DIVINE LOVE AND HUMAN GUILT.

His Death Arouses Our Sympathies and Turns Us Toward Him.

IT TEACHES US TO ENDURE TRIALS

LONDON, Aug. 14. - Dr. Talmage preached to-day from Luke 24:46, "It Be-hooved Christ to Suffer."

There have been scholars who have ver tured the assertion that the pairs of our Lord were unnecessary. Indeed, it was a shocking waste of tears and blood and agony, unless some great end were to be reached. If men can prove that no good result comes of it then the character of God is impeached, and the universe must stand ab-horrent and denunciatory at the fact that the Father allowed the butchery of His only-

We all admire the brave 600 men described by Tennyson as dashing into the conflict when they knew they must die, and knew at the same time that "someone had blunder'd;" but we are abhorrent of the man who made the blunder and who caused the sacrifice of those brave men for no use. But I shall show you, if the Lord will help me this morning, that for good reasons Christ went through the torture. In other words, "it behooved Christ to suffer."

The Debt of Man Must Be Paid.

First-In the first place I remark that Christ's lacerations were necessary, because man's rescue was an impossibility except by the payment of some great sacrifice. Outraged law had thundered against iniquity. Man must die unless a substitute can intercept that death. Let Gabriel step forth, He refuses. Let Michael, the Archangel, step forth. He refuses. No Roman citizen, no Athenian, no Corinthian, no reformer, no

Athenian, no Corinthian, no reformer, no angel volunteered.

Obrist then bared His heart to the pang. He paid for our redemption in tears and blood, and wounded feet, and scourged shoulders, and torn brow. "It is done." Heaven and earth heard the snap of the prison bar. Sinal ceased to quake with wrath the moment that Calvary began to rock in crucifixion. Christ had suffered. "Oh!" says some man, "I don't like that descrine of substitution; let every man bear his own burdens, and weep his own tears, and fight his own battles." Why, my brother, there is vicarious suffering all over the world. Did not your parents suffer for you? Do you not suffer sometimes for your children? Does not the patriot suffer for his country? Did not Grace Darling suffer for the drowning sailors? Vicarious suffering on all sides! But how insignificant compared with this scene of vicarious suffering.

Was it for crimes that I had done

Was it for crimes that I had done
He grouned upon the tree?
Amazing pity, grace unknown,
And love beyond degree.
Christ must suffer to pa, the price of our redemption.

But I remrrk again: The sufferings of Christ were necessary in order that the world's sympathies might be aroused. Men are won to the right and good through their

Under the Spell of the Great Sacrifice. Men who have been obdurated by the cruelties they have enacted, by the massacres they have inflicted, by the horrors of which they have been guilty, have become little children in the presence of this dying savior. What the sword could not do, what Jurgernants could not subdue, the wounded hand of Christ has accomplished. There are this moment millions of people held under the spell of that one sacrifice. The hammers that struck the spikes into the cross have broken the rocky heart of the world. Nothing but the agonies of a Savior's death-throe could arouse the world's sympathies. I remark again: "It behooved Christ to suffer," that the strength and persistence of the divine love might be demonstrated. Was it the applause of the world that induced Christ on that crusade from heaven! Why, all the universe was at His feet. Could the conquest of this insignificant planet have paid bim for his career of pain, if it had been a mere matter of applause? All the honors of heaven surging at His feet. Would your Queen give up her throne that she might rule a miscrable tribe in Africa?

e Lord Jesus Christ, on the throne, of the aniverse, come cown to our planet ttle children in the presence of this dying clamation?

Nor was it an expedition undertaken for the accumulation of vast wealth. What could all the harvests and the diamonds of our little world do for Him whose are the glories of infinitude and eternity? Nor was it an experiment—an attempt to show what He could do with the hard-hearted race. He who wheels the stars in their courses and hold the pillars of the universe on the tips of His fingers needed to make no experiment to find what He could do.

