COMRADES IN ARMS

But Not in Politics, Are Many of the Grizzled Members of the Grand Army.

BOTH SIDES OF THE FENCE

Represented Among the Veterans Who Are Leaving the Capital.

M'COMAS SURE THE FORCE BILL IS DEAD

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The weather-maker concluded to smile on the grand break-up of the National Encampment. For two days and more the rain has been unceasing, but at noon to-day the sun broke forth, and this evening the veterans looked toward a glorious western heaven, took in the first faint silver horn of the new moon over their right shoulders, thanked themselves for the good luck that has attended them during the meeting, and wished themselves many returns of the same kind.

Altogether, the encampment has been a magnificent success. It is pronounced by every one of the old boys in blue a brilliant climax of the encampments ever held. The unparalleled crowd has been accommodated and handled with astonishing success. It is more than ever evident that no city in the country can manipulate and entertain a great crush of strangers like the national capital. It is now more than ever to be regretted that Washington did not get the World's Fair, as it made peculiarly evident that it would have been prosecuted to the end more successfully here than any place else. The railroads, street and steam trunk lines have almost exceeded possibilities in the manner in which they have hauled the hundreds of thousands without a really serious accident within the region of the District.

The Doctors Have Their Hands Full.

The many doctors who volunteered their services to the care of the sick deserve no end of praise, for during the last two days their task has been a trying one. All of the hospitals, temporary and regular, have been overflowing with patients. Coughs, colds, malaria and cholera morbus have run riot since the beginning of the rains, which, fortunately, were warm ones. Had it not been for the beautiful bracing weather which continued until Wednesday morning, or had the rains been cold when they came, one can hardly imagine the plight of the sanitary department of the encampment. As it is, it is bad enough, and the nurses and doctors have been worked almost beyond their endurance.

Now that the boys in blue are saying their last farewells, politics will come into fashion again—not that a good deal of politics has not been around all the time, but it was overwhelmed by other things. Of course the boys of the Grand Army have been careful, as they always are on such occasions, to keep a close mouth on the subject of party affiliation, but it would not down altogether.

Where Cummings and Farquhar Differ.

All of Comrade Amos Cummings' interest in the Grand Army could not make him forget that he is a Congressman and a politician, and he was frank to all comers in his vigorous opinion that New York and Brooklyn and their counties will give the largest majorities for Grover Cleveland that have ever been given by the Democrats for a candidate of the Democratic party. On the other hand, Comrade Farquhar, of Buffalo, who rejoices in the fact that he is an ex-Congressman, is certain that the State of New York will give Benjamin Harrison a majority of at least 25,000.

It may seem strange that gentlemen of such undoubted intelligence should hold such divergent views, but it is the fact, and it also shows that the Democrats have veterans of the war in the Grand Army as well as the Republicans.

Comrade Farquhar says: "The Republicans throughout the State are united and earnest, and while they are not saying much, they take an interest in the success of the party. The meeting of the Republican clubs demonstrated this. Some have been talking about the danger of Platt's not taking off his coat. Well, that has passed; but I want to say that Mr. Harrison will get the support of many who admire Harrison because he did not surrender to Mr. Platt; because they believe Platt is being treated as all other Republicans. There are thousands who like Harrison's independence."

Keifer Talks Rather Coldly of Ohio.

Comrade Keifer, of Springfield, O., a Republican ex-Speaker of the House of Representatives, takes a rather gloomy view of things in his State. He says: "Politics is altogether too quiet in Ohio, and from what I can hear it is the same all over the country. There is no indication of interest, and I do not suppose we shall be able to get out the usual vote. The indications are that the vote will be extremely light. I do not know what to make of it. I suppose, of course, that we shall carry Ohio for Harrison by a good majority, but we cannot wake the people up. The Democrats must suffer from this lack of interest as much as we do, and that is the comfort of the situation. In Indiana it is as it is in Ohio. I remember when people used to stop work for three months to devote themselves to politics. Now they are not even talking politics."

