

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

Judge Kennedy Gives Young Havers 21 Years to Riverside.

HE IS TIRED OF THE WORKHOUSE.

Lester Gets Four Years for Stealing Calhoun on Grant Street.

SEVERAL SUITS FOR DAMAGE ENTERED.

Charles Havers, the desperate criminal who escaped from the workhouse after having beaten Keeper Eberhardt almost to death, was sentenced by Judge Kennedy yesterday to 19 years in the penitentiary and to two years in the workhouse. This, with his unexpired term in the workhouse, will make his imprisonment about 23 years. There were four charges of larceny against him, one of escaping from the workhouse, one for felonious assault and battery, and one for larceny and receiving stolen goods. He is about 28 years of age, yet looks the hardened criminal and reckless desperado. He appeared anxious to plead guilty with the probable result of getting a mild sentence, and the scowl on his face when Judge Kennedy had finished the sentence indicated how great was his disappointment.

HE HAD NOT MUCH TO SAY.

"What have you to say why sentence should not be passed upon you?" asked the Judge.

"Nothing much, Judge," the prisoner replied.

"The charges against you are numerous and serious, and I will have to impose upon you heavy sentences, to take effect after the expiration of your term in the workhouse," said Judge Kennedy.

"Well, I want to be sent to the penitentiary, where I can reform. I did not want to go to the workhouse and tried to get out. I was guilty of the crime of which I was convicted. Now, I want to go where I can do better and reform."

"You shall have the chance," replied the Judge.

The Sentence of the Court.

"The sentence of the Court is that on the charge of felonious assault and battery you be confined in the penitentiary five years; on the four charges of burglary, three years each; on the charge of larceny, two years and on the charge of escaping from the workhouse two years to the workhouse. All these sentences are to commence after your unexpired term in the workhouse is out, and each of the sentences to commence after the former one expires."

FOUR YEARS FOR LESTER.

The First Legal Victim of the Homestead strike - With Tears He Begged for a Shorter Sentence, Which Was Refused.

David Lester, the private of the Eighteenth Regiment who stabbed Frank Calhoun on Grant street, pleaded guilty before Judge Kennedy yesterday to felonious assault and battery, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of four years. Although numerous informations for various offenses growing out of the Homestead riot have been made this is the first sentence imposed. When Lester was brought before the bar, Calhoun related the story of the assault, stating that Lester stabbed him with his bayonet once in the side, the weapon penetrating his lung, the second blow struck the liver and the third the stomach. He stated that his physician did not yet consider him out of danger, and that if complications should arise resulting from the wound in the liver death might yet be the result.

After the prosecutor had concluded his remarks, Judge Kennedy turned sharply to Lester, and said:

"That is not the way to preserve the reputation of the guards."

"I know it Your Honor, but I was under the influence of liquor," replied Lester.

"That is a poor excuse," answered the Judge, "and you deserve a severe punishment. Had this man died you would have been hanged. The extreme penalty for this offense is seven years imprisonment, but on account of your youth I will not impose it on you. The sentence of the Court is that you pay the costs of the prosecution, a fine of $50, and undergo an imprisonment of four years in the Western penitentiary."

After the prisoner had been led back to the dock he was again called before the Judge at his own request. With streaming eyes and in a quivering voice he begged the Judge to reduce his sentence. He urged as an inducement that he had a wife and two children besides his mother and invalid sister depending on him for support.

"I am sorry," said Judge Kennedy, "but your sentence is only commensurate with your crime. You are fortunate that the man did not die. I cannot reduce your sentence."

Lester's face paled and his hands trembled as he tottered from the courtroom to his cell in the jail. District Attorney Burleigh said that had Calhoun died it would have been the easiest matter in the world to convict Lester of murder in the first degree.

MINOR SENTENCES.

Various Terms of Imprisonment Meted Out to Evl-Doers.

Thomas McDonough was sentenced to the workhouse for 30 days for assaulting Kate Cavey, of Chartiers.

