MANY DEATHS NEVER REPORTED.

Normannia and Eugia Fassengers Pass Through This City.

A LOCAL INSPECTOR'S QUEER BLUNDERS

Jacob Lohrer, of the detective force of Cleveland, who was prominently connected with the chase after the murderers of Chief Hulligan, at Ravenna, O., seven years ago, reached this city yesterday on his way home from a four mouths' tour in Europe. Mr. Lobrer spent considerable time in Hamburg. He explained the cause of the different statements made considering the conditions at Hamburg.

"Some reports say Hamburg is a beautiful city while others say it is a veritable slum, recking with filth. There is everything in the point of view. The fact is none of the big passenger vessels ever go within three and half hours' ride of Hauburg, only the freight vessels going into the harbor. Passengers are unloaded at a point three hours' ride from the city and are taken to the depot in the improved suburban portion. That part of the city has wide streets and is beautiful. Tourists don't see the old city down around the harbor. It is the most unhealthy place you could imagine. The streets are from seven to ten feet wide, there are no sewers except to a few large buildings and there is everywhere a horrible smell. The tide does not carry off the water in the harbor and it is full ot slime and filth, emitting a frightful stench, which is always present. There are no backyards to the houses, the people live on the streets most of the time and are as dirty as can be. It is in this district the cholera is raging. Thousands have died there the authorities never heard of."

Quarantined Passengers Pass Through. A number of passengers from the cholera ships Normannia and Rugia arrived in this city on their way West yesterday morning. They had been released from Fire Island quarantine the previous day. Most of them were American residents who had been caught on the plague ships for their return

The trunks, hampers and other baggage of the travelers were plastered all over with bright yellow posters on which in large, black letters was announced the fact that they had been disinfected by Health Officer Jenkins' men in New York. The luggage lying on the Union station plat-form was seen by the way passengers coming in on local trains and caused quite a scare among them. Andrew Starely, Jane Deehan and Catherine Deehan, from Scotland, on the steamer Furnessia, and bound for Iowa, passed through Pittsburg Wednesday, and were stopped at the Ohio State line and returned to this city because they had thrown away their health certificates issued in New York. Yesterday Dr. J. G. McCandless examined them, found them healthy, issued them new certificates and started them on their way with an injunction to keep the health passports until they reached their

The health officers are looking for Frank Donnen, who came from Liverpool on the steamer State of Nevada, reaching this city last Sunday.* Donnen was inspected on arrival, but said there was no cholera on the Nevada. It has been learned since that one death occurred on that ship.

The officers of the Holy Ghost College have sent letters to THE DISPATCH denying the statement made last Sunday that their building was not in a good sanitary condition and asking that two letters re-ceived from Chief Brown be published. One of these letters quotes Mr. Taggart, one of the plumbing inspectors, as saying that he "did not understand how the newspapers got such an adverse criticism," as he was satisfied the college building was in proper condition. The other letter, dated yesterday morning, states there is no controversy between the Public Safety Department and between the Public Safety Department and Holy Ghost College, although there is with the third ward public school. It again states that the Chief nor any employe of his department had said anything against the condition of the Holy Ghost College. Inspector Taggart last Saturday con-demned the sanitary condition of the Holy Ghost College and gave out the original copy of his report from which the report to Chief Brown was made. On Wednesday afternoon Inspector Taggart stated that a afternoon Inspector Taggart stated that a member of each of two prominent plumhing firms in this city had accompanied him on a second inspection of Holy Ghost College, and had verified his original conclusion, that the sanitary conditions were not good. Mr. Taggart at the same time made use of vigorous language to emphasize his belief in the truth of his report as published.

More Garbage Furnaces Needed. The question of more garbage furnaces is urged by Chief Brown and others as the the various districts of the city and a regu-lar system of collection. The present fur-nace costs $3,000, but he wants larger ones that would cost from $4,000 to $5,000 each,

which would, with coal for fuel, consume

Controller Morrow also favors more furnaces.

Colonel T. P. Roberts says burning is the only proper way to dispose of garbage. In a letter to the Mayor relative to Chief Brown's efforts to have garbage dumped below Davis Island dam instead of above, Colonel Roberts says: "I recognize the fact that a great problem must be confronted by our city authorities in the near future in providing other means for the disposal of garbage than throwing it into the river. Individually I think it should be burned, but besides the matter of the furnaces to do such work, there is the method of collecting the garbage to be determined upon. By all means the poor as well as the rich—but the poor most particularly—should be encouraged to keep garbage vessels, which if necessary will be collected daily and without charge by the city. It is far better for them, in my opinion, to empty their garbage in the open streets, than to conceal it until it becomes loathsome heaps in their back yards, as many of them do. Speaking of George Free's claim that he could not get dump bonts below the dam in the present water stage, the Colonel adds: "I am told by Captain Free that his boats draw 20 inches of water, and at present there is not sufficient water in the river below Davis island of water, and at present there is not suffi-cient water in the river below Davis island dam for their navigation below that point, but I think there is a narrow channel known to pilots which would permit of flats being taken down the river to Dead Man's island below Sewickley."

Mayor Kennedy and Chief Murphy favor the burning of garbage and want another furnace in the lower part of Allegheny.

Butler Scared of Cholera. Messrs. Harper and Schaun, Councilmen of the town of Butler, Pa., were in Allegheny yesterday making inquiries concerning the management of the sanitary affairs of the city. The cholera scare has aroused the town Councils of Butler to the fact that the sanitary condition of their borough is very bad, and Messrs. Harper and Schaun were elected a committee to visit some of the larger cities in the State to learn how sanitary affairs were managed there. Superintendent McLaughlin, of the Board of Health, showed them around the city, and gave them all the information he could in regard to sanitary matters. The gentlemen from Butler were much pleased with the garbage furnace, and expressed Messrs. Harper and Schaun, Councilmen with the garbage furnace, and expressed great surprise that the burning of the garb-age caused so little disagreeable smell as it

A Valuable Archæological Find.

While excavating on the site of old Troy, it is reported a bronze plate bearing curious characters was found and sent to Europe for translation.
