

PARSONS NOT TO WED.

Proposed Extension of High Church Ideas by Episcopals.

SOLEMN VOWS OF CELIBATE LIFE

May Sometime Be Demanded of All Clerical Candidates.

A CHANGE SAID TO BE NOW PENDING

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—"Is there to be a change in the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America, making it one of celibacy, is a question that is just now attracting the attention of the members of that denomination. In fact, religious people of all denominations are watching with interest the movement in that direction. Even the "low church" people admit that for years past there has been a continual movement toward ritualism. Not until now, however, has the question arisen of a change in one of the very fundamental doctrines of this important religious body.

It is expected that certain questions will be brought before the coming general convention that will meet in Baltimore on October 4, which will put the church as a whole on record in regard to this important question. There already exists in the Episcopal Church in New York an order known as the Order of the Holy Cross, to enter which it is necessary to take celibate vows. The work of the Cowley Fathers.

For several years past members of the English order of "Cowley Fathers" have been doing various kinds of religious work in different dioceses in this country. These are bound by vows to their home order, and once or twice the question has arisen whether or not they are subject to the jurisdiction of the Bishop of the diocese in which they were working or the superior authority of their order in England. The members of this order are bound by vows of celibacy, and are considered to hold extreme ritualistic views on matters of church doctrine.

The question of the American workers being bound by their superiors in England arose first at the election of Rev. Philip Brooks, of Massachusetts, when Rev. John Hall, a member of the order of Cowley Fathers, was ordered to return to England because he refused his consent to the consecration of Dr. Brooks. In a recent convention at Philadelphia of the diocese of Pennsylvania the question as to whether or not members of the English order who were engaged in religious work in that diocese should be given a vote in the convention arose. The "low churchmen" were opposed to their being allowed to vote. They urged in support of their position that the reserved gentlemen were bound by vows to obey the instructions of their superiors in the order, regardless of the authority of the Bishop of the diocese.

Why a Vote Was Opposed. It is certain, however, that the true cause of their opposition was because of the extreme views of the Cowley Fathers, particularly their celibate. It was thought that if they were given a voice in the convention they would exert their influence as far as possible toward the establishment of a celibate ministry.

The discussion on this point was animated, and reached almost the point of bitterness. The question, as to the diocese of Pennsylvania was concerned, was decided against the methods of the English order. An effort will be made with the coming general convention to have action taken looking toward the revision of the exact status of these celibates in the conventions of the church in this country. This question has attracted so much attention that it has attracted largely from the interest in the anticipated change in the prayer-book, and will unquestionably be the most interesting before the convention.

It is claimed by some that the ritualists, anticipating action on this question, have quietly resorted to shrewd ecclesiastical tactics. While it cannot be said they have "packed" the convention, still they have done everything they legally could to have appointed as delegates to the convention gentlemen who were known to be favorable to their side of the question.

Views of Prominent Clergymen. A number of prominent Episcopal clergymen were called on to-day by DISPATCH reporters, for the purpose of getting an expression of their views on the subject. Many of them declined to discuss the subject at all in advance of action by the general convention. One of the assistant clergymen of St. Ignace's Church, while declining to be interviewed on the subject and refusing to have his name mentioned, said that, in his opinion, there was no question but that there was a feeling among clergymen of the diocese that vows of celibacy were absolutely necessary for certain sorts of work, and also that the particular work in which these vows were necessary was very important to the success of the Church.

Rev. Arthur Ritchie, rector of St. Ignace's Church, who is considered rather an extreme ritualist, talked freely upon the subject. His attitude toward the question of the Cowley Fathers, as far as giving them votes in the conventions is concerned, was to vote before the convention. I would think that the question would be settled by the bishops separately when giving their consent to the Cowley Fathers working in their diocese. As far as the question of a celibate ministry is concerned, I am free to confess that in my opinion it is not a matter in the Church that requires celibate ministers. By this I do not mean to say that married men in the Church have not and are not accomplishing good work, because they are. I myself an unfortunate enough to be a bachelor.

How the Greek Church Settles It. "I think, perhaps, that the best settlement of the question will be the adoption of a system similar to that of the Greek Church in Russia. There a certain number of the candidates for holy orders are required to take vows of celibacy. This matter is left optional with each candidate, and he can select which branch of the ministry he would enter, and on the basis of that depend the kind of work that will be given him upon his admission to the ministry. This system seems to me to be a good one."

Rev. Dr. Worthington, rector of Grace Church, said: "I do not believe that the question of a celibate ministry will come before the general convention. In my opinion the greatest light will be made in the proposed changes in the hymnal. I do not believe the idea of a celibate ministry is growing in the Church. The Order of the Holy Cross, which exists in this diocese, has not grown, and would seem to me to indicate that the idea is not a popular one."