Comrade Caldwell, the lame Congressman from Cincinnati, takes a somewhat similar view, but is more cheerful. He says: "I never heard less politics talked on the eve of a national election. I suppose it is because the people have made up their minds, and I have no doubt of Republican success. Of course, we shall carry Ohio, and I am told that things are in better shape in Indiana than they were in 1888. The only thing is that the people are not worked up. I think the election will be a vindication of protection and reciprocity and Mr. Harrison's clean business administration."

Louis McComas a Genuine Optimist.

To get genuine out-and-out optimism for the Republicans one has but to go to Comrade McComas, of Maryland, who abandoned briefly his duties as Secretary of the National Republican Committee to see the great assembly of the G. A. R. There is no reserve about Comrade McComas. He said to-day: "I am more than satisfied with the situation. In the National Committee Chairman Carter is doing prodigies. He is resourceful, tireless and alert, but every stroke is counting. He is ably leading the committee, and General Clarkson is seconding his efforts wisely and loyally. The other National Committee members are all at work, and documents and speakers are now commencing to pour out to the people. Yes, I am confident that the drift is continually toward Mr. Harrison, and each day it becomes stronger. The situation in New York and the East is one to inspire the greatest confidence among well-wishers for Republican success.

"The free trade plank of the Democratic platform has proved a bombshell of the worst description, and the shell has exploded in the Democratic camp, instead of reaching us in any way. Another explosion, with an almost equally disastrous effect to the Democratic party, has been Peck's statistical report, showing from an opposition standpoint that the McKinley tariff has increased production and wages all along the line. Another thorn in the side of the Democratic party which has already commenced to get in its deadly work is the wildcat bank plank, with all its absurdities and bitter disregard of common financial reasoning.

Significant Declaration From the South.

"The force bill cry has been satisfactorily met by President Harrison's patriotic appeal to the people of the country to assure a free ballot and a fair count by means of a non-partisan regulating commission. A significant answer to all this wild force bill cry is the enthusiasm of the People's party—Democrats, white men, mind you—in Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina and Georgia, for a free ballot and a fair count. Nothing has been so significant as the declared declaration of the men of these States to volunteer as deputy marshals to watch the count in their States, which they testify has been and is fraudulent in every way. The Democratic party has difficulty in every way because the white men in the South have revolted against party methods.

"We have found a great demand for President Harrison's letter throughout the country, combined with an equal demand, lately, for Peck's report."

Prospects for the Next Encampment.

The newly appointed Council of Administration of the G. A. R. was called to order this morning at Albaugh's Theater by the new Commander in Chief, General Weissert. A delegation from the Department of Indiana was admitted to the meeting, and requested that the council fix the date of the next encampment to be held at Indianapolis for the first week in September, 1893. After discussing the proposition, the council decided to leave the determination of the date to the Executive Committee. The council made provision for the future appointment of this committee, which will consist of seven members and will exercise the powers of the council when the latter body is not in session. Resolutions were adopted authorizing the Quartermaster General to purchase the necessary supplies for headquarters during the ensuing year, fixing the allowance expenses at the same figure as heretofore and providing for the execution of the usual business by the Quartermaster General and the Adjutant General. The counsel then adjourned, subject to call.

General A. G. Weissert, the newly-elected Commander in Chief of the G. A. R., called at the White House this morning to pay his respects to the President. He was accompanied by General Irvin Robbins, William H. Armstrong, P. R. Weaver, H. S. Dietrich and I. N. Walker, of the G. A. R. The President was engaged with two members of his Cabinet, on Bering Sea matters, and the party decided to come at a more opportune time. General Weissert left a message of regard and sympathy for the President with Private Secretary Halford.

THE DELAMATERS' PROPERTY

Is the Subject of Inquiry in the Famous Case on Trial at Meadville.

