BALDWIN'S TIMELY BRACE. Coupled With the Poor Field Work of the

Glants, Gave Pittsburg the Game, PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Sept. 8 .- In the first three innings of to-day's game at the Polo grounds the New Yorks pounded Mark Baldwin's pitching so hard that victory seemed assured. In the remaining six innings the New Yorks made exactly two singles. Despite that fact they would have won but for some heartrending work on the bases by McMahon and Tiernan and some ragged work in the field by Tiernan, Doyle and D. Lyons. Manager Powers to-day decided to give O'Rourke a rest, and he put Burke in left field, sending Doyle to second base. The new position evidently made Doyle nervous, and he played poorly. Burke's Great Catch.

In addition to playing a good second, Burke showed he was a master at outfield work. His catch of Miller's fly in the first was as fine an effort as has ever been seen on the Polo grounds." Burke ran from his position in left 20 feet across the foul line and collared a twisting fly. He also made some remarkable stops of ground hits, cutting off one home-run hit.

In the first unning Burke opened with a het grounder that Shugart could not handle. Burke was forced at second by H. Lyons. Doyle hit for two bases and then, as usual, McMahon drove in Lyons and Doyle. Mc-Mahon was nipped at second and Tiernan died at first. In the second Boyle and D. Lyons led off with singles and King's three baser sent both home, King scoring later on a passed ball. The next three men went out. That seemed to be a comfortable lead. but in the second Shugart led off with a single, which got away from Tiernan, the runner going to third.

Beckley's Big Hit. Beckley then pounded out a triple to right. Farrell popued a fly to right that Doyle muffed, Beckley scoring, Farrell reaching second, from where he scored on Bierbauer's single. Then D. Lyons made a poor throw to first of Baldwin's grounder and sacrifices by Kelly and Miller sent Bierbauer to the plate. Donovan sent a fly to Burke and the inning ended. In the third inning the New Yorks got a base on balls, and this was followed by singles by Tiernan, Boyle and D. Lyons, yet not a run scored, McMahon and Tiernan being caught at the plate in trying to score from second on long, clear hite to center.

The Pittsburgs won the game in the fifth, when Donovan's double, Shugart's single, Beckley's two baser and Bierbauer's single earned three runs. Doyle's fumble of Farrell's grounder and Bierbauer's two bagger gave another run in the seventh. NEW YORK EBPAE PITTSBURG R BPAE

A Good Day of Sport at the Sheepshead

Bay Race Track. SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACE TRACK, Sept. 8 .- A throng of 8,000 people this a termoon gathered at the pay for the express purpose of witnessing the struggles for the "Sea and Sound" stakes and the "Bridge" handicap. They were not disappointed, as Morello shouldered his 128 pound impost and won the "Sea and Sound" in a common gallop, going the distance, about six furlongs, in 1:114-5. Then came the Bridge handicap, for which Lamplighter, Azra and Yo Tambien were the choices. The race was a corker and Lamp-lighter again proved himself the best 3-yearold of the year by carrying his 127 pounds and taking the $20,000 prize from Fidelio, the pacemaker, in the last sixteenth. Lamp-lighter's time was 2:33 4-5. Yo Tambien was not fancied by her owner, but the stake was so valuable that he let her run in case an accident should improve her chances. She was beaten at the end of a mile, her heavy weight effectually stopping her.

GOOD PLAY OF THE EAST END GYMS.

Gentlemen's Singles Develop Some New Talent in the Ranks.

MIXED DOUBLES TO COMMENCE TO-DAY

The first tournament of the East End Gyms opened yesterday under the most auspicious circumstances. The weather was pleasant, the entry list large, the courts in good condition and the audience large and appreciative. It is a notable event from the fact that it is the first tourney ever given in this city in which ladies have entered, and while the affair is confined to the club membership, is none the less interesting. The tourney combines four events: Gentlemen's singles, mixed doubles, ladies' singles and consolations, the finals of each to be played to-morrow afternoon.

Yes erday was the gentlemen's day, and they were on hand promptly at 3 o'clock and by dark had worked the singles out to the finals, with but one exception, the match between Mesars, H. McClaren and F. B. Barr in the semi-finals, of which two sets were played, each winning one. It developed early in the alternoon that Messra. D. H. Barr, F. B. Barr, H. McClaren and Dr. Proctor would meet each other in the semi-finals. D. H. Barr met J. A. Aull in the preliminary round and won with apparent ease. His opponent showed a lack of practice that soon placed him hors de combat, and he only took 2 out of the 14 games played in the two sets.

Barr Plays a Winning Game. to be played to-morrow afternoon.