It Was Love That Brought Christ Down. Oh! I will tell you, my friends, what it was. It was undisguised, unlimited, allconquering, all-consuming, infinite, eternal omnipotent love that opened the gate that started the star in the East, with finger of light pointing down to the manger: that arrayed the Christmas choir above Bethlehem; that opened the stable door where Christ was born, that lifted Him on the Cross. Love thirsty at the well. Love at the sick man's couch. Love at the cripple's couch. Love sweating in the garden. Love dying on the Cross. Love wrapped in the grave. You cannot mistake it. The bladest eye must see it. The hardest heart must feel it. The deafest ear must hear it. Farable and miracle, wayside talk and seaside interview, all the scenes of His life, all the sufferings of His death, proving beyond controversy that for our ingrate earth God has yearned with supendous and inextinguishable love.

But I remark again: "It behooved Christ to suffer" that the nature of human guilt might be demonstrated. There is not a commonsense man in the house to-day that will not admit that the machinery of society is out of gear, that the buman mind and the human heart are disorganized, that something ought to be done, and done right away for its repair and readjustment. But the height, and depth, and length, and breadth, and innocent One of the Cross it had not been hurled in one bolt of fire.

Christ was not the first man that had been put to death. There had been many before him put to death, betir sins, their inconsistencies.

The Lowest Depth of Deprayity. light pointing down to the manger: that arrayed the Christmas choir above Bethlehen

The Lowest Depth of Depravity. But when the mob outside of Jerusalem howled at the Son of God, it was hate against goodness, it was blasphemy against virtue, it was earth against heaven. What was it in that innocent and loving face of Christ that excited the vituperation and the contamely, and scorn of men! If he had bantered them to come on, if he had laughed them into derision, if he had denounced them as the vagabonds they were we could understand their abonds they were, we could understand their terocity; but it was against inoffensiveness that they brandished their spears, and shook their fists, and ground their teeth, and nowled, and scoffed, and jeered, and mocked.

What evil had He done? Whose eyesight had He put out? None; but He had given vision to the blind? Whose child had he slain? None; but He restored the dead damsel to her mother. What have had He broken? None; but He had inculcated obedience to government. What foul plot had he enseted against the happiness of the race? None; he had come to save a world. The only cruelty He ever enacted was to heal the sick. The only ostentation He ever displayed was to sit with the publicans and sinners, and wash the disciples' feet. The only selfishness He ever exhibited was to give His life for His enemies. And yet, all the wrath of the world surged against His holy heart. Hear the red-hot scorn of the world hissing in the pools of a Savior's blood!

And standing there to-day, let us see what

blood:
And standing there to-day, let us see what an unreasonable, loathsome, hateful, blasting, damning thing is the iniquity of the human heart. Unloosed, what will not sin do? It will scale any height, it will fathom the very depth of heil, it will revel in all laselviousness. There is no blasphemy it will not utter, there are no crueities on which it will not gorge itself.

What the Power of Sin Will Do. It will wallow in filth, it will breathe the air of charnel-houses of corruption, and call them aroma; it will quaff the blood of immortal souls and call it nectar. When sin murdered Christ on the Cross, it showed what it would do with the Lord God Ainighty if it could get at Him.

Again: "It behooved Christ to suffer," that our affections might be excited Christward. Why, sirs, the behavior of our Lord has stirred the affections of all those who have ever heard of it. It has hung the art galleries of the world with such pictures as Ghirlandsjoe" "Worship of the Magi." Show in the land of the world with such pictures as Ghirlandsjoe" "Worship of the Magi." United States, in France, in England, in Scotland, in Ireland? Jesus.

Show me in history where one man has given his property and his life for anyone else, and I will show you in history hundreds and thousands of men who have cheerfully died that Christ might reign. Aye, there are a hundred men in this house who, if need were, would step out and die for Jesus. Their faith may now seem to be faint, and sometimes they may be inconsistent; but let the fires of martyrdom be kindled, throw them into the pit, cover them with poisonous serpents, pound them, fail them, crush them and I will tell you what their last ery would be: "Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly!"

Oh, yes! the Lord Jesus has won the affections of many of us. There are some of us who can say this morning, "Lord Jesus, my light and my song; my hope for time, my expectation for eternity," Altogether lovely Thou art. My soul is ravished with the vision. Thou art mine. Come, let me clasp thee.

