Crowd Present. ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17. - [Special.] -St. Louis social circles are in a fever of excitement over a prize fight between two of the most prominent representatives of the most exclusive set in the city. Young Mr. Charles Randall Garrison, of the Commodore Garrison family of St. Louis, and young Mr. William Snyder, a son of Rev. John Snyder, of the Unitarian Church of the Messiah of this city, both swell bank clerks and prominent in the highest society circles, were the principals. The fight took place in a livery stable, behind closed doors. Young Snyder smarting under indignities challenged young Garrison. It was agreed that the fight should be to a finish with five-ounce gloves, Marquis of Queensberry rules, with four-minute rounds and one-minute rests between. Invitations were issued to 35 members of the Garrison-Snyder "coterie" and all accepted. Consequently the gathering was a brilliant one. The first two rounds were about equal in points of advantage to the swell pugilista. In the third round Snyder knocked Garrison down by a terrific blow in the face. The fourth round saw Garrison come to the front a favorite for the first time in the fight. He scored a knock-down on Snyder. In the fith round both men showed signs of being winded. Both were bloody, and Snyder's left eye was nearly closed. At the end of the round he drank freely of ics water, com-plaining to his seconds of feeling weak. In the sixth round Garrison hit for the stomach and Snyter doubled up and dropped like a log. For a few minutes there was excitement; despite all efforts Snyder failed to be imported in the store of the to be "brought to," At last he opened his eves to the great delight of the trightened belonging to tenants on the Bodykee estate in Clare. Mr. Redmond de-scribes himself as an anxious but peaceful writer, but says he must point out to Mr. Morley that sending armed police at night to hunt cattle of poor people who under stress of circumstances are unable to meet full demands of their landlord, is likely to cause extreme irritation and ex-

TBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. LONDON, Sept. 17. - A matrimonial swindle continues to flourish in Paris. A family of four, father, mother, son and daughter, are at length in jail after fleecing no less than 3,000 would-be benedicts in search of rich brides. They advertised in the best newspapers and the responses came in hundreds. They required first 30 francs registration fee, a similar fee for a mere glimpse of the fair one, and more ex-