"I would not live always," I hear the weary housewife say. "My trials and cares are much to bear; My comfort try, my joy impart; My husband grows old, my bread is scantful, And vows my baking is disagreeful. Oh, for a flour that would befriend me, That from his taunts would now defend me."

Cease now your sighs. It's close at hand, Try it but once, Camellia brand. It is so rich, so pure and light, Its use is sure to bring delight. So don't forget, in baking take Camellia flour for bread and cake.

AN UNREASONABLE QUARANTINE

Uncle Sam Yoked, but Not Disposed to Be Harsh With Central America.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The embargo placed upon American commerce by the action of some Central American countries, in closing their ports to ships from the United States, is a matter of deep concern to the State Department. An unreasoning dread of the introduction of cholera has led to the issue of these troublesome decrees. Some justification may be found in the conduct of our own officials at New York; but what in that case was a rigorous, but still limited, quarantine, has been exaggerated by our Central American neighbors into an absolute termination of all intercourse with the United States.

The statement is authorized that the United States steamship Concord, which arrived at Colon yesterday, was not ordered there to compel the local authorities to admit to that port the Pacific mail steamer Colombia which will lie off the entrance. The real purpose of the Concord's movements is to convey the Consul General of the United States and the commissioners from the local Government of Panama to Cartagena, where the President of Colombia resides, and endeavor to arrange with him some terms of settlement of the quarantine question.

RAILROADS IGNORE THE LAW.

Massachusetts Companies Fail to Prepare the Interchangeable Low-Mile Ticket. BOSTON, Sept. 29.—It is learned on the best authority that no railroad corporation operating in Massachusetts and doing an extensive business will comply with the law passed by the last Legislature, requiring them to have on sale mileage books, representing 1,000 miles, for $20, and interchangeable on all railroad lines in the State.

The law goes into effect October 1, and as yet no railroad has made preparations to obey it. It is claimed that it is unconstitutional. The roads will simply ignore it, and let the commissioners take whatever course they see fit.

THE LONE HIGHWAYMAN AGAIN.

He Overhauls a Stage in Colorado Mountains and Robs Every Passenger. DENVER, Sept. 29.—The Spar City stage was held up last night about 20 miles from Creede by a lone highwayman, armed and masked. He made the dozen passengers pass by him in single file and disgorge the contents of their pockets. From the driver, Marshall Pemberton, he secured $100. The mail pouch was rifled, but as no registered mail was found the robber tossed it back.

Then all the passengers were ordered into the stage and the driver told to get out as fast as the four horses would run, if he valued his life. A SUICIDE IN A CHURCH. Deacon Danahy, of Philadelphia, Shoots Himself at the Communion Table. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The coroner was to-day notified of the suicide of John William Danahy, of this city, under peculiar circumstances. Danahy was a deacon of the East Baptist Church, and Chaplain of New Hall Post, G. A. R. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Danahy went to the church. After entering he went to the front of the communion rails and shot himself twice in the head with a revolver. He died an hour later.

Another Buffalo Labor Riot. BUFFALO, Sept. 29.—A gang of non-union lumber shovers were attacked by union men this morning while at work. Revolvers were drawn, stones thrown and three men were badly cut about the head. The prompt arrival of the police put an end to the trouble. Thomas McGovern, President of the Lumber Shovers' Union, and George Crowley, also a union man, were arrested, charged with riot.

Romero Coming Back to Washington. CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 29.—It was learned here to-day from a semi-official source that Rubio Romero will soon resume his old duties as Mexican minister at Washington. President Diaz was anxious regarding his valuable services during the impending financial crisis of the Government, which a few months ago was very threatening.

Granite Cutters' Employers Firm. MILFORD, MASS., Sept. 29.—The locked-out granite cutters of Norcross Brothers' yards having voted not to return to work if the non-union men are allowed to remain, have been notified by the firm that no settlement can be made except on lines of the Quincy settlement as regards non-discrimination, apprentices and arbitration.

Mechanics' Entertainment. A committee meeting of the Uniform Rank of the American Mechanics was held last night at the Central Hotel. Committees were appointed to make arrangements for a popular entertainment. The date is yet to be named.

THOUSANDS IN A MOMENT.

A Great Chance for the Statistical Crank During the G. A. E. Encampment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—[Special.]—The Star this evening makes the following statement in regard to the patronage of the monument during encampment week: Thirty thousand two hundred and six people ascended the Washington monument during the eight busiest days of the Grand Army of the Republic Encampment period. Of this number 5,640 were lifted to the top of the elevator and 24,566 walked up the stairway. Wednesday, the day after the parade, was the largest day of the period, 9,289 people ascending. The statistical find makes some calculations upon these figures, striking an average, he says the total weight of these people would be 4,200,000 pounds. It would require 118,500 horses to raise the crowd in one elevator and to the top of the monument at the usual speed of the elevator. If the people were stacked in piles on each other's shoulders they would make 28 stacks as high as the monument itself.
