GERMAN REPUBLICAN ADDRESS OUT

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Republicans who have been saying the party's National Committee was not doing work enough for the party and its candidates should have seen Chairman Thomas Henry Carter tolay. Six days in the week is not enough for Mr. Carter. He had nearly all of the stenographers and typewriters from headquarters in his rooms at the Plaza Hotel to-day, and kept them as busy as bees the better part of the afternoon. He also received visitors who called to talk polities, among whom was Congressman John C. Houck, of Tennessee. The national committees of both parties have had leading politicians from that State in this city for several days, and it is understood that they desire to know just what effect the miners' troubles and the independent candidacy of Governor Buchanan may have on the result in Tennessee.

Mr. Houck, who spent a long time with Mr. Carter to-day, represents the Second or Knoxville district in Congress, a district which includes the counties where the miners fought their recent battles with the

Why Davenport Is So Quiet,

The fact is noted that John I. Davenpor Chief Supervisor of Elections, is keeping quiet and contenting himself with an occa-sional fling at the local Republican organination. Remarking on it to-day, a gentle-man connected with Republican headquar ters said suggestively: "The President hasn't published his letter of acceptance vet. When that is done it may be seen why Davenport is keeping in the back Davenport is the confessed author of the elections or "force" bill.

The delay in the publication of the President's letter of acceptance is being com-mented on. It was understood that it was to be given to the public nearly two weeks ago. It has been written, but it was said o-day by one of Chairman Carter's aids that it would not be published for some time to come. Whitelaw Reid, it was said, has been advised of its contents, and his own letter, following the same lines, will be published soon after that of the President's.

A Big Victory in Maine Predicted.

Ex-Congressman Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, who has been in Maine assisting the Republicans with his voice in their State campaign, was at the Fifth Avenue Hotel to-day. He predicted a big victory in the Pine Tree State for his party. He said there is no doubt that the Republican State ticket will have a plurality of 12,000, and it may be much larger.

United States Senator Watson C. Squire. Washington, who is in the city brief wisit, took occasion to-day to reply to the statements made by the Democratic National Committeemsn from his State, Hugh C. Wallace, regarding the possibility of the Democracy's carrying Washington. The Senator said it is true that there is much icalousy between the cities of Seattle and Tacoma, but that the jealousy is of business character and has been shared as Democrats as by Republicans. He thinks the Democratic State Convention's declaration against the proposed canal to Lake Washington, back of Seattle, will cause disaffection in the party.

JOLLYING THE GERMANS.

n Address to the Republicans of Its nois-Call on Them to Stand Together and Not Be Diverted From the Main Issue by Any Side-Shows. CHICAGO, Aug. 28.-The German-American Republicans of Illinois have issued an address to the German-American voters of Illinois, which will be circulated in pamphlet form throughout the State. It is signed by a large number of well-known German-American citizens, including George Schneider, William Vocke, Hermann Schroeder, Charles Burmeister, Jacob Gross, Hermann Felsenthal, Franz Amberg, C. Hermann Plantz, William Loeb, Henry C. Bartels, Henry C. Zenne and others. It is in part as follows: On the eye of the national election the indersigned Republicans of German birth deem it their duty as citizens to enter a pubic protest against the attempts of the Demlie protest against the attempts of the Democratic party to capture the German vote in this State by the misrepresentation of facts. It is evident that the Democrats are making a desperate effort to obscure qustions of grave national importance, involving the most vital interests of the country, by trying to raise the school law, which both narties are agreed shall be abolished, to a controversy of overwhelming political importance. In this address we cannot undertake to enter upon a null discussion of the origin of the school law and the subsequent struggles for its repeal. We shall take occasion hereafter to treat this subject more fully, and will confine ourselves now to the brief statement that both parties stand pledged through their platforms to secure a pledged through their platforms to secure a repeal of the law, and that among the Re-publican statesmen of Illinois, Governor Fifer was the first who advocated the repeal.

An Attempt to Shift Horses, If, in the face of these facts, the German-Americans are called upon to oppose the Republican party on account of the school law, we can only see in this an attempt on the part of the Democratic party to divert national issues. By declaring in favor of free trade, the Democracy has placed itself free trade, the Democracy has placed itself recklessly in opposition to the most vital interests of the people, assuming, as it does, an attitude of open hostility to the industries of the country.