Stephen Lavell, of Braddock, for illegal liquor selling, was fined $500 and sent six months to the workhouse.

William Heaton, for the larceny of $65 from Henry Kearney, of Strawbridge alley, was sent six months to the workhouse.

Gilbert Williams, for illegal liquor selling at McKeesport, was fined $500 and sent three months to the workhouse.

James Freese, for the larceny of a cow and set of harness from William Bran, of McKeesport, was sent four years to the penitentiary.

George Peterson, for entering the dwelling of Adam Williams on Twenty-eighth street, was sent six months to the workhouse.

Hugh Moran, for stealing the pocket-books of Catharine Bergeld and Henrietta Baumbach, of Allegheny, was sent one year to the penitentiary.

Michael Myers, for the larceny of $4 from Samuel Willis, of Millvale, was sent three months to the penitentiary.

Andrew Kravicky, of the Southside, for assault and battery on S. Kravicky, was sent three months to the workhouse.

George Douglas was sentenced two years to the workhouse for stealing goods from the house of J. Reed, of Oakland avenue. He was acquitted of a charge of stealing a watch from S. Jones.

John Fecker, for stealing a horse from Ignatz Stroup of Mantion alley, was sent fifteen months to the workhouse.

Riley, "Shorty" Stetzel, Emma Snyder, Charles Hegerly, Charles Widmer, James Brooks, Abraham Levi, C. W. Phalen, William Banford, larceny; Franz Herzog, James Vanderaent, Thomas Wendel, Henry Kimball, assault and battery; Joseph Dougherty, Thomas Hatchett, aggravated assault and battery; Louis Larson, John Carlson, George Weisenberger, felonious assault and battery; Emil Berger, fraudulently making a written instrument; James McKeally, carrying concealed weapons; James Monroe, entering a building with felonious intent; Hugh Harrington,

NEW SUITS ENTERED.

Three for Damages and One for a Bill in Equity—Lawyers Giving the Judges Plenty of Work for the Winter.

August Heitz yesterday entered suit in Common Pleas No. 2 against James Wall for $5,000 damages for alleged false arrest. Heitz is the deputy sheriff who while acting in Homestead, was arrested by Constable Wall. He alleges that on August 28 as he was walking peacefully along the street Wall arrested him and dragged him to the lockup, where he was locked up until the next day. The next day "Squire Oefner" fined him for disorderly conduct. Heitz appealed to court and Judge Ewing reversed the "Squire" and put the costs of the appeal on Wall. Heitz now wants damages. A capias was issued for Wall's arrest and $300 bail required.

William Neusch yesterday entered suit against Nicholas Werle for $1,000 damages for injury to property caused by drainage, etc., from the defendant's property adjoining.

A bill in equity was filed yesterday by Earl S. Gardner against Mary J. Butler. The parties, it is stated, were partners in the machine business on Liberty street at Butler & Gardner. The plaintiff charges that the defendant, by over-drawing her account some $3,000 and by her representative in the business, C. E. Millikin, taking the firm's money and neglecting the business they had to stop work in December, 1891. They now have assets worth $11,000 and debts of $2,600. Millikin, it is charged, with the consent of the defendant, has taken possession of the books of the firm, and is collecting outstanding accounts. Gardner, therefore, wants an injunction to restrain him from so doing, to have a receiver appointed, an account taken and a dissolution of the partnership.

George Rothemann has a $2,000 grievance against the P., C. & St. L. Railway Company. Mr. Rothemann lives at Mansfield. He had a family ticket which he purchased on April 8, 1892, good for one year. He boarded a train to Pittsburgh on July 6 and claims that the conductor, W. J. Merrick, refused to accept the ticket offered and when he refused to pay his fare he assaulted Rothemann and put him off the train. A suit for damages was entered yesterday.

THEY PLEAD GUILTY.

A Large Number Appear Before the Court and Confess.

