. SAM JONES IS LOOSE

And Preaches a Lively Sermon at a Big Ohio Campmeeting.

SOME OF THE THINGS HE SAID. He Peals the Hardest of Flows to All Kinds of lissipation.

TWO PLACES FOUND FOR A DRUNKARD

URBANA, O., Aug. 14-For twenty-five years or more an association composed of lay members of the Methodist churches of this city, Springfield and other surrounding towns has held an annual religious revival known as a campmeeting, which usually lasts about ten days. The meetings are held in a large grove covering several acres. These meetings have the individual tavor of many of the bishops, ministers and other dignitaries of the Methodist Church, who usually attend them in large numbers. The association this year secured Rev. Sam Jones, the widely-known Georgia evangelist and exhorter. He arrived last Sunday and will remain until the close of the meeting next Sunday evening.

The following sermon, as much as looks in type, was preached last evening. The services were held in the large tabernacic, and every one of the 5,000 seats was filled. The choir sang, "There Is a Fountain Filled With Blood." When they had finished singing Rev. Sam Jones took his place at the pulpit and preached as follows:

One of Sam Jones' Choicest Sermons. The text we use to-night is the seventh and eighth verses of the sixth chapter of St. Paul to the Galatians: "Be ye not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap; for he that soweth to his flesh shall of his flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth of the spirit, shall of the spirit reap life everlastinz."

There are two absolutely impossible things in this lite. In the first place it is alsolutely impossible for a man to continuously and successfully practice a fraud upon his own thoughts. If you are a Christian, you know this better than anything else. I am so glad that God will not allow a man to lie down and sleep his way to hades. Now I propose to-night to take up a few principles. We shall discuss then in the fear of the Lord, with malice toward none, and love toward all.

States Congress. I have no respect for the United States Congress, so long as they cannot run without a saloon attached.

If anybody asks you what my politics are tell the m Sam Jones is an uncomporomising, hide-bound and steadfast every-day-in theweek Prohibitionist. [Loud applause from Prohibitionists.] I notice some of you rednosed Democrats and old-swill Republicans do not clap your hands. [Great applause]. I have but two planks in my platform. I am for anything against whisky, and against anything for it. If you put whisky out of this country I don't care who is President. I do believe I would rather have the devil for President and no whisky than any man you may selece and whisky. I believe if the devil was President, and there was no whisky, he would resien and go back to hell. [Laughter.] He could not run his machine without it in this country.

country. Demijohn Church Folks Catch It But we will never put whisky out of the saloons until we put the demijohns out of our private homes. You old demijohn Methodist, you old demijohn Baptist, you old demijohn Presbyterian, you say you old demijohn Presoverian, you say you drink a little for your health; and you, old sister, drink beer—the doctor prescribed it. Better get on your wings than be waiting down here making a bad example. If I was a doctor, I would not give whisky to a woman unless I knew she was dead, and not to a man unless he was dead three days.

Sow whisky and reap drunkards. Do you know that Prohibitionists are multiplying? A man that votes for whisky, that has a boy, is the most degraded scoundrel that walks fo-day. I believe in women's rights. I believe in women's suffrage, too. I want to see that day come when every good wife and mother and sister can put in a vote that will count and vote that damnable stuff out of the country. I believe women can preach if they want to. I think a woman can be anything except the father of a lamily of children. [Loud laughter.]

Sow whisky and reap drunkards. I am not talking against the saloonkeepers, but against the traffic. I have no objection to him is the samens that which I h ve against a louse—the way he gets his living off the heads of families.

He Has No Use for Cards. drink a little for your health; and you, old

He Hes No Use for Cards. Again, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Sow cards and reap gamblers. I never could understand why mothers will play cards and be an example mothers will play cards and be an example to their children in the most awful light that children ever lived. You Methodists, Baptists and Pre-byterians that cannot run your homes without a deck of cards, it would be better that you had died and gone to hades be ore a family had been born to you. I would rather be Judas Iscariot in hades to-night than to be a father or mother leading my children to death and hades.

You say, "That is the most extravagantly talking man in the world." You cannot exaggerate the sins of this world any more than you can exaggerate the beauties of heaven. I was standing here Sunday, going at the liquor business, saying that men sell whisky because there was money in it. The whisky man said, standing out there: "He is preaching for money." Is there any difference between doing good for people and doing bad work for people? I always did have a right to pick a job. I can say before God, that judies me, I never worked more faithfully or more persistently for $25.000 a year than I worked when I worked for $500 I have gotten to where I could afford to preach for less money, but it is best for you stingy devils that you have to pay something for it. [Laughter.] to their children in the most awful light that

A Job He Wouldn't Like, The laborer is worthy of his hire. I have been paid $500 a hour and some of you can't get 10 cents, and if you did you yould have to give it back to them. [Laughter.] It is nobody's business about Sam Jones' preach-ing and lecturing. If I didn't give more money away since last Christmas than your money away since last Christmas than your daddy and granddaddy and all your folks clear back to the time of Adam I will eat the whole lot. [Laughter.] It would be a dirty job, but I would do it.

Sow little parties and reap big parties. Sow big parties and reap the parlor dance, sow the parlor dance and reap the ballroom and square dance, and then the round dance; and sow the round dance and reap wicked womanhood. Sow potatoes and reap potatoes. Sow lettuce and reap lettuce.

Something has got to be done with our boys and girls in this nineteenth century. Something has to be done for them. The boys are mean and the girls are all fools. I stand ready to maintain the fact that the boys are drifting farther and do most anything for a good time, and you girls have no better sense than to run with them. If you were got drunk, or were impure, a boy would see you dead before he would walk with you, and yet you will walk with a boy when you know he is wicked from the top of his head to the sole of his feet. Our boys are more particular about going with people than you are.

NOW FOR THE SENATORS. The Eastern Fel'ows Will Commence

The series will be a very important one, as

The Senators will open up here this afternoon. They are playing a good game, and so iar this year they have been jonalis to the Pitteburg team. It is likely that Killen and Ehret will be the pitchers.

A dispatch from New York has the following to say of the series about to begin:

"With considerable anxiety the clubs of this section of the country, which form the League Association, look forward to the approaching sames in the West. They started on their journey at the conclusion of Saturday afternoon's games in Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Baltimore, respectively, and will be gone until September 5, after which they will return to play a series of games in this sec-

until September 5, after which they will return to play a series of games in this section with the Western teams. This trip will be the only one that the clubs of this section will make to the West, and if they are near the top three weeks hence, they will have a much better chance to carry off the honors at the close of the season than any of the Western teams.

"Boston and Philadelphia areagain forging to the front, and the New Yorks and Brooklyns will not be unimportant elements in the race. The setback received by the New Yorks at Philadelphia did not discourage the local players. They are in excellent condition for the approaching series. The addition of McMahon and King to the team will allow Manager Powers to keep his infield intact. Doyle and McMahon are two excellent catchers, throwers and batters.