MEADVILLE, Sept. 23.—At the Delamater trial the examination of George W. Haskins was continued to show the valuation of property of defendants which passed into the hands of the assignees. Valuations were placed on the real estate of G. B. Delamater, among which were $75,000 for the residence, 24 shares of water stock in the P., S. & L. E. R. R., gas and water stock and other minor properties. The various properties of T. A. Delamater were valued by the witness. The values mentioned were substantiated by other witnesses.

W. S. McGunnigle testified relative to the nature of the business that it was purely a banking business. Victor M. Delamater was called, but declined to answer questions on the ground that he might criminate himself. Under instructions of the court he testified that he was on and before the failure in the employ of Delamater & Co. and that certain books shown were bank books of said company. Entries made in the books were in the handwriting of Bookkeeper McFarland, who had received deposits. Whether under authorization of Delamater & Co., he did not know. He gave the names of the members of the firm.

To sum up the proceedings of the day it was occupied in trying to ascertain if the firm of Delamater & Co. had any property at the time of the failure, and if so, its value. This is an important point in establishing the knowledge of insolvency.

BRADDOCK'S FIRST FREE CONCERT.

The Edgar Thomson Band Will Render a Musical Programme This Evening.

C. M. Schwab, general superintendent of the Edgar Thomson Steel Works at Braddock, has secured the Edgar Thomson Steel Works Band of 36 pieces to give an open air concert this evening, the first the town has ever had. A long platform lighted with electricity has been built where the three streets form a square about Mr. Schwab's residence in North Braddock, which will accommodate several thousand people. A large number of prominent Pittsburgers have been invited to attend. Mr. Schwab will have the Edgar Thomson Steel Works shut down at 10 o'clock to enable the 3,000 employes to get ready to attend the concert in the evening.

DEMOCRATS CONFER.

They Meet to Consider Ways and Means for the Twenty-First District.

John T. Crawford, of Kittanning, Chairman of the Democratic Committee of Armstrong county, was in Pittsburg last night in conference with party leaders from the other counties in the Twenty-first Congressional district. Captain John B. Keenan, the Democratic candidate for Congress in the district, also attended the conference.

Chairman Crawford is a bright young lawyer, and he is very hopeful of the election of the Democratic candidate.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY VOTERS.

The County Commissioners Find Tha 139,558 Citizens Have Registered.

The County Commissioners yesterday completed a statement showing the number of registered voters in the county. In Pittsburg there are 57,765; Allegheny, 25,540; McKeesport, 4,597; boroughs, 20,137; townships, 31,519; total, 139,558. The total number of taxables in the county, which includes aliens and women, is 153,636.

Brought Up by Lady Byron.

A. C. McMurtry, of the City Assessor's office in Chicago, registered at the Seventh Avenue last evening. He had been to Washington and stopped over to see his brother, George G. McMurtry, of the Apollo Iron and Steel Company. Mr. McMurtry formerly lived here, and spoke of Richard Raelf, the poet, who worked on THE DISPATCH in 1850. He was Adjutant of the Eighty-eighth Illinois Regiment, of which Mr. McMurtry was captain. Raelf had been brought up by Lady Byron, the wife of Lord Byron.

Killed by Lightning.

John Rhein, a farmer living four miles from Etna, was killed by lightning yesterday while standing under a tree to avoid the rain. The tree was in no way damaged and only a small hole in the ground served to show the course of the lightning after it had left his body. He was 62 years old and very much respected in the neighborhood. He will be buried to-morrow at the Pine Creek Cemetery.

LOOKING FOR A LEG.

A Pennsylvania Veteran's Search for a Long-Lost Adjunct.

SEARCHING THROUGH THE MUSEUM

The Last Day of the Grand Army Visitors at the Capital.