Not less dangerous is the attitude of the Democratic party with reference to the financial questions of the campaign. The Democratic party has not only in a great easure supported in Congress the free silven coinage swindle, but has also, in its national platform, declared itself in favor or abolishing the 10 per cent tax upon State bath notes, and thus, in blind disregard of the best interess of all classes of our people best intereses of all classes of our people without distinction of party, proposes to pave the way for the reissue of the wildout notes which, before the reform of the cur-rency instituted by the Republicans over 30 years a.o. were daily cheating the people out of the properties of dollars.

years a.o, were daily cheating the people out of thousands or dollars.

The lact is, that for more than 30 years it has been the destiny of the Democratic party to place the seal of condemnation upon everything which the progressive spirit of the age demanded and which the Equablican party has accomplished. In the interest or the Southern slaveholders the Democratic party opposed the free-soil movement and the beneficent homestead laws; it denounced as unconstitutional the introduction of a monestry system established upon the firm basis of our national credit; it hurled its anathomas against our protective tariff system and stigmatized it credit; if hurled its anathomas against our protective tariff system and stigmatized it as a fraud upon the people.

Always a Party of Followers. History shows that the Democratic party, unable in the march of progress to keep abreast with this great people, has always limped behind as a jealous and hobbling camp tollower. This became evident, also, when the matter of the World's Fair appropriation was before Congress. But for the Republican Representatives, who supported the measure to a man, not a dollar would have been appropriated, and our great national undertaking would have become an object of ridicule to the whole world.

We look upon our history during the last 30 years, and don't find in the Democratic party a single patriotic or heart-refreshing leature. Its conduct in the present, its recent declaration against protection and a sound financial policy prove anew that, like the Bourbons of France, it has learned nothing and has forgotten nothing. On the other hand, when we look upon the Republican party and its history we find in it the history of our country for the last generation. All the noble achievements of our people have sprung from the progressive spirit with which that purty is imbued. It has been the Republican party, and it is the Republican to-day, which, in the first place, provides for America and looks after our wellare and the welfare of our children, and, in the next place, inquires after the nations of Europe.

Achievements of This Administration.

Achievements of This Administration. The achievements of the Republican party are eulogized at length. The foreign policy of the present administration is reviewed and the address then says:

and the address then says:

But the greatest triumphs of the present Republican administration have been achieved in economic results. Under Harrison, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Spain and other countries have removed their prohibitory measures against the importation of American pork; tolls upon cereais were reduced in France and Germany; and with other powers reciprocity treaties were entered into, whereby our commerce and industries have received a new impetus, and from which all classes will gather rich benefits. Every patriotic citizen will therefore unite with us in the hearty wish: "Let well enough alone."

Our country has a grand future before it. It is to-day the mightlest nation on earth. To maintain this position, free scope must be given to its further development, and knowing, as we do, that the Democratic party has at all times clogged the wheel of progress—history bears us out—and believen. progress—history bears us out—and believing, as we do, that, true to its innate nature, it will act in the future as it did in the past, we will not follow its allurements, but remain true to the party of the Union, the party of progress and national honor.

RELIGION IN ECONOMY.

The Subject of a Sunday Address by Secre tary Charles Foster at Asbury Park-Matters as Important as Finances Under Control of His Department, ASBURY PARK, Aug. 28 -[ Special. ]-Four thousand people assembled in the Asbury Park Auditorium at the national service this afternoon to hear Secretary of the Treasury Foster and General Bussey, Assistant Secretary of the Interior. White-law Reid was expected to speak, but he telegraphed his regrets. The service was opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. McCosh, ex-president of Princeton University.

The subject of Secretary Foster's address was announced as "Religion in Economy." In the course of his talk he said: "It is popularly supposed that the Treasury De-partment looks after only the finances of the country, but as a matter of fact it looks after many other important matters. One of the most difficult duties of the department is the proper administration of the emigration laws. It is hard to determine absolutely whether a man is brought here under contract or is likely to become a pubunder contract or is likely to become a public charge. A young man without a cent in nis pocket, but strong of heart and limb, is often less likely to become a pauper than the weakly man, with his pockets full of money. One of the most important duties of the Treasury Department at this time is to care for marine hospitals at all ports of entry to this country. My only regret is that the general government does not have more complete control of all these avenues for the intro-duction to the country of cholera and other infectious diseases. The local control of these quarantine stations is a relic of the States' rights idea. However, we have undertaken vigorous measures for the exclusion of foreign rags and passengers from in-fected ports, and the full power and inice of the treasury service will be exerted for the safety of the country."

