CONFIDENT OF WINNING.

But He Does Not Underrate the Powers of James J. Corbett.

PUFFS AND BLOWS AS OF YORE

At the Close of Each of the Rounds in the Fistic Exhibitions.

HE IS STILL TOO FAT TO PLEASE ALL

New York, Aug. 29 .- If ever a man received a hearty welcome it was John L. Sullivan when he arrived at the Flatbush avenue depot, Long Island Railroad, fresh from his training quarters at Canoe Place Inn, near Good Ground. It was John's first appearance in this city since he went down to the lower end of the island to go into training for his great battle with James J. Corbett for the championship of the world, and the crowd were anxious to see what the big fellow really looked like after his long age of training. The train was half an hour late, but that cut no figure with the enthusiasts, as the crowd kept swelling in number, until it took a platoon of policemen to keep a free passage so that the average person could pass through the crowd Indian file. Every available place for a view of the great champion was occupied, even to the lamp posts and supports of the elevated

A happy thought struck some of the long-headed men in the crowd and they gave up five cents for a grand stand position by paying their fare on the Fifth avenue elevated road and remaining on the platform to get a glimpse of Sullivan when he

The Hour's Hero Hove in Sight.

The big tellow came at last, even though it was suspected that he had skipped the train at some other point. To avoid the erowd Sullivan was hurried through a private exit into the main depot and up the stairs toward the elevated station. As he went through the passage he was followed by the admiring crowd, who cheered him to the echo. When he got around to the street, instead of going upon the train, he shot down on the street and started for his carriage, which was only reached through the assistance of two mounted policemen. who had to ride through the crowd and disperse it, while the other officers escorted him to the hack. There must have been fully a thousand persons present. he carriage was driven rapidly to Phil Casev's handball court, but Sullivan and Casey had scarcely arrived when the crowd began to gather, and in a half hour's time there were 500 people gathered in and around the place. Sullivan was taken up-stairs to a private room where he refused to see any of his friends. A barber was called in, and the big fellow was sitting on a chair in the middle of the floor getting shaved when the Associated Press reporter called upon him. His skin was clear and healthyoking, and his general appearance was fine, with the exception of his stomach, which looked a trifle large and soft.

Grorted by Scores of Voices, It was a great seething howling growd that crushed its way into the Clermont avenue rink in Brooklyn to-night, to witness the reception tendered John L. Sulli-Yan. As early as 7 o'clock, there was a large gathering at the rink's doors. The small boy was out in force, had been there, in fact, ever since school was let out. Then the horse cars and the elevated roads began to deposit their burdens at the corner.

At 7:30 o'clock the string of pedestrians was unbroken. They came three and four abreast for a while but then they came in battalions. The helmets of the police of-ficers bobbed up everywhere and there was the best of order. The elite of the sporting fraternity was there to see what Sullivan looked like after his eight weeks of training, and to get an idea of what the man was who would carry their hopes and their dollars at New Orleans. Charlie Johnson, who has allied his hopes to Sullivan's prowess for so many years, was the most conspicu-ous person in the throng. He was smiling and happy. His looks were those of a man who is looking earnestly forward to success In the center of the immense rink was pitched the 24-foot ring and around it the nultitudes surged. There was an unbroken sea of faces, stretching from the ring away back to the walls and upon the galleries. It was of course a typical fighting crowd. Many had followed Sullivan through his fighting career and many had seen him win in their heaven of pugilism and they de-light to gaze on him. There were half dozen bouts at the beginning, in which some local fighters showed themselves. The Champion Makes a Speech.

Shortly before 10 o'clock, the man of the evening appeared, and as he emerged from the dressing room and walked toward the ring, there was pandemonium. Jack Ashton followed the champion. A great floral harp on which was inscribed "John L. Sullivan, Champion of the World," was handed into the ring, and as Sullivan turned and bowed to the audience, the howling grew louder. There were cries of "speech" and then the big fellow said: 'I thank you for the hearty applause and appreciation. I believe I have the good will of all the people here this evening, on my last appearance before my last fight. That fight will decide whether I am the John L. Sullivan of old or the John L. Sullivan who has passed by. I am not going to speak disparingly of Mr. Corbett. All I will say, is that I am most glad to appear here. I have deceived you once, but let by gones be by gones. I am going to stop speaking now, and you will next hear from me on September 7."