A TIME OF SIGHT-SEEING FOR ALL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Shortly after noon to-day the rain ceased, the clouds broke and the bright sunshine appeared. It soon dried up the mud from the streets and afforded those who remained here renewed opportunity to take in the sights and to visit places of interest in surrounding cities. Many took advantage of the bright afternoon to visit Mt. Vernon. It is estimated that about 30,000 of the visiting strangers made the pilgrimage to Mt. Vernon during the present week.

The closing event in the official programme for the encampment took place this afternoon. The steamer Louise left her wharf for a trip down the river, having on board the members of the encampment. They were the guests of the Citizens' Committee, and a large number were in the party. The opportunity to meet personally the men who had contributed in a large degree to the success of the encampment was appreciated by the Grand Army men.

The entire affair was under the direction of Captain James G. Bell, the Chairman of a sub-Committee on Entertainment. A stop was made at the United States proving grounds at Indian Head to give an opportunity to those who desired to inspect the grounds.

Looking for Their Lost Legs.

Perhaps the best patronized places during the encampment were the Fish Commission building, the Army Medical Museum and the National Museum. At the Fish Commission headquarters there has been a jam since Monday. Nearly all of the visitors dropped in at the Army Medical Museum, where, since Monday last, the crowd has averaged 20,000 a day. The principal objects of interest were Booth's vertebræ and Guiteau's spleen. Up in the gallery where the collection of gunshot wounds on bones is kept there was an interesting gathering. Several veterans declared they had found their missing bones, and stood for a long time contemplating the long-lost adjuncts. The first question one veteran of the Department of Pennsylvania asked, as he approached the guide in the Museum, was: "Say, doctor, where's my leg?" The guide was for the moment astonished, but the veteran had a cork leg which he exhibited, and said he had left the original at Malvern Hill. He was shot in the leg by a piece of chain, and the wound was so peculiar that the doctors put the limb in alcohol and he wanted to see it. Where was it kept? He was sent upstairs, and when the reporter left he was puzzled over two specimens and did not know which was his.

The Greatest Crowds at the Museum.

The greatest crowds, however, visited the National Museum, and the questions with which they plied the doorkeeper would have required a Solomon to answer. According to the register of the doorkeeper, who tallies each visitor, 16,000 came in Monday, 27,000 people visited the institution Tuesday, 34,000 Wednesday, 31,000 Thursday and 22,000 to-day.

The Washington Monument has always excited the liveliest interest in all visitors to the Capital City. The largest crowd there, except once, since its completion, was present Wednesday, when 9,000 men, women and children climbed up the steps and 720 were carried up in the elevator.

The association of survivors of the First and Second Regiments, Berdan United States Sharpshooters, closed their meeting to-day with a resolution to meet with the Grand Army at Indianapolis next year.

Probably no feature of the entertainment provided for the visiting crowds has been more heartily enjoyed and more generally admired and commented upon than the elaborate electrical illumination of Pennsylvania and the White House grounds.

Another encampment visitor died here last night, at the Citizens' Hospital. He was Michael Gentherman, of Philadelphia. He was injured in a crush of people on Monday, which brought on strangulated hernia.

A LADY REMEMBERED.

Beautiful Presents for the National President of the Woman's Relief Corps—Commander Weissert Addresses the Ladies—Mrs. Wickins the New President.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The convention of the Woman's Relief Corps auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic opened this morning. Mrs. Lynch, Past National Secretary, reported that action should be sustained in remanding the Virginia corps to a provisional department, and in carrying out instructions of the last convention in regard to the status of Potomac Relief Corps. She is sustained in her rulings.

Mrs. D. R. Lock, of Forsythe Corps, Department of Ohio, presented a floral gift to the National President, Mrs. Sue Pike Sanders, in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of her wedding. Inclosed were memorial spoons from nearly every State in the Union. Iowa presented an elegant bon-bon box; Tennessee presented the bon-bon spoon to go with the box. The Department of the Potomac presented a silver tray with four elegant pieces of silver, and Kentucky presented a silver box filled with writing materials.