A reference to Mr. Blaine's name was loudly applauded. General Bussey followed with a short address. He said that all opposition to law, whether by one man or by an organized body of men, must be crushed just as surely and as promptly as was the Rebellion of the Southern States. He was heartily applauded when he advo-cated the most radical measures of treating the Anarchists of the country.

DEATH OF ALEX, KIRKLAND.

The Wel'-Known Scotch-American Passes Away in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 .- [Special.]-Alex. Kirkland, well known throughout the country as a leader among Scotch-Americans, died this morning at the home of his son, Robert B. Kirkland, in Jefferson, Wis. Deceased was born September 24, 1824, near Glasgow, Scotland. When 17, he began the study of architecture and civil enginstudy of architecture and civil engin-eering, and some years later went into business for himself and became Glasgow's leading architect. Among the structures that proclaim his abilities are the St. Vincent Crescent and Napier place, costing $2,000,000; the Both-well street business block, $1,500,000; the approaches to the Suspension bridge over the Clyde, Anderson & Company's wholesale warchouse, one of the largest in Glas-gow, and a theater building. From Glas-gow he went to London, and in 1866 he emigrated to New York, where he remained until 1868, when he removed to Wisconsin.

After the big fire in 1871 he came to Chicago and took an active part in rebuilding city. He was a prominent member of the St. Andrew's Society, and was twice elected President of that organization. While a resident of Scotland he was a mem ber of the Masonic fraternity and Past Master of a lodge. His father, Captain Kirkland, served under Wellington, and was retired on account of wounds received

WORSE THAN ANY WAR

Is the Condition of Threatened Disease to the United States.

GOOD ADVICE FROM A PHYSICIAN.

He Would Adopt the Most Radical Measures of Prevention

IF HE HAD THE NECESSARY AUTHORITY

PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. WASHINGTON, Aug. 28 .- "I do not want be known as an alarmist, a calamity howler, or a prophet of evil in any way, but I think it the duty of every man who has made a study of the things that are necessary to health, and the possibilities of the introduction of disease from one place into another, to do what he can to arouse any and all communities to the danger that threatens, and excite the people who always take the lead in such extremities to prompt and decisive action."

The gentleman who began in this strain

The gentleman who began in this strain to THE DISPATCH correspondent to-day, is one of the most distinguished physicians in the country, one who has held high position as a sanitary adviser of the Government and who has spent seasons abroad when the cholera and yellow fever were epidemic, in the very midst of the plague.

"There is no occult or complex question involved in the means of prevention," continued the great doctor." The grand preventives are cleanliness, fresh air, plenty of breathing space, simple and cooling food, abstemious habits to both food and drink, avoidance of overcrowding in our great cities, and an impassable barrier against the entrance to the country, or to other communities if it once gain a foot-bold in any locality, of the germs of the Contagion May Come Without Contact. "It may be that contagion would develop without contact, on account of the extraor-dinary and sinister conditions of the mag-netic world, or in other words, the peculiar netic world, or in other words, the peculiar atmospheric composition of the time, but the great reservoir for the generation of diseases of all kinds, at all times, especially of contagious or febrile diseases, is filth, impure air, decaying vegetation, bad sewerage, a failure to keep clean the drainpipes from the habitations of human beings, and especially those habitations that are crowded with tenants till there is not an inch to spare for one more.

crowded with tenants till there is not an inch to spare for one more.

