

THE USE FOR WINGS.

Image Teaches a Lesson of Humility From Isaiah's Seraphim.

MODERN IRREVERENCE REBUKED.

Human Nature was Originally Regal, But Now it is Exasperated.

DEATH IS ONLY A MOULTING SEASON.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Dr. Talmage's latest sermon, delivered to day, is on Isaiah 6:2 "With tain he covered his face; with tain he covered his feet, and with tain he hid his face."

In a hospital of leprosy good King Uzziah had died, and the whole land was shrouded with solemnity, and theological and prophetic Isaiah was thinking about religious duties, as one to do in the time of great national bereavement, and forgetting the presence of his wife and two sons, who made up his family, he has a dream, not like the dreams of ordinary characters, which generally come from imagination, but a vision most instructive, and under the touch of the hand of the Almighty.

The prophet standing in the temple, grand, awful, majestic. Within that temple a throne higher and grander than that occupied by any czar or sultan or emperor. On that throne, the eternal Christ. In lines surrounding that throne the brightest celestial, not the cherubim, but higher than they, the most exquisite and radiant of the heavenly inhabitants, the seraphim. They are called burners because they look like fire. Lips of fire, eyes of fire, feet of fire.

In addition to the features and the limbs which suggest a human being, there are wings which suggest the lightest, the swiftest, the most buoyant and most inspiring of all intelligent creation—a bird. Each seraph had six wings, and the wings for different purposes. Isaiah's dream organs and flashes with these pinions. Now folded, now spread, now beaten in locomotion. "With tain he covered his face, with tain he covered his face, and with tain he hid his face."

A Practical Lesson of Humility.

The probability is that these wings were not used the first time they were put on. The seraphim were near the throne overwhelmed at the insufficiency of the patis his frodden by the feet of God, and with the tain of his locomotion amounting almost to deprecatory as compared with the divine beauty, with feathers veiled of angelic modesty hides the feet. "With tain he hid cover the feet."

Being there overpowered by the overwhelming splendor of God's glory, and unable longer with the eyes to look upon them, and wishing those eyes should be hidden, the seraphim, the pinions gather over the face. "With tain he hid cover the face." Then as God tells this seraph to go to the furthest outpost of immensity on the wings of light and to spread his wings, he covers his face, and with tain he hid cover the face. "With tain he hid cover the face."

The most practical and useful lesson for you and me when we see the seraphim is that we should be like them in our humility and imperfection. The brightest angels in God's army are those who are far beneath God, and so far beneath the seraphim in service we ought to be pinions of humility, utter and complete. Our feet, how lowly they have been in the divine service. Our feet, how many mistakes they have taken! Our feet, in how many paths of worldliness and folly they have walked!

Neither God nor seraph intended to put us in a position that death is one of the unutterable of Almighty God—the human foot. Physiologists and anatomists are at hand to aid us in our study of the organ.

The Wonders of the Human Foot.

The articulation of its bones, the lubrication of its joints, the delicacy of its lines, the ingenuity of its cartilages, the delicacy of its veins, the rapidity of its muscular contraction, the sensitiveness of its nerves. I sound the praises of the human foot.

With that we halt or climb or march. It is the foundation of the physical fabric. It is the base of a God-given column. With it the warrior braces himself for battle. With it the laborer plants himself for toil. With it the soldier marches to the front. With it the traveler makes his journey. It is the organ of his indignation. It is the organ of his indignation. It is the organ of his indignation.

Human Nature is Originally Corrupted.

All this talk about the dignity of human nature is bragado and a sin. Our nature started at the hand of God regal, but it has been paperized. The human soul was a well of good, but the armies sin have brought around it and fought across it and been slain, and it has become a well of skeletons. Dead hopes, dead resolutions, dead opportunities, dead ambitions. An abandoned well unless Christ shall reopen and purify and fill it as the well of Bethesda.

Another seraphic posture in the text: "With tain he hid cover his face, and with tain he hid cover his feet, and with tain he hid cover his face." This is the attitude of the seraphim when they are in the presence of God. It is the attitude of the seraphim when they are in the presence of God. It is the attitude of the seraphim when they are in the presence of God.

A Lecture by Mrs. Parica.

In a lecture by the famous cook, Mrs. Parica, she says that it is the duty of every good housewife to be a good bread baker first, as that is the foundation on which all good cooks build. And adds that to be a good bread baker one must use the best flour. As the Camellia flour is the best, it follows that everyone who aspires to be a luscious, white, light, rich bread should use it.

Grandfather's Hat.

Grandfather's hat may be an ancient and rusty bit, but it has a quality of getting better and better as it grows older. It's the same way with the new grandfathers' hat case that Marvin is baking, although it is neither ancient nor rusty. It is new. Everybody seems to want it. It keeps two or three immense ovens busy all the time. It's the best thing you can buy for a pound of grandfather's hat, and you want a delightful case for it.

Friendly Advice.

"Albert, I advise you to take a dose of Carlsbad Sprudel Salt before you retire, and another one in the morning, if you want to have a clear head for the day. It will do you good, I assure you. But no imitation. You would not drink imitation wines, would you? Buy the genuine every time."

Heiskell's Ointment

Is a positive cure for all forms of SKIN DISEASE. We base this assertion on our observation of over thirty years, in which times very large numbers of cases of skin disease have been reported to us as cured by the simple use of Heiskell's Ointment, without the aid of internal remedies. Many of these were cases of long duration, that had resisted the treatment of the most eminent medical talent in this and other countries. Heiskell's Ointment seems never to have failed in a single instance. Sold by Druggists, or sent by mail. Price 50 Cents per box. Send for "Hints for Kitchen and Sickness Room." Free.