Sullivan's words were punctuated by the wildest yelling. Then there were shouts for Phil Casey and that modest gentleman was dragged into the ring. There appeared to be a good deal of flesh on Sullivan as he sat in his corner. His eyes were bright and flashing and his face was hardened and tanned. His shoulders are in splendid condition and his muscles show excellently. There appeared, however, to be lots of fat over his stomach and on his back. It is very strange if he does not weigh in the vicinity of 220 pounds. He perspired very freely when he sparred three rounds with Jack Ashton, but showed the agility of a cat as he went around the ring. His actions were like lightning.

He wore a confident, hardened air that could not be mistaken. He went at Ashton very hard, tapping him at short inter-vals twice with the left and once with the right. Although he only touched his com-panion on the neck and shoulders, he was very tired at the end of each round. as remarked that Sullivan puffed a good deal after the finish of the rounds. The wrinkle of fat over his waistband heaved in and out to no small degree. Still his admirers feel that he is in prime condi-tion. His ffesh is well colored and his striking force is as marvelous as ever. His legs are in the best of form.

The crowd was good natured, and cheer-fully accepted the slightest entertainment afforded them until Corbett appeared. There were some preliminary bouts to whet the impatience of the audience. It was the impatience of the audience. It was 10:50 o'clock when Steve O'Donnell, master of ceremonies, introduced Corbett amid great cheers. He was accompanied by John McVay, of Philadelphia, who was to oppose him. The young Californian walked from his dressing quarters to the ring, while cheer after cheer went up. He sprang lightly up the steps and bowed to the assembled multitude. Corbett wore green stockings, white pants and a green belt. Before he had taken his seat three-cheers were given for him. Then the crowd in audible criticisms passed on the Californian's condition.

Indeed, Corbett did not look as if much

Indeed, Corbett did not look as if much were the matter with him. There was a very pretty exhibition of boxing between Corbett and McVay. McVay, however, was too beefy and altogether too slow for the star of evening. Things livened up more in the bout between Corbett and his boxing partner, Jim Daly. Though Daly is not heavy enough for Corbett, there was some very pretty quick fighting, and Corbett had a chance to show his nimbleness. He is renarkably quick, and his clean science urged the spectators up to a shouting point. There is no doubt that, despite his somewhat disappointing development, Corbett made a host of friends by his clever methods and his evident splendid condition. The boxing bouts with Corbett over, the crowd dispersed to think the method and dispuss the to think the matter over and discuss the value of Corbett's stock in New Orleans on September 7.

The Manufacturers West of the Alleghenic Pool Their Issues-They Will Make a Uniform Scale of Prices but Will Do No Singhing.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Aug. 29.-The theel manufacturers west of the Allegheny Mountains organized the Western Wheel Association to-day. They met at the Bates House, as a continuation of the Cincinnati meeting, and came here especially to induce the Standard Wheel Company to join the association. President Fairbanks, of that company, was not satisfied with the terms offered at Cincinnati, but to-day his requests were for the most part met.

Officers were elected as follows: Dwight Smith, of Jackson, Mich., President; Jay H. Keith, of Terre Haute, Secretary. The Treasurer will be appointed by the President. The organization as it stands controls 95 per cent of the capacity of factories west of the capacity of factories west of the Alleghenies. The Standard Company itself controls 60 per cent of the output of wheels, and it was for this reason its co-operation was essential. Mr. Fairbanks stated to-night that it was not the intention of the association to accomplish the resource of the association to accomp not the intention of the association to acquire ownership of all plants and destroy competition, but, on the contrary, to promote competition, both among manufacturers and the trade, and at the same time protect themselves. He further stated that their purpose was not to raise prices to any great extent, but to prevent slashing and cutting and preserve har-mony. The association will control prices. The meeting adjourned early in the after-noon, and the members will convene again in Toledo, O., in about three weeks. At this meeting a scale of prices will be

BIG FRAUDS UNEARTHED.