"We say that a certain city is a clean city. There is no such thing as a clean city. Some are cleaner than others, but at best the cleaning of a city is a pretense and sham, a thing of jobbery and swindling for a contractor, who is usually a political favorite, and who cares only to make his pile out of the public. At most a few of these leading business and society localities are objects of the solicitude of the authorities of a city. The places upon which disease is most likely to pounce down and commit the direct ravages are scarcely ever commit the direst ravages are scarcely ever

Only Superficial Cleaning Customany, "We in Washington think that if Pennsylvania avenue and a few other streets are cleaned that all is clean and we have the cleanest city in the world. Paris cleans her grand boulevards and her fashionable quarters, and the Faubourgs are left in filth. The Belleville quarter, where disease revels, and whence springs the disor-derly class, with all its abnormal characteristics, is a hades of crowded tenements, bad food, baddrinks, evil smells. So it is in London, in the Soho, in the Shoreditch, in all the Whitechapel district, dirt, disease and crime go hand in hand.

"So it is in all of our cities, and this so-called beautiful city of Washington is no exception. Uncollected garbage lies every-where, reeking and evaporating in the heat under the windows of sleeping rooms. The sewerage system is bad at best, and its it is in all of our cities, and this sothreat that if a contagion gets a foothold it will play fear ul havoe before it can be checked. Why, at night, when the air is humid and rare, one is almost suffocated by drops. The stench pervades every part of the city. The astonishing thing is that the recent hot weather did not carry deadly contagion on its wings to a greater extent

One City as Bad as Another.

"There is little difference between one eity and snother in this respect. I suppose that Pittsburg is not better than Wash-ington. But there is little use of talking to either the people or the city authorities in regard to habits and cleanliness. In my long experience it has been proven to me almost every hour that a bad habit in eating and drinking, lack of frequent bathing, uncleanly closets and all the other vehicles of disease will be perpetuated, no matter what the warning. A single spasm of virtue exhausts the impulse to do right, and we go on as before. Therefore, attention to the more superficial and general methods of prevention is a thousand times imperative.

"I speak from a somewhat remarkable experience when I tell you that if the large cities of the United States escape a visit, more or less calamitous, of this terrible scourge of cholera, it will be something near akin to a miracle. I predict that within two weeks we shall see that the cholera news from our own cities overshadows that from the other side of the cocan unless the most herois treatment by ocean, unless the most heroic treatment be · Necessity for Radical Measures. "Were I at the head of affairs I would not permit a rag of clothing or of merchan-dise which could carry the disease to enter at any of our ports until after its thorough disinfection, and that not in the vessels in which it is transmitted, but in the open air. I would hold every passenger from an infected city until all of his belongings had been disinfected in a similar manner.

The germs of the disease may lie dormant for weeks and months in clothing and other articles and then sow the plague broadcast. As thoroughness would be impossible if there were not some restriction placed on immigration, I would prohibit all immigration at least until after the advent of freez-ing weather, and even then would continue a close supervision and compel a continuance of the disinfecting process until the warm weather of next year shall show whether there be danger of a new outbreak. "The history of these diseases tells us that almost invariably the second year of a plague is more destructive than the first, and the precaution should, therefore, affect not only this year, but particularly should not only this year, but particularly should look forward to the next, which, if it be one of intense heat, like the present summer, will be one of gloom and death if the contagion gets any sort of a footbold this fall. Instead of fairs and festivities, there will be funerals. The cemeteries will not be capacious enough to hold our dead.

More Serious Than Threatened War. "We are confronted with a condition is a demand for the most consummate Gov-ernmental and municipal generalship. Will the Washingtons and the Grants and the apoleons spring to the front and be equal to the tremendous emergency?

"Every town and city furnishes opportu-nity for the development of the man for the time who will do the great work that must be done at once if the march of the millions of the gread army of the contagion is to be met and baffled. It may be even now too late to insure complete immunity from the disease, but it is not too late to confine it to the spot where it finds its first victims. If our Government and municipal authorities fail of their duty death sudden and horrible will not only sweep throughout the country, mowing down its victime by the thousands, but business will be paralyzed, commerce will be destroyed, financial disaster will come in the wake of the plague; and if, added to these horrors, there should be a shortage in the yield of staple articles of food next year, who can even guess at the calamities of a social character which might lay waste the land in its entire length and breadth?"