You Cannot Give Up Jesus.

You Cannot Give Up Jesus. Come life, come death, come scorn and pain, come whirlwind and darkness, Lord pain, come whiriwind and darkness, Lord Jesus, I cannot give Thee up. I have heard Thy voice. I have seen Thy bleeding side, Lord Jesus, if I had some garland plucked from heavenly gardens, I would wreathe it for Thy brow. If had some gem worthy of the place, I would set it in Thy crown. If I had seraphic harp, I would strike it in Thy praise. But I come lost and ruined and undone, to throw myself at Thy feet.

No price I bring: Simply to Thy cross I cling. Simply to Thy cross I cling.

But I remark again: "It behooved Christ to suffer" that the world might learn how to suffer. Sometimes people suffer because they cannot help themselves; but Christ had in his hands all the weapons to punish his enemies, and yet in quiescence he endured all outrage. He might have harled the rocks of Golgotha upon his pursuers; he might have cleft the earth until it swallowed up his assailants; he might have called in reinforcement or taken any thunderbolt from the armory of God Omnibotent, and hurled it seething and firey among his foes; but he answered not again.

Oh my hearer! has there ever been in the history of the world such an example of enduring patience as we find in the Cross. Some of you suffer physical distresses: some of you have life-long aliments, and they make you fretful. Sometimes you think that God has given you a cup too deep and too brimming. Sometimes you see the world laurhing and romping on the highways of life, and you look out of the window while seated in invalid's chair.

The Unparalleled Sufferings of Christ.

The Unparalleled Sufferings of Christ, I want to show you this morning one who had worse pains in the head than you have ever had, who was wounded in the bands and wounded in the feet, and suffered all over; and I want that example to make you over; and I want that example to make you more enduring in your suffering and to make you say: "Father, not my will, but Thine be done." You never have had any bodily pain, and you will never have any bodily pain that equaled Christ's torture. Some of you are persecuted. There are those who hate you. They criticise you. They would be glad to see you atumble and fall. They have done unaccountable meannesses toward you. Sometimes you feel angry. You feel as if you would like to retort. Stop! Look at the closed lips, look at the still hand, look at the beautiful demeanor of your Lord. Struck, not striking back again. Oh! if you could only appreciate what he endured in the way of persecution, you would never complain of persecution. The words of Christ would be your words: "Father, if the possible, let this cup pass from me: but if not, Thy will be done." "It behooved Christ to suffer" persecution, that he might show you how to endure persecution.

that he might show you how to endure persecution.

Some of you are bereft. It is no random remark, because there is hardly a family here that has not passed under the shadow. You have been bereft. Your house is a different place from what it used to be. The same furniture, the same books, the same pictures, but there has been a voice hushed there. The face that used to light up the whole dwelling has vanished. The pattering of the other feet does not break up the loneliness. The wave has gone over your soul, and you have sometimes thought what you would tell him when he comes back; but then the thought has flashed upon you, he will never come back! Ah! my brother, my sister, Christ has sounded all that depth. Jesus of the bereft soul is here to-day. Behold Him! He knows what is to weep at the tomb. It seems to me as if all the storms of the world's sorrow were compressed into one sob, and that sob were uttered in two words: "Jesus wept."

RUNNING DOWN CLEWS.

Pin The Police in Possession of Important Secret Evidence.

Marshal Hilliard has heard nothing from Prof. Wood, who is analysing the stomach of the victims of the Borden tragedy, and comparing the spot of blood on the are and his client until November.

It is an open secret in police circles that the Government officers believe that Miss Borden was insane at the time of the murders, if she committed them. It is well known in this city that Judge Blaisdell and District Attorney Knowlton were prejudiced in Miss Borden's favor and they must have had the strongest possible reasons for ordering her arrest. Some evidence relating to the private life of Miss Borden, now in the hauds of the police, bear directly on this side of the case and strengthens the opinion of the high police authorities, who have said that Miss Borden was not conscious of her deeds, if she was was not conscious of her deeds, if she was

JOHN MORGAN BURIED

And His Daughter Not Expected to Recover From Her Wound.

