

AFRAID OF HER SEX.

Mrs. Hollis, of Homestead, is Alarmed by Her New Neighbors. TAKING MEN OUT OF THE MILL.

Mill Workers Moving Into Houses Behind the Big Fence.

COLONEL HULLING'S MAKES A PROTEST

Captain Newton stated last night that warrants have been issued for several Homestead women who have been active in threatening the wives of non-unionists and that two arrests will be made today.

A Former Employee Returns to Work. It is announced that Albert Barnes, a former Homestead steelworker, who lately worked at Oliver & Roberts, entered the mill yesterday and was given a position as heater.

All the men who have been sleeping in barges and boats on the river bank of the millyard were transferred yesterday to the new houses built behind the fence.

Four Homestead men, with their household goods were moved by the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday. The men are going to work in the steel mill at New Castle.

Officer Parker, who assaulted a drunken coal and iron policeman, was discharged by Captain Newton yesterday. Colonel Hullings is indignant because the mill policeman put their drunken comrade in the guard tent to sober up.

The Colonel is in ignorance of any movement to place him or Colonel Krebs in command of the deputies. So far as he is concerned he is not interested for any purpose. He added that four of the Brad-dock steel workers have applied to Manager Schwab to be transferred to the Homestead mill, believing they can better themselves.

Detectors Farrel and Mills last night arrested George Diebold on two charges of murder and one of aggravated riot. Diebold had returned to work in the mill and was captured at his post.

Borough Officer William Walls was arrested last night on a charge of the larceny of a gold watch preferred by a prisoner he arrested Tuesday night for drunkenness.

Fleishman's Millinery Opening. Yesterday was a gala day at Fleishman's.

The Fleishman Company have devoted their entire second floor to their millinery department, making the largest department in Western Pennsylvania.

Bonnets will be small, with close sides and small cut crowns. The Marie Stuart brim, with pointed front, is again seen, the edge of the crown being decorated with fringe of jet beads, spangles or sequins falling over a velvet band that fits the head closely.

The colors for this season are lighter than those usually worn in winter. The leading series of six shades are: sandy dunes, from pale rose to deep Provence red.

Next week—Primrose and West's Light Balls.

TWO AND TWO MAKE FIVE. "No, they don't!" cries one. "Yes, they do!" cries another.

"Huh! That's a good one." "In fact, it's not just as well to stare it squarely in the face. Two and two do not make five any more than a merchant can do an honorable, profitable business if he makes a practice of giving $1.25 worth of goods for $1. Any sensible reader of this advertisement knows this."