Of Remarks Made by Him on Capital and Labor-He Thinks Labor's Right to Combine is Equily as Defensible as PITTSBURGS WELL THOUGHT OF. NEW YORE, Aug. 28 .- [Special.]-Erastu Wiman's discourse on "Capital and Labor" at Prohibition Park Sunday a week ago

Latest Betting and Gossip About the Sullivan and Corbett Fight. aroused so much criticism that to-day he again addressed the congregation at that place for the purpose, as it is safd, of ex-plaining some of the statements he had made. Mr. Wiman spoke as follows: It would seem that my speech last week did not suit everybody. I am very sorry for that, but I firmly believe that some of the Second—Many understand you to say that you were disgusted that your son had to go to Buffalo to defend the property of the great radroad kings. On the contrary, is it not true that the soldiers went to Buffalo to put down lawless acts and to keep the peace? Is not this a duty to be performed by the Government, whether it be the cottages of the pear or the storehouses and naisees of Government, whether it be the cottages of the poor or the storehouses and palaces of the rich that are threatened?

Third—What did you mean by saying that the most daugerous of all unions and combinations were those of rich meh and rich corporations; that these were the kind of strikers that need most to be feared?

I will take up the second question first. In it I am asked whether I expressed disgust on account of my son having to go to Buffalo with his military organization, troop "A." My answer is no. I never said anything of the kind. I am glad to have a son able and willing to respond to the call of thing of the kind. I am glad to have a son able and willing to respond to the call of duty. But I did say, and now repeat, that the calling out of 7,000 militiamen to put down a handful of strikers was unnecessary and hurtful. That strike was not put down on its merits, but by force.

About the first question I have nothing to say, excepting that I said no such thing. Now about the third question. What I said last week was that a great change, a dangerous change, was coming over us. The combination of capital is the great change, and one we must look out for. If it was deemed necessary to call out the militia of either Pennsylvania or New York to suppress a few troublesome strikers who had organized to demand an hour's pay for an hour's work, why was it not necessary to call out the soldiers to suppress the infamous Reading coal combine?

COULDN'T PATCH A PEACE.

The Irish-American Commissi Home Just as They Went, NEW YORK, Aug. 28.-[Special.]-M. D Gallagher, William Lyman, O'Neill Ryan and Captain George Sweeney, the peace commissioners sent to Ireland by the Irish National League of America to try unite the warring factions the Irish parliamentary party, returned yesterday on the Germanic They left this city about two months ago. They have issued a statement of what they did in Ireland. According to this state-ment it was not until after the elections that active measures were taken to bring the leaders of both factions together for a conference with the peace commissioners. They wrote to Messrs. Redmond and Harmessrs. McCarthy, Davitt, Healy, Sexton, Dillon and others of the anti-Parnellite or McCarthy wing of the party.

The commissioners proposed that each faction appoint a committee to confer with the commissioners. Mr. Redmond, the com-missioners say, wrote on behalf of the Par-nellites that they had appointed a confer-ence committee, but the McCarthyites refused to name a similar committee. For this reason the conference could not be held, and the commissioners were not able to do anything to unite the factions.

EADS' JETTIES IN DANGER.

A Crevasse In the Month of the Mississipp

Opening an O'd Pass, NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28 .- [Special.]-A crevasse of considerable proportions is reported at Passe a Lontre, one of the mouths of the Mississippi. The pass was in use as one of the entrances of the Mississippi a half a century ago, but shouled up. When Eads' jetties were constructed the pass was nearly closed in order to force a greater amount of water through South Passe, in which the jetties are constructed, and thus flush the channel and deepen it. The crevasse at Passe a Lontre undone this work crevasse at Passe a Loutre undone this work and threatens to reopen the pass. The Eads Jetty Company are alarmed at this, and contemplate filling it in, but this would prove a very expensive piece of work. The United States engineers do not think that the crevasse will do any more damage to the channel in the jetties than the similar break at Cubit's Passe, just above these works or reduce the depth of above these works, or reduce the depth of water at the entrance to the Mississippi, owing to the high water of this year. The owing to the high water of this year. The crevasses have been allowed to run longer than usual, and have consequently deepened. Notwithstanding the report of the engineers, the Eads Company will attempt o close the Passe a Loutre again.

GUN CASTERS IN HARD LUCK.

A Second Fallure at the Watertown Arsen

to Mould a Big Carriage. WATERTOWN, MASS., July 28.-A second insuccessful attempt was made at the Arsenal yesterday to east the big 16-ton gun carriage for the Government, and a dozen men narrowly escaped death or serious injury. Four months ago orders were received from Washington to cast a gun carriage after the model of a new inven-tion, and active preparations to that end were commenced by Major Riley. Two weeks ago an attempt was made to make the castings, which resulted in the spoiling of the mould. A new mould had been made, which was ready for the casting.