New York Custom House Officials Find the Government Has Lost Lots of Money. NEW YORK, Aug. 29. - [Special.]-The inrestigation that has been going on for some time in the surveyors' department of the New York custom house has unearthed serious frauds accomplished by underweighing sugar. The evidence so far implicates eight importing houses and a number of employes of the weighing department. During the eight months from August 1, 1891, to March 1, 1892, when the duty was taken off sugar, examination showed that there were about 4,000,000 pounds not accounted for, and that the Government had been defrauded to the extent of $65,000 or $75,000. It is plain that during the period named there were systematic and continued frauds in weighing sugar.

The examiners did not go back of August. 1891, in their search, because of a curious omission in the law bearing on the case The old law read that in a suit by the Government the goods could be recovered "or the value thereof." In the act that went into effect on the date named the clause "or the value thereof" was omitted, and hence there could be recovery only of the property. All names were revised to-day at the custom house, but the matter has been placed in the hands of the District Attorney.

A RURAL TRAGEDY.

How the Brother of a Murdered Boy Wreaked a Terrible Revenge.

SAVANNAH, N. V., Aug. 29 -The news of a terrible tragedy near Cato, Cayuga county, has been received here, but full particulars cannot be learned to-night. It appears that a boy, while cutting bundles for a threshing machine, accidentally cut the feeder's hand, which so infuriated him that he immediately caught up the lad and threw him into the rapidly revolving cylinder, where he was ground to atoms be-fore anyone present could raise a hand to

The brother of the unfortunate lad witnessed the bloody deed, and lost no time in wreaking vengeance upon the murderer. He telled him to the floor with a blow from a pitchfork, and while he lay writhing from the effects thereof the brother repeatedly plunged the tines of the fork through his body, not ceasing until he was dead. All the threshing hands stood by and witnessed the two tragic deaths, which occurred so quickly that they were powerless to inter-

The Boys Tap Many Tills and the Girls Go Through Echools,

TAKING ALL THAT'S NOT NAILED DOWN

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) NEW YORK, Aug. 29. - Walter Daly, s small boy with an innocent face, was sent to the Catholic Protectory to-day, on com-plaint of his mother. Mrs. Daly did not want him committed, but thought it best to take action against him because the agents of the Garry Society would have had him committed anyway. Then she would have to secure the society's recommendation before she could secure his discharge.

avenue. His brother Richard, 17 years old, was with him, but he escaped. Walter had $2 21 in his pocket. He said that Richard gave the money to him. The police are looking for Richard.

Mr. Reisman declined to prosecute Walter, and Agents Moore and Pringle, of the Gerry Society, hunted up the lad's record. They say that Walter has eight brothers and sisters, and that those who are old enough have a criminal history. It seems that they inherited a light-fingered tendency from their lather, John Daly. He is in the penitentiary for a petty theft.

A Success as a Bey Till-Tapper.

A Success as a Boy Till-Tapper, Richard, who, it appears, has been teaching Walter the art of till-tapping, had a successful career as a till-tapper before he was 13 years old. Four years ago he was captured and sent to the protectory. He was discharged a few weeks ago, and resumed his old trade. He taught his brother Harry how to steal. Harry, who is 14, is in the protectory.

The elder brother, Albert, graduated from petty theiving to burglary before he was caught, and thus escaped the protectory. His work brought him to Sing Sing, where he is serving a term for burglary. Ray, aged 10 years, Frank, aged 9 years, and the baby brother are still with their mother.

thieves than their brothers. They are Ger-trude, aged 19 years, and Mary, aged 20 years. They began their careers as serv-ants, but never worked longer in one place than it took them to learn the whereabouts of their employers' valuables. Then they would disappear, and money and jewelry would go with them. When people who hired them were ordinarily watchful they had to work too long before they got a The Girls Go Through Schools,

For-that reason they turned their attention to schools. They were mere school-girls in appearance and could gain an entrance to the schools without arousing suspicion. They called during the noon recess, when the schoolrooms were abandoned by teachers and uppiles and searched the by teachers and pupils, and searched the wardrobes and desks. A dozen or more schools were robbed, and it is said the girls stole $300 worth of clothing and some cash in their raids on the schools before the hunt or them became so earnest that they had to look about for a new source of revenue.