Barr Plays a Winning Game. Later on Mr. Barr met R. Johnson in the first round. Johnson had defeated C. E. Auli in the preliminary, after a rather close fight. Aull captured the first set, and then Johnson warmed up and took the next two. In his round with D. H. Barr. Johnson made a great effort to capture the second set, and on two occasions he saw victory within his grasp. Then the games went up to 7 all, and Johnson's powers of endurance were not great enough. Barr won two games, and took the set and watch.

Dr. Proctor labored under a disadvantage.

Dr. Proctor labored under a disadvantage. In a practice lootball game recently his leg was torn by a spike in a ball player's shoe, and he was quite lame, but he demonstrated his ability to play a strong game when is good condition. He was too strong for Ed Dravo in the first round, defeating him by scores of 6-4, although, at the beginning of the first set it looked as if Mr. Dravo would win. In the semidinals the decor came against I. e-i, although, at the beginning of the first set it looked as if Mr. Drivo would win. In the semi-finals the doctor came against D. H. Barr, who, despite the fact that he had just finished four sets, a total of 37 games, was still fresh. It was a hard contest between the two in the first set, but Mr. Barr won and then took the match rather easily, for the doctor's handicappel limb prevented the use of enough activity to capture some of the balls carefully placed by his opponent.

McClaren Comes Up the Best. Mr. H. McClaren stands between Mr. F. B. Barr and the finals, and he is a formidable obstacle. Mr. Barr had two rounds which he won by good playing, coupled with an inexhaustible supply of breath. The first, with K. Hamilton, was won in two sets, but it took three closely fought sets, all deuce, to settle the second with Mr. Stovey. This to settle the second with Mr. Stovey. This match was one of the most interesting of the day. Mr. Barr had won four games in the first set and Mr. Stoney none. Then Mr. Stoney took the five straight, and after that Mr. Barr got but one, Mr. Stoney taking three and the set. The next two sets were very close, but Mr. Stoney's staying powers were not full enough and he lost both.

Mr. McClaren met Lee Voight in the first round, and while it was evident from the start that the round was his, Voight gave him a hard fight for the victory. The first set was McClaren, bowever, braced up and played his game, and that settled it. Darkness stopped his match with F. B. Barr at the end of the second set, each having taken one. This will be played off to-day, and the winner will play D. H. Barr for the first prize.

and the winner will play b. H. Barriot in flist prize.

There were some very pretty plays in these contests, and, while there was a comparatively small amount of rapid volleying, it was a very creditable display of tennis playing. The four men who came together in the semi-finals had the best of it, simply because they were able to place the balls because they were able to place the balls with good judgment. Next season, when they have succeeded in putting more speed into their strokes, they will make some of the older players work hard to keep the honors they have now.

The First of the Mixed Doubles. To the Misses Gill and Coffin belong the onors of being the first ladies to appear in a tournament here, and they were closly fol-lowed by the Misses Wells and Potter. The first had for partners Messrs, C. E. Aull and Kiehl, and the latter Messrs. Hamilton and McClaren. Miss Gill is a very clever player. She handles her racket with an ease and expertness that betokens frequent familiarity with the courts and nets. She was graceful, but unfortunate in not being able to make with the courts and note. She was grace in, but unfortunate in not being able to make some of her returns tell by reason of the failure of the ball to take the air and rise over the net. Miss Coffin had less speed, but her carefulness in placing aided not a little in winning for hersolf and partner the match. There was little of the cut in her strokes, but they told just the same. Miss Coffin is an excellent player, and she and Mr. McClaren made a formidable pair. Both were entirely too strong for their opponents, Miss Wells and Mr. Humilton. Miss Coffin, in the ladies' singles, will undoubtedly find her way to some of the closing rounds.

The ladies' singles, will undoubtedly find her way to some of the closing rounds.

The ladies' singles will commence this afternoon and the mixed doubles will be continued, and both will be well worth seeing. The play will commence at 3 o'clock, sharp.

Following is a summary of the scores.

And Mike Murphy says the truth, although he might have added, "and farther," since Jewett's successful attempt at the quarrier mile, and fartner, since sewers accessing attempts at the quarter mile,

The football season is growing rapidly near. While little has been said about football during the past few months, there has been some hard training going on among the college men. Harvard and Princeton will both have the advantage this year of the return of nearly all of the players on last year's elevens. Princeton will not lose a man, while Lake will be the only player who will not return to Cambridge. The race between Yale, Harvard and Princeton promises to be exceedingly close. Ghere is scarcely any doubt that Princeton will play harvard, as all disputes between the two colleges have been amicably arranged.