Yon Kofsky and Andrew Ripkey pleaded guilty to entering cars on the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Youghiogeny Railroad at Braddock and stealing eggs and other produce. They were each sent two years to the workhouse.

William Johnson pleaded guilty to burglary in entering the house of Lizzie Downs on Fourth avenue. He was sent three years to the penitentiary.

John Murphy and Patrick Butler, of Bates township, pleaded guilty to illegal liquor selling. They were each fined $50 and sent three months and 20 days to the workhouse.

Fred Meyers pleaded guilty to the larceny of a watch from C. H. Weinhouse, of Liberty street, and was sentenced nine months to the workhouse.

Jacob McMarlin, Jr., pleaded guilty to stealing a horse from J. H. Martin, of Reynoldsburg. He was sent one year to the workhouse.

"Shorty" Stetzel pleaded guilty to the larceny of $36 from George Chadwick, of Laock street, Allegheny. He was sent six months to the workhouse. Stetzel was arrested on Monday last.

Frank Emmerling pleaded guilty to the larceny of a watch from N. N. Gray, of Allegheny. He was sent three months to the workhouse.

David Williams (colored), of Boston, Pa., pleaded guilty to being a common gambler and was sent one year to the workhouse.

Joseph Dougherty, of the Twentieth ward, pleaded guilty to aggravated assault and battery on Police Officer Lowery.

George Brown pleaded guilty to stealing a horse from Jacob Seibert, of Liberty street and was sent four years to the workhouse.

George Weaver pleaded guilty to stealing a calf from T. C. Douglass, of Boston, Pa.

Fred Lee pleaded guilty to the charge of aggravated assault and battery on oath of Thomas Hackbert. Both men are employed at the Union depot.

Henry Kimball was given three months to the works for assaulting Ellen Kimball at Homestead.

C. W. Phalen pleaded guilty to the larceny of a pair of seats from parties unknown.

William Banford pleaded guilty and was sent to the workhouse for 30 days for stealing a hat from Louis Morgan at McKeesport.

Thomas A. Wendel, of Mansfield, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor in marrying Nora E. Ward, knowing she was the wife of Alonzo Ward, and assault and battery on Charles Ward. He was sent six months to the workhouse.

McKIRDY'S TRIAL BEGUN.

Judge McClung Takes Up the Charge of Misdemeanor in Office.

The case of John McKirdy, the Allegheny Auditor and ex-member of the Allegheny Council, charged with misdemeanor in office, was called for trial before Judge McClung yesterday afternoon. It is alleged that while a member of councils he made contracts with the city from which he made a profit, and which under an act of Assembly is a misdemeanor. The case is attracting considerable attention. The jury was called yesterday afternoon, and the case will be proceeded with this morning.

FOR CONTEMPT.

An Order Issued Against Fayette County's Sheriff by Judge Buffington.

Sheriff McCormick, of Fayette county, is to be arrested on a writ issued by Judge Buffington, for contempt of court in not keeping in jail certain convicted persons sentenced there. A hearing in the case will probably be held here to-morrow. It is claimed that three men, Charles Bolesty, Amos Critchfield and Jacob Firke, who were convicted at the March term of court and sentenced to the Union pen have been at liberty since May doing police duty for Sheriff McCormick at the baseball park.

To-Day's Trial List.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

Frederick Jarachis Applies for Aid to Bury His Child.

Frederick Jarachis, a German laborer of Allegheny, applied yesterday to the Department of Charities for assistance to bury his child which died Tuesday night. He was furnished an order for a coffin and carriage.

Jarachis has been in America but five months and in that time saved enough money to send for his family, consisting of his wife and several children. They arrived three weeks ago and four of the children caught the scarlet fever. One of the sick ones is not expected to live and Chief Grubbs, of the Department of Charities, has sent a physician to attend it. The family live at 51 Spring Garden avenue.

Stop that constant hacking, by removing the irritation in the throat, and subduing any inflammation that may exist there, by using Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant, a long established remedy for throat and lung troubles, of 50 years popularity.