Thereafter both of the girls collected money from charitable people. They said they were looking for contributions for the Sacred Heart Convent and found many generous people. After a while they had to give up this scheme. Mary got work as clerk in J. H. Truesdell's store on West Fourteenth streef. She had been there but a short time when articles were missed. At last the new clerk was suspected and arrested. She had been hired under the name of Kate Burke. Her identity was discovered. The investigation which followed revealed her career as a collector and identified her as the visitor to the solvent.

Disposition of the Girl Thieves. Gertrude was arrested and the sisters rere accused of having on November 27 and 29, 1888, stolen nine wraps from class-rooms in schools in West Twenty-fourth street and West Eighteenth street. Mary was sent to the House of the Holy Family. There was some little doubt about Gertrude's connection with the thefts and sen-tence was suspened in her case. She was in court with her mother to-day. They say they work in a laundry.

The society men had no excuse for even attempting to secure possession of the younger members of the family, but it will watch them closely to prevent them follow-ing their brothers' footsteps. They might have been committed to institutions, but as the society learned nothing against the mother it decided to allow her to keep her children.

Grand Lodge Officers Elected Under Exciting Circumstances. CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 29.-The session of the Grand Lodge, Jewish order of B'rith Abraham, opened to-day with scenes of great disorder. It was charged that the New York delegates had made a slate of new officers and the election was inter rupted at one point by the seizure of the ballot box by an excited delegate, who im-mediately scattered the ballots over the tellers' table. Fists were shaken, there were cries of fraud, groans and hisses, and some very uncomplimentary personal remarks were made.

The election was completed in the evening, resulting as follows: Grand Master, Julius Meseritz, Brooklyn, N. Y.; First Deputy, Samuel Dorf, Baltimore, Md.; Second Deputy, Nathan Strauss, Cleveland, Ohio; Grand Secretary, Leonard Leisorsohn, New York City; Endowment Secretary, M. Sternberg, New York; Grand Treasurer, Moses Lubelsky, New York; Endowment Treasurer, Abraham J. Dworsky, New York, and Grand Sexton, Israel Jackson.

DAUGHTERS OF LIBERTY

and Their Male Colleagues Gathering in Philadelphia for Their Annual Session-Prospects for a Lively Time-Several Exciting Contests for Office.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 .- [Special.]-Delegates to the fifteenth annual session of the National Council, Daughters of Liberty, have been coming into the city all day. There are 500 of them here now, and by tomorrow morning, when the session opens there will be 200 more. 'The meeting will last three days. Mayor Stuart will welcome the delegates at the opening, and then will begin one of the most important sessions the National Council has ever held. The order is now located in 15 States, and all will be represented at this session. It has a membership of nearly 20,000, with Pennsylvania leading the States in point of numerical strength, with a membership of nearly 12,000. One of the most important measures to be considered this year is the question of establishing State councils. At present the entire order is under the jurisdiction of the National Council, and it is held by many that the organization could make rapid progress if each State had an organization to look after the work. There may, however, be a contest on this matter, as the Penusylvania delegates will not favor the State council measure unless all the States that are able to support State bodies will New York is said to be opposed to would reduce its representation in the national body. But as there must be a reduction in this representation anyway, and all States would be put on an equal basis, the measure is likely to be adopted.

Among other measures to be considered is one providing for the payment of a pre-mium for the organization of new councils; another granting past officers a voice and vote in the national body; one providing for a national organizer. The Pittsburg delegation, fully 200 strong, comes pledged to support nearly all these measures.