The afternoon session was called to order at 2 o'clock. General Weissert, the new Commander in Chief of the Grand Army, was introduced and spoke briefly. General Weissert's Assistant Adjutant General was introduced and expressed his pleasure at seeing so many loyal women of the nation assembled.

The consideration of the recommendations in the report of the National President was resumed and action taken as follows: That the National Pension Committee be dissolved; that its unfinished business be transferred to the National W. R. C. Home Board; that this board be empowered to incur such expenditures as shall make the bill passed by Congress operative at the earliest possible period.

Mrs. Annie Wittenmeyer, in recognition of her important services in behalf of army nurse legislation, was appointed special agent to prosecute the claims of army nurses at Washington.

The recommendation of the National President that the National Woman's Relief Corps be properly represented at the World's Fair in 1893, and that the departments be requested to make no separate exhibit was discussed by delegates from different States, and adopted after an amendment that the departments be requested to unite in a general exhibit, the phrase, "no separate exhibit," being stricken out. Mrs. Wicking was chosen National President on the third ballot.

HEADQUARTERS AT MILWAUKEE.

Commander in Chief Weissert Issues His First Order to His Comrades.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The following was issued this afternoon from the headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23, 1892.

Having been elected Commander in Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic by the unanimous suffrages of my comrades, I undertake the duties of the position, fully realizing the grave responsibilities assumed.

Whatever degree of success may attend the coming administration will depend largely upon the cordial co-operation of the comrades throughout the nation, which is earnestly invoked. Headquarters will be established for the present at Milwaukee. All official business should be addressed to E. B Gray, Adjutant General, G. A. R., Milwaukee.

By command of A. G. Weissert, Commander in Chief.

ILLINOIS IS SAFE.

John M. Langston Thinks Harrison Will Win in Virginia in Spite of Mahone—The Little General Won't Support Congressional Nominees.

John M. Langston, of Virginia, who is as well known to the people of the country as Mahone and Wise, was at the Union depot last evening, going home. He had been to Paris, Ill., attending a celebration commemorating the emancipation proclamation of Lincoln. The attendance was very large, Governor Fifer and other State officials being among the speakers. It was a non-political gathering, but Mr. Langston said when he incidentally mentioned Harrison as one of the great men of the century, the cheering was terrific. The Virginian talked to a number of Republicans who assured him that Illinois was all right. The school question is not considered a factor. There are not more than 5,000 German Lutherans in the State, and they are a different class of people from those living in Wisconsin.

"Harrison is a very popular man to-day," continued Mr. Langston. "The illness of his wife and his devotion to her have brought to him the sympathy of the country. Then Cleveland's delay in issuing his letter of acceptance is taken by the people as an indication of weakness. Cleveland is waiting until the last minute to take advantage of anything that might turn up. Hill's speech did not help the Democratic party, either. All these things have contributed to make Republican prospects very bright.

"We have a fighting chance of carrying Virginia, but Mahone is a disturbing factor. I have wished often that he was over in Ohio or Pennsylvania. He is opposed to Harrison, and now he has announced that he will fight any Republican nominee for Congress. We can elect four Congressmen, and we intend to do it. The truth is Mahone is selfish, and cares for nothing in politics but to control the patronage. His object now is to turn the State over to the Democrats, so that he can be the dispenser of the offices in the name of the Republican party. I have made all sorts of sacrifices to uphold Mahone's hands, and now he turns on us like an enemy. He was never known to spend a dollar for political work, but he always wants to know how much the National Committee can give. In the present fight it is better for Mr. Carter to keep out. We can carry the State without his aid and in spite of Mahone. We will elect Bawden, Judge Woods and two other candidates to Congress. Mahone couldn't be elected a Congressman from my district, which has a Republican majority of 8,000. The colored voters would not support him. They have lost faith in the little General."

CHRISTOPHER IS CONFIDENT.

Mr. Magee Returns From a Political Trip Through the South.