THE FUNERAL A VERY LARGE ONE,

About 2,000 People Following the Murdered Father's Remains

(SPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCE.) CARMICHAELS, PA., Aug. 14.—The funeral of John Morgan, who was murdered by his son Thomas, occurred at 3 o'clock this afternoon from his late residence in noon, yet notwithstanding the community is a rural one, with no railroads, the news spread with remarkable rapidity to all sections of both counties. The roads and adjoining fields were to-day lined with vehicles and horses, and men, women and children stood sround in groups discussing the awful tragedy.

No such sensation has ever been known in this region. The murder of William McCausland, the Allegheny drover, occurred five years ago, almost within sight of the Morgan homestead, but the impressions produced by that killing, the motive of which was robbery, are not to be compared to those aroused by the unnatural crime of young Thomas Morgan and his sisters.

crime of young Thomas Morgan and his sisters.

The funeral services were brief and without special incident. They were conducted by Rev. T. J. Bristow, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, and consisted of a prayer at the house, after which the remains were viewed by those who could not go to the church. The procession then moved to the church, about a mile away, where the minister preached a short sermon. It consisted of an exhortation on the necessity of being ready to meet death, and contained only a brief and very general reference to the occasion or to the deceased, the speaker saying he could not go into the details of a family tragedy so distressing and so well known to all present.

The chief mourners would have been the four children, but the parricide son is in jail and one daughter lies at the point of death from the bullet which the murderer intended for their father. The other two daughters followed the hearse—not with grief, as for a loved father, but rather with sympathy for their brother and dying sister.

Public opinion is divided, some empha-sympathy for their brother and dying sister.

Public opinion is divided, some emphasizing the monstrous nature of the crime for which these children must answer in court, and others pleading the extreme provocation which led to it.

A BAD MAN LAID LOW.

Brothers and Bites the Dust, CONFLUENCE, PA., Aug. 14.—[Special.]— Word comes from Friendsville, Md., along the line of the Youghiogheny river that cowardly assault, which may yet prove murder, occurred there yesterday. A burly lumberman, named Sturgeon, who is said to have come from Kentucky, employed by Knapp & Co., at Manor Lands, Md., arrived in Friendsville and at once proceeded to fill up with bad whisky. For a time many people were afraid to venture from their homes.

While in this condition he met two broth-FALL RIVER. MASS., Aug. 14.—City ers, Will and John Brown, the father of summer resort at Bear Creek, Md., both peaceable young men. A few words were exchanged, and without a word of warning Sturgeon fired at Will Brown from the recomparing the spot of blood on the axe and carpet. The police to-day have been engaged in chasing down clews and testing statements in many letters sent to the Marshal. It is Lizzie Borden's side of the case that is now attracting the whole attention of the police.

It is not thought now that the preliminary hearing set down for the 22d inst. will be of long duration. Attorney Jennings will do everything in his power to have a full examination at the earliest date.

Miss Borden is finding supporters and friends in most unexpected places. The talk is almost entirely regarding her chances of proving her innocence. This fact gives the police authorities reason to think that much of the strongest evidence will have to be given before Attorney Jenkins will consent to an order for holding his client until November.

It is an open secret in police circles that the Consequence of the Marshall Responsible of the Sturgeon fired at Will Brown from the revolver with which he had terrorized the neighborhood. The shot passed through Brown's cheek and out near his ear, and struck the other brother brother brother brother brother on the jaw. The two Brown boys, with blood streaming from their wounds, wrestled with Sturgeon and stripped him of his revolver, after which they gave him such a severe thrashing that it is doubtful if he will recover. By the time assistance arrived the two men presented a pitible sight, and the assailant lay unconscious on the ground, with the two wounded brothers standing over him. The Browns were seriously hurt, and Sturgeon is reported to be dying.

The jailor had his suspicion aroused, and went to Sontag's cell in time to prevent his escape. He entewed the upper floor, opened Sontag's door and the train robber was taken out and fitted with an Oregon boot, ball and chain. In his cell were found a ball and chain.
