WILL TEACH ROMANS.

Six Professional Nurses Going to Work in the Eternal City.

GRADUATES OF A LOCAL SCHOOL.

A High Compliment to Allegheny's Nursing Institution.

SOMETHING OF THOSE WHO GO ABROAD

The training school for nurses connected with the Allegheny General Hospital, which is under the direction of Miss Florence K. Tildesley, has received a high compliment from a foreign source. Miss Tildesley has been asked to send five or six nurses who have graduated under her to Rome, where they will be connected with St. Paul's House for Trained Nurses. The institution is non-sectarian. The Misses Lida and Maggie McKinley, of Latrobe, and Mrs. Sell Hammer, of Greensburg, have already been selected to go, and two others will be chosen in a few weeks. St. Paul's House for Trained Nurses has been established less than two years, but is already a celebrated institution in Italy. Its founder and superintendent is Miss Adelaide S. Martin. She is an English lady, trained in the hospitals of London, and having had experience in the institutions of New York and Philadelphia. The work of St. Paul's House in Rome is to furnish trained nurses for private persons in any part of Italy. The demand for them comes mostly from travelers in the land, who are more liable to fevers and accidents than the inhabitants themselves. The nurses expect to be employed, therefore, chiefly in the families of rich tourists. They must be of the best class. None but highly recommended graduates of training schools will be accepted. The nature of the work requires the house to have nurses who can speak all the European languages. There are consequently nurses from Russia, a few from Sweden, many from Germany, France and England, and a few who come from Spain, besides the Italian nurses themselves.

Feels Highly Complimented. As yet there are none employed there from America, and Miss Tildesley feels highly complimented by receiving a letter from Miss Martin asking that some of the graduates of the Allegheny training school be sent over. All the work is not outside of the house in Rome. At that place a limited number of patients are eared for at limited number of patients are cared for at so much per day, but no contagious cases are received.

The terms offered to expert nurses would seem to require some sacrifice on the part of those who go. A capable nurse receives $20 per week here, but in Italy she will be paid only $15 per month. However, by going abroad, she secures the benefits and pleasures of travel, and while at work in Italy comes in contact with the best European physicians and surgeons. This alone is a high attraction to many women who desire to devote their lives to the eare of the sick. The institution in Rome pays all traveling expenses to and from Italy, requiring that the nurse shall remain with requiring that the nurse shall remain with them 18 months. If she relinquishes the work before the end of that time she must refund the amount of her passage money from this country and pay her own way

They Are Well-to-Do Women. They are Well-to-Do Women.

The Misses McKinley, of Latrobe, are orphans. Their family was an excellent one, and they inherited some property on the death of their parents. They are therefore not dependent on their vocation as nurses, but have devoted themselves unselfishly to the work. They graduated some time ago under Miss Tildesley, who speaks of them in terms of high praise. They have spent some time at the Carfield They have spent some time at the Garfield Memorial Hospital in Washington and at one of the hospitals in Philadelphia. While at the latter place they made the acquaintance of Miss Adelaide Martin, who requested especially that they should come to Mrs. Sell Hammer, who will be the third nurse to go abroad, is a daughter of Jacob Sell, a prominent merchant of Greensburg. The family is an old and respected one in Westmoreland county, and Mrs. Hammer is Westmoreland county, and Mrs. Hammer is a young woman of great beauty. She was well educated, and about three years ago married Dr. Hammer, a wealthy young dentist of Greensburg. Their married life was an unhappy one, and they separated. Ever since the separation Mrs. Hammer has pursued the vocation of a nurse. She has graduated from the Allegheny training school, but will spend at least two months longer in the Allegheny General Hospital. The McKinley sisters are now visiting friends in Chicago, and will return to this friends in Chicago, and will return to this city in about a week. After visiting relatives here and in Westmoreland county, they will depart for Rome some time in September. Mrs. Hammer and two other nurses yet to be selected will not sail until about the first of December.