C. L. Magee returned yesterday from Alabama, where he had been on a political mission. He believes there is a bare possibility of the Republicans carrying Alabama or some other Southern State. He also believes that General Weaver, the People's party candidate, has an equal show with Cleveland for Alabama and Georgia.

"I was in the South but a short time," Mr. Magee said, "but while there I found that brilliant rainbows appear in the southern sky as well as in the northern heavens. They seem to be just as far from the earth down there as they are up here. The Democrats were unable to overtake the northern rainbows four years ago and I am not sure that we can reach any of them in the South this year.

"I think Harrison will be elected. Dan Martin, who has just gone over from Philadelphia to New York will, I think, help materially in carrying the big State."

THE JUNIOR ORDER ADJOURNS.

An Amendment Which Was Adopted Thursday Reconsidered Yesterday.

EASTON, Sept. 23.—The State Council Jr. O. U. A. M., at their session last night passed upon communications on the table and considered questions on points of law. The amendment to article 7, subordinate constitution, adopted at the session yesterday, was reconsidered, because it conflicts with the State Council constitution. A telegraphic greeting from the national camp, now in session at Lebanon, was received. Action on the reports of the Appeal Committee finished the night's session.

This morning the council convened at 9 o'clock. The supplemental report of the State Councillor was received and read, and the new State officers were installed by National Deputy Councillor Isaac B. Robbins. The council was adjourned sine die by the new State Councillor, C. U. Raymond, of Middletown.

NEW CASTLE'S CROSSING WAR.

Fur Will Probably Fly To-Day When Two Railroad Forces Get Together.

NEW CASTLE, Sept. 23.—[Special.]—The attempt which the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad is making to gain an entrance to the new steel mill in this city will probably involve one of the liveliest railroad wars that Western Pennsylvania has known for many years. This morning a hundred laborers were sent here and in a few hours a roadbed was graded which crosses the tracks of the Western New York and Pennsylvania three times and finally reaches the steel works by running under a new trestle built by the Pennsylvania Company.

The Western New York and Pennsylvania, it is stated to-night, will have 200 men here before the rails can be laid, when the friction of the opposing forces will commence.

William Thaw's Funeral.

The funeral services of the late William Thaw were held at the family residence, 21 Lincoln avenue, Allegheny. Rev. Marion Byllesby, of the Emanuel Episcopal Church, and Rev. Dr. Riddle, of the Western Theological Seminary, officiated. The services were very simple and only the immediate relatives of the family were present. The body was interred in the Allegheny Cemetery.

Lawrenceville Democrats Organizing.

The Democrats of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth wards have secured a hall and opened headquarters for the campaign at 3403 Butler street. They will hold a meeting next Monday night. A meeting was held Wednesday evening and committees appointed and matters placed in shape for the campaign. The committees will report at a meeting Monday night.

Freight Cars Scarce.

J. E. Terry, General Agent of the Wheeling & Lake Erie road, was in the city yesterday. He complains of a scarcity of freight cars, and says he can't account for the famine. The Baltimore and Ohio is very hard pressed, and hasn't enough cars to handle the business.

SCROFULA 12 YEARS

Always Sore. Burned Like Fire. Ashamed to Be Seen. Got Worse Under Four Doctors. Cured by Cuticura.

For about ten or twelve years I have been troubled with scrofula. My head was always sore, my face was dry and scaly, and burned like fire most of the time. My body had big red spots on it, and I did not know what to do. I went to four different doctors and they helped me at first. In the fall I got worse again; then I tried other remedies, but they did me no good. I was ashamed to go into public. I was a sight to look at. Every one would say, "What is the matter, why don't you take something?" Even at my daily labor I had to wear a sort of cap to keep the dirt from getting into the sores. After I would wash I would be covered with big red pimples all over my neck and face. Some two or three people advised me to try the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I did try them, and am glad I have done so. Glad to say I am a well man, and in the best of health since. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too highly. I inclose my portrait.