Yesterday when the furnace was tapped the big mass of molten metal shot in a stream 20 feet in the air. The men ran for their lives. Major Riley, director of the operation, who was sitting on a widow sill, threw himself backward into the building and escaped the flying drops of metal. The workinen were equally fortunate. The failure of this attempt is attributed to the dampness of the sand which lined the reservoir. Another attempt to cast the gun

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Summer is hardly the accepted time for the game of football, but the rivalry between the teams in the college and other associations is so great that already the candidates for the different positions are beginning to get themselves in trim for the antumn campaign.

The coming season promises to be an unusually busy one and matches between the local clubs have been arranged to take place early in September. One of the first games that will be played in this vicinity will be between the Princeton University team and an eleven from the Manhattan Athletic Club. The game will be played at Manhattan Field on Septem-The Princeton team this year bids fair to be an unusually strong one. With but one or two exceptions all of last year's men will be back, and with their experience the eleven should play well together from the Trencharn will replace Warren at right end, and, in all probability, the giant Riggs will keep his old place in the line.

The few vacancies that will take place in the line will easily be filled by the many candidates, but such giants as Holly and Thomas will not leave.

A portion of the Yale team has been at work for several weeks under the careful training of W. T. Bull at Newport. Eastern tootball authorities are expecting the Three A's, of Pittsburg, to have a good team this year, as there are quite a number of excellent players identifying themselves with that club.

THE case of Newman, of the New Yorks, was pathetic. He was in New York for four weeks and never saw the grounds. The four walls of the hospital limited his view till ne was discharged. The members of the club contributed to raise a purse of $150 to help him along a little.

$150 to help him along a little.

"WHY, we wouldn't trade him for Denny Richardson now," said Manager Powers the other evening, speaking of Scoond Baseman Burke.

"While he is not as sure a man on greund balls as Richardson, he can cover a great deal of territory, and is almost certain on fly balls. He has killed many a hit, and helped to win many a game for us. Take him from all points of view—a fast felder, a good base runner and a timely hitter—I think Burke ranks with the best of them,"

MCKENNAN is after the special metal offered at the East End Gym sports for the best general sthicts. THE medals for the Gym sports will be on ex-nibition in one of the stores along Fifth avenue this week.

RAIN interferred with the tennis play at New-port Saturiay. There were no matches between the champions. McMahon, the Three A's new half and one mile runner, has deserted the Young Men's Catholic Club for the Three A's. Club for the Three A's.

The badges to be worn by the officials of the Gyms' sports will be of white satin with crimson lettering, the Gyms' colors.

The three A's have entered the largest team in the East End Gym Club's sports and expect to carry off the special medal.

The 3 A's are determined to score more points than the Gyms at the latter's games, and even up the Gym record at the 3 A's meeting. THE Gym Club is making every effort to have the bleyele races in fast time, and all the corners on the track are being banked at a great expense. For the first time in its existence the Keystone Bleycie Club is entering men in races. They have entered three men at the East End Gym sports. J. W. McGowan, the official handleapper of the League of American Wheelmen for Western Penn-sylvania, will do his first work on the entries for the Gym bicycle eventa.

W. L. Conpon, the great hammer thrower and shot putter is entered in these sports, September 3, and will no doubt show the local men something new in the way of throwing the hammer. C. W. HEPPENSTALL, of the East End Gym Club, wore two prizes, one first and one second, at the Mahoning 'Cycle Club's meet at Youngstown, O., on Thursday, the 25th. Zimmerman captured five firsts.

The hieyele races at the Gym sports have the largest list of entries ever entered in a wheel event given in Pittsburg. It will require four heats in each, the one and two mile events and a final making ten good bleyele contests. Miscellaneous Sporting Notes. LOCAL betting on the big battles is very light. This week will indeed be a noisy one among the ougilists and boxers. RAIN has been very disastrous to the Grand Circuit races this year. NEITHER Hall nor Peter Jackson intend to se the Sullivan and Corbett fight. It is now generally admitted that Kenny, the Australian, is a very good swimmer.