State council for its own State, because it

The reports of the national officers tomorrow will show that very rapid progress has been made during the past year. The order has been placed in three new States, viz: Indians, Michigan and Rhode Island. Of 57 new councils organized during the year, 32 were in Pennsylvania, and more than half this number were in the vicinity of Pittsburg. The election of officers will be one of the interesting features of the session. Pitts-burg has two candidates for the position of National Associate Vice Councilor. They are Mrs. Laura M. Thompson, of Pride of the West Council, and Miss Sadie Gribben, of Americus Council. The West also comes with two candidates for National Vice Councilor. G. E. THE BUSINESS WORLD.

The Iron Hall Affairs in Several States East and West.

TWO BIG IRRIGATION PROJECTS. One of Them for Florida and the Other for Texas and Mexico.

FIRES, FAILURES AND THE RAILWAYS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29.-To-day Adelpert E. Stockwell, the assignee for the Mutual Banking, Surety, Trust and Safe Deposit Company, accompanied by his counsel, appeared before Judge Bregy and made a motion that the assignment of the company to Mr. Stockwell and his bond for $870,000 be confirmed and approved.

Logan M. Bullit, counsel for Rosco Hawkins, the receiver appointed for the supreme sitting of the Order of the Iron Hall by Judge Taylor in Indianapolis, obected to the approval and confirmation of Mr. Stockwell, saying he had many reasons for objecting, and asked until Friday morning at 10 o'clock for the preparation and presentation of the objections. George S. Graham, receiver for the Iron

Hall in this State, with his counsel, were also in court. They took no part in the proceedings, but are in accord with the action of Mr. Bullit and will assist him in the efforts that are to be made to unseat Stock well. Judge Bregy agreed to the delay and Mr. Stockwell's counsel filed a motion for the approval of the security.

The end has not only come for it, but for all the endowment orders now existing. The only thing that encouraged them was the fact that the Iron Hall was in existence for ten years. They said if the Iron Hall can do this, then why cannot we. Its Affairs in Western States. A dispatch from Cincinnati says: An application was made to-day to Judge Wilson, of the Court of Common Pleas, for a receiver for the Hamilton county branch of the Order of Iron Hall, and for a restraining order to prevent the payment of the funds on hand to other parties. The restraining order was granted, and the receiver will doubtless be appointed in a few days if there is no resistance. Mr. J. R. Kinsley is to be receiver.

In Common Pleas Court at Cleveland this morning, Amos Denison was appointed re-ceiver for the Iron Hall in that county with a bond of $50,000. The fund in the banks is between $30,000 and $40,000. Judge Hamilton at this time refused to make the receivership apply to the entire State of Ohio.

A dispatch from Indianapolis says: Judge Taylor this afternoon issued an order re-leasing the members of the order of Iron Hall from paying assessment No. 180. All members who have paid assessments 178 and 179 will be in good standing and will be entitled to their portion of the assets of the order.

MILES OF WATER DITCHES.

Blg Syndicate Prepares to Cultiv Many Acres of Florida Land.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 29.—Beyond all question the irrigation scheme being pushed in Florida by a number of capitalists of this city, Philadelphia and New York is to be the greatest North America has ever seen. It is exclusively a private enterprise conducted by a stock company that has no bonds to float, no stock to sell, no mortgages to negotiate. At present it is only a big land syndicate, but it may develop into the giant sugar monopoly of the world. The company has had an existence for months, and through its agents has secured at a few cents an immense tract of land on the St.

John and Indian rivers, 83 miles long and from three to six miles wide.

It has three feet of rich muck, and it is estimated will be worth $100 an acre when drained. The surveyors have been at work some time preparing plans, it being the in-tention to drain the land in sections so that a part of it may be available next spring. The entire cost of the improvement is estimated at $4,000,000 and two years the time necessary to complete the entire work. As fast as prepared the land will be planted in sugar cane. It is believed that on this swamp enough sugar can be raised to supply the whole of North America. Truck farming will be indulged in to some extent, and on the higher knolls small truits. S. A. Jones, of Tampa, Fla., one of the agents of the syndicate, is in the city, and says the improvement will have almost a revolutionary effect on Florida, and will commercially, in the line of sugars, affect the whole world.
