Plant Is Ready TO RUN IN ALL DEPARTMENTS.

Shoenberger & Co. Prepared to Start on Iron To-Morrow.

LOOKING FOR THE LADY IN BLACK

All trouble seems to be over at the Thirtythird street and Twenty-ninth street mills. At the former quite a crowd remained about the entrance yesterday discussing among themselves in groups. The first rumor which went the rounds yesterday was to the effect that the nonunion men at work in the Twenty-ninth street mill had refused to work with the batch of colored puddlers brought there by Mr. Dillon.

The Lawrenceville men were elated for the greater portion of the forenoon until it became clear that somebody was working within the plant, and then the strikers changed their minds. That there was a kick of some sort made inside the mill in the morning is pretty certain, for a conversation with one of the non-union men who came out and went down town on some errand confirmed it. What the trouble was he would not say, except that it started in the plate mill. A heat was on at the time, about 9:30 A. M., and the consequence was that over arguments it was burnt.

The Teemer Brothers Are Jeered. Quite a number of the non-union men came out during the afternoon, but, with the exception of a little persuasive argument used on them by the strikers, nothing of an exciting nature took place. It was reported yesterday that seven men left the Thirty-third street mill at 9:30 P. M.

A large crowd had gathered at the corner of Penn avenue and Thirty-third street yes-terday afternoon when Audy and Jake terday afternoon when Andy and Jake Teemer got off a car and made their way through several groups of strikers to the mills. They are both heaters, and quite young men. As they moved along Thirty-third street they were loudly jeered by the Amalgamated men. The latter claim that only a few have left their ranks, while they say a large number have left they first third street plant during have left the Thirty-third street plant during the past two weeks. The company officials deny that a single man has lett his job.

During an interview yesterday with Mr.

Dillon, that gentleman said: "We don't know of any strike around here any more.

Why those men keep standing about the corners I don't know."

Have All the Men They Need, 'We have all the men we need just at present, and the strikers know it. Scores of them have been here looking for their old jobs or any other they could get, but we have told them that they cannot get any work here now or at any time in the future. I repeat, they have been here in droves, notwithstanding what they might have told you to the contrary. We neither want to hear nor see any of them. A number of them come to me regarding their jobs at the Twenty-ninth street mill in the puddling department about a week ago, and I told them that I might be able to do something for them. Later I told them I would employ them and noti-fied them when to be on hand. When the time came, however, not one of them showed up and I filled their places with colored men. Then they came around and asked if they couldn't be put to work, but I told them no! The Carnegies don't do business that way. The colored men will keep their places, and what is more than that our puddling works will be run entirely by colored men bereafter.

Will Be Running Full on Monday. "So far the axle, forge, machine shop and bumper department and the 12-inch mill and puddling department of the Twentyninth street plant are running, and we in-tend to have the mills in full blast early on Monday morning. We could have started the guide and 15-inch mills to-day if we wanted to, but didn't. They will be working on Monday, however, as well as all the departments of the city mills."

One of the most interesting features of the past four days at the Thirty-third street mill has been the regular daily appearance of the "lady in black." A petit, good-looking woman of about 33 or 34 has been at the office of the company every day to see the general manager. It is Mrs. Bur-gess, the wife of one of the non-union men who left the ranks of the Amalgamated men shortly after the strike was declared. Simultaneous with her appearance has been the continued presence of one Evans, a special officer from McKeesport, looking for the "lady in black" and armed to the teeth with divers warrants for her apprehension on a series of charges. Among the complaints on which Mrs. Burgess is wanted by the McKeesport authorities is that of running a speak-easy, offercealed weapons and the debt of a rent and water bill amounting to $122 50.

GOING ALONG SMOOTHLY.

Schoenberger & Co. Have No Trouble in Operating Their Mills. All was quiet about Schoenberger & Co.'s plant yesterday. The entire Bessemer plant was running in full blast and went on double turn last night. The greater number of the employes of the steel department returned to work vesterday morning.

Preparations are being made to run the iron departments. They will be started one at a time, commencing on Monday. The 112-inch plate mill is now in shape to work, and will be started to-day or to-mor-A number of Amalgamated men applied for jobs to the superintendent yester-

Machinists Leave Town,

A large number of machinists of the Southside, who have been knocked out of employment through the labor troubles, left for Philadelphia on Wednesday night or yesteriay morning for New Phila-delphia, O., where new machine works have just been started.

They Spend Yesterday in the Mountain and They Were Surprised and De-lighted With the Rich Deposit They Found-Investments to Be Made.

Twenty-eight of Pittsburg's representative contractors spent yesterday examining the mineral wealth of that part of the Allegheny Mountains located between Hillside and Blairsville Intersection, on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Large investments in that particular section will likely follow yesterday's investigations, as the contractors were able to find somewhere in that neighborhood a good quality of nearly everything that is useful to the building

The party of contractors headed by Evans Jones left the Union station in a special car attached to the day express at 8 o'clock yesterday morning. At Grays' station, about midway between Hillside and Plairsville Intersection, the special car was side-tracked. The contractors then took to the mountains, and after an hours walk through a picturesque ravine they turned up at Evan Jones' Ligonier block stone quarry. There they found 300 men at work hammer-ing out paving stones, and after examining the quarry they were called to dinner, a magnificent spread prepared especially for the occasion by Mati Weise, the Smithfield street restauranter. For two hours the contractors wrestled with the delicacies prepared for them, and then they examined the surface are sandstage and luminosity of its orange examined.

the quality of iron ore, sandstone and lumber to be found in the neighborhood.

The Evan Jones quarries are located on a narrow gauge road about a mile from Grays station. It is probable, however, that the quarry will within a short time be not the mile line as a recent survey up the on the main line as a recent survey up the ravine from Hillside to Bolivar, on the main line, shortens the distance about five miles. The ravine extends between the two points. The new route would dispose of the heavy grade on the packsaddie be-sides shortening the distance five miles. The contractors returned to Pittsburg at 8 o'clock last night. All were delighted with what they had seen and to many were astonished at finding such rich deposits of stone, ore and sand so convenient to the
